The most favored points were Newcastle and Durham where a 72-day spell was ended by heavy rainfall. There also were light showers in some sections of Scotland and snow fell in the Shetland Isles.

Most heavily damaged were the northwest midlands and southeast England. The green of Ireland was patched with dusty brown scars.

Grass crops have suffered, and livestock is being sold by many farmers at sacrifice prices because of lack of feed. Withering crops of vegetables sent prices upward.

LONDON STUDYING CANADA-N.Z. PATH FOR AIR SERVICE

LONDON, May 10 (A.P.). — The Government announced in the House of Commons to-day it was considering establishment of an air service across sthe Pacific Ocean from Canada to New Zealand.

Negotiations already are under way with the Dominions concerned, and also with the United States over ownership of certain Pacific Islands along the proposed route, Lieut.-Colonel A. J. Muirhead, Under-Secretary for Air, announced.

He was replying to Abraham Lyons, Conservative, who had asked whether "in view of British Pacific interests it is proposed to establish an air service from Canada to New Zealand and Australia; and whether any and what steps have been taken in the matter."

Colonel Muirhead said "tentative discussions have taken place with the Dominion Governments concerned and preliminary surveys are being made on a number of Pacific islands which might be suitable as air bases."

"The matter will be further considered in connection with development of Imperial Air routes," he added.

Asked by Mr. Lyons if "these conversations will be resumed forthwith," Colonel Muirhead said:

"A good number of things are being investigated with which the Dominions Governments and the Government of the United States are concerned.

"The matter is intimately bound up with the question of ownership of certain islands in the Pacific, about which conversations are taking place."

41 Are Badly Hurt; Line Goes Dead To 45 Down Pits

Shaft Is Shaken by Second Explosion as Rescue Crews Bring Out 27 Mangled Bodies; One Woman Learns 4 of Family Are Missing

DUCKMANTON, Derbyshire, England, May 10 (CP).—Seventy-two miners were killed or missing and 41 others seriously injured in disastrous explosions in the Markham pits here today, it was announced officially tonight.

Twenty-seven burned and mangled bodies have been recovered and 45 miners trapped nearly half-a-mile below the surface still are unaccounted for.

Late today the telephone line to the entombed men suddenly became silent, which led rescuers to believe the men dead.

Half an hour previously the following message had come from the depths: "Some of us are not badly hurt, others have been injured by falling roof. We can hang on."

One of the rescuers who staggered from the pit declared: "Conditions down there are pretty bad. I saw 21 bodies lying on the ground and there must be many others."

Clothes Torn Off

Many of the victims were brought to the surface with their clothing torn off by the force of the explosions, which sent flames roaring through the shafts. Many were mutiliated beyond recognition.

As rescue workers came up the shaft with blackened faces, exhausted, others took their places. They carried tubes of oxygen and cages of canaries—to warn them of poisonous gases.

One rescue worker seeking those still entombed said, "There doesn't seem to be very much hope for many of them. He told onlookers: "Following the explosion the atmosphere was awful and many of the men were burned and gassed. The force of the explosion was terrific and a large quantity of material was dislodged.

The second explosion occurred shortly after 8 a.m. while injured from the first blast were being brought out.

Whole Family Trapped

Mrs. J. W. Grainger of the nearby village of Clowne, said her whole family—her husband, John William Grainger, her 21-year-old son, Robert Henry, and her two brothers-in-law, Ambrose and Tom Grainger, all were in the mine.

One miner brought to the surface said the blast hurled him to the ground and for several minutes he did not know what had happened. When he recovered consciousness the walls and ceilings of the mine chambers were crumbling all around him.

"A dull rumbling was followed by a flash of flame, and clouds of smoke poured through the workings," he continued, "the explosion occurred more than a mile from the shaft bottom.

POLITICAL SCRAP HITS HOT TEMPO IN PENNSYLVANIA

NEW YORK, May 10 (CP).—Pennsylvania has seen many hot political fights, but nothing to compare with that now boiling within its borders.

Amid a maze of charges and counter-charges, investigations and counter-investigations, the Democratic party is split into three camps and the Republican in two. On May 17 preplexed voters will choose candidates to stand for United states Senator, state governor and many lesser offices in the nation-wide elections in November, but the outcome is as unpredictable as next year's weather.

ROWE IGNORING WOOD'S DEMAND TO CALL SESSION

Tory Chief Says Party Is Not Being Dictated To By Committee of Action

LONDON, Ont., May 10.—(CP).—Demand of R. C. Wood of Toronto and other party members for a general meeting of the Ontario Conservative Association before June 1 was dismissed today by Hon. Earl Rowe, provincial leader.

"The Ontario Conservative party is not going to be dictated to by Mr. Wood and his committee of action," Mr. Rowe said. "The Ontario Executive has decided the Ontario convention should be held after the federal convention (in July) and I see no reason why the Ontario Executive should be moved from his decision by an 48-hour ultimatum from Mr. Wood."

TORONTO, May 10.—An ultimatum that unless the Ontario Conservative Association promised within forty-eight hours to call its annual convention on or before June 15 "an intensive campaign to force the issue" will be started "that will reverberate through all the back concessions from one end to the other of this Provinces," was laid down by R. C. Wood, Acting Secretary of the Committee for Conservative Action, to W. H. Ireland, President of the Provincial Association, at 4.30 p.m. yesterday.

"We have the promise and already the active support of influential press, and may I say what is also important, we have funds placed at our disposal to carry out any campaign that we contemplate," he declared.

The ultimatum, presented to the press by Mr. Wood in the presence of Mr. Ireland at the Conservative headquarters, followed a two-hour conference between Mr. Wood and Mr. Ireland, which, said Mr. Wood, "has been abortive of results."

Executive Sticks to Delay

Mr. Ireland, in a statement preceding that of Mr. Wood, said that the decision of the Executive of tha association was to abide by the request "of the powers that be at Ottawa" that the meeting be postponed until after the national convention to be held at Ottawa in July.

Mr. R. C. Wood, on behalf of the Committee for Conservative Action, requested that our meeting be held not later than the fifteenth," said Mr. Ireland. "My reply to that is: In view of the request from the powers that be at Ottawa that has already been given that this meeting be postponed until after the national convention to be held on July 5, 6 and 7, I feel that it is my personal duty as President to cooperate to that extent, and that is also the decision of our executive.

"Any changes in those views from the powers that be at Ottawa will be received with the same hearty co-operation."

He pointed out that he had "no personal choice" in the matter but was following the decision of the executive who, he said, "were carrying out the wishes from Ottawa."

Alberta To Appeal 3 Judgments

LONDON, May 10.—(CP Cable)—The judicial committee of the Privy Council today granted the Attorney General of Alberta leave to appeal the judgments of the Supreme Court of Canada on the province's bank taxation, credit regulation, and press bills.

These measures, sponsored by the Social Credit government and enacted by the Alberta legislature, were found unconstitutional by the Supreme Court.

Leave to appeal to the judicial committee is a formality and their lordships probably will hear the appeals at the Trinity sittings beginning at the end of the month.

Anglo-Italian Pact Is Held Up As Contribution To Peace

Britain, France Win League Assurances Of Freedom To Recognize Ethiopia Conquest

GENEVA, May 10 (A.P.). — Viscount Halifax, Foreign Secretary of Great Britain, told the League of Nations Council to-day the recent Anglo-Italian agreement was a contribution to world peace, thereby aiding the cause for which the League was built.

Lord Halifax was followed by the French Foreign Minister, Georges Bonnet, who echoed his words in defending the Franco-Italian agreement now under negotiation.

Lord Halifax said the fact Great Britain and Italy were able to reach an agreement entitled both to claim a contribution "to the cause of international peace, thereby strengthening the cause which this great society exists to serve."

Among the facts Lord Halifax cited in defence of the agreement was President Roosevelt's statement on the subject which the Foreign Secretary said was "peculiarly gratifying to His Majesty's Government." (President Roosevelt said April 19 that the United States Government viewed conclusion of the agreement "with sympathetic interest because it is proof of the value of peaceful negotiations.")

Spokesmen for China and Government Spain also made speeches. Wellington Koo charged Japan was using poison gas in the Far Eastern War. The Spanish Government delegate, Julio Alvarez del Vayo, talked of Italian and German aid

Few Fingerprints In Cook Case

OTTAWA, May 10—(CP)—Only fragmentary fingerprints were found on the barrel of a .22 calibre rifle believed to have been used in the shooting of Ralph A. Cook, 57, governor of the counties' jail at Cornwall, Ont., Assistant Commissioner C. H. King, chief of the criminal investigation bureau of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, said today.

Cook was found dead in his garage on Sunday morning, the rifle at his feet. Col. King said the prints on the gun barrel were not good enough for comparison and that photographs of them would be taken and sent to Cornwall for the coroner's inquest.

Railways of India carried many more passengers in the last year than in the preceding 12 months.

Lawrence Of Arabia's One Love Believed Red Headed Jewess

"S.A." He Dedicated Book To Is Thought Girl Agent Who Suicided After German Quizz

LONDON, May 10.—(CP).—The theory Lawrence of Arabia shunned women has been challenged.

A red-haired British agent, Sara Aaronsohn who shot herself rather than disclose Lawrence's identity to the Germans during the Great War, is now thought to have been the "Seven Pillars of Wisdom" was dedicated.

His dedication read:

"I loved you, so I drew these tides of men into my hands
"And wrote my will across the skys in stars
"To earn you freedom, the seven pillared worthy house,
"That your eyes might be shining for me
"When we came."

During the war a group of young Palestinian Jews, including Sara Aaronsohn, formed their own secret service behind the Turkish lines, they crossed the Sinai desert into Cairo, where, it is believed, Sara first met Lawrence. She became head of a secret office outside Jerusalem which was his clearing-house.

In March, 1918, German agents discovered the office and tracked Sara to her home at Zichrow. She underwent a three-day grilling in which they tried to pry from her the name of the mysterious Englishman who, disguised as an Arab Sheik, was harassing the Turks.

At last she went to a room where a revolver had been concealed and after writing a letter to Lawrence she shot herself. The letter was never delivered.

Bandit's A Bit Shakey But Grabs $200

Montreal, May 10 (CP)

IF HIS pistol hand trembled, a cigar store bandit confided to the clerk today, it was because he was "a bit shaky as this is the first job I've done" since completing a ten-year term in St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary here. The clerk, Leon Brisson, had to hand over $200 from the till of the east-end store.

Brisson told police he had just opened up for business when the stranger entered and purchased cigarets. As the clerk opened the cash register a gun was thrust into his side.

The bandit grew affable with the money safely in his pocket. After apologizing for his nervousness, the gunman suggested Brisson telephoned for police. When they arrived he was gone.

Hollywood, May 10 (AP)—

CHARLIE McCARTHY, the pinewood prodigy, walked like a man today. Edgar Bergen's dummy has been furnished with pliable legs and arms which move whenever Bergen wishes — just like Charlie's jaw.

As Charlie tells it, the operation was a harrowing one, taking place in the carpenter shop at Universal Studio where he is swapping calumnious retorts with Adolphe Menjou in a movie.

Universal officials had insisted Charlie needed realistic limbs. He should get off Bergen's knee and stand on his own feet, they argued.

"Someone around here needs a head worse than I need a leg, but I'm not mentioning any names," said Charlie.

It took a week or so to equip the red-headed mouthpiece with his new manual and pedal extremities.

Holiday May 23 Gets Set-Back

Toronto City Council Vetoes Mayor's Plea to King; St. Catharines Also Shelves Idea, Nips 'Monday Plan'

TORONTO, May 10. (CP).—A movement gaining headway in some sections of Ontario to celebrate Victoria Day May 23 instead of on traditional "24th," was checked in two centres today.

The Toronto city council last night voted 11-6 against a resolution proposing the one-day advancement of the holiday to provide a three-day weekend. The Council at St. Catharines rescinded its resolution urging the Monday date be recognized.

The council here also turned down the suggestion of Alderman William Croft that in future all official holidays be celebrated on the Monday of the week in which they fall.

However, council of New Toronto, suburban centre, endorsed a ruling Victoria Day be celebrated May 23. It will be for the forthcoming holiday only although most members favored the plan of holding all official holidays on Mondays.

Before the Toronto council overruled the May 23rd idea Mayor Ralph Day sent a message to Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King seeking co-operation of the Federal authorities in proclaiming the holiday on May 23rd. He said local business houses wanted that date recognized in order that employees might obtain the continuous week-end holiday.

ONLY INEFFICIENT USING CREDIT ACT IS CHARGE MADE

OTTAWA, May 10.—(CP)—Condemnation by Ontario members of the Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act and requests it be discontinued were before the House of Commons today as the members prepared to give further consideration to amendments to the measure. The House last night heard the charge that "in Ontario only unprogressive, inefficient and dishonest farmers" were asking for relief under its provisions.

The charge was levelled by A. J. Anderson (Con. Toronto High Park) while Elie Bertrand (Lib. Prescott), urging the act be discontinued in Ontario after July 1, resented the charge of dishonesty on behalf of farmers in his riding.

The purpose of the act is to enable farmers who cannot pay their debts and are in danger of losing their farmers to keep farming. The amendments are designed to bring under its operations debts in which there is no privity of contract and to make other changes that would widen the scope of the act in respect to heirs of deceased farmers.

Business speeded up in the House last night with adoption, after a long debate, of a special committee's report on farm implements, third reading of the 1938-39 relief measure, and some progress in committee on amendments to the F.C.A. Act.

When the Creditors Act came up Finance Minister Dunning told the House a provision had been inserted to enable the government to end

FAMED CORNETIST IS COMING TO CITY

Arrangements have been completed whereby the music-lovers of Peterborough will be given an opportunity to hear the famous British cornetist, Bandmaster T. Giles, L.R.A.M., of Upper Norwood Crystal Palace Band, London, England.

Bandmaster Giles will be heard in a program to be given at the S. A. Temple on Tuesday evening, May 24. He will be assisted by the Temple Band, who are sponsoring his visit to this city.

Bandmaster Giles is a native of Rushden, and a son of retired Bandmaster Giles, who for many years was bandmaster of that band.

BANDMASTER GILES

His cornet playing attracted great attention throughout Britain, and in 1931 he became a member of the International Staff Band and provided solos on every program during his four years as a member of this band.

He studied under Dr. Arthur Greenish for theory, and in 1935 he secured his L.R.A.M. and thus was the first cornetist to hold a diploma for cornet playing and theory, and at present is one of eight in the British Isles who holds the L.R.A.M. for cornet playing.

He has made numerous tours to the Continent, including one trip to Holland, rendered six solos on each program, making a total of 36 solos during his week's trip.

Among the bandmaster's treasured possession are letters of commendation from such outstanding musicians as Harry Mortimer, famous British cornetist, and John Solomon, F.R.A.M., P.C.L., etc., King's Trumpeter. He also has letters from leading prize bands inviting him to become principal cornetist, which like all others he has received he has refused in favor of service for God in the Salvation Army

WINDSOR YOUTH GETS TERM-LASH ON HOLDUP COUNT

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, May 10. — One year in the Ontario Reformatory, with ten lashes, and an additional indeterminate sentence of one year, was the sentence meted out on Monday by Magistrate Gee to Russell Burdick, aged 17, of Windsor, on the charge of armed holdup. The accused, who was arrested by the Windsor police, gave a signed statement to the officers in that city, in which he admitted holding up Miss Ruth Currie, town, with a revolver on March 13, and relieving her of her purse, which contained a sum of money. He stated he borrowed the weapon from the Downeyville farmer with whom he was employed, although the latter has stated that he stole the weapon. County Crown Attorney Anderson said in court that the offence was not a trivial one, "the youth was well on the road to becoming a bandit," he declared.

His Excellency Bishop O'Connor of Peterborough visited Lindsay on Sunday afternoon and administered the Sacrament of Confirmation to thrity-four children and two adults. He was assisted in the ceremonies by Rev. V. Corkery of Peterborough, Rev. Father McFadden of Downeyville, Rev. Fathers Corkery and McCarney of Lindsay.

Transients who inhabit the local "jungle," received their marching orders from the police and on Sunday Chief Lawler, Constable Simnett and C.N.R. Detective Morden bore down on the hang-out, and the town is now free of the undesirables. Housewives and others are breathing easier to-day as the presence of these men in the municipality constituted a real nuisance. A number of them have been soliciting money after telling hard-luck stories, and they would hie forth to the liquor store for wine, which they were unable to purchase. Housewives have been asked by the Chief of Police to co-operate in the drive on all transients.

SUMMER VISITOR DIES SUDDENLY

Well known to many residents of Peterborough and district, George E. Reichert died suddenly a few days ago at Niagara Falls, N.Y. Mr. Reichert had long been a popular member of the summer colony at Catchecoma Lake in Cavendish Township, and numbered many friends among the members of the Ketchecum Hunt Club, the summer residents, and many families in Cavendish. He was sales manager of the Niagara Hudson Power Company, and had been coming to Catchecoma Lake every summer for the last twenty yars. A few years ago he built a log cabin near Cochrane's Landing. Mr. Reichert is survived by his widow, three children, Helen, Edward and John, and also by his father.

The free-for-all has drawn national attention, for governor George H. Earle, disciple of the new deal who is seeking the Democratic nomination for senator, is considered a presidential possibility for 1940.

Then the socky figure of John L. Lewis, boss of the Committee for Industrial Organization, enters the picture. He is backing a strong ticket opposed to Earle and victory would encourage him to project his potent influence on a national scale.

Pinchot Out Again.

In the Republican lists, former Governor Gifford Pinchot is attempting a comeback. In 1934, when new deal popularity swept the country, Earle succeeded Pinchot in the gubernatorial mansion and ended a 44-year Republican reign.

Long ago the gaunt forthright Pinchot nursed an ambition to occupy the White House. His party is not overstocked with Presidential material today, and his 62 years weigh against his consideration for that high office. But he is given more than an outside chance of winning a third term as Governor. His cloak is free of the political mud being tossed so wildly. And many, if not all, of the Democratic geese may be cooked by the fire of dissension crackling within the party.

Earle, a one-time Republican who was among the first to back President Roosevelt, has the backing of the Democratic State Committee. His running-mate for Governor is Alvin Jones, Pittsburgh attorney, and staunch party man.

In opposition are Republican Mayor David Wilson of Philadelphia, senatorial hopeful, and Lieutenant-Governor Thomas Kennedy, seeking the Governor's chair. Charles J. Margiotti, recently discharged by Earle as Attorney-General, also wants the Democratic nomination for Governor.

of munitions for France," The Journal said.

The bullion packed in ordinary express boxes and all in one regular express car, arrived in Ottawa by train from Montreal. In addition to the regular express staff, the bullion was accompanied from Montreal by eight Canadian Pacific Railway policement, heavily armed.

Graham Towers, Governor of the Bank of Canada would not confirm or deny that the gold bullion had arrived and was stored in the bank's vaults, he merely said, "There is no comment."

Rumor Total 25 Million

Recent despatches from London, England, quoted The News-Chronicle as saying that two shipments of gold of a total value of $25,000,000 had been arranged by France for Canada.

The shipments were to be made by British authorities and represents gold which was ear-marked in Paris for account of the British Equalization Fund. The News-Chronicle added there were two possible explanations of the transaction. It might represent sales of gold bullion to the Bank of Canada or the British authorities might think it advisable to accumulate for their ow naccount, a reserve of gold in Canada.

Bank of Canada officials also declined comment when asked whether the gold might be intended as a French reserve in Canada against purchase of armaments.

Finance Department officials said they knew nothing of the reported bullion movement.

NATIONS PREPARE FOR FINAL BATTLE

The present world armament race is without parallel in the history of mankind, and according to Biblical chronology, the nations are preparing for the final bottle of the age 'the battle of that Great Day of God Almighty, erroneously called the battle of Armageddon', were the introductory remarks of Eric B. de Pendleton, Esq., when he addressed a large and enthusiastic congregation Monday night in the Park St. Baptist Church, on Palestine—its past, present and future.

Mr. de Pendleton said the most important chronological milestone of prophecy in modern times was the deliverance of Jerusalem in 1917 which marked the end of the times of the Gentiles. Prophecy clearly indicated that Jerusalem would cease to be trodden down of the Gentiles as a result of this deliverance. Neither the Crusaders nor Napoleon's victorious army were successful in taking the Holy City because of our Lord's words: "and Jerusalem shall be trodden down of the Gentiles until the times of the Gentiles shall be fulfilled." This treading down period began in 604 B.C. when Nebuchadnezzar sacked the city and thus began the Gentile succession of empires of Babylon, Persia, Greece, Rome, Arabia, Turkey which kept control by an army of occupation. The times of the Gentiles synchronized with Israel's displacement on account of sin which expired in 1917 A.D.

The prophet Obadiah predicted that twelve tribed Israel in effecting this deliverance would sweep like a flame of five through the stubble of Turkey. Jerusalem surrendered within 40 days of Great Britain launching the offensive. It was a British and not a Jewish army which accomplished the deliverance. The Arabs had a prophecy that when the waters of the Nile flowed into Palestine, then the prophet from the west would drive the Turk from Jerusalem. Another Arabian prophecy predicted "He who shall exalt Jerusalem among the nations shall enter the city on foot and his name shall be called Allah Nebi." The Arabs still call Allenby, General Allah Nebi, who entered on foot when he accepted the deliverance.

The actual deliverance is described in Isaiah: "As birds flying so will the Lord of Hosts delend Jerusalem, defending also He will deliver it, and passing over He will preserve it." When the British planes flew overhead, the Turks evacuated the city without a shot being fired.

By means of lantern slides Mr. de Pendleton showed that from a land of ruin and desolation of deserted cities and wasted sanctuaries, all was now changed exactly as Isaiah foretold: "And they shall build the old wastes, they shall raise up the former desolations, and they shall build up the waste cities, the desolations of former generations."

In referring to the final conflict for the possession of the land, Joel speaks of the land being as the garden of Eden before them, (Russia), and a desolate wilderness behind them. As a result of scismic disturbances, Jerusalem will become a seaport, the centre of world commerce as well as universal righteousness, which Christ the Prince of Peace will establish when "the government shall be on His shoulders," and every man shall dwell in peace and safety under his own vine and fig tree.

In 1918 B.C. the land was given to Abraham by Almighty God, "All the land which thou seest to thee will I give it and to thy seed forever." Thus across the span of years 1918 B.C. to 1918 A.D. the people of Israel once again took possession of the land of Israel.

SKIPPER STAYS WITH HIS BOAT AS CREW SAVED

Tug Battles Huge Seas To Reach Fishing Craft Stranded for 30 Hours

AMHERSTBURG, Ont., May 10—CP—Arthur (Muskrat) Laframboise, one of a party of seven fishermen, awaited today on lonely Middle Sister Island, 24 miles out in Lake Erie off this Essex county port, the subsiding of the storm-tossed waters that left the group stranded for 30 hours.

Laframboise stayed with his 32-foot motor launch when a rescue tug picked up six of the men and brought them here early last night. The party, on a fishing trip, was unable to return to Amherstburg when a storm blew up on the lake Sunday. So roughly was the craft tossed all crockery aboard was broken.

"How they went through the steaks, potatoes, ham and other stuff we had!" Captain J. Earl McQueen of the tug Patricia McQueen said when he brought the six men to port. "The only food they had eaten was fish and there was no salt to make it palatable. The first thing they did when we got them aboard was to make a bee-line for the food."

Stranded Since Sunday

The seven men left here early Sunday. Search got under way when they failed to return and the craft, sheltered in a cove on the lee side of the island, was sighted yesterday by the pilots of two airplanes. The tug put out to the rescue a short time later.

The Patricia McQueen ran into her share of grief in reaching the scene. Heavy waves broke over the ship and water lay two inches deep in the wheel-house at times. A heavy iron stove in the galley, lashed to the floor with steel bands, was uprooted and smashed to pieces. Several pieces of furniture were broken and three passengers on the rescue trip suffered from sea-sickness.

Clergy mingled with relatives of the victims and attempted to comfort them. Some of the womenfolk kept their vigil with stoicism always visible when disaster strikes a mining community.

Doctors and nurses displayed courage under difficult conditions. One of the physicians, Dr. J. B. Mackay of Bolsover, was overcome by gas while working over a victim and had to be removed from the pit and taken to hospital.

Throughout the morning a melancholy procession of ambulances went back and forth from the colliery yard to Chesterfield hospital where Rev. Mr. Gill, vicar of Hollingwood, and several other clergy administered last comforts to the badly injured.

Children whose fathers were in the pit gravely went to school. One asked a teacher: "Please miss, is it bad?"

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, May 11.

A day of great enterprise and probable excitement and commotion is read from the prevailing lunar and mutual aspects. While much of this liveliness may concern new undertakings or the launching of important projects, yet the intimate affairs are also under high stimuli for adventure, possibly romance. While these are happy and of surprising pleasantness, at the same time there may be financial problems, with an estate, investments, or property involved. Do not subject these to peril or the machinations of deceitful associates.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for particularly lively and strenuous developments, with new projects and opportunities suddenly arising both in the business and private lives. There may be adventure, romance, or a surprise of a pleasant or propitious nature. But be cautious in financial affairs and do not subject property, investments, or inheritance to jeopardy, exercising care with partners. Romantic adventure looms large.

A child born on this day may be talented and creative in its ideas, but may lack the confidence and enterprise necessary to put over its large plans. It may be too prudent, cautious, and timid for its own good. It should be lifted out of such moodiness.

'Robin' Is Topic Keene Meeting

(Examiner Correspondence.)

KEENE, May 9—The Audubon Club gathered at the home of Lois Wright, Wednesday evening for their regular fortnightly meeting. All the members were present and one visitor. The president, Anna Houle took the chair and the meet- was opened by Lois Wright playing a piano solo.

After a short business discussion Anna Houle gave an interesting reading on "The Robin" this being the topic of the evening. Lila McElroy read a chapter from the bird book which is read from at each meeting. Lois Wright conducted two interesting contests and Inez Edwards entertained those present by asking riddles.

For the remainder of the evening, a game was played after which the hostess served dainty refreshments.

Eton, England's most exclusive boys school, requires students to wear formal dress at all times, except when engaging in sports.

CAMP KAWARTHA RE-UNION SUPPER

A gathering of campers and parents sat down to a sumptuous meal at the Y.M.C.A. on Saturday, under the chairmanship of Dr. Reg. Frank, chairman of the Camp Committee.

After the meal the group joined in a sing-song led by J. C. McClenaghan, with George Nicholls at the piano. Dr. Frank then welcomed the gathering and thanked the out-of-town guests for the interest and loyalty for coming so far. The camp maestro of 1937, Bill Moorehead, delighted his audience with two violin solos. He was accompanied by Mr. Martin Chenhall. The mothers, fathers, campers and counsellors were then introduced in turn by Mr. McClenaghan.

Alan Brown, who will be in charge of music at camp for the coming season, rendered two fine violin solos. He was accompanied at the piano by John Hooper and Bob Graham respectively.

Plans Outlined.

Plans were then outlined to the group for the 1938 season. It was stated that the fees would be $7 per week and that a discount of 10 per cent. would be given to campers staying four weeks or longer. Only because Camp Kawartha is owned by the Rotary Club of Peterborough and operated with the co-operation of the Peterborough Y.M.C.A. without profit, can camping of so fine a quality, under such experienced leadership, be offered at such reasonable rates.

A staff of counsellors experienced in boys' work and trained in campcraft has been appointed to assist the director. They are as follows: Henry Shepherd, Alan Brown, Wilton Hillier, Bob Parsons, John Hooper, Donald Felt and Sam Rogow. These men are prepared to give leadship in the promotion of art, soap carving, archery, picture developing, rustic furniture, nature lore, woodcraft, dramatics, canoeing, first aid, swimming and lifehaving.

Those present included:

From Bowmanville—Mr. and Mrs. Edger, Bill Edger, Mrs. Stutt, John Stutt, James Stutt, Mr. Ross, Junior Ross, Alan Strike, Mr. Stevens, Bobbie Stevens, and Donald Morris.

LINDSAY LAD GETS YEAR

LINDSAY, Ont., May 10—(CP).—Russell Burdick, 17, Windsor, was sentenced to one year determinate and one year indeterminate in Reformatory, with 10 lashes, when he pleaded guilty to armed robbery today.

Burdick admitted taking a revolver owned by the farmer who employed him and holding up Ruth Curry, Lindsay girl, March 13. He got only cosmetics from the girl's handbag.

FARMERS SPOIL CONTEST FRAUD

NAPANEE, Ont., May 10—(CP).—Carman Barbour, 28, who gave his address as (1558 Willow avenue) Niagara Falls, N.Y., was arrested here Saturday on a charge of fraud in the townships of Ernesttown, Fredericksburg, South Lennox and Addington county.

Police alleged Barbour called upon farmers and informed them a member of the household had won a prize in an automobile manufacturing company's contest and that the "winner" could have his choice of several lamps. It was explained the names had been entered in the contest by a relative. Barbour allegedly requested $2.50 to cover the cost of mailing.

One "prize winner" telephoned a neighbor who a short time previously had been informed she also had won a prize. The comparison of experiences led to Barbour's arrest at a farm five miles south of here. He will appear in court today.

APSLEY

GARAGE AND CAR SWEPT BY FIRE

(Examiner Correspondence.)

APSLEY, May 10.—In some unaccountable manner, the garage and driving shed, owned by Archie Wilson on the highway about four miles south of Apsley was burned to the ground, about 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon and the contents, consisting of his car, wagon, two sets of harness and other implements were destroyed. Fortunately, the house, situated only a few yards away escaped the flames.

Apsley is fast becoming tree-conscious. In addition to the trees planted in the school grounds on Monday last, no less than 1200 spruce saplings were planted in the fair grounds on Saturday by Messrs John and Joe Tucker, Archie Downing and W. I. Lean for the Board of Directors.

It cannot be said that Apsley has become safety-conscious however as far as motor traffic is concerned. A stop-sign has been erected by the Highways Department at the corner of the highway and Wellington street, and a check-up shows only about two per cent of the motorists obeying the injunction.

The Rev. C. A. G. Spence on Sunday evening administered the Sacrament of Holy Baptism to his grandson, Beverley Derwyn Travers, the infant child of Mr. and Mrs. George Kilborn, in St. George's Church, the Rev. F. C. McMulkin, being one of its sponsors.

Mr. Eric DePendleton, British-Israelite lecturer, made a brief visit to Mr. and Mrs. Spence on Sunday afternoon. He was motorcycling from Owen Sound to Peterborough for a Sunday evening engagement in the city.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, May 11.

A day of great enterprise and probable excitement and commotion is read from the prevailing lunar and mutual aspects. While much of this liveliness may concern new undertakings or the launching of important projects, yet the intimate affairs are also under high stimuli for adventure, possibly romance. While these are happy and of surprising pleasantness, at the same time there may be financial problems, with an estate, investments, or property involved. Do not subject these to peril or the machinations of deceitful associates.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for particularly lively and strenuous developments, with new projects and opportunities suddenly arising both in the business and private lives. There may be adventure, romance, or a surprise of a pleasant or propitious nature. But be cautious in financial affairs and do not subject property, investments, or inheritance to jeopardy, exercising care with partners. Romantic adventure looms large.

A child born on this day may be talented and creative in its ideas, but may lack the confidence and enterprise necessary to put over its large plans. It may be too prudent, cautious, and timid for its own good. It should be lifted out of such moodiness.

Toronto Seeks Control

The Conservative Progress Association is a new shrub which has been brought out from the political greenhouse just about the time people are planting things out in the open where they will have to take a chance with cold winds, rains, drought or the 10th of June frost.

There is much said about calling a convention of the Conservative party, and this new Progress association wants the matter attended to—and now. Also it desires to have a regular old shaking-up, and from that phrase we take it that a good many of those who are in office are to be shaken out.

There is no record of this Conservative Progress Association. It is not mentioned in any available lists of benevolent or friendly societies, loan companies and schools of learning. We read in the papers though that it is "a Toronto group of 100 professional and business men". That is the benefit of reading papers; one generally finds information there which is not available elsewhere.

The fact that this Conservative group which now seeks to shake the entire party up or out is centred in Toronto and is composed of Toronto men does not necessarily enhance its chances of doing very much for the Conservative party. The old tradition of Toronto being solid Tory has not held so well within recent years. On the day of battle it has been found that the old trenches and dugouts were defective. There is good reason to doubt whether the rebuilding of the Conservative party can well be done by an association of professional and business men centred in Toronto. It is quite likely that a good many thorough-going Conservatives outside of Toronto will be inclined to resent the idea of the party depending on Toronto for its leadership or guidance because Toronto is not noted for having produced or provided political leaders. The rebuilding of the Conservative party can be better accomplished by men who have wider views than the gentlemen who are seeking to engineer the plans for reconstruction from their headquarters in Toronto.

They Have Missed It

Time was when Maurice Costello found it hard to get away from the theatre in which he was playing. He went through all those experiences of having a trail of silly and admiring women stalking him. He was somewhat of an idol in those famous days.

But that was quite a while back. To-day Maurice Costello is hard up. In order to describe his present financial standing he falls back on that very old phrase "as poor as a church mouse". Whether there are mice in churches we do not know, and whether they are poorer than any other mice is something on which we can find no information. But Costello is poor. He's actually hard up.

He has two daughters in the movies and one of them at least has long since invaded the high money field. The father is now in court seeking to make his daughter contribute something to his support. The father in his day may have been a success, and the daughter in her later day has entered the same class, but they have missed a good deal—and that is the feeling between parent and child. If the father comes upon evil days and finds the daughter unwilling to tide him over then he has the evidence before him that she is not much concerned about what happens to him.

And probably these same people in their theatrical and screen appearances have played parts in which it looked as though they were trying to expound a noble principle or show forth life at its best.

And that which they have portrayed they have never experienced. Shallow people we call them who have skipped through life and missed its fine points.

When Will a Man Build?

The newest proposal is that there shall be a provincial housing scheme, and we read of suggestions for organizing a society in Toronto to give encouragement to such a scheme. It is stated fully 50 per cent. of the unemployed in Toronto alone are in one way or another connected with the building trade. The logical suggestion is that they should build houses.

In all these plans it is well to bear in mind that there are normal and substantial conditions which generally have to be met before a man seeks to build a house for himself. Take the average man as an example. When does he decide to go in for the ownership of a home? We believe it works about this way:

A man living in a community feels he likes the place and has no intention of leaving. Likely he is married. He knows it is a good place for a married man; there are good schools; there are churches and a good public library; he finds the tax rate is not too great. Likewise he finds he is steadily employed and is securing a fair wage from which he can put aside some money at intervals to go toward paying for his home. When you get a man in such a situation then there is not much need for outside or organized urging to get him to the point where he looks for a lot and a contractor. Everything is natural and normal.

Right now we have a large number of people who are not living in that natural and normal way. A good many of them are living in parts of homes where other families live because they cannot afford anything larger. Some of them are not sure of their employment and they hesitate about assuming obligations because they are not certain they can meet them. In a good many places other men who could build houses do not do so because the tax rate in their community is too high and they fear it may go even higher because of the increasing number of services which municipalities are called up to finance through taxes on property.

The best plan to encourage home building would be one which would assure a man that his assessment would not be high; that there would be no sales tax of eight per cent. collected on the material he secured for his home, and that the money he needed to borrow could be secured at four per cent. We believe a man would feel safer under such conditions and that he would likely think seriously about building a home for himself and his family.

A Choice To Be Made

Several weeks ago a baby girl was born to Dr. and Mrs. Herman Colan of Chicago. All went well until Dr. Morris Hershman, grandfather of the child, noticed something wrong with an eye. Examination showed it was glioma, a cancerous growth which spreads along the optic nerves to the brain, causing death. Unless the growth is removed the child will die, and if the growth is removed she will be entirely or partially blind. That was the decision which the parents were to have made, and they did not know what to do.

So they called together a jury of twelve—three Rabbis, an X-ray specialist, a brain specialist and seven eye doctors. The parents said they were willing to abide by the answer given by this jury and the answer was in favor of the operation.

One can understand that parents might well desire all the advice they could secure before coming to a decision, but the decision was one for the parents themselves to make. The members of the so-called jury would not have to live with the results of their verdict, but the parents would.

It is a rule of long standing and wide recognition that the business of a medical man is to sustain and prolong life and not to aid in its departure, and that same ruling would go for the parents in this case. If blindness or partial blindness were to come upon their child we do not understand why they should hesitate to accept that condition rather than take a course which would have meant death for their child. It would have meant changing their outlook on life; they would live for the child and their recompense would be in the deeds of love, kindness and sacrifice which they would be called upon to perform. It is difficult to understand why they should ever have been in doubt as to the course they should take.

Mother and Daughter

There are some strange cases which come to police court and some equally strange people. Magistrate Brodie of Windsor had before him a colored man of 58 years with whom a white woman and some of her children are living. It was charged the man in driving the car with one of the woman's children in it was reckless. Police found on investigation that the child was intoxicated. She is 14 years of age, and was being taken to the home of her father with whom she lives.

The mother of the child was held on the charge of giving her daughter beer, and the magistrate held that constituted an offence anywhere or everywhere—even in a private home. One of the lawyers in court admitted he had learned something that day as he had not previously been aware that giving a minor beer in the child's home was an offence.

The one feature in the case which seemed to promise something better for the future was the assertion that the children in this family had been taken charge of by the Children's Aid Society. When a mother causes or allows her daughter of 14 to have so much beer that intoxication results she has demonstrated fully that she is not a fit person to have charge of children. She has become a mother in name only.

The Tent Caterpillar

The tent caterpillar is in evidence this year. Along the highways and roadsides; in orchards and elsewhere the webbed houses are seen. Just at this season is when we have a chance to see these things. Last fall they were in the egg stage; they passed the winter months that way, and are hatched out about the time apple blossoms are ready to burst. As a rule that should be about the first of May in a normal year.

When the caterpillar is hatched it comes as a small worm and those which have been hatched on the same tree form a colony and built the web which we now see. As the worms increase in size so does the size of the web.

This is the season when the caterpillars can be destroyed, and there are several means used. A number of people who have only a few of them use a torch to burn them out. By using that method they cannot be sure they have destroyed all the caterpillars. For this reason: During the daytime the worms which built the web go out in order that they may find something to eat; they prefer leaves. To get leaves they may go some distance away from their web, and if the burning of the web takes place during the hours when many of the worms are away from home then the absent worms will not be harmed at all. They return late in the afternoon, or in a cool day they are likely to be at home. In a few weeks they will be full grown and will go into the cocoon stage early in July.

For the protection of orchards the proper method is to use a spray made of 1 1-2 pounds of arsenate of lead to 40 gallons of water; that spray has been found effective and cheap and it sticks better than most other solutions. Entomologists inform us there are always a number of tent caterpillars this time of year, but they do not look for anything in the form of a plague from them, as their further development is curtailed largely by parasites.

In districts where orchards exist on a commercial basis the tent caterpillar is virtually unknown as it is sprayed out. The most effective way to treat them in the absence of proper spraying equipment is by using the torch, only it is well to use the torch in the early evening or on a cool day.

NOTES AND COMMENT

How far can taxation go? asks a Toronto paper. One thing is certain and that is that if it goes much higher the taxpayer will need oxygen equipment.

In Vulcan, Alta., a bylaw has been passed requiring cats to carry bells and now the felines can stage a back fence chorus with chimes obligato.

Everybody seems to demand that the Conservative party should be shaken up. We had an idea that was what happened to it at the last election.

Russia has passed a law forbidding the shooting of polar bears for sport. Oh, well, we will have to do our hunting closer to home after this.

Joan Bennett, screen star, is not startlingly original. She has reported that $25,000 or $30,000 worth of jewels have been stolen from her.

China has protested to the League of Nations against the killing of non-combattants by the Japanese. And the League will probably be satisfied to mark the communication "Received."

It is announced that Harry Oakes, Canadian millionaire may be a candidate for the Legislative Assembly of the Bahamas. We feel sure that he will not ask Premier Hepburn to sign his nomination papers.

Cobourg automobiles are making a worse showing than Port Hope machines in the test as to their mechanical fitness. We expected that. Cobourg folk are not going to let Port Hopers beat them even in the matter of lame cars.

There may be an election after all this year. Reports from the west say the prairie wheat outlook is the best in a decade and that might be a very opportune thing for a government debating about going to the country.

Australia will appoint a high officer of the British Army as Inspector-General of Military Defense in the Commonwealth. The folk down under apparently realize that as members of the British Empire they have certain definite responsibilities.

The catching of suckers is prohibited because in the process other more valuable fish might be caught. Yet the government has decided to open the lunge season at a time when the bass are spawning and when it would seem almost impossible to fish for muskies without catching the black fellows too.

DISCIPLINE

(By A. R. K.)

¶ Not once in forty years I read, regarding one Silvester Need, has he been ever late; he started working at a place, and since then kept his even pace, since back in ninety-eight.

¶ The warning whistle so I'm told, has never once yet caught him cold, in morning or at one; he always walked with even pace, nor was there worry on his face, he never had to run.

¶ And neighbors all along the street, they used to listen for his feet, as he came down the block; when they saw Need pass by their way, they knew at once the time of day, they'd set the kitchen clock.

¶ At night he went to bed on time, to rest his weary bones and spine, and he slept quite a lot; and when came on another day, he did not linger in the hay, but rose upon the dot.

¶ He mowed the whiskers from his chin, split minutes counted much with him, his eating was the same; he moved precisely here and there, and went about with such an air, as though he were a train.

¶ I could not hope to equal Need, with forty years of even speed, nor could I reach his score; for when the clock rings out and cries, that I should then and there arise—I like to sleep some more.

DeLaval Is Not Assembly Plant

(From Parliamentary Debates)

Mr. J. J. DUFFUS (Peterborough West): Mr. Speaker, I rise to take part in this debate for the purpose of correcting certain statements that have been made in this chamber in connection with the report submitted by the hon. member for Lake Centre (Mr. Johnston): I desire at this time to convey to him and the members of the committee my congratulations upon the great amount of time and labour they have given to this subject. To say the least, I submit respectfully that some of the speeches and some of the reports are at variance with the facts so far as one of the industries in my constituency is concerned, namely, the De Laval Company Limited, manufacturers of the finest separators in the world.

I desire to refer to remarks made by the hon. member for Selkirk (Mr. Thorson) on March 15 of this year. At page 1472 of unrevised Hansard he is reported as having said:

. . . the De Laval Company is not a manufacturing plant; it is simply an assembly plant. The cream separator end of the business is a very small proportion of its total business.

And further:

The amount paid to Canadian labour is only a small fraction of the cost of the cream separators assembled at the De Laval plant. For example, out of a total factory cost of $59.65 per separator, only $1.69 is paid to direct Canadian labour.

That information was obtained from page 1236 of the report of the committee, which says:

The committee points out that over the ten-year period, the labour cost on its separator made in Peterborough, Ontario, only amounted to $1.69.

The period referred to is from 1926-1935. That was prior to the time the company began to manufacture separators in Peterborough. In other words, they were brought in from the United States, and that item of $1.69 was only for the work of balancing the bowl after the machine had arrived at their Peterborough plant. I have read the evidence, Mr. Speaker, and I cannot find where the De Laval Company gave any similar information.

I am very familiar, Mr. Speaker, with this industry, the De Laval Company Limited, manufacturers of cream separators in the city of Peterborough, and may I say that I am very proud of it. When I was first elected alderman to the city council of Peterborough some years ago, this was the first industry I assisted in inducing to locate in that great industrial centre.

The De Laval Company in Peterborough is the largest and best equipped factory manufacturing milk handling equipment in the British empire. More than 14,000 square feet are embraced in its factory buildings, one wing alone of the factory being 600 feet long. The manufacturing operations include all processes, including foundry work and castings. Over one mile of railway enters the property, serving the shipping warehouses and incoming materials. The factory also includes steel working equipment, plating equipment, electric welding and many other processes required in converting the raw metals into the finished separator.

The employees of this company are of a very high standard. There are 246 factory workers, and 126 of an office and sales force, or a total of 372 employees dependent on this industry, and as well there are 2,500 representatives throughout Canada.

Contrary to the implications contained in the remarks of the hon. member of Selkirk, the manufacture of cream separators comprises about one-third of the total business of this company. What is more, and very significant, the Canadian content, including material, labour and so forth, amounts to 51.58 per cent. of the total construction of their cream separators, as follows: Parts purchased from other Canadian factories, 12.59 per cent; Canadian labour, 22.57 per cent; Canadian supplies and expense materials, 14.23 per cent; Canadian duties, 1.51 per cent.

May I point out, as hon. members have been referring to an increase in the price of farm implements during the past year, that the De Laval Company has not increased the price of its separator during the past two years. Far from being assemblers only of separators, this company performs as many as five hundred operations on a single separator. The parts on which operations are performed in Peterborough number fifty-nine. Included in these fifty-nine items are some of which several of each are used in the manufacture of each machine. With the permission of the house, Mr. Speaker, if I may have it, I should like to place on Hansard a table showing the number of operations on each of these parts used in the manufacture of De Laval separators in its Canadian plant in the city of Peterborough. The chart covers all the parts and the operations thereon. I hope the information I have given to the house will convince the most skeptical hon. member that the De Laval company is absolutely a manufacturing industry and not merely an assembling plant.

Seventy of the splendid employees of this company are specifically engaged in the manufacture of cream separators, thus maintaining and keeping off relief about 265 Canadian citizens.

In addition, this firm has a large investment in new, up-to-date machinery and equipment for turning out its machines on a highly satisfactory basis to Canadian farmers. Moreover, it carries in stock at all times over $100,000 worth of spare parts for satisfactorily servicing these machines in the hands of the Canadian farmer. A significant fact is that the company can readily supply all parts for all types and models of its machines manufactured and delivered to the consumers by them during the past thirty years. I submit, Mr. Speaker, that this is a service vastly different from that given by many firms, which do not pretend to assist the farmer by making it possible for him to retain his machinery on a satisfactory, and economical basis over such a long period of time.

YES—WHAT?

"Well, well. I wonder what the 'Old English Landscape Painters' society' is going to think of this one."

Mixing Day's News With Splendor

(Woodstock Sentinel-Review)

ANYONE OF MIDDLE age can recall when milk was delivered in bulk, poured into the waiting pitcher by a dairyman who was his own herdsman and distributor. It cost then, as we recall, four cents a quart. Now there are fewer and larger dairy companies, with elaborate plants. Strict sanitary regulations are applied to the dairy stables, the milk is pasteurized and bottled, and the wagons have rubber tires. The product costs more than twice as much as before, contains precisely as much nutrition, and is just what it always was—cow's milk.

News is a commodity something like that. It has not changed a great deal through the years. People like to read about other people, in general. Particularly they wish to know about anything affecting themselves. The nearer home the event, the more important it is. An item about a neighbor breaking his leg is read before an account of a score of persons killed in an accident on the other side of the continent or of the world. Again, news is like milk in that it deteriorates, and must be handled quickly. Finally, the reporter or correspondent on the spot where news is produced must exercise industry and care, like the dairy farmer, or the stuff will never get to the waiting market in satisfactory condition.

The mechanism of distribution is incidental, after all. This reflection comes to one after studying a supplement all about the Globe and Mail's new $2,000,000 building. It has a 12-unit super-something press operated by three 200 h.p. motors. The editorial floor has room enough to hold a dance without moving the desks. Elevators serve the six storeys; there is an executive dining-room, a squash court, 21 electric fans and a floor covering that deadens sound. This huge and modern plant, open to public inspection today, is undoubtedly the finest in Canada, and the staff will work under ideal conditions. Nevertheless, they will do just what all other daily newspaper staffs in the country busy themselves with—they will handle the news which comes to them from all the familiar sources; write headings very much like those in other journals, and the paper which comes off the 12-unit press on its three inches of cork will show few if any signs of the costly preliminaries.

Admiration for the metropolitan journal's marble lobby and air-conditioned rooms leaves one still impressed with the fact that provincial journals published in humble surroundings contain more of the news their readers regard as essential than is to be found in any outside paper serving a huge area. A 12-unit Hoe press could run off a paper of enormous size, but the Globe and Mail yesterday had only 28 pages. The Sentinel-Review, published in almost the smallest city of the province, issued 14 pages; other local dailies hereabouts had 16 to 24 pages.

There is only so much news, and newspaper staffs select from it according to their appreciation of reader interest. Indeed, the local daily has a certain advantage there. And it will probably handle its news more expeditiously than the metropolitan journal.

It is something like going to church. Most people in this country attend places of worship that are small to medium size; relatively few are accommodated in beautiful and costly cathedrals. Yet the results, we are instructed, are identical. Indeed, the Christian church is defined as "the congregation of faithful men" throughout the world — no mention of edifices at all. Something depends upon the preacher, and likewise if the metropolitan newspaper renders distinguished service it will be mainly on account of an exceptionally capable staff. In the case of the Globe and Mail, the editor-in-chief is a native of Zorra, which of course, is an asset to be rated along with the two-million dollar building.

Is "Honest Graft" On the Decline?

(By Chester L. Shaw in Christian Science Monitor)

THE AMERICAN taxpayer is probably the most easy-going fellow in the universe, else most of the cities of this country would not be saddled with political machines of varying degrees of viciousness. But there are indications now that he is in revolt, and the speed with which bosses are being skidded toward oblivion in many places must mean that the ancient American institution known as "honest graft," sought after by machine politicians everywhere, is on the way to well-deserved extinction.

You may well ask, how can any graft be honest? Actually, it can't, but some machine politicians have tinges of conscience now and then, as was the case with the notorious Tammany brave who unwittingly coined this oxymoron of municipal misrule. The explanation, as I recall, was substantially this:

Some large stone buildings owned by New York City had been razed, and thus there was left a great quantity of used stone which was to be sold at public auction. The Tammanyite who told the story of honest graft was a building contractor, and he wanted the stone. On the morning set for the sale he showed up early at the appointed place for a reconnaissance. He found five or six others there, prepared to bid.

The exponent of "honest graft" discovered that the others wanted only small amounts of the vast quantity of stone for sale. And so the Tammany contractor had an inspiration.

"Now, when the bidding starts, you fellows keep quiet," he told them, "and I'll see that you get your stone free. Let me do all the talking."

At the hour set the auctioneer appeared and called for bids. The Tammany contractor offered $6, or some such ridiculously low amount. The others said not a word. The auctioneer raged, he shouted of graft and corruption, but not a voice was heard and the bid remained at $6. Despite his protests, the auctioneer was forced to let thousands of dollars worth of stone go for a mere handful of money. It was perfectly legal. The stone had been advertised for public sale to the highest bidder at 10 a.m. on such and such a day, and the highest bid was $6. It was "honest graft."

What Do Dictators Talk About?

(Niagara Falls Review)

IT WOULD be interesting to be able to listen in on the conversation between Mussolini and Hitler, though it is said the latter does most of the talking and the former the listening. Maybe what they really talked about was the best ways and means of impressing the mobs, for that is an important subject for the dictators. How to sell themselves to the people? How to stifle the press and prevent all save the ruler's opinions reaching the masses. Wonder how Hitler excused his sudden move into Austria and moving German soldiers to the Italian frontier?

There is a suggestion that Hitler suggested a military alliance, but that Mussolini brushed it aside. Did Hitler, as he talked of it, remember there was such an alliance, at the outbreak of the great war, but it meant nothing for Italy? The evidence is quite clear that the two men do not like each other and that is not surprising for they are different types and no dictator likes another who is stealing his thunder. We saw a recent cartoon of two men dressed like Napoleon, in a padded cell and one is pointing to the other and saying "he thinks' he's Napoleon". It must be difficult for Mussolini to share the stage, the spotlight with Hitler.

Wonder why Il Duce permitted all those stories to be sent abroad, telling of tremendous precautions being taken for the safety of Herr Hitler? Did he want to suggest Hitler is not popular in Italy? All correspondents agree the applause for Hitler was not very loud and the crowds not large, yet we know if the proper orders had been given, there would have been cheers to cause the well known welkin to ring. What did Hitler think as the Alpine regiment passed in review, containing Germans from South Tyrol? What does it all mean? The answer may be that Mussolini prefers the friendship of Great Britain and France to continuance, otherwise than in an academic way, of the Rome-Berlin axis.

FISHING CRIME.

(Aylmer Express)

CHARLIE WHITE, well-known angler and sportsman, who probably knows more about fish and other wild life than any other man in Elgin County, tells the Express that if something is not done soon to save the fish in Lake Erie, the fishing industry will be ruined. Charlie tells us there is a simple way to do it, too. Instead of issuing a tonnage license, restricting fishing tugs taking more than a certain tonnage, his plan would be to prohibit fishing altogether during the spawning season. As is being done at present, the fish go to the gravel beds to spawn and the gill netters follow them, bringing in tons at a catch. Then, in order not to glut the market too seriously the surplus fish are put in cold storage for future sales. Thus millions of unborn fish are destroyed in this way, far more than any fish hatchery can produce in years of time. Mr. White contends that figuratively, fishermen are killing the goose which lays the golden eggs. Leave the fish alone during the spawning season and there will be plenty to catch at other seasons of the year.

FREE SPEECH

(Regina Leader-Post)

The fewer restrictions there are about this democratic institution of free speech the better. Free speech as an institution begins to lose its meaning where it is stipulated that it may be enjoyed in some quarters but not in others.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

THEN DREW near unto him all the publicans and sinners for to hear him. . . . And he said, A certain man had two sons: and the younger of them said to his father, Father, give me the portion of goods that falleth to me. And he divided unto them his living. And not many days after the younger son gathered all together, and took his journey into a far country, and there wasted his substance with riotous living. And when he had spent all, there arose a mighty famine in that land; and he began to be in want. And he went and joined himself to a citizen of that country; and he sent him into his fields to feed swine. And he would fain have filled his belly with the husks that the swine did eat: and no man gave unto him.— Luke xv, 1, 11-16.

To The Editor

TAKING SUCKERS

Editor Examiner:

Sir: Your editorial "Sent to Jail" will undoubtedly have the endorsement of your readers and all fair-minded critics who stand for justice and British fair play. As stated by the Examiner the sentence does not seem to fit in with the size of the offence. Moreover their home circumstances have not been made known, but in all probability they were poor honest people endeavoring to fulfil their home obligations with that in which the Great Creator has provided for their use regardless of the method used in securing sufficient to meet their requirements.

EXERCISE DOES IT.

(Toronto Telegram)

OUR GLOVES and shoes, ladies, are three sizes larger than those worn by genteel women a few generations ago . . . Of dozens and dozens of applicants, there wasn't one girl to be found who could wear the gloves and shoes of an earlier period when old-fashioned styles were reviewed in London's Dorchester Hotel recently . . . Dr. Willet Cunnington lent his famous dress collection to the 110 women who paraded the fashion contrasts. There were nine brides, whose weddings took place between 1815 and 1896, included in the show. Since the gowns were too precious to be tampered with, the doctor was faced with the problem of finding a model who corresponded with the measurements of the original wearer. A large order in these athletic days! There was no difficulty with waistlines, but chests were found to be twice the size of pre-war women. Some girls who could hook up an 18-inch waist could not even be squeezed into the bodice tops.

HIS MISERABLE TAUNT.

(Stratford Beacon-Herald)

POLITICAL life is on a higher plane in Great Britain than in any other country in the world. Yet it suffers strange lapses. Among such descents was this miserable taunt by David Lloyd George in the British House of Commons on Tuesday: "The Germans are quite convinced that you (Chamberlain) won't fight, and so am I". We venture to think that Mr. Lloyd George is entirely wrong, as well as unpatriotic, in that utterance. It is because Nazi Germany is convinced that Britain WILL fight that there is peace today—and if a major conflict is averted in continental Europe, it will be because Hitler, the aggressor, knows that Britain stands between him and his would-be victims.

VANCOUVER M.P. ADDRESSES CLUB AT BELLEVILLE

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, May 10.—The democracies of the world to-day are facing a challenge which is the greatest test since the time when Plato first enunciated his theories of government according to G. G. McGeer, K.C., M.P. from Vancouver, who addressed a gathering of 150 Rotarians at a district conference held in Belleville Monday evening. The people of Canada have demonstrated to the world one of the finest examples of International co-operation by proving that two different nations can live together on friendly terms.

Speaking of Canada's Tourist Trade this wel-known author and legislator claimed that there was more than mere sentiment in this trade which was our greatest contribution to goodwill. The possibilities which this country opens to tourists affords our greatest defense. There is no country in the world having the same tourist merchandise which we have to offer, nor has any other country such a potential market as we have. Three to four times the value of our present gold production can be yielded by a proper development of our tourist industry.

A new super highway, which will eventually extend to Alaska, is being laid out on the west coast as a challenge to the Mexican bid for a greater share of the business.

"Canada," said the speaker, "has more currency and more credit than we use in all the developments we choose to make. We must move forward on constructive opportunities that are greater than any imagination can conceive. All that is needed is a public opinion that is convinced of these opportunites and a national public spirit to make of Canada the first nation of the world in highway transportataion development."

Referring to a cross Canada Highway Mr. McGreer stated it would bring about a greater national unity being an enterprise that could be participated in by all the people of all parts of Canada.

HOME NEAR LATTA IS RAZED BY FIRE

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, May 10. — Fire of undetermined origin on Sunday afternoon destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jezzard, just east of Latta. Mr. and Mrs. Jezzard were in Tweed, and a son was at Latta, and knew nothing of the blaze until it had made considerable headway. It was first noticed by some people who were visiting at Victoria Cemetery. By the time help arrived the interior of the residence was a mass of flames, making it impossible to salvage much of the contents. It is understod that the loss is partly covered by insurance.

While attempting to pass a lead car, an automobile driven by Ray Jamieson, Mountain View, turned completely over along the Rossmore-Rednersville road on Sunday night. The vehicle came to rest on its top, but fortunately no personal injuries were sustained by any of the three occupants. Jamieson was attempting to pass a motor car driven by Leo Stillman. Stillman informed Provincial Constable McBrien on his investigation that he had swerved his car to avoid an excavation in the road. Unfortunately just as Jamieson was passing. The latter stated he had sounded the horn of his car, but Stillman contended he heard no such warning.

His arm drawn into the gear of some machinery in his Monteagle Township sawmill which he was repairing on Saturday, Frank Richards, a Bancroft district resident, suffered a fracture of the arm and severe lacerations from wrist to shoulder. In some manner the machinery started while it was being adjusted. Mr. Richards is a patient in the Bancroft Red Cross Hospital, where he is undergoing treatment.

Mah-Jong was all the rage with the ladies around 1929. It is still the rage with Mme. Alexander Troyanovsky, wife of the Soviet ambassador to the United States, who is shown here at her favorite hoby. Mme. Troyanovsky prefers Mah-Jong to bridge, which is her husband's favorite indoor sport. Incidentally, Mah-Jong is making a come-back in society drawing rooms.

St. Paul's Choir And Guests Present The Rose Maiden

Five Artists From Toronto Assist In Beautiful Presentation

A fantasy of musical delight containing its poignant appeal in the love and sorrow of the Queen of the Flower Fairies, Frederic H. Cowan's cantata. "The Rose Maiden" was presented in St. Paul's Presbyterian church Monday evening under the magnificent direction of Martin B. Chenhall, A.R.C.O.

It is especially interesting to note that just sixteen years ago, almost to the day, the cantata was presented by the choir of St. Paul's, under the direction of Mr. Chenhall, with two of last night's soloists, Edna Reed (now Mrs. Carrow), and Frank Oldfield, whose popularity with his Peterborough audiences has not decreased with the passing of time.

The story is of the Queen of the Flower Fairies who, weary of a life of unbroken calm, prays to the newly returned Spring to bestow on her the gift of love that he bestows on man. He warns her of the risk she runs, but finally yields to her entreaties and changes her into the form of a beautiful maiden. While, under the name of Roseblossom, she wanders through the world to find the love she seeks, she meets with a girl, who deserted by her lover, dies brokenhearted. Undeterred, Rose blossom becomes the wife of a forester, with whom she lives in such perfect happiness she cannot survive his death. The elves bewail the fate of their Queen and curse love as fatal to peace and happiness.

Beautiful Solos

The solo parts were rendered with infinite beauty, understanding and mastery of expression by four distinguished assisting artists, Edna Reed Carrow, soprano, Helen Rowe McHugh, contralto, Heber Muloch, tenor, and Frank Oldfield, baritone. As a fitting background the choir gave a splendid rendering of the many choruses with especially beautiful effect in the lyrical "Mid the Waving Rose-Trees." Most gaily given was the joycus " 'Tis they wedding morning," and the final magnificent effort, "Yea, e'en as die the roses" was well deserving of the emphantic and continued applause.

An immense amount of unstinted effort by director and choir must have gone into the production of this smooth and lovely offering, to which pictorial beauty was added, by a profusion of beautiful blooms, in shades of rose, pink and white, and making an effective setting for the singers, the ladies of the chorus being all in white with red rose corsages, and visiting artistes in pale rose and green evening gowns carrying out the pleasing effect.

With sweet and seemingly effortless ease Mrs. Carrow sang the heavy solo part that falls to the soprano voice, rising to heights of melodic loveliness in the reiterated "Bloom on, bloom on, my roses." An especially lovely number, most confidently given, was the duet between soprano and tenor, "I know a rosebud shining."

Part Was Limited

It seemed a pity the contralto part is so limited in this cantata and especially when it is sung by a voice of so rich and thrilling a quality as that belonging to Mrs. McHugh. The dramatic beauty of her rendering of "Ask of yon ruined castle" is almost indescribable.

The audience was most fortunate to hear Heber Mulock, tenor soloist in Eaton Momorial Church, Toronto, and well known for his radio and concert appearances, as are also last night's other guest artists. Mr. Mulcch's versatile powers were shown to good effect in the tenor recitative parts and the lovely arias, with perhaps his finest rendering, "The sleep of even" receiving most prolonged applause.

Frank Oldfield, whose rich and robust voice needs no introduction to Peterborough audiences, as baritone, soloist in the cantata sang his numbers with vigor and warmth of tone that was most satisfying throughout.

Talented Harpist

Another distinguished guest artist was John Duncan, the talented harpist, whom audiences of this city also know and appreciate, and whose lovely instrument gave added beauty of sound, especially noticeable in the "A maid more beautiful than May" and "The sleep of even." Gwen Craw at the piano gave especially distinguished and understanding accompaniments. At a second piano, Donald Ross also gave effective assistance, and the organ's lovely tones were perfectly brought in by Mr. Chenhall.

At the close of the cantata the evening's enjoyment was generously added to by the visiting artists in a most delightful program, when their diversified talents were even more effectively brought out than in th cantata. The audience sat spell bound while Mr. Duncan gave one of his own beautiful compositions, entitled "Winter" on the harp. Mr. Mulock received thunderous applause for his splendid contributions, "Lift Thine Eyes," and as an encore, a fine interpretation of the negro spiritual, "Nobody Knows the Troubles I've Seen."

With sincere beauty Mrs. McHugh sang Schubert's "Ave Marie" and this number with harp accompaniment was most poignantly lovely. As an encore, the singer gave "Danny Boy." The soprano, Mrs. Carrow, contributed a sweet number, "The Answer" and a most delightful little encore, "The Clock." Last but far from least, Frank Oldfield's magnificent voice was heard to advantage in three numbers "The King of the Road," "Don't Marry Monday" and "When the Guards are on Parade." As a finale the visitors sang a quartet with harp accompaniment also.

BABY'S FATE LEFT UP TO JURY OF 12

CHICAGO, May 10—(AP).—Fate of Baby Helaine Colan, suffering from glioma, a cancerous tumor which creeps along the optic nerves to the brain, rested to-day with a "life-death" jury of 12 men—nine Chicago medical specialists and three Rabbis.

The distraught parents, Dr. Herman 30, a dentist, and his wife, Estelle, 23, agreed to place the case in the committee's hands after a dramatic 5-hour family consultation.

The nine physicians—eye, brain and X-ray specialists—will meet at the Garfield Park Community Hospital where the five-weeks-old infant is confined.

Attorney Samuel A. Hoffman, a spokesman for the family, said the specialists will decide whether to operate for the removal of both eyes; remove only the left eye and treat the other with super-voltage X-ray or let nature take its course which some physicians held would mean death within two months.

One Eye Blind Now.

The disease has already claimed the sight of the baby's left eye and impaired that of her right eye. One specialist suggested an operation to remove both eyes in a desperate attempt to halt the deadly growth. Such a course would leave her blind for life.

Hoffman said the family and Dr. Morris L. Hersham, a physician and the infant's maternal grandfather, have all agreed to abde by the decision. It will first be submitted to the three Rabbis whose consent, Hoffman said, will probably be no more than a formality. The attorney said the Rabbis, who will sit on the conference, were selected at the insistence of the baby's mother.

Should the specialists decide on an operation, Hoffman said, it will be performed immediately.

Advises Death

CLEVELAND, May 9 (AP).—Mrs. Maurice Wohl, whose baby went blind with retinal glioma, said today she would advise the parents of Helaine Colan, Chicago baby victim of the disease, to let their child die.

Mrs. Wohl's son is two years old. A year ago he went blind in one eye. It was removed. The other was treated with X-ray. But now the boy is sightless. She said she would write to the Chicago parents.

"I would not advise X-ray treatment," she said. "I would not suggest eye removal. Rather let the child die than suffer extreme pain and sightlessness."

LAD HOOKS TROUT "AS BIG AS A BASS"

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, May 10. — A rod, reel and line costing 98c and a little luck combined to bring Lawrence McGarrity, aged 15 years, of Peterborough, one of the nicest specimens of speckled trout caught here this season.

The fish was officially weighed and measured by Game Inspector L. Gibbs, who spotted the elated youngster bringing home his catch and thought from its shape it surely must be a bass. Investigation proved him wrong, however, and the inspector admiring the fish found it to measure 14¼ inches in length and 8¼ inches round, and weighing 1 pound and 9 ounces.

Lawrence hitch-hiked all the way from Peterborough for his afternoon's fishing, and was accompanied to the trout stream just at the southern edge of the village, by Keith Toms of Havelock.

SHELVE MONTAGA ACTION

ELIZABETHTOWN, N.Y., May 10 —(AP).—A $45,000 civil action against John Montague, Hollywood golfer, has been put over until the fall term of Essex County Supreme Court. Plaintiffs, who seek damages for assault, are Kin Hanna, owner of a roadhouse at Jay, N.Y., which was robbed in 1930, his wife, his father-in-law, Matt Cobb, and his daughter, Mrs. Naomie Beattie. Montague was acquitted last October on charges of participating in the robbery.

Another Browning Invention

Jonathan Edmund Browning, half-brother of John M. Browning, inventor of 35 small-base firearms, and son of Jonathan Browning, inventor of the repeating rifle, is shown at Ogden, Utah, testing a newly invented semi-automatic .30 calibre rifle. The U.S. ordinance department may replace the present heavy automatic arms with this lightweight weapon.

Knox Church C.G.I.T. Hold Mother And Daughter Banquet

Miss Rachel Young, Superintendent Of Shelter, Guest Speaker

The C.G.I.T. of Knox United Church celebrated their tenth anniversary Monday night with their usual splendid Mother and Daughter banquet, under the fine leadership of Mrs. A. Huffman, who presided as chairman and toast master. The tables were lovely in a blue and white color scheme with gay spring flowers. An added touch were the artistic programs and dainty place cards done in blue and white.

When the unusually large assembly had gathered in the dining hall, Mr. J. F. Morrison said grace and the guests were bountifully served by the C.G.I.T. girls assisted by members of the junior and senior A.S.K. classes.

During the supper hour Miss Helen Ward led in an enthusiastic sing-song, after which the guests were welcomed in gracious words by Mrs. Huffman, on behalf of her group.

The first toast on the list was that to the King, when Velma Corrine placed the flag in the place of honor and all rose in salute.

Elva Darling ably proposed the toast to "Our Visitors," to which Rev. G. S. Easton responded, speaking of this happy occasion as a part on life's voyage from which we would go out happier and better, feeling a finer fellowship.

"The Church" was toasted by Mabel Sarginson who said "It is with a feeling of awe that I propose a toast to one so great as the church".

Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt in replying, declared that the church is the greatest heritage in a democratic land.

In her fine toast to "Our Mothers", Margaret Gertley paid loving tribute, while Mrs. Dugan's response was head by Mrs. Huffman in her absence.

Musical Program

An excellent musical program interspersed the toasts, and among the contributing artists were several favorites, including Mrs. N. Hughes, who sang in sweet contralto "When Mother Prays" accompanied at the piano by Miss E. Borland. A delightful violin solo, the offering of Miss Annabelle Herd, was much appreciated.

Another group included the vocal solos "Up in a Toy Balloon" and "Fishin'" by the charming little Betty Mather, accompanied by another talented youthful musician, Adele Fitzgerald. As a foil to these two were the appropriate readings by little Roma Williamson "Mother's Colours" and "God's Voice."

Eunice Thexton, in introducing the guest speaker, Miss Rachel Young, superintendent of the Children's Shelter, spoke of the report of her brilliant work in Toronto.

Life's A House

Miss Young defined life as a house, with first and second floors. The first floor represented the lower levels of life, such as flattery, pretence and bad temper, while the second floor was a little harder to reach and made up of good music, choice friends, truth and religion. The first thing for a girl to do is to get above and make up the values of her own first and second floors. Girls have mothers to help them overcome the things they find on the first floor.

If mothers will meet their girls with real understanding and a knowledge of their problems, they will come back, but if not, the girls will shut up like a clam or go to some one else for help.

The speaker urged the girls to make sure that their values are things which will take them to something finer, for they cannot reach the second floor without religion.

Thanks of the guests were voiced to Mrs. Huffman and her group by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Zufelt, while Dorothy Battle and Jean Trotter expressed the sincere appreciation of the audience to Miss Young, who was also presented with a beautiful bouquet by Pat Watson. Thanks were also extended to the assisting artists by Phyllis Stocker and Clara Bradshaw.

The leader, Mrs. Huffman and the C.G.I.T. in remembering a member who was ill, Ellen Thexton, stood and repeated their pledge.

A fitting conclusion to this happy annual event was the presentation to the retiring president, Mabel Sarginson, a C.G.I.T. pin, by Mrs. Edwards and Mrs. Huffman, followed by "Taps" in which every one joined.

Guillotine Fugitive Must Go Back

New York, May 10 (AP)

CAPUTO GENNARO, 43, self-styled "fugitive from the guillotine," must go back—to what he claims is certain death.

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals today upheld a lower court order dismissing a writ of habeas corpus, which would have saved Gennaro from being extradited to France.

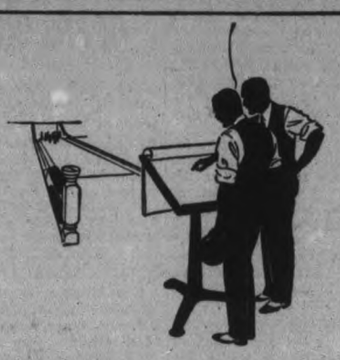
The fugitive was convicted in Marseilles, France, in 1923, in his absence, for the murder of Giera Marie and the attempted slaying of M. Viola Saveur. He was arrested here in December, 1936, for alleged complicity in illicit narcotics traffic.

JAPANESE ATTACK SUCCESS AT AMOY

SHANGHAI, May 10 (CP-Havas)—A detachment of 1,200 Japanese marines made a landing at Amoy today under the cover of intense naval and aerial bombardment, opening a new drive to capture and occupy the chief seaport of Fukien province in South China.

Despatches said the landing was effected on the northern part of the island of Amoy and that, despite strong resistance by the local garrison, the invaders succeeded in reaching the heart of the island.

Japanese sources predicted occupation of the city would follow in short order. Urgent requests for reinforcements were sent to Canton by the Amoy defenders, the reports said.



"What's the best way to make a ten strike?"
"Put ten cents on the counter and say Sweet Caps."

MICK INTENDS TO PLACE RUDY IN OUT GARDEN

DETROIT, May 10.—Mickey Cochrane has been fooling with Preston Rudolph York since 1934, and still doesn't know what to do with the clouting Cherokee. York can't play first base for the Detroit Tigers due to the presence there of Henry Greenberg. Given a thorough trial at third last season, the giant Georgian thoroughly demonstrated that he was no Pavlowa at the hot corner. Even though a third baseman doesn't average more than three chances a game, he can't get away with spearing the ball with his chest. And now Cochrane is ready to give up on York as a catcher.

The outfield is the next step, for Cochrane wishes to keep the Atco Assassin's home run swing in the batting order. It was the failure of Greenberg and York to paste the pill that caused Detroit to drop five of six games to Cleveland. Both are hitting in the robust 230's at the moment, but Cochrane has every reason to be confident that they'll shortly find the range.

Has No Batting Weakness.

Greenberg has led the American League in runs driven across the platter in two of the last three years, and his second wrist injury put him on the sidelines at the outset of the third season. York manufactured 18 home runs last August to break Babe Ruth's major league record for circuit clouts in a single month. He hit 35 homers to equal Hal Trosky's big league mark for a freshman, although he was in only 104 games as against Trosky's 154. York was at bat only 376 times, but he drove in 101 runs on 115 hits, and averaged a home run every 11 times at bat. The fact that Charley Gehringer batted in 96 runs on 208 hits in 144 games gives you a rough idea of the punch packed by York.

York has no batting weakness. He has a smooth, powerful swing, a good eye, and chilled steel nerves. But in 80 odd contests last year and in training and championship games this spring he has failed to come close to mastering the mechanics of catching.

A rifle-shot arm dangles from York's shoulder, but he finds it difficult to be accurate with the push throw required from the catcher's position. While other oversized catchers — Larry McLean, Chief Meyers, Pancho Snyder, and Ernie Lombardi among them—had no trouble with low pitches, York's bulk handicaps him in this and other respects. York is simply a mess on foul flies and, while the Detroit pitching has been surprisingly good, the Indian has been given no credit for helping the moudsmen. So York soon will find himself in the outfield. He will play the short fields, where he can do the least damage defensively. That means right field in Detroit, New York, Cleveland, St. Louis, and Washington, and left field in Boston and Philadelphia.

Tebbetts As Regular.

Birdie Tebbetts will do the bulk of the Detroit catching. He has everything York lacks as a backstop, but doesn't hit his long ball often enough. As a first baseman, York was voted the most valuable player in the Texas League in 1935 and in the American Association in 1936. First base is his natural position, but Hank Greenberg is too much of a natural there for him to break in. So Rudy York, the slugger, must find another place for himself, and he's just about run out of positions. Under the circumstances, it's too bad for the poor Indian that baseball doesn't adopt the suggested rule that would permit clubs to carry extra men to bat for pitchers. For, as a hitter, Rudy York is fully as good as he is painted.

Glace Crusaders Get First Win

GLACE BAY, N.S., May 10 (C.P.). — Glace Bay Crusaders overcame a 10-point deficit that faced them at half-time and went on to defeat Hamilton, Ont., Somic Pets 34-29 last night in the first game of the Canadian intermediate basketball final.

Second and final game of the total-score series will be played here to-night.

SOCCER CIRCUIT OPENS ON MAY 21

The local soccer season will be officially opened on Saturday afternoon, May 21 on King Edward Park, but an exhibition game will be played next Saturday between Canadian General and a Select eleven so that the Electric aggregation can get into shape for the game scheduled on Victoria Day against Toronto when they expect to have over eighty fans with them.

Deloro Enters.

The Brinton Athletic team entered the league, along with the C.C.F. who were not represented. Canadian General was represented by Jack Adams. Wilfred Jones spoke on behalf of the Carpet executive of four who are interested in the welfare of the sport in that locality.

Official knowledge relative to teams from Toronto visiting this city was given by C.G.E. secretary which will be of great assistance to local clubs in bringing outside teams here.

Deloro telephoned their entry into the association, last evening, and stated that they would be represented at the meeting next Monday night when they would deposit their entry fee and guarantee amount for the completion of the league.

The association desires the services of official referees for the current year ;also applications for the caretaker's position will be received by the secretary.

Rumors Of Mungo Trade Revived

ST. LOUIS, May 10.—(AP)—The "Mungo to St. Louis" trade rumors were revived Monday when Branch Rickey, boss of St. Louis Cardinals, and Manager Burleigh Grimes of Brooklyn held a long conference. Rickey admitted he was interested in Van Lingle Mungo, Dodgers' fire-ball right-hander, and added:

"He is a good pitcher ,and I'm interested in good pitchers. We haven't made a deal with Brooklyn, but if one is completed it will not be a small one."

Yesterday's Stars

(By the Associated Press.)

Ducky Medwick, Cardinals — His triple drove in winning runs in 9-7 defeat of Dodgers; also clouted double and two singles.

Dutch Leonard, Senators—Held Browns to seven hits, all singles, and batted in three runs with a triple and single in beating the Browns 7-1.

Jimmy Foxx, Red Sox— Belted two home runs to drive in five runs and lead 15-3 slaughter of Indians.

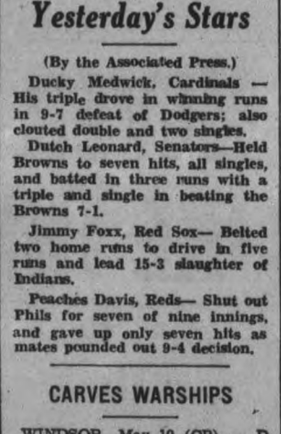
Peaches Davis, Reds— Shut out Phils for seven of nine innings, and gave up only seven hits as mates pounded out 9-4 decision.

CARVES WARSHIPS

WINDSOR, May 10 (CP). — D. Cromar, an Immigration Department employee here, has an unusual hobby. By making notes and diagrams, and using a magnifying glass on newspaper pictures, Cromar carves models of warships and liners accurate in every detail. It takes a month from the time the plans are copied to complete one of the models.

He first began his novel hobby 10 years ago, and at present undergoing renovation are models of the Queen Mary, a British torpedo boat, a flotilla leader, an American torpedo boat, and a Chinese destroyer.

Sensation



That's Bob Seeds, ABOVE, outfielder for Newark Bears in the International league. In the May 6 game against Buffalo he went to the plate six times and banged out four home runs and two singles to bat in 12 counters! The very next day he strode to the plate against the same team and sent three more balls over the fence, knocking in five more runs.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

MINOR BALL guys will have a huddle tonight come eight bells in Duffus' to decide whether or not the City Baseball League will operate this warm spell. If sufficient teams are represented, the circuit will be re-organized with one or more divisions. Bantams won't get going till around the end of June as Junior must do a bit of cramming the final school month to get a pass on his exams. Juvenile and junior sections will start shortly, if the entries go around. Age limits by May 1st are: Bantams, under 15; juveniles, under 18; juniors, under 20—this proposed loop not affiliating with the O.B.A.A. this year. Just on the road back yet. Everyone at all interested in minor ball is urged to show up this eve as it will be the final meeting called for the loop till the spring of '39.

* * * * * *

NOT QUITE as sleek and stream-lined—or maybe glit-lined!—as in days of yore, the St. Lawrence baseball loop nevertheless will operate. Five clubs in, Brockville, Cardinal, Prescott, Carleton Place and Smiths Falls. Maybe Morrisburg or Perth to make a sixth. This is the same setup of clubs that expressed great indignation a few weeks ago when the C.O.B.L. invited a couple of the teams in to the Central Ontario group. They yelled like New Year's Eve souses—just as though we were trying to hijack the baby's bottle. However, we're glad to see them back in baseball again.

* * * * * *

JUST WHAT the Petes are going to do about first base this season is a question. And a big one. There is a gaping gap at the initial corner in Riverside now and we dunno how it is going to be filled. Cliff Cadd has been practicing there and may have intentions on the job. Len Hollingsworth and Cy Whatley have also been mentioned. Unless some "student" or district "farm find" should show up, we don't know what will be done by Manager Eddie Murphy and the gang about first base. We had hopes of a hard-hitting and good fielding import at first, but haven't heard anything re-assuring yet. Maybe some of the local talent will fill the bill—we sure hope so. Last year, Ken Long and Fred Ash split duties on this sack and did okay—but Long has left town and Ash appears to be definitely retired.

* * * * * *

WE DON'T EXPECT lanky Fred will return to the diamond wars again but he'd look all right out there. Between injuries last year and a quite responsible job, he found it tough enough last season—and he hasn't been out to practice this spring. Can't blame him. Ash gave a whole lot to the game and his sensational fielding, color and ability to save his teammates from errors on bad heaves will not soon be forgotten by local ball fans. We figure Fred Ash the best defensive first-sacker (outside of pros) who ever played in Peterborough. Yeah, we remember Hap Harrison and Leo Comolli—two dandies—but they hadn't a thing on Ash for covering that bag. He did not have a great arm, nor was his hitting all it might have been, but he could field the ball or take a throw at first better than any of 'em. Or so we maintain. A good guy, Ash, and none of the present crop will fill his shoes—either in Peterborough or in the Central League.

* * * * * *

SOME of the men softballers, practicing recently at the Bowl in Ashburnham, tell us that it fits just a bit tight under the arms. Barely big enough for the men's game, though they hasten to add it is a peach of a spot and they are well satisfied. A few long hits a game will probably go rolling down the road toward the river for homers, and it may be necessary to make ground rules for left and right fields, but it will do okay. Though the infield would be improved a great deal for girl and men players alike if it were skinned. Tufts of grass, which cannot be rolled or raked, cause a lot of bad hops, resulting in silly errors or cheap hits. But the players don't mind if quarters are a little cramped, so long as some quarters are crammed in the coffee-pot each game.

* * * * * *

DON'T SELL the C.G.E. gal softballers, short this season. Like Barnacle Bill the Sailor they have been a-knockin' at the door for some time and this might well be their year. Shape up like a strong squad in early drills. They practice tomorrow eve at King Edward and may double up with Westclox at a workout Friday. Some of their prospective pitchers are Marilyn McCarthy, Iris Hopinks, A. Doughty and Audry Clarke. With Mary McCarthy and Annette DeCarlo as catching material. Pipe some of these infielders and gardeners: G. Mann, Dot Dinsdale, E. Foster, I. McCrank, P. Bigelow, B. Lee, E. Craig and Emma Graham. Yeah, Manager Wood ought to knock down a pretty promising outfit from this diamond gang. So don't go overboard on a Fighting Fox in the Colleens' Derby.

* * * * * *

LOCAL LACROSSERS hold practices Wednesday and Friday evenings at six this week, and Saturday afternoon, Manager Frank Randle informs us. Pete King took in the Toronto O.L.A. committee meeting and we ought to hear something definite in a day or two regarding groupings and maybe an exhibition tilt or two ere May endeth. The Petes organized early compared with some of the gutted-stick squads and that seems to be the main holdup in forming a good intermediate "A" or senior "B" grouping for the locals. Oshawa is expected in but nothing much has been done there to date.

* * * * * *

YE QUINTE COLUMNIST says they can line up a right smart ball club in Belleville this season if they get a good battery, several competent infielders and a couple of more slugging outfielders. We'll bet he votes the straight Bennett ticket, yessir! Without wishing to sound too conservative, we feel that with a little luck and a good battery, several competent infielders and a couple of hitting outer men, we too could round up a pretty promising ball team—even in Bella Villa. They have an umpire there and an impressive tradition to start off with—though a tradition isn't awfully important when the tying run is on second and a weak hitter is up. Still it's nice to have in the off-season to bring out and dust off.

* * * * * *

HITHER AND YAWN: Church Softball League schedules are in this evening; managers ought to clip 'em...Lindsay would like to see the Girls' Softball Loop schedule out soon as the men's circuit there is waiting for certain dates at the park...Washington has released Joe Krakauskas, Ontario southpaw, 'cause he lacks control...Big cage banquet is tonight at the "Y"...St. James Bantams pulled out a 19-18 church softball win over All Saints last gloaming...Haven't heard anything of how Westclox lasses will line up this year, but Ab Delahaye generally has a contending team...Bad weather last night spoiled several softball struggles and practices...Leo Deadey has received his O.A.S.A. as well as his O.B.A. transfer to play here this summer... Someone was telling us the other day that a junior puckist and ball player named Taylor, of Owen Sound, was in town—maybe nothing to it...When will the local amachoor fight card be announced?...Two weeks from today sees Oshawa GM-men play the Petes here to open the C.O.B.L. schedule...Seems to be the custom to cuss the customs by local customers lately—there being a high tariff wall on ballsters!

Deliberator Wins Belmont Feature

NEW YORK, May 10.—Deliberator, speedy son of Wise Counsellor from Fred Burton's Everglades Stable, held on long enough Monday to beat out C. R. Fleischman's Parmelee T. in the forty-fifth running of the Toboggan Handcap, opening feature of Belmont Park's twenty-four-day spring meeting.

Held at 11 to 5 to take the measure of five other high-ranking sprinters, Deliberator opened up an early lead, but just managed to stave off the closing bid of Parmelee T., an outsider.

Howard Bruce's Jay Jay trailed by two lengths in third place.

Deliberator, making his first start since last November, stepped the six furlongs down the Widener straightaway in 1:11 flat, Wayne Wright was up.

COMMENT FROM THE COACH

In Which A Few Tennis Faults Are Pointed Out

By Lloyd A. Percival

Today we'll discuss the practical and mention a few common faults of the average tennis player. Many times people say such things as "Dave would be better if he used the western grip." Such remarks may often be true, but generally speaking it is not in the gripping of a racquet that a player makes an error. The grips used in tennis are easy to learn. The big fault of all tennis players is one responsible for many errors for which they cannot account—Not Watching the Ball!

Takes Time

To the average person it seems an easy matter to watch the ball. It isn't. If you are sceptical, go out and try to watch every ball you receive for half an hour. It requires much effort in us all to acquire the knack of concentration. But, in spite of that, my budding Tildens, you must learn to watch the ball. Next time you play, make a real effort to watch it right on to your racquet. If you do this, don't be surprised in at least a 50 per cent. improvement!

Another common fault is laziness, or possibly slovenliness. Why this should be a fault in someone anxious to play well can perhaps be put down to the complexities of human nature. I don't believe I ever saw a tennis player, including Perry and Vines, who at some time during a match, wasn't guilty of this sin. You must get into position first to make perfect shots. It is a cardinal rule in tennis that you must be sideways to the net when playing your shots. How many times did you forget the last time you played? The sooner you get into the habit of getting into position first, the sooner you will begin to get somewhere. Keep a close check on yourself and make your errors forced ones, not the results of laziness.

Get Set for Shots

Still another fault is hitting the ball while running. Often you can commit this error through laziness, but more often the cause is lack of experience. To get the best results from a shot you must be set for it ...not flying across the court. When you are set for a stroke you can concentrate on form and direction. If you are running it is difficult to obey the fundamental rules of the shot. In hitting the ball while the body is moving across the line of flight you get the minimum power from the maximum effort. Your judgment of distance is put off and your shots are too soft and badly placed. Do your running to the ball, not at the ball. To do this you must develop anticipation. If you watch the ball and your opponent very closely, you will soon be able to judge where the ball is coming shortly before he hits it.

In tennis there are few worse faults than double-faults. Every time you double-fault you hand your opponent a gift. The idea of the service is to get the ball in play, and, when possible, put the receiver on the defensive. Take more time with that first service. Don't treat it as if it is a mere waste of time. Play the first one as carefully as you do the second. Don't be a tennis philanthropist!

GOLF FACTS by Alex Morrison

The story of Henry Picard's adoption of a new and seemingly very difficult grip just before starting in the Masters' tournament recently at Augusta is not new to most of you. Nor is it new to me, for I got it first from my good friend Grantland Rice who knew about my instructions to Picard and was watching his application of them closely.

When I returned to New York last week I got the story from Henry in person. Last July I told him that he had reached a point where a change of grips was imperative. The grip I suggested was the interlocking because it would afford him better control over the club, more wrist action and would allow him to take it easier in all of his swings. The grind he has been through in tournaments in this country, England and South America registered in his game. He was forcing himself to keep up with the pace set by leaders on the circuit. His own position as the most consistently successful performer for the last four years was in danger.

I knew that a change in the position of his hands would make everything about the game easier for him and also afford him greater possibilities in length and accuracy. His first attempt to carry out my suggestions brought success most gratifying to both of us.

St. James' Bantams Cap 19-18 Victory

Only one of three scheduled Church Softball League games was played Monday night, St. James' Bantams pulling out a 19-18 nod over All Saints' at Prince of Wales School. The senior struggle was called off and the juvenile tilt cancelled when St. John's decided to step up to junior. Last night's game was a wide-open and fairly exciting fray with the Uniteds rallying strongly in the final frame to notch no less than 13 runs after trailing throughout. Leether is the only player of last year's champion St. James' left. The teams:

St. James': Welch, rf; Estlick, 2b; Baldry, c; Leether, 3b; Wildman, 1b; Rutherford, ss; Woodcock, lf; McMahon, cf; Ellis, p.

Umpires: A. Neiman and C. Stewart.

M. Howard's Chief Out Of Preakness

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 10.—(AP) The Chief, Maxwell Howard's colt that substituted for Stagehand in the Derby came down Monday with the same sore throat and fever that laid the winter book favorite out on the eve of the Churchill Downs classic, and will not be able to start in the Preakness at Pimlico Saturday.

At the same time that he announced The Chief's illness Dr. Harry C. Harthill, veterinarian, said Stagehand had recovered and was in normal condition again. "He's doing fine and on his toes again," was the way the veterinarian described Stagehand's condition yesterday.

SENATORS TOP A.L. RACE—TRIBE-YANKS IN SECOND PLACE

Rain Washes Out Big League Games—Bagby Gets Second Victory

NEW YORK, May 10 (C.P.). — One of the most interesting angles in the American League scramble this season, regardless of its outcome, is likely to be the race between the teams owned by the man who tried to buy a pennant and failed and that owned by the "Old Fox" who doesn't spend much cash but gets some good ball players by trading.

Tom Yawkey's gold-plated Boston Red Sox appear all set to produce a real return on the club owner's big investment. But to get to the top they not only must dispose of the world champion New York Yankees and the highly-rated Cleveland Indians, but also Clark Griffith's inexpensive Washington Senators, current leaders of the pennant parade.

Senators Take Lead.

Washington took over the lead yesterday by trimming St. Louis Browns 7-1, while Boston gave a demonstration of strength by bowling over Cleveland 15-3 and knocking the Indians off the top. As the other American League clubs were rained out, Cleveland and the Yankees wound up in a second-place tie a half game behind the Senators with the Red Sockers another game back.

It was a "bargain counter" pitcher Emil (Dutch) Leonard who sent the Senators to the top. Picked up from Atlanta this season after one major league failure, the 30-year-old knuckle ball expert has won three of his five starts. He allowed only seven singles yesterday and drove in three tallies himself with a triple and single.

The Red Sox, who have been getting along well on the excellent pitching of the veteran Lefty Grove and John (Footsie) Marcum, really went to town for young Jim Bagby yesterday when the rookie faced his dad's old club for the first time. Young Jim pitched six-hit ball, although he passed seven, to gain his second victory. Behind him the Sox added 11 blows to a dozen walks off three Cleveland flingers.

Cards on a Comeback

The "comeback" of St. Louis Cardinals again featured the National League's program as rain eliminated the second Giants-Cubs clash. The Cards, who have won five and tied one of their last seven games and have climbed from seventh place to fifth, belted over Brooklyn Dodgers 9-7. Joe Medwick's big bat shifted the balance of a 30-hit game when he came up with a triple with two aboard and the score tied in the eighth. It was his fourth hit of the game.

The fourth-place Cincinnati Reds kept pace with the Cards by pounding out a 9-4 decision over the Phillies as Ray Davis' seven-hit hurling made up for the fact that his teammates left 14 men stranded on the sacks. Boston Bees, who had lost two straight extra-inning games, came back to win one in the 10th. They beat Pittsburgh's Pirates 7-5 when Debs Garms connected for a pinch single with two out and the bases full.

Admiral Objects

Not in his best racing pose, but proving he is full of life is War Admiral as he bucked and reared during an "interview" with the press at Belmont Park. The display of temperament occurred when an attempt was made to saddle him.

ROYALS HANG UP THIRD STRAIGHT WIN ON GIANTS

MONTREAL, May 10 (CP)—Montreal Royals, who have been kicking around in the International League's lower depths almost from the start of the season, are on the warpath and it's pretty hard on Jersey City Giants.

The Giants were a big factor in the International's only real battle—that for second place—until they reached Montreal. The Royals made it three straight yesterday in the league's only game when Gus Dugas beat the Jerseys in the ninth with a home run 5-4. The defeat dropped Travis Jackson's hirelings to the .500 mark with an even split in 20 games.

The Giants are fourth in the standing while the Royals are sixth and have their longest winning streak of the season, three straight, to talk about.

Although he allowed 12 hits, Ed Chapman scored his first victory of the year for the Royals. His teammates drove Rollie Stiles from the mound with a three run attack in the first. Mike Radon, who relieved him, was charged with the defeat.

Tom Winsett, the Jerseys' new outfielder, struck the most telling blow in their cause, a triple, and drove in two runs.

Newark's game at Toronto and Syracuse's at Rochester were postponed because of rain. The game scheduled between Baltimore and Buffalo was played as part of Sunday's doubleheader at Buffalo.

Dave Castilloux Wins Canuck Title

MONTREAL, May 10 (CP)—Dave Castilloux, hardy young French-Canadian fighter, today wore the Canadian featherweight boxing crown, wrested from Jackie Callura of Hamilton, Ont., by unanimous decision of the judges after 10 rounds of wearing battle.

Callura was shorn of the championship he won from Montreal's Frankie Martin at Toronto last year after carrying the fight to Castilloux for all but two rounds last night.

Outweighed by 125¼ pounds to 122½, Callura showed superior speed, but Castilloux gave him few opportunities to land a clean punch.

What's The Matter With Diz? – Deltoid Damaged

You've been seeing plenty of The Great Man, Jerome Herman Dean, in the public prints of late but here's something a little different . . . sort of Dizzy from a medical viewpoint. Diz is shown as he appears when "foggin' one through" and the diagram shows the muscle that takes the strain, the deltoid, as it is called in the medical profession. This is the part of the Dean anatomy that is causing such a ruckus at the moment. After being sold to the Cubs by Rickey & Co. for $185,000 and three players, Diz is now out of the game with the deltoid trouble mentioned.

Schmeling Highly Confident He Will Defeat Joe Louis

Depends On Right To Jaw To Settle Issue On Night Of June 22

NEW YORK, May 10 — (AP). — There isn't a doubt in Max Schmeling's mind that he will be able to swat champion Joe Louis on the jaw with his right hand on the night of June 22, no matter how much the young negro has learned in the two years since Max last clipped him.

"Yah, I know what some people think," said Max, when he arrived here from Germany yesterday. "They say Joe will be careful this time and do nothing but jab me with his left and not let me hit him with a right.

"That's foolish, I think. I hit him the other time when he tried to jab, and I knocked him out. No, no, he was not always hooking with his left when I hit him. Sometimes it was a jab, too."

But what, Max was asked, would happen if Louis should prove supercautious and try to lay back and preserve his championship behind a long, darting left? Might not the eagerly awaited battle devolve into something very boring?

"No, that will not happen, believe me," said the Schlager. "I want to win the championship, so I will open him up. For 15 rounds he cannot keep away from me. He must fight some time, and when he does I will hit him with this." He inspected his right fist briefly.

Max, going on 33, is a remarkable physical specimen. He looks better than he did when he fought Harry Thomas here the past winter.

LOUIS LEAVES FOR CAMP.

STEVENSVILLE, Mich., May 10 (A.P.). — This village, on the shores of Lake Michigan, has seen the last of Joe Louis its most famous visitor, until after his battle with Max Schmeling in defence of the world heavyweight championship in New York on June 22. To-day was moving day for the negro champion.

In a white framed house, third from the last on the highway leading out of town, Louis packed his grip sacks to leave for Lafayetteville, N.Y., up in the Catskill Mountains, to begin his six-week training siege for that encore with the German challenger.

Louis was happy over the opportunity of returning to action.

Getting even with Schmeling is the paramount thought in Louis' mind.

"Smellin' is in for a good slammin' himself, if you are asking me," Louis said. "He'll meet a different Joe Louis when he turns around to face me this time I'm hitting harder. I think I am punching faster, and I aim to beat him to the punch."

A man could be fined for entering a church with spurs on, according to old English law.

Sports Spice

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, May 10 — (AP) — Max Schmeling looks great . . . Joe McCarthy doesn't appear on the ball field an average of a dozen times a year, yet always directs the Yankees from the bench clad in full uniform . . . That auto St. Louis fans gave Leo Durocher was the third such gift Leo has received from his fans . . . The first Eddie Neil golf tournament, in memory of the late sports writer, will be played Sunday at Barney Ross' Ferndale training camp . . . Only sports writers can enter.

Only four of the 33 race pickers we followed Saturday picked Lawrin in the first three; only one put him out in front . . . Prof. Paul Mickelson picked Lawrin . . . Has the great Gehringer (and he was great, too) finally begun to slip? . . . He admits he's a step slower than he was 10 years ago . . . Max Schmeling has made 19 trips across the Atlantic (two via the Hindenburg) since he first began to talk Joe Louis . . . Larry MacPhail is quoted in a western paper as saying this year's Dodgers will finish fourth.

Joe DiMaggio told a reporter he could "chop" enough base hits to win the American League championship, but the fans like home runs and "I like 'em, too. When you see that fat one coming you swing with all you've got," he said.

New York scribes with the Giants in Chicago say a strangely quiet and well-behaved Dizzy Dean is greeting visitors to the Cub bench these days . . . His victory over Glen Lee puts Ceferino Garcia right back in the fistic spotlight now. Hard to see how Barney Ross can dodge him if Barney beats Henry Armstrong.

JOE KRAKAUSKAS GETS HIS RELEASE

WASHINGTON, May 10 (AP) — Washington Senators released Joe Krakauskas, southpaw pitcher on option Monday to Trenton of the Eastern League, where he pitched last year.

Krakauskas objected to the transfer but probaby would report, Owner Clark Griffith said.

"He'll be a good pitcher one of these days," said Griffith, "but he isn't ready yet. He'll be back before the season is ended, I'm positive."

The lefthander came to the Nats last fall and won four games, losing one. This spring he lacked control and made only two appearances in relief roles. But the big Montreal-born Lithuanian looked like one of the best of the rookie crop even at that.

He played amateur baseball at Hamilton and Brantford, Ont.

10 MILLION ARMS SENT CHINESE, JAPS

WASHINGTON, May 10 (AP) — United States shipments of war materials to China and Japan exceeded $10,000,000 in the five months ended April 30, state department records showed today. The rate was far in excess of last year.

During the five months shipments to China totalled $5,296,442 and to Japan $4,756,483. In the last fiscal year shipments to China were $8,336,210 and to Japan $1,773,942.

Airplanes and airplane motors were in greatest demand. A large item of Chinese purchases also embraced grenades, bombs and ammunition. Japan's purchases were almost entirely air equipment.

Most of the shipments destined for China were made to the British settlement of Hong Kong, whence they penetrated into China proper.

Spanish Member Let In.

Alvarez del Vayo, although not on the Council, was given a seat at to-day's public session because Lord Halifax's outline of the Anglo-Italian agreement vitally concerned Spain. For the same reason Ethiopia's two representatives were among the spectators. One of them will sit with the Council when the question of recognizing the demise of the old regime come up for official action.

At yesterday's closed session, Great Britain and France won assurance they would be freed of the League obligation not to recognize Italys conquest of Ethiopia.

Delegates from Russia, China, New Zealand, and Bolivia refused to back the proposal, but other members agreed. That meant that a series of declarations before the Council—probably Thursday—will give League members freedom to recognize Italy's conquest without taking a vote.

operations of the act in any province where it seemed to be doing more harm than good. Ontario members had indicated such was the situation in Ontario.

Members from the prairies and British Columbia were in favor of the measure and urged the minister to give it a great deal of consideration before ending its operations there.

Relief Act Passes

Final passage of the relief measure, which occupied nearly two weeks of debate before it passed committee of the whole last week, brought fresh charges of political corruption from Opposition Leader Bennett and a promise he would bring more later.

The bill authorizes the government to make expenditures on direct relief and projects for the provision of work. But details of expenditures and works will not be known until supplementary estimates are tabled.

A. A. Heaps (C.C.F., Winnipeg North) accused the government of inaction on the problem of unemployment. Labor Minister Rogers declared Canada had every right to feel confidence rather than despair with respect to unemployment. With respect to corruption he said he would answer Mr. Bennett's charges when they were presented in more detail.

Mr. Bennett renewed charges made earlier in the relief debate that politics had influenced the distribution of work on projects financed for relief purposes by the Dominion and Provinces in co-operation.

He charged that in many places including Kingston, the district represented by the minister, men were refused work on projects paid for by public monies, unless they subscribed to the tenets of the Liberal party. He promised to bring these matters forward in greater detail later in the session.

Wrong Figures Used

Grote Stirling, former Conservative minister of national defence, criticised government references to relief camps operated under the last government for single, homeles men and declared wrong figures had been given as to cost of their administration while no reference was ever made by Liberal speakers to the good they had accomplished.

Unemployment existed throughout the world, Mr. Rogers said in reply to his critics and in this respect Canada had every reason for confidence rather than despair. There had been a distinct improvement everywhere except in the Prairie provinces where drought prevented any improvement.

The week-old wrangle over farm implements ended with adoption of the report table more than a year ago by the special committee which recommended government action to reduce the cost to farmers or assistance in the establishment of co-operative selling and distribution agencies.

Mr. Bennett said there were few matters in which he had a more sustained interest than farm implements since he went to the west 40 years ago. He was puzzled that "we should be constantly apologizing to this House for the manufacturer."

In 1935 the total value in all provinces of agricultural capital, including livestock ,implements, machinery, land and buildings, was estimated at $4,628,375,000. Manufacturing capital was estimated at $4,698,991,000 with nearly 25,000 establishments employing 582,000 persons.

Proud of the Industry

"Why then should we be so apologetic when we speak of the manufacturing industry of Canada," he asked. 'For my own part I am proud of it and I think most Canadians are."

To insure efficient manufacturing industries every country in the world had, after experiments, "recourse to one device to accomplish that end—the tariff." If it was desirable to have a manufacturing industry in Canada that was the means whereby it could be carried on.

I know there are acute differences of opinion as to the extent to which a tariff should be imposed—very acute differences. But I cannot think there are many members of the house who are realists who will not admit that the tariff is no longer a question of discretion on the part of governments; it is a necessity."

J. H. Blackmore, Social Credit leader, advocated adoption of the report, and pleaded for equal protection for farmers if industry were to be protected and steps to guarantee to the farmer a fair price for his produce.

Hon. W. R. Motherwell (Lib., Melville) observed that two reductions in the duty on implements had coincided with increases in the cost to consumers.

709,000 Ask Lighter Load.

There were 700,000 farmers in Canada desirous of having their burdens lightened and "on the other hand the implement manufacturers in Canada can be numbered, perhaps on the fingers of one hand, and their desire lies the other way. Which of these shall be served?"

W. A. Tucker (Lib., Rosthern) declared, "If we are going to lay a permanent foundation for unity in this Dominion we must make things better for that million and a half who have to make their livings on the farms. After we have done that we can concern ourselves with the others not so badly off."

The House assembled under the shadow of death and the first hour was largely occupied in expressions of tribute to F. C. Betts, Conservative member for London, who was drowned Tuesday while on a solitary fishing expedition.

List Given Paper.

Both statements were given to the press in the presence of both Mr. Wood and Mr. Ireland in an atmosphere that began calmly, but took on a less friendly complexion when Mr. Wood said that he had given The Globe and Mail a list of members of the committee, but was not prepared "at this time" to give it to the Conservative Association or other newspapers.

"I've discussed this with Mr. Ireland, and have pointed out to him that in view of the article in The Telegram it would merely lay these people open to being pilloried," declared Mr. Wood.

"Apparently Mr. Ireland had no authority to make a change in the date of the meeting," said Mr. Wood, beginning his statement to the press. "And to that extent our conference has been abortive of results."

Answer Already Received.

He went on to say that he had asked Mr. Ireland "what he thought Ontario Conservatism would lose if this general meeting was held on or before June 15," but Mr. Ireland interjected that his answer to that question had been given in the statement he had already handed to the press, and that any other remarks he had made to Mr. Wood had been made in confidence.

"Well, I feel I have a duty at the moment to respect that," said Mr. Wood. "We were not able to get very far in arriving at a decision because Mr. Ireland was adamant in his decision that the meeting would not be held until after the Ottawa July convention.

"Asked for his reasons, he replied it was the Ottawa interests that requested that the Ontario meeting as scheduled for May 28 be not held. Seeing that we would not get any further, I then recited to Mr. Ireland, as a matter of historic interest, what happened in the British House of Commons at the time of the Lloyd George Budget when the Leader of the Opposition, Balfour, had handed to him by the Premier of the day a simple, concise statement that read as follows: "It is only fair that I should tell you I have His Majesty's consent to appoint a sufficient number of peers for my Government to pass the Budget.'

48 Hours Allowed

"I have no half-sheet of notepaper to present to Mr. Ireland," continued Mr. Wood. "But I have this: I am instructed by my committee to give the Ontario executive, through Mr. Ireland, a stay of forty-eight hours in which they may have an opportunity to accede to our request, following which we shall commence an intensive campaign throughout the province to force the issue.

"We have the promise and already the active support of influential press, and may I say, what is also important, we have funds placed at our disposal to carry out any campaign that we contemplate.

"This committee feels that the time for temporizing is over. Action is the keynote of our executive, and the policy of laissez-faire and Ottawa dictation at the expense of our own beloved province and Conservatism in it must cease.

"We are determined, as an active, virile body, to see that the modern, up-to-date expression of Conservative thought has adequate expression and that, in fairness to Ontario Conservatism, the principles which we uphold to the very fullest must and shall have proper representation, and this representation shall speak for the true feelings of Ontario Conservatism at the July convention.

Intensive Campaign Promised

"To that end, therefore, we feel that unless the Ontario Conservative Association changes this viewpoint and promises this meeting to be held on or before June 15, this intensive campaign will start forty-eight hours from now and will reverberate through all the back concessions from one end of this province to the other.

"We are determined that the voice that shall speak at Ottawa shall be the true voice and not the voice of a body that was elected two years ago and no longer represents the general body of Conservatism throughout the province.

"I shall await the intimation from Mr. Ireland, who very courteously invited me here today to this conference, for the result of the forty-eight hours' stay, and I am hoping that in the interest of unity and the party as a whole wiser counsel will prevail and that the meeting will be held not later than June 17.

An Important Point

"I must lay special stress on the appointing of the 82 delegates at large. The Committee for Conservative Action has also insisted and it is a matter of prime importance that these 82 delegates must be selected by the meeting, which, we claim, must be held and not elected by the present body.

"Mr. Ireland has intimated that evening of the meeting of May 28 was held, the delegates at large would have been appointed and sent to Ottawa on May 24, regardless of the fact that the committee that would have elected them would have been on its deathbed, to which point I strongly object."

Mr. Wood firmly refused to reveal names of the committee to either Mr. Ireland or reporters, calming that to do so would "leave them open to being pilloried."

"You saw what happened already," he said. "I'm not in this for anything for myself, yet all kinds of accusations are made."

"Is the name of George McCullagh on that list?" he was asked by an evening paper reporter.

"No, it is not!" said Mr. Wood.

"How about this money?" he was urged. "You say you have strong financial support. It must come from somewhere?"

"It is not only Conservative money but put up in the interests of good Government," replied Mr. Wood.

"Any from Mr. Wright?" asked a reporter.

"No, I have never spoken to Mr. McCullagh or Mr. Wright in my life," declared Mr. Wood.

"Someone must be in your good graces," said Mr. Ireland, chuckling.

UNUSUAL LIQUOR CHARGE IS HEARD IN POLICE COURT

Thomas Hughes of North Monaghan was charged before Magistrate Gee in Police Court this morning with having been a party to an offence under the Liquor Control Act committed by Mrs. Nellie Zimmerman, namely illegal possession of liquor, for which Mrs. Zimmerman was fined $100 recently.

Hughes, who was defended by W. J. A. Fair, pleaded not guilty. Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., prosecuted.

The only witness for the Crown was Provincial Constable David Silvester, who said that Mrs. Zimmerman acted as housekeeper for Thomas Hughbes in North Monaghan Township. Constable Silvester told of a raid made on the place by Provincial Police on April 5, the party consisting of Sergt. Harry Thompson of Belleville, Officers Bryant and Menie and himself in which were discovered three cases of Brading's ale, a sealed bottle of what he said was whisky, and a small bottle partly full of what the officer described as gin. Mrs. Zimmerman had afterward been convicted of illegal possession of the liquor. Hughes, the witness said, had been served with a notice from the Liquor Control Board prohibiting him from having liquor.

Claimed No Knowledge.

To Mr. Fair, Constable Silvester said that Hughes had told him when the raid was made that he had no knowledge of the liquor having been there. He had heard, he said, that the wrecking business at the place where Hughes lived was now the property of Herbert Withers.

Mrs. Zimmerman, called as a defence witness, said that she took care of Hughes' children and boarded him and that so far as she knew Herbert Withers owned the place. She said Hughes paid her six dollars a week for himself and $3 for each of the two children. As to the bottles put in as exhibits, she said they had been her property and she had been convicted on a charge of illegal possession.

Crown Attorney McElderry submitted the witness to a stiff cross-examination, particularly as to the source of the liquor figuring in the case. She said at first that she had obtained the three cases of ale from the brewery warehouse, but could not remember when and finally told the Crown Attorney that she would not say where she got it.

Witness refused to answer the question.

The bottle of whisky had been a gift to her from a friend, she said and the gin had been given to her when she was suffering from toothache.

Mr. Fair objected to the line the cross-examination was taking, declaring the Crown was on a fishing trip to get information that might enable it to proceed against some of the brewery agents or something of that nature.

"It might not be a bad idea to do some cleanining up in that direction," said Magistrate Gee.

Court adjourned for luncheon at 12.30 o'clock.

ISAAC N. BELL IS 87 TODAY

One of the oldest residents of this city, Isaac Newton Bell, celebrates his 87th birthday today, May 10.

Mr. Bell is the son of John Bell and Sarah Morrow, the former an immigrant from County Fermannah in Ireland. Isaac Bell was born in 1851 on the farm on the 4th Concession of Smith, now owned by Fred Brown. He was educated in the school on the site now occupied by Fairview church. He lived on the home farm to the age of 21 at which time he went to the Township of Verulam to carve a homestead for himself from the virgin bush.

In 1873, he married Eliza Jane Braden also of Smith. In spite of the hardships of pioneer life, at a time when the only means of transportation was by ox-cart or on foot through the bush, Mr. and Mrs. Bell, by hard work and steady co-operation, completely cleared a fine farm of 200 acres where they lived for 25 years.

In 1898, they moved to South Dummer where they resided for a period of six years after which they returned to Smith township settling on the 5th Concession of Smith. In 1924, they retired from farming and moved to Peterborough.

Mr. Bell came from a family in which one son, from each of seven succeeding generations, has entered the Methodist ministry. He has always taken a very active interest in the church life of his community. In the pioneer community in Verulam where leaders were badly needed, he was superintendent of the Sunday school and teacher of the Bible Class for 20 years. When the Robinson Methodist Church was built, the congregation could not afford an organ, so Mr. Bell, although he had little musical education, raised the tunes for the hymns. He has been a member of George St. United Church for the past 14 years and seldom misses either the Sunday morning service or Sunday school.

Mr. Bell raised a family of four daughter, Mrs. Ernest Rosborough daughters, Mrs. Ernest Rosborough and Mrs. Fred Bell of Smith, Mrs. Whitfield Northey of Peterborough and Mrs. Fred Webdale of Lakefield and three sons, Wilbert Bell of Peterborough, and Norman and Braden, deceased.

Although Mr. Bell retired from farming in 1924, he did not give up active work and at the age of 87, still rises at 5:30 in the morning to go about his duties as caretaker of three residences in the city. He still enjoys life to the full and is in perfect health. He has subscribed to the Examiner for 20 years and still enjoys reading it every evening.

Although he sadly misses his wife, who died in October, 1934, his cheery disposition has remained with him and his ready smile and gentle humor endear him to all who know him.

94 Years Old

One of Peterborough's oldest citizens, Mrs. Elizabeth Vinette, is celebrating her 94th birthday today (Tuesday). Born in Quebec, she has lived here since she was eight years old, has 16 children, 7 of them living, 35 grand children, and 17 great grand children.

Fourth Generation Observes 94 Birthday Of Grandparent

Mrs. Elizabeth Vinette, 10 Lisburn Street, Observes Anniversary Today

"Vous vous portez bien, chere vieille!"

In such fashion did a score and more sons and grandsons, daughters and granddaughters, great grandsons and great granddaughters, greet Mrs. Elizabeth Vinette, 10 Lisburn street, today (Tuesday) as she celebrated her 94th birthday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Amy Rishea, 146 Albertus street.

Born in the province of Quebec of French-Canadian parents, Mrs. Vinette moved to Peterborough when she was only 8 years old. Despite continued residence in this city she still clings to her native tongue, converses fluently and rapidly with her children in French.

Sixteen children were born to Mrs. Vinette and her husband, the late Edward Vinette. Seven of them are still living, and there are now 35 grandchildren and 17 great grandchildren. The sons and daughters are Mrs. Needham Saunders of Thornton, Rhode Island, Mrs. Steve Miner of Thornton, Rhode Island, Mrs. Harold Haunsell, Troy, New Hampshire, Baptise of Toronto, Joseph and Ned of Peterborough, and Mrs. Amy Rishea of Peterborough.

In good health, Mrs. Vinette says she enjoys life to its fullest degree. She knits regularly and plays a game of cards every night with her family, who claim she has a quick eye. Today the family is joining in celebration and a huge birthday cake has been prepared. Mrs. Vinette will play hostess to her family and friends.

WOMAN IS JAILED FOR ILLEGAL SALE

Changing her plea to guilty, Mrs. Ada Blackwood, North Monaghan township, was sentenced to two months in jail by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning on a charge of illegally keeping liquor for sale.

There had been several adjournments in this case at the request of Mrs. Blackwood who had previously entered a plea of "not guilty" and when the case was called this morning the court was informed that the accused had been disappointed at the last moment in the matter of counsel and another adjournment was asked for.

Magistrate Langley remarked that there were plenty of lawyers in town and told the accused he would give her 10 or 15 minutes to secure counsel.

She had not returned in half an hour and a bench warrant was issued for her arrest but before it could be acted upon Mrs. Blackwood arrived back in court and told the Magistrate that she had decided to plead guilty. She had been unable to obtain a lawyer, the court was informed.

Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry said that he would be satisfied with the minimum sentence and Magistrate Langley without comment sentenced Mrs. Blackwood to two months imprisonment.

ANOTHER ADJOURNMENT.

There was another echo from the recent battle of Sherbrooke Street this morning in Police Court when Mrs. Elizabeth Moher charged with assaulting Mrs. Vandenburg, a neighbor, told Magistrate Langley that she had been unable to get another house and therefore had not been able to follow the court's suggestion that she should move out of the neighborhood. The case was adjourned for another week.

HASTINGS ROAD WORK

Road work in Hastings county this year will be confined to maintenance at a cost of $75,000. Estimated expenditure was originally $92,000 but the Department of Highways ordered a reduction of seventeen per cent. As a result of that compulsory revision of plans the roads and bridges committee will not undertake any new construction.

CHEAPER HOUSING

A meeting has been called for Wednesday night under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce, to be held in the council chamber at which R. W. Card of the department of finance, Ottawa, will discuss the question of cheaper housing as it is made possible by the lower brackets of the Dominion Housing Act. Mr. Card has much information on this question and individuals and organizations are invited to this very important meeting which will be held at 8 o'clock.

CASE DISMISSED.

When the case of Wilbert Reid, charged with non-support of his child was called in Police Court this morning, Crown Attorney McElderry informed Magistrate Langley that Mrs. Reid's mother, whose evidence was considered necessary, did not want to testify, and under the circumstances he was willing to consent to the case being dismissed. The circumstances would continue, he felt sure, and another charge could be laid later, if considered desirable.

BEST HOG SHIPMENT

The name of D. Rutherford of Bailleboro was listed among the eleven farmers whose hogs were the best shipped in Ontario during the week ending May 5. Of the nine hogs he shipped, seven were listed under "A" category, and one under B 1. Other winners were from widely separated points in the province.

There were 26,334 hogs sold on the dressed basis in Canada during the week, distributed as follows: Alberta 5,675; Saskatchewan, 451; Manitoba 2,892; Ontario, 12,067; Quebec, 3,945; Maritimes, 1,304.

NATURALISTS ACTIVE

Plans for a regional field day on Saturday, June 25, are being considered by the local committee of the Ontario Federation of Naturalists. The date will be later than last year, but circumstances have brought about an unavoidable postponement. F. J. A. Morris, C. A. Henderson, Fred Marshall and Harry Graham have already visited several well wooded sections of the district for the purpose of choosing a suitable area for the study of flowers and wild life, and those who are interested in this phase of conservation are advised of the plans that are not being made for the annual outing.

DEATH OVERTAKES FREEMAN HART IN HIS 101ST YEAR

HAVELOCK, May 10—Peterborough county's centenarian, Freeman Hart of Round Lake, Belmont township, who is believed to be the oldest Orangeman in the province, died at 11 o'clock this morning from an illness during the last two months that was mainly due to the debilities of old age and the burden of a century of living.

Mr. Hart celebrated his one hundredth birthday last December when he received the congratulations and good wishes of a host of friends. His days extended into the fifth month beyond the century mark.

Mr. Hart was born at Spring Valley, Brighton township, of Irish and Dutch descent. As a young man he spent five years helping his father who was a carriage-maker, and then answered the call of the north woods where he spent more than half a century in the lumbering industry in Belmont. In his recollections of that period he used to tell of many great drives of logs that were floated down the North River to his saw mill on Round Lake.

His friends believed Mr. Hart to be the oldest Orangeman in Ontario. He joined the Castleton L.O.L. No. 554 when he was 18 years old and never allowed his active membership in the Order to lapse.

Mr. Hart was married more than 75 years ago. His wife, Rebekah Masters of Spring Valley, predeceased him 19 years ago. His immediate family surviving him are Mrs. Ida Copperthwaite of Campbellford, Mrs. A. J. Hubble of Prince George, B.C., John Hart of Smith's Falls, Albert of Lasswade and Ross of Havelock. He also had 46 grandchildren and 49 great-grandchildren. He was a Conservative all his life and a member of the Methodist Church, and later of the United Church of Canada.

Freeman Hart was under arms during the Riel rebellion, and he used to say that he was a passenger on the first train in Upper Canada, the Grand Trunk Railway, travelling from Colborne to Cobourg. He had a vivid memory of the early days of East Peterborough when the present site of Havelock was only a cedar swamp and the Canadian Pacific Railway had not been projected. Old Havelock on the road to Marmora was the little settlement which later was to lose its identity in the growth of the railway village some 50 years ago.

The funeral will be held on Thursday afternoon from the family home at Round Lake to the United Church here, and after the service interment will be at Maple Grove cemetery on the Trent Bridge road.

SUMMER SCHOOL TO BE CONTINUED EXECUTIVE DECIDES

Nearly all large towns and cities in the province were represented here on Sunday when the Provincial Executive of the Co-operative Commonwealth Youth Movement held their monthly meeting at the local C.C.Y.M. Club-rooms.

Among discussions of Provincial significance, plans were drafted for the continuation of the summer school which proved such a success last year, and study courses outlined suitable for the requirements of the increased number of young people who have expressed their determination to take advantage of it.

Peterborough unit was congratulated by the executive in having won the organizational drive recently terminated and which success will send the complete unit away for studies in political economy and recreation at the summer school some time in July. It was not disclosed yet where the school will be this year, although it might be at Georgetown, where it was held last summer.

The Provincial president, William Grant, of Oshawa, expressed delight at the ever increasing membership of the C.C.Y.M. throughout the Dominion, which showed their need of the C.C.Y.M. and its need of them, he said. It was highly indicative of the fact that they were determined to discover the reasons for such widespread economic disorder in a country of such huge natural resources as Canada, he claimed.

The meeting was adjourned at 4.30 p.m. and several cars were required to accommodate the visiting executive and local members on a sight-seeing tour. The social committee had dinner prepared at Lock 22 and a camp fire added the last touch to Sunday's perfection. Ball games got under way. Later in the evening William Grant gave a short lecture, and sing-songs followed.

City Council Is Now Faced With Immediate Action In Solving Parking Problem

Peterborough's Main Streets At Times Are Riot Of Broken Traffic Laws

Peterborough's city fathers are faced with the absolute necessity of providing much enlarged parking grounds in the immediate future, so serious has become the problem that faces motorists who want to shop in the downtown section of the city.

On at least three days each week motorists crawl along George, Hunter, Simcoe, and Charlotte streets, straining their eyes for a little empty place into which they could crowd a car. A few lucky ones find some place, perhaps blocks from their destination, and the others are forced to leave their cars far from downtown, or else to violate traffic laws.

Cars double-parked, angle parked, parked beside hydrants, parked in places plainly marked "No parking by police order", jammed tight between other cars, parked facing the wrong way on streets, seem to be the rule in this city rather than the exception. And yet no motorist likes to leave his car in such a position because he takes the chance of a stiff fine.

On Saturdays city streets are a riot of broken traffic laws. It took the Examiner's photographer only 20 minutes on Saturday to get pictures of cars parked in violation of nearly every traffic law in existence.

Beside Every Hydrant

Cars were parked beside every fire hydrant from George street to Brock street at 11 a.m. Buses were delayed by motorists who had left their cars in spaces plainly marked "Bus stop, no parking." And every legitimate parking space was crowded to capacity. The market square, where ordinarily hundreds of shoppers leave their cars, was occupied by the farmers' market. Motorists were driving around in circles, in a hopeless search for a place to leave their autos. Some of them eventually halted their cars in front of stores, double parked, and remained at the wheels while their wives shopped and other motorists set up an angry clatter when they could not get past.

Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., a member of the Police Commission, had difficulty in getting his car away from the curb in front of the police station, so congested was parking. Across the street a city alderman had left his car parked flush against a fire hydrant.

With motorists tearing their hair in rage and Peterborough's streets becoming the worst for traffic hazards in the province, the city council is still debating what steps should be taken, and has still come to no conclusion after months and months of debate. Like Mr. Micawber, they are waiting for something to turn up.

His bicycle was thrown in front of the car and he was struck on the head by the running board of the car. Besides head abrasions, he received a cut hand and leg abrasions, shock and fright.

The driver of the car was driving at a moderate rate of speed or accident might have been serious.

MERCHANTS FAVOR HALF HOLIDAY PLAN

Approval of the half holiday on Wednesday afternoon during the months of June, July and August was expressed by the local Merchants' Association at a meeting held Monday night in the Chamber of Commerce with President James Geraghty in the chair.

The meeting discussed the suggestion that Victoria Day should be celebrated this year on Monday, May 23, instead of on the following day and the feeling of the gathering was in favor of the proposed change.

It was decided to have Secretary Dorris write the city council to that effect. At the same time it was decided that should the holiday be observed on Tuesday, May 24, that the stores should not keep open on the night before.

A proposal to co-operate with the Fish and Game Association and the Merchants' Bowling League in staging a celebration on a Wednesday afternoon or on a public holiday during the summer received the approval of the meeting.

If through some twist, jar or strain a vertebrae at a certain part of the spine becomes slightly deranged, causing constriction of the nerves supplying the kidney, these important organs cannot work properly and it is practically impossible for them to function normally again until that nerve constriction has been reduced.

CHAPTER 32

It seemed to Barbara, sitting in a wing chair and hiding a gun under her, that the half hour of the tea time never would end. There was a copper tea pot, round and fat, on the table in front of her, and she poured the fragrant brew into the yellow tea cups, asked people if they wanted one lump or two, cream or lemon, and watched a motley array of small sandwiches being eaten.

Natalie, who had been pouring, had relegated the task to Barbara when she had been summoned to the telephone.

Barbara was afraid to move, lest that gun should be noticed. Or suppose she should sit on the trigger—the thought was so frightening that she dropped one of the exquisite yellow tea cups and the fragments fell to the floor. Garry stooped to retrieve them. "Let me have the gun," he said in a low voice. "Make up some excuse and meet me in my room right away. It's on the balcony. Third door to the left, down the hall."

"Yes," she whispered. "I'll come."

To cover the awkwardness of the broken cup, Ray was talking about his journey out. Oh, why did people deal with trivialities when life and death played tag before the fireplace? Who cared that Ray had picked up a man on the road and given him a lift to a place half a mile below the Lodge? Why tell about it? Then she was sorry. Ray was telling the foolish incident only to screen her embarrassment. Therefore, she smiled at him.

Garry excused himself. Barbara pleaded a scalded finger as a reason for going to her room. She unknotted the green kerchief and pretended to draw it around her hand. In reality she was covering the gun. She walked steadily up the stairs but she wanted to run. Would anyone notice that she did not go to her own room? She looked over the railing. Only Ray was looking up at her. He smiled and waved his hand. He didn't matter because he didn't know where she was located, anyway.

"Barbara, you're all right?" he asked keen eyes studying her face.

"Of course." She handed him the gun. "I'm so afraid of it."

"We'll take out the cartridges, then it's harmless. Tell me the story that Minton was trying to inflict on Bobbie."

She started the tale but Garry interrupted her. He had broken the gun to empty it. Now he held it up. "Barbara, it's empty!"

"Oh-h-h!" Then maybe it had been a game, though a rather terrifying one. Maybe she has stirred up a lot of trouble for everyone without just provocation. Garry read the terror in her eyes. The terror gave way to relief. Garry's life wasn't in danger! That was all that mattered. She swayed a little.

Garry sprang to catch her. The arms that she knew so well went around her. He was helping her to a chair. He was getting her some ice water. She mustn't give was to a lot of maudlin sentiment. Garry loved Wenda and when a man loved a woman she could cut his heart in shreds and he'd find a potion for healing if only she would smile at him again. She steeled her heart against this sympathy that she might misinterpret.

She even smiled wanly, and began to reknot the green kerchief at her neck.

"You still wear it, Barbara?" he asked, and she caught the pleasure in his tones.

"It's so beautiful, Garry. I'm going down to apologize to Jimmy Minton. I think he's a viper but he was just playing a game with Bobbie, and I did suspect him wrongly. I'd better stop angering him or he will do something. Garry, I was so frightened for fear he was plotting some evil."

"What made you think he was?" Garry asked. "Or that he intended me as Bobbie's target'?"

She decided to be evasive no longer. She told of the words she had overheard when Jimmy Minton had asked Wenda to meet him after relaying a message to Garry, and of the storm she had witnessed unintentionally when Barbara had telephoned to the director of Garry's play.

"Jimmy Minton has made threats against you. What would be more natural than he should do something to anger you and then, when you came to him, have you killed?" She picked up the gun. "I'll go down now."

Garry was watching her intently. "You'll do no such thing! I'd bet my job that this gun was loaded when you first saw it. The man's smart. He has removed the cartridges himself in order to avert suspicion and have you apologizing."

"But then he isn't through with you! He'll find some other way!'

Through the mirrored door she could see Garry, tall and lean and broad-shouldered, and her own gray-gowned self, the reddish head coming scarcely to Garry's tweed shoulder. Her handkerchief was a spot of color that heightened her hair. She would never wear that square of lovely chiffon again. It brought memories with it, and memories were more frightening than any gun.

Her eyes came back to rest on the man's lean face. She saw its lines of disappointment and weariness. Wenda was a bitter dose to take; rather, the loss of Wenda.

"Garry, I'm sorry about Wenda leaving your play," she said with a swift rush of disappointment. She wanted to put her arms around Garry and promise him anything he wanted—the moon, the stars, even the girl with the glittering bangs above the scornful brown eyes. "She will be sorry tomorrow she left your play, and she didn't mean to break her engagement. I don't know what happened but she loves you—she'll come back!"

"You don't know about Wenda's new play, do you?" Garry asked slowly. "Of course not. How could you? Mintons backing her and starring her."

"Oh, I'm sorry!" When success competed with love, even Garry knew which way Wenda's path would lead.

"Don't be! I should have known—you build up an ideal and love it and you can't stop. But at least you can have sense enough to stay out when you're ordered."

"You love her terribly, don't you Garry?' The answer would hurt, would be the final nail in a box where something she treasured was buried, but she had to have his words.

"Love her and hate her, too," the answer came.

Idiot! Barbara called herself the word. This was the answer she expected. Why should she be so surprised and grieved? Couldn't you ever be hurt so deeply that sorrow ended and blows had nowhere to fall? She crossed to the window. Garry mustnt see any tears in her eyes.

Someone was coming' slowly along the side of the house, staying in the shadows. She gazed, fascinated. Then she shrugged her shoulders. Her imagination was functioning too vividly tonight. It would be better if she returned to the scene below and forgot the melodrama that she had instigated.

Garry would want to be alone, anyway. Stupid of her not to realize that. There were time when you didnt want an outsider around. She was an outsider—That was, queer. Once upon a time, such a little while ago, she and Garry had lived in a magic world of their own, that rose shining and straight and beautiful, in the middle of the skyscrapers and the taxicabs and the old houses of the city.

The man was coming nearer. Or maybe it wasn't a man. She couldn't see very well, because darkness had come and only the light shining from the windows brightened the snow.

Garry came to the window and looked down, too.

"What is it, Barbara?"

"I though I saw someone. It's gone now."

"Barbara, I think you are the finest person in the world."

Her heart cried out. What did it matter to have the man you loved think you were fine? Oh, better to have him think you were unfaithful, willful, unkind but love you!

"Thanks, Garry. The stranger has disappeared."

"Maybe the grocery boy or one of the maids. You're staying through tomorro. I take it?'

She nodded.

'I'm driving back tonight. I thought you might like to come along."

Then he was lonely. He needed her tonight. Needed—not loved. There was a ladder that stretched from the bottom of the deepest sea to the top of the lowest star which one must climb to span the distance between those words—need and love.

"I promised to drive back with Ray," she answered steadily. (I want to go with you but you mustn't ever know it, Garry! For I can't be second best and you love Wenda!)

"I see." His eyes studied her face, hunting for something. Maybe he thought she loved Ray. She hoped so. Oh no, she didn't!

She did not need to answer. A shot, swift and loud and vibrant, went tearing through the house.

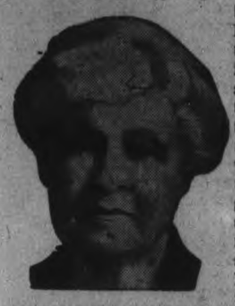
DOROTHY DIX

If You Are a Young Bride, Help Build Your Own Nest—In It You Will Be Far Happier and More Certain of Successful Marriage Than You Would Living With Your Own Family or With In-Laws

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I got married about a week ago and have nothing but trouble since. My husband and I get along perfectly together, but my family reproach me bitterly because I want my own home and refuse to live with them. They say I am not treating them right by leaving them, and some day I will be sorry for the way I have done. When I go to see them they spend the time telling me how lonely they are without me, how ungrateful I am to have gone away, and when I get ready to leave they start to cry, and it makes me feel terrible. But I want my own home, and I know that my father and husband would never get along together. Is there any way I can make them see my point of view? We have always been such good pals that I can't bear to hurt them. Won't you please help me?

A LITTLE BRIDE.



Answer:

All that I can recommend is for you to have your family's heads examined for the sillies, for they certainly must be singularly lacking in common sense to be making a tragedy out of something that should be a matter of rejoicing. They are bound to know that the greatest good fortune that can befall a girl is to marry the man she loves and set up her own home. So why all the lamentations and reproaches and weeps? It is an occasion for getting out the cymbals instead of fetching out the tear jugs.

Your father and mother married and left their parents and went about the business of life for themselves. Remind them of that little fact and ask them if they can consider that they showed that they were mean, ungrateful, unappreciative children by so doing. Ask them if they think that grown-up children should never leave papa and mamma and should never have any lives of their own.

Ask them if they do not think that they are very selfish in wanting to keep you from following two normal human impulses, one of which is to be alone with your man instead of being in the bosom of your family, and the other is to build your own nest. It is nobody's idea of a honeymoon to spend it under the critical eyes of mamma and papa and little sister and little brother. Every woman remembers the pride and joy she had in fixing up her first home and being able to have just the kind of curtains and dishes she wanted instead of the kind that Mother preferred.

Your people are more than selfish. They are positively lacking in all sympathy and understanding when they spoil what should be the happiest time of your life by their reproaches about your leaving them.

The only advice I can give you is not to take them too seriously. They don't mean what they say. Laugh off their hysterics over your having moved a few blocks away from them. Don't let them worry you and make you unhappy. But, above all, don't give in to them and go to live with them. If you do, you will wreck your marriage. No sane in-law could get along with such unreasonable people, and when the arrangement broke up in a big family quarrel you would have trouble enough.

* * * * *

DEAR MISS DIX—What chance has a girl for a happily married life if she hates both cooking and sewing and doesn't know how to do either? Home life appeals to me with the exception of these two things. How can I acquire domestic tastes?

Answer.

The undomestic wife may find marriage happy enough, but it is not so pleasant for the husband. You see one of the main things that men marry for is a home, and you can't picture a happy home without a woman at the head of it who is a good cook and manager and handy with the needle.

It is all very well for a girl to be a living picture to look at, a wise-cracker who can keep him amused and entertained and an intellectual companion with whom he can discuss world trends and the latest books and plays. But all of these are as nothing if there are no buttons on the shirt that her husband is putting on in a hurry in the morning, and if she sits him down to a breakfast of dishwater coffee and leathery eggs and burnt toast, and if half he makes goes into the garbage can.

Much of the success of marriage depends on a wife making her husband comfortable, and the girl who doesn't intend to do that should give a lad a break and stay single.

* * * * * *

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am a young man of 24, in love with a girl of 20, but she is already married and has a baby 8 months old. However, she has been separted from her husband since before the baby was born and she says that she is going to get a divorce. If she does and we get married, what are our chances of happiness? Would the baby make and difference? I am fond of children and would want one of my own. Would her feelings be stronger toward her first-born than toward mine?

Answer:

It takes more of a prophet than I am to tell how any marriage will turn out, but I should think that if you married this girl you would have at least a sporting chance of being happy. However, her marriage to her first husband seems to have been such a merely passing episode that before I tied up with her for keeps I would find out whether she regarded the holy estate as something you jumped into and jumped out according to your mood, or whether she regarded it as a binding contract.

Of course, the baby is a complication because a lot of men are not fitted for stepfatherhood. They cannot help being jealous of the time and attention and affection that their wives give to a child that is not theirs. Also they resent having to support another man's child. But, fortunately, this is not always the case. Many men are big enough to love their stepchildren as if they were their very own and find great pleasure and happiness in them.

I do not think you need fear your wife's loving the child of her first marriage better than she would one of the second marriage. Generally the more a woman loves her husband, the more she loves his children.

DOROTHY DIX.

Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S IMITATOR.

Uncle Wiggily and Baby Bunty were sitting under a tree in the woods. It was a lovely day in May. The wind blew just enough to twiddle the brown fur coats of the two rabbits.

"Do you like it here, Baby Bunty?" asked Mr. Longears of the little orphan rabbit.

"Oh, yes, Unkie Wig," she answered, using her only two words of baby talk. "But I thought we came here to have an adventure."

"An adventure may come to us before we know it," said Uncle Wiggily.

"Do you mean an adventure with Bad Chaps?" asked Bunty.

"Ha! Now I can get two rabbits!"

"When they don't catch me and you drive them away—yes, thank you, I do," and Bunty wrinkled up her little nose like a fluted potato chip and laughed.

A Puzzle.

Just then, all of a sudden, in a tree over the rabbits' heads a bird began to sing.

"Oh, there's a robin!" exclaimed Bunty hearing the jolly call of: "Cheer up! Cheer up! Cheerio!"

"No, that isn't a robin though it sounds like one," said Mr. Longears. "Listen again, Bunty."

This time the bird in the tree sang a different melody.

"Oh, it's a song sparrow!" said the orphan rabbit. "How lovely!"

Once more Bunty listened. This time sounded loud, clear whistles.

"Does that look like a cardinal?" asked Uncle Wiggily pointing out to Bunty a bird with drab, brown feathers mingled with white.

"Why, no, that isn't a cardinal," said the orphan rabbit. "But he is singing like a cardinal and like a song sparrow and like a robin, Unkie Wig! What sort of a bird is this?"

"I call it my imitator," said the rabbit gentleman. "It is the mocking bird, so named because it imitates or mocks many other bird songs. It is a lovely singer even if it has no bright feathers like the cardinal."

"Oh, I love your imitator bird, Unkie Wig," said Bunty. "But I thought the cat bird was called the mocking bird."

Copycat.

"Sometimes he is," said the rabbit gentleman. "The cat bird can also warble like several other birds and it mews like a cat. Hark, there is one now!"

"Mew! Mew! Mew!" went the cat bird as the mocking bird flew away. And then the cat bird did some imitations but not as well as the other bird had done.

"Thank you for showing us how you can mew," said Bunty.

"Pray do not mention it," said the cat bird politely, and he mewed again.

Bunty and Uncle Wiggily were gathering flowers, the cat bird was imitating a when when, all of a quickness, into the woods came running the Bob Cat with his silly little tail

"Ha! Now I can get two rabbits!" howled the Bob Cat.

Bunty and Uncle Wiggily didn't know what to do. But the cat bird all of a sudden began to mew loudly like a pussy.

"Oh, there are some of my little ones calling me!" cried the Bob Cat as he heard the mewing. He didn't know it was the imitator bird. "I'll be back to get you later when I feed my little Bob Cats," he said.

But you may be sure Uncle Wiggily and Bunty didn't wait.

And if yellow dandelion doesn't roar at the puppy dog when he is drinking out of the buttercup, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and Jimmie's shower.

"The Authority on Authorities"

RAVING NO TRUMPS

WHEN YOUR hand does not contain a single card of the opponents' suit, the chances are that your partner has a fair number bunched against them. If you bid your own cards in such a way as to keep the opponents ignorant of the unfortuitous division, they may go unheedingly on into a contract which cannot be made.

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

Three different types of bidding occurred on this deal in a duplicate. At one table, South started off with 1-Heart and West preempted with 4-Spades. The result was: set one, doubled.

At Table 2, West also got to 4-Spades, but by a different route. He bid 1-Spade after South's 1-Heart. North put in a bid of 3-Hearts, South 4-Hearts and West 4-Spades, which South doubled.

At Table 3, West called 2-Spades after South's 1-Heart, North put in a 3-Heart bid and when South went to 4-Hearts, West decided to pass, as he had already shown his partner a good spade suit. East was delighted with this pass, for it gave him a chance to double the 4-Heart contract. Instead of this East-West pair having a minus score, they were able to cash two spade tricks, one heart and one club, setting the contract one, doubled.

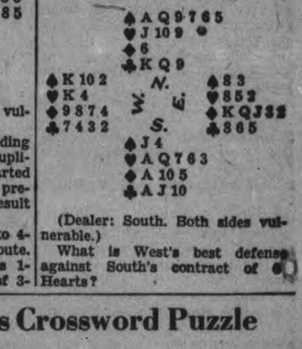
Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

What is West's best defense against South's contract of 6 Hearts?

'Fathers' Night' and 'open school' made an interesting occasion at Queen Alexandra School Monday evening, under the direction of the Home and School Association.

A very large number of parents and friends visited the classrooms and met the teachers, who were assisted by two members of the Home and School in each room. Fine exhibits of art and of the various projects undertaken by the pupils were on display, in the junior rooms and in the senior rooms and the upstairs hall were exhibits of work from the Household Arts and Manual Training courses.

At half past eight the parents and teachers gathered in the kindergarten room for a program of entertainment, for which Principal J. E. R. Munro was chairman. The guest speaker was Inspector K. S. Wightman, who discussed the new course of studies, emphasizing the intellectual side and pointing out that important aspect of the educational program was not being neglected because of the new commendable trend toward teaching practical subjects.

An enjoyable program by the 'Fathers' included a quartet by A. V. Lillow, C. S. Thompson, E. Rowe, and W. Cunningham, with Mrs. Rowe as piano accompanist. Numbers by a 'Turkish' Band were most delightful, the members being dressed in costume with C. Saunders as master of ceremonies and S. Gilmour at the piano.

Downer, Dorcas convenor, gave a splendid report, and Mrs. J. Byrett reported for the Extra-Cent-a-Day. Correspondence included letter from Miss Flora Foster of Toronto thanking for woollen scarves sent to the leper mission at Palanour, India. Discussion took place regarding ways and means of raising money, also for the annual picnic for which Miss Milburn received a vote of thanks for her offer of her home in Chemong Road for the occasion. Mrs. M. Montgomery and Mrs. Rhys were appointed convenors of arrangements.

Mrs. J. Collis gave a comprehensive report of the annual Diocesan W.A. meetings in Toronto, which she attended as delegate.

Highlights from many interesting addresses, and reports of different committees gave the Evening Branch members a word picture of the meetings. Among reports a decrease of $200 annually from the Extra-Cent-a-Day had been noted with regrets. The study book on "India" for next year was also mentioned.

Questionaires were given out to members and the meeting was closed with the members' prayer. Refreshments were served by Miss E. Clementi and her committee, following which a pleasant little surprise awaited Miss Clementi and Mrs. B. Ottewell, who will both be absent from Peterboorugh for the summer months, in the presentation on behalf of the members of moire taffeta vanity bags.

Smart Suit

THE SOLID color skirt or one-piece dress and checked or plaid jacket is among the smartest of the smart fashions of the season. They have that new and up-to-the-minute effect that is so desirable.

Here we have this style in navy blue and white combined to perfection in Joan Fontaine's well-tailored suit.

The four patch pockets on the one-button check jacket are cut on the bias to conform with the checks of the wide revers.

The navy wool skirt has a box pleat in front for added width while walking.

A wide-brimmed navy felt hat with a squared-off crown, navy suede purse and gloves, and white and navy sports pumps complete her very chic costume.

Enquiry Column

Mrs. MARY MOORE

QUESTION: I enjoy reading your page and you have helped others so well I am coming for help too. Can you tell me how much money it costs to feed a family of four, two adults and two children 6 and 10 years, for a week in the city. Can it be done on $1.00 per person per week and give the children what they should have?

Please answer through the paper as I know there are a number of mothers would like to know and probably there are some who can give us some information on the subject who have only so much each week to spend on groceries.

Has cheese the same food value as meat? Thanking you, Pat.

ANSWER: Thank you for your letter—but it certainly is a poser. I hope you do not have to feed your family on $1.00 per week per person. It cannoot be done "and give the children what they shoud have". I have no doubt that some folks are subsisting on such small amounts, but their nourishment cannot be adequate.

A valuable guide for selecting the types of food and the proportion in which they should be bought is made up as follows: Dividing the grocery money into fifths spend:

One fifth for milk (mostly) and some cheese.

One fifth for fruits and vegetables (this could be increased by decreasing the fifth item.)

One fifth for bread and cereals.

One fifth for fats, sugar and miscellaneous foods.

While cheese does not have the same food value as meat their total content is similar. Cheese has some advantage over meat in that there is no waste—but if the cheaper cuts of meat are used they will go farther.

When cheese is used in place of meat at least a half pound should be prepared for a supper meal for a family of four. Grated finely to make it digestible and cooked slowly for the same reason it mixes well with carbohydrates such as potatoes, rice and macaroni and makes a most nourishing meal.

You will have to do some very careful buying and planning to make $8.00 stretch to buy your weekly groceries—but we are now approaching the season when food is the least expensive and your task for the present will not be as hard.

Until recently I had a supply of booklets entitled "How We Do It" which was compiled by women on relief in one of our large cities. It contained recipes and ideas that required the minimum amount of money to execute and is well worth the 25 cents it now costs. Write to Protestant Employment Bureau, 1027 St. George St., Montreal and enclose 25 Cents and they will send you a copy—they are not selling these at a profit, but merely to help those who need it.

Coffee and tea are luxuries that you cannot afford to indulge in on such a low budget, but are easily given up when one's children are to be considered. I hope other mothers on limited means will write giving us their ideas and methods of economizing.

QUESTION: I would appreciate it very much if you would print on your cookery page a recipe for "Orange Bread". This is something I had at a tea once, sliced thin and buttered—quite delicious, and I have never seen a recipe for it. It is not yeast mixture but that is all I know of it. (Mrs.) R. H.

ANSWER: Thank you for your letter.

Orange Bread

Finely grated rind from 2 large oranges, enough cold water to cover grated rinds, 1½ cups sugar, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 well beaten egg, 1 cup milk, 1 teaspoon salt, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 3 cups sifted flour. Cook the grated rind in the water to cover for 20 minutes, then add the sugar and cook for 15 minutes to make a thick syrup. Remove from heat and add butter and let cool. Then add the milk and egg. Sift the dry ingredients together and add. Pour into 2 small or one large loaf pan and let stand 15 minutes, then bake 1 hour at 375 deg. Fahr. A delicious bread, best when used second day after making.

QUESTION: I would be very glad if you woud kindly publish a recipe for Swedish Cakes; also would you please tell me how to do rhubarb without cooking; that is putting it in bottles and only adding cold water if that is the way to do it. Some say it keeps beautifully if done this way. Have you ever tried it? Has it to be mashed?

I read every recipe on the cookery page and get much benefit from it and I did think of you Sunday morning getting breakfast with two little tots as helpers. My, what a wonderful training for those children and what a practical mother you must be too.

I have often remarked to other ladies who like your page so much it is a pity you do not have a cookery school once a year and see how many of us would make an effort to go. They have schools for everything else and I see mto remember reading about a cookery school not so long ago staged in some theatre. Now with such a grand cookery expert, we would have the time of our young (?) lives. Cannot you manage it and see how many would be enthusiastic? Primrose.

ANSWER: It is very pleasant to be so highly regarded,—but while we have toyed with the idea of a cookery school I would have to be twins to carry out all the projects I and my associates can conceive. However that does not mean that we cannot conduct a cooking school sometime in the future.

Swedish Cakes

One cake of yeast, 2½ cups scalded milg, ¾ cup sugar, ¼ cup melted shortening, 1 egg, ½ teaspoon salt, ½teaspoon ground mace, 6½ cups flour. Add the yearst cake to ½ cup lukewarm milk; as soon as dissolved add ½ cup flour and beat well, cover and let rise. When light, add the remaining milk and 4½ cups flour. Stir until mixed, cover, and let rise until double in bulk; then add remaining ingredients and 1½ cups flour. Knead on floured board, cover, and let rise until double. Mix down and make into rings or braids. When double in size again brush tops with butter or egg yolk beaten with ½ tablespoon water and sprinkle with sugar and chopped almonds. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr.

We hope you like these and that we can help you again.

We have published recipes for canning rhubarb without cooking but do not think it is a good practice—however the following is a simple and quick method:

Canned Rhubarb (Cold pack)

Wash rhubarb, but do not peel it, and cut in 1-inch lengths. Then wash thoroughly again in cold water. Drain well and pack into sterile jars. Pour over boiling hot syrup made in the proportion of 1 cup sugar to each ½ cup water. Put on sterilized tops without touching edges of jar or rubbers or covers with anything that is not sterile and tighten top to within one-quarter turn of tight and sterilize by processing in boiling water for 20 minutes after boiling point is reached. When done tighten seal but do not take it off for any reason.

Smart Gown

Drapery does its bit to add a sophisticated note to this black dinner dress from the personal wardrobe of Glenda Farrell, screen player.

The short cap sleeve is important, and the cluster-strand pearl choker is new and effective.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

Dear Friends:

Yesterday I went to visit a friend at the Sanitarium. When last I saw her, she was vigorous and strong, and soon will be strong again. But, while I was there, it was borne in on me, that of all places on earth where patience is needed and must be used, it is in a Sanitarium.

Not one who was there ever expected to be there. It might happen to you or me if we overworked or let ourselves get too depleted, but —not to them. But they are there now, and must be for awhile yet.

We are so careless with our health, especially the younger ones. We burn the candle at both ends, thinking we shall make up all the sleep we are losing at the end of the week. We shall eat as we should at a later date, just now we are not very hungry.

A person who has had quite a dose of sickness, takes more care of themselves than one has never had a day's illness. The one who is not so strong, knows fully how the days drag, the sickening weakness which follows after a seige of illness. They know also that it is easier to stay well with proper care, than it is to get well after being sick.

They know also the patience which must be used, and patience is a hard virtue to cultivate. No matter how fast you want to go, no matter how eager you are to do certain things and go certain places, you cannot do them if sickness has you down.

So—isn't it better to care for your health while you have it, than to try and coax it back after you have lost it. Besides, every time it happens, you are slowing yourself, weakening yourself, so that you never really get back to where you were before.

I would not like to be in a "San" again. It isn't all pain, but it is so slow. Day after day, week after week, and so little progress made. No work of any kind, (and some of you who are overworked might think that would be grand, but it isn't) nothing which would retard this slow recovery.

Away from your friends, away from your home, just little visits so that you get out of touch with what used to be your life. Always to be careful lest this sickness come back again, just half living. Much much better to see that this does not happen, than have to learn such a hard lesson in patience as that.

Don't mistake me. They did not seem unhappy, far from it. It was us that didn't feel happy. We could come and go, but they must stay. If they cried when we weren't there, we did not seen the tears, and cry they must at times don't doubt it.

And so, be a little easier on yourself. Were you to hear the case histories of many up there, you would realize that they were too hard on themselves. They worked too hard, played too hard, used up more than they put into their bodies.

Neither work or play is worth the price you must pay when you have to go there to be healed. And so many times the work we load on ourselves could very easily be halved and no one be the worse, it could be shared and it would not be so heavy.

Neither is play worth that price, and anyone is a fool to let themselves get to the state where they must pay it. So, take care of your health, your most precious possession. And all these things I tell you because I went to see a friend in the "San". Your Friend,

ROBERTA.

BORN

HICKEY.—On May 9, at St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough, to Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Hickey, Lakefield, Ont. (nee Marguerite O'Connell, Downeyville), a son.

LADERACH.—At Nicholls Hospital, Sunday, May 8, to Mr. and Mrs. Otto Laderach, 62 Lansdowne street, a son.

DIED

IRWIN, Mrs. Edith Jane.—At St. Joseph's Hospital, on Tuesday, May 10, 1938, Edith Jane Irwin, widow of the late William Irwin, in her 83rd year. Funeral will be held on Wednesday, May 11, 1938, at 2 p.m., from Comstock's Funeral Home, to Little Lake Cemetery.

HAMILTON, Mrs. Teresa. — The funeral of the late Mrs. Teresa Hamilton was held yesterday, May 9, from the family residence, 589 Division Street. The large number of floral tributes expressed the high esteem in which she was held. She leaves to mourn her loss six daughters, Mrs. J. E. McCusker and Mrs. J. M. Brethour of Peterborough, and Blanche, Rita, Isabel and Marjorie at home, and one son, Marvin. She also leaves two sisters, Mrs. George Curtis of Peterborough and Mrs. Mary E. Armstrong of Lakefield, and one brother, John Snelgrove of Perham, Minn., U.S.A. The funeral service was held at 2.30 p.m. with the Rev. M. C. Parr officiating. Interment was made in Lakefield Cemetery. The bearers were Floyd Curtis, Stanley Curtis, Ken Tedford, Harry Armstrong, J. M. Brethour and J. E. McCusker.

IN MEMORIAM

HARDING.—In loving memory of Mr. Walter Harding, who passed away two years ago May 8.

His faint last wish we should like to have heard,
And breathed in his ear one parting word;
Only those who have lost are able to tell
The pain of the heart in not saying farewell.

—Sadly missed by Mother, Dad, Brothers and Sisters.

MARK ST. CHOIR GIVES PROGRAM AT TRENT RIVER

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TRENT RIVER, May 9.— The musical recital presented by thirty members of Mark St. church choir, Peterborough, under the direction of Harry Northrop, A.T.C.M., organist and choir leader, was most enthusiastically received Friday night at the United church, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid. Rev. S. A. Kemp introduced Rufus Payne, who acted most efficiently as chairman. The opening number by the choir, "Old Mother Hubbard," give every indication of the delightful program which was to follow.

After the opening number followed the ladies' quartet, "The World Is Waiting For the Sunrise"; solo, with guitar accompaniment, Thos. Parker, who received hearty applause and gave as an encore one of Seth Parkers hymns, "Back in the Old Sunday School"; vocal duet, Sweetheart I'm Waiting For You," Mesdames Telford and Hepburn; then came one of Dr. Drummond's reading "The Habiteau' by Mr. Joping, who gave as an encore "The Wee Penny Whistle of Sandy McGraw." Piano solo, "Nearer My God to Thee.' This was beautifully rendered in variations by Harry Northrop and had to respond to a hearty encore. Baritone solo, "I Am the King of the Mighty Sea' by Mr. Stevens; choir number, "The Catastrophe."

Rev. E. W. Rowland, pastor of Mark St. church, gave a short address at the conclusion of which he recited "That Old Sweetheart of Mine," softly accompanied on the piano. Baritone solo, "I Met Her in the Garden Where the Praties Grow." Rufus Payne who was heartily applauded and returned with an encore, "The Ship That Carried Me Over the Sea"; soprano soo, Mrs. Mitchell, with a chorus by the choir; choir number, "Sylvia" and "Morning"; solo with guitar accompaniment, Thos. Parker, who gave as an encore "Carolina Moon," followed by a second reading of Dr. Drummond's by Mr. Jopling; soprano solo, Mrs. Northrop; two concluding choruses of the Negro spiritual variety, "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot" and "Deep River," given by the choir, brought to a close one of the finest and most highly classed concerts ever presented in the United church.

After the singing of the National Anthem the members of the choir, accompanied by Rev. and Mrs. E. W. Rowland of Peterborough, assembled in the dining hall where tables were arranged for a dainty lunch, served by members of the Ladies' Aid. Cut flowers of jonquils adorned the table. Harry Northrup spoke on behalf of his choir, voicing his appreciation to those who had attended, also members of the Ladies' Aid for the delicious lunch. Harold B. Wood replied on behalf of the Ladies' Aid, assuring the Peterborough guests of a capacity auditorium on their reutrn engagement.

The antelope, once almost extinct in the United States, now numbers more than 60,000.

Baby Doomed

The parents of Helaine Judith Colan, five-weeks-old Chicago baby, have decided against an operation that might save the baby's life, but would leave her blind for life. Suffering from glioma, a malignant cancerous growth which attacks the sight-giving tissues and spreads to the brain, there is no hope for the infant other than an operation to remove the eyes. After consulting their spiritual advisors and physicians, the young parents decided to allow nature to take its course.

RHEUMATIC VICTIMS

Was there ever a more distressing ailment than Rheumatic aches and pains?

Rheumatism, Neuritis, Lumbago, Sciatica—what does it matter what you call them? The root cause is generally the same—Uric Acid in your joints—and the usual cause of Uric Acid is a liver that's out of order. Strike a blow at the cause and begin to enjoy real relief.

Take a glassful of water. Stir a ½ teaspoonful of Fynnon Salt into it and drink before breakfast every day. Soon Rheumatic aches and pains will begin to "let up". They'll become less frequent.

Remedy lies in the combination of Sodium, Potassium and Lithium in Fynnon Salt. These elements are similar to those from Mineral Springs which have brought fame to Spas the world over. But spas cost time and money to visit—Fynnon Salt comes to rheumatic sufferers in their own homes. Start today, get relief from rheumatic pains the Fynnon way. At all druggists', 75c a large bottle.

Trades $1,800 Cash For Lead Filings

WINDSOR, Ont., May 10—(CP)—Windsor police said today they were continuing investigation into a complaint by Lawrence Nocun, 52, Gary, Int., that he had been duped out of his life savings of $1,800 in a fake gold deal here last month. Nocun made the complaint Saturday.

Developments into the case showed two men whom Nocun said traded him a bag of worthless lead filings in exchange for the $1,800 were not residents of Windsor. Nocun said he paid the men the money, believing that the bag contained gold to the value of more than $4,000.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, May 10—The Woman's Association of St. Andrew's Church was entertained for its May meeting at the home of the president, Mrs. P. I. Bentley, on Wednesday, with the hostess occupying the chair.

The devotional period included the lesson read from John 14, followed by prayer by Mrs. P. The total expense had been about thirty-five dollars, and the executive was empowered to buy brass plates to complete the doors, and if they think best, to purchase new cork matting for the side aisles.

Under new business, it was decided to hold a hostess tea in the church basement on Wednesday, May 25, the hostesses for tables to include: Mrs. P. Stinson and Mrs. J. H. McKnight, Mrs. T. CAMPBELLFORD

R. H. COLE HEADS POLITICAL BODY

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAVAN, May 10—On Thursday afCampbellford Liberals returned R. H. "Dick" Cole as president at their annual organization meeting held in the Council Chambers of the town on Friday evening. It was a fair-sized crowd which attended and Mr. Cole who presided asked at the outset of the meeting for all those having complaints against the old committee to give them. The fact that all of the old committee was re-elected testified that all of those present were satisfied for not a dissenting voice was heard and each of the election was unanimous.

When it was discovered that there was no representative present from Ward 2, the president announced that a further meeting would be held at a later date. H. McArthur the former occupant of the position, had removed from Ward 2, necessitating the choosing of a new representative.

The ward chairmen were elected as follows: Ward 1, James Scanlon, nominated by Geo. Haig and W. J. Sarginson; Ward 2, no representative present; Ward 3, R. H. Cole, nominated by Roy Campney and Bert Jones; Ward 5, T. Dooher, by Charles Seaborne and Russell Ayrhart.

The ward chairmen then proceeded to elect their own officers and R. H. Cole was returned as president and J. Scanlon as secretary.

NEWSPRINT FIRE PROVIDES BATTLE

TORONTO, May 10—(CP).—Fire believed to have started in stores of newsprint in the Gurney building on Adelaide street west promised to keep firemen busy all day today before it was finally extinguished.

The stubborn blaze broke out about midnight and one fireman suffered a fractured hand in a fall from a ladder, while several others were overcome by smoke. The original blaze on the third floor of the four-storey structure was believed to have been extinguished in the early hours but fresh flames broke out near the roof of the building.

Damage that was already $10,000 threatened to grow greater before the firemen extinguish the blaze.

ONTARIO TO PROBE NEW RESPIRATORY DISEASE SYSTEM

TORONTO, May 10—(CP).—Hon. Harold J. Kirby, Ontario Minister of Health, said last night a technique for treatment of respiratory diseases developed by David Fingard, Winnipeg research chemist, will be brought to the attention of Health Department officials this week.

Plans Many Clinics.

WINNIPEG, May 10 — (CP). — David Fingard, whose method of treating respiratory diseases will be investigated by the Ontario Heath Department, recently opened a clinic in Winnipeg and has announced the aim of establishing similar clinics in other Canadian cities.

Fingard, who developed the treatment along with another Winnipeg man, the late J. J. Duke, achieved prominence in England in 1935 when he answered an appeal by Sir Kingsley Wood, Minister of Health, for an effective cure for the common cold. Fingard, a chemist and member of a Winnipeg family, presented the Duke-Fingard treatment for consideration.

Considerable controversy developed over value of the treatment but Fingard opened a clinic in London and others were opened later in other parts of England and in Paris. Fingard left England in January, 1937.

The treatment is based on functions of a machine which dries and warms air drawn from outdoors and passes it over trays containing creosote, phenol, iodine, glycerine, oil or garlic and other oils. Sufferers from respiratory diseases are cured, it is claimed, by breathing the medicated air. Patients start with three hours of inhalation a day and increase this gradually to as much as 16 hours at a stretch.

IRELAND RULES AGAINST RALLY BEFORE JUNE 15

TORONTO, May 11.—(CP)—President W. H. Ireland of the Ontario Conservative Association said today he had decided against calling a provincial party convention by June 15, as requested by the "committee for conservative action."

R. C. Wood, acting secretary of the committee, conferred with Mr. Ireland here Monday and said if the committee's demand for an early convention was not met he would start an active campaign among Conservatives to have the present executive removed from office.

"We will not have a gun put to our heads," Mr. Ireland said. "At the request of the federal party whose convention is scheduled for Ottawa in July, we have postponed the provincial convention. And the postponement will stand."

Executive's Term Not Up

Mr. Ireland said the executive was entitled to stay in office until the expiration of its term next year. "Then an amendment is to be submitted to the constitution to provide for a two-year term for the executive and officers."

An executive meeting will be held here Friday, when delegates for the federal gathering will be chosen, the president said.

"He knows very well that at such a meeting the subject of leadership is bound to arise and he is afraid of the strength of some of the candidates who will come forward."

While the committee's 48-hour ultimatum to the executive expires today, the committee will take no further action until Friday, Mr. Wood said.

COLD WAVE, FROST SWEEPS ONTARIO

TORONTO, May 11 (CP).—Winds that blew in from the north chilled Ontario today and gave no indication of letting up immediately. Light snow fell at North Bay and a hoarfrost blanketed fields in the southern part of the province. Little damage was done to crops.

City dwellers who stoked the furnaces last night found flower beds had suffered little from a blanket of from two to four degrees of frost. Two degrees was recorded at Kitchener and four at Stratford and St. Thomas.

The cold wave that descended Sunday slipped temperature readings down to freezing or lower. London set a minimum of 28 but other Western Ontario points reported new lows for the month. District residents found ice on pails and puddles.

The frost nipped all tender sprouts at Brantford, but damage was not heavy because most gardeners in the district had not done their seeding.

Snow flurries were also reported at Galt and some other Western Ontario points during the morning.

ADELAIDE, Australia.—Two of Australia's leading jockeys, Ray Wilson and S. Kite, were killed today when several horses fell during a sprint race at the Adelaide Cup meeting.

OTTAWA.—Action is eing taken on a resolution of the Canadian Bar Association favoring placing judges on the retired list with full salary at 75 years of age, but permitting them to sit when required on the request of the Chief Justice and an announcement will be made in due time, Justice Minister Lapointe told the House of Commons to-day.

Blackpool To Ease Donkey Work

London, May 11 (CP)

NO LONGER will that comic picture postcard of the fat lady riding a donkey be true to life if the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals has its way.

At Blackpool they are taking steps to try to stop this donkey work. They are trying to induce a local committee to sign a charter regulating the hours of the 200 donkeys on the seashore. They are asking that the working hours of donkeys finish at 8 p.m. and that no person over 112 pound be allowed to ride them.

In the sister resort of Lytham St. Annes, the Town Council granted a donkeys' charter for better conditions eleven years ago.

FRANCO - BRITISH PLAN IN LEAGUE UPSET BY SPAIN

GENEVA, May 11 (A.P.). — Government Spain's delegate halted the plan which Great Britain and France have been pressing at the current session of the League of Nations Council.

Julio Alvarez del Vayo, Barcelona Foreign Minister, attacking the two Powers for their bargaining with Italy, refused to let the question of intervention in the Spanish Civil War be run through the Council without full consideration.

Maxim Litvinoff, Russian Foreign Commissar, and William J. Jordan of New Zealand, supported the Spaniard's demand that the Council take the question of intervention out of the hands of the 27-Nation Non-intervention Committee in London.

Their stand blocked Anglo-French plans to complete discussion of the Spanish War to-night. The program, in which a majority of the Council had agreed, obviously was upset.

After brief consultation with Viscount Halifax, British Foreign Secretary, and Joseph Avenol, League Secretary-General, the chairman announced the question of Spain was adjourned to a later meeting.

BRITON PROTESTS ON GERMAN CARS

LONDON, May 11—(CP-Havas)—Lord Perry, president of the Ford Motor Company of Great Britain, last night urged immediate government action to end the "unfair competition" of German-made automobiles.

Addressing the annual stockholders' meeting at Dagenham, Essex, Lord Perry stressed the importance of German rivalry in the home market, especially in the low-powered car field.

Various forms of indirect but substantial subsidy were granted by the German government to stimulate automobile exports, Lord Perry said, while the German market was entirely closed to British makes of cars.

10 MILLION SAVING SEEN IF RAILWAYS WILL CO-OPERATE

OTTAWA, May 11.—(CP)—Maximum economies possible through co-operation between the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific railways were placed at $10,000,000 a year today by S. W. Fairweather, chief of the C.N.R. Bureau of Economics, before the special senate committee on the railway condition of Canada.

These were "sane and realizable economies," he said, which might be effected without undue injury to the public or impairment of necessary services. The figures took no account of any compensation for labor displaced on industries which might be forced to migrate due to abandonment of lines.

He was questioned closely by the senators on his evidence before the Duff Royal Commission on transportation in 1932 when he gave $35,000,000 as an estimate of economies by co-operation and $56,000,000 as possible by unification or amalgamation.

These estimates, Mr. Fairweather said, were subject to qualifications expressed at the time. They took no account of the public interest. They could be realized only at the risk of considerable public inconvenience, a decline in the quality and quantity of railway services, some inefficiency and considerable displacement of labor.

In addition conditions had changed since 1932. With approximately the same revenues Canadian National expenses in 1937 had been $20,000,000 less than in 1931. Expenses had been cut wherever possible and this re-

New Act Permits Hunt For Radios

Prison and Fine Provided for Lack of License; Even Machine Not Working Needs One

OTTAWA, May 11 (CP).—Three new principles not previously contained in the Radiotelegraph Act were included in a new bill by Transport Minister Howe amending the Act, Hon. J. Earl Lawson (Con. York South) declared in the House of Commons last night.

He said they referred to functions of a radio inspector, possession of a radio and proof of innocence.

A radio inspector could enter and search a man's house on the mere allegation before a magistrate that the man possessed a radio receiving set, Mr. Lawson said. Under the old act only a duly sworn police officer or officer of the Crown could make that search.

Secondly, the mere possession of an unlicensed radio set, even if it was not in operation, was made an indictable offence.

The trial judge had no alternative but to levy a fine and impose a jail term.

Finally, if a person were charged with an indictable offence, the onus of proving his innocence rested on the accused.

Claims Notes Deceptive

Mr. Lawson described as "deceptive" explanatory notes at the top of the bill saying it clarified the old act and brought it up to date by transferring to the Canada Shipping Act the sections dealing with shipping.

Mr. Howe replied the explanatory notes clearly called attention to the provisions. As a matter of fact the first search under the act was in 1933 and he remembered his wife "being frightened" by a Royal Canadian Mounted Police officer and a radio inspector.

The transport minister made one change in the bill. As introduced, it would empower the government to make regulations carrying automatic penalties of $50 or three months in jail. It was amended to take from the government the blanket power of making regulations.

Fines for summary conviction will be not less than $5 and will not exceed $50.

But, according to the act, a person who violates the act shall be liable "on conviction of indictment to a fine not exceeding $500 and to imprisonment for a term not exceeding twelve months, and in either case the radio apparatus may be forfeited to the Crown by order of the Minister."

ABERHART ORDERS CAMPAIGN ARTIST TO SASKATCHEWAN

REGINA, May 11. —(CP).—Saskatchewan politicians waited breathlessly to-day for an expected electoral whirlwind with the arrival of Hon. Lucien Maynard, right hand man of Alberta's Premier, William Aberhart.

Mr. Maynard, youthful Minister of Municipal Affairs in Mr. Aberhart's Social Credit Government, arrives in Saskatchewan to-day to launch a high-pressure campaign, predicated on an expected election early in June. Mr. Aberhart will come here about the middle of the month.

Provincial voters, dazzled by novel alliances and situations, unique even in this area of rough-and-tumble elections, saw the Albertans' campaign as the dramatic highlight of the expected June ballot battle.

But whether there would be a June election was still undecided. Premier W. J. Patterson, leader of the Liberal government, said Liberals would be nominated in all but one of Saskatchewan's 52 seats by the end of the week, but his government had not decided definitely to go to the people. Already 40 Liberals are in the field.

The Mystery Party.

Mr. Patterson said to-day in an interview he considered the Social Credit party the mystery element in the campaign.

"If an election campaign was held to-day, the Social Credit forces would not win a seat," he said. "But who can tell what will happen three weeks from now."

J. G. Diefenbaker, Conservative leader, has publicly urged his party supporters to nominate candidates throughout the province, "to form a Conservative government after the election, irrespective of any other party."

There are no Conservatives in the present House, although they polled a popular vote in the June, 1934, election of 114,973 compared with the Liberals' total of 206,191 electing 50 members and the C. C. F. (then Farmer-Labor Party) with a total of 103,582 electing five members.

MOTHER, 2 GIRLS BURN TO DEATH NEAR MONTREAL

MONTREAL, May 11 (CP).—Three persons were burned to death early today in a fire at Montee St. Michel, north of Montreal. The victims were Mrs. Etienne Langlois, 50, and two of her daughters, Henriette, 20, and Etiennette, 15. A defective chimney was believed to have set their home afire.

The two girls were burned to death in bed. Their mother's body was found on the floor of her bedroom. Etienne Langlois, the father, was taken to hospital with severe leg and body burns. Three other occupants of the stone and wood building escaped and were cared for by neighbors.

Fire Chief Bonneville of Montreal North, where Montee St. Michel is located, said Langlois was injured in an attempt to rescue his wife. He was forced to flee to safety as the flames licked the walls about him.

The bodies of the three victims were removed to the morgue for an inquest.

The interior of the two-storey building was gutted, but the solid walls withstood the fire and remained standing.

2 ROLLER-SKATERS FLUNG TO DEATH

LONDON, Ont., May 11 (CP).—A charge of manslaughter was laid today against Bassett Douglas Snider, 36, of Detroit, driver of the motorcar which struck and killed two children in Glencoe southwest of here last night

Snider appeared in the county police court here and was remanded for eight days, bail being set at $5,000 cash.

Ten-year-old Craig Watterworth and his sister Johanna, 12, were killed as they were roller-skating along a street in Glencoe. The children were on the pavement when the car struck them both, carrying the boy's body for 300 feet and hurling that of the girl to the side of the road.

Snider was taken into custody by police of Glencoe, who said he was alone in the car.

Gunman Holds Up Gas Station Man

TORONTO, May 11 (CP).—While a steady stream of motorists passed the place a gunman forced Irvine Nurse, attendant at a gasoline station on Davenport Road, to open the cash register today and he escaped with $29.

The bandit ordered Nurse into the car pit while he cleaned out the till and made his getaway. When Nurse climbed out of the pit the badit's car was disappearing.

Home Production Branded Public Scandal

Air Officer Charges It Takes 1,000 Men Whole Week To Produce One Single Plane; Urges Auto Mass Production Be Tried

LONDON, MAY 11 (AP).—Members of the House of Commons today assailed the government for having to go to Canada and the United States to buy aircraft and called for an investigation of charges plane production had failed to keep pace with the rearmament program.

Viscountess Astor, Conservative, declared lack of coordination in the supply of airplanes was "a public scandal."

The issue became lively as the House prepared for a full debate tomorrow on reasons for the lag in air rearmament.

The government was urged to turn to the mass production methods used by Viscount Nuffield in his big Morris automobile plants as a means of stimulating plane manufacture.

Wing-Commander J. A. C. Wright, Conservative, asked the government to approach Lord Nuffield with a view to considering the "potentiality of mass production plants" such as the Morris automobile factories for aircraft construction.

Nuffield Ready to Aid.

Commander Wright said the automobile manufacturer had assured him personally he would cooperate if the government called for his aid.

The wing commander declared it now takes 1,000 men to produce a single plane per week. He said Sir Thomas Inskip, Minister for the Co-ordination of Defence, had promised to approach Lord Nuffield but added he did not know the outcome.

Two years ago Lord Nuffield had a disagreement with the Air Ministry, charging Viscount Swinton, the Secretary for Air, had turned down his proposals for manufacturing airplane motors and contended that instead wasteful, unworkable methods had been approved.

Sir Samuel Hoare, Home Secretary, said in a speech outside the Commons, that the government would announce a program to-morrow that would "greatly accelerate and expand" air re-armament.

LONDON, May 11—(CP Cable)—While stunned relatives in Duckmanton's mine disaster grimly sought to identify the shattered bodies of the 79 miners killed in yesterday's blast, most British newspapers today demanded a scientific effort to reduce coal mine accidents.

The London Daily Herald and the Yorkshire Post drew attention to the superior record of French mines, in which more stringent regulations and different working conditions during the last 10 years have kept the explosion death toll to a third of the British rate. The French regulations demand the best possible ventilation and minimum use of naked light, reducing the danger of gas and dust ignition.

The Daily Herald said the number of naked lights permitted in French mines was one quarter of one per cent while in great Britain less than two years ago 80,000 miners were working exclusively under naked lights and 45,000 more under some naked lights. These conditions prevails even in mines in which there had been previous gas ignition, the Herald alleged.

Precaution At Coal Face

The Yorkshire Post of Leeds said a visit to France made by the Deputy Chief Inspector of Mines had discovered that one reason for the good record in that country was the absence of electrical appliances at the coal face and conditions which were unfavorable to the use of much machinery at the coal face.

The Times said the British coal mining industry last year had 844 accident deaths and that the 1936 injury list, the last available, showed 136,000 cases requiring layoffs of three days or longer, of which 3,000 were serious. The industry employs about 780,000 men.

Meanwhile at the pithead in Derbyshire a crowd of weeping men and women gathered today before the doors of the improvised mortuary in which bodies were being identified. Many of the bodies were mutilated beyond recognition when rescue squads brought them to the surface, but a partial list of the dead was issued.

FIRE ACCIDENTS INJURE 3 BADLY

WINNIPEG, May 11.—(CP)—An 80-year-old man is dead and two youths are in hospital with small chance of recovery after fire accidents in Manitoba yesterday. William Schwark was burned fatally in his small cabin near Beausejour, 30 miles northeast of Winnipeg.

The Ochrenchuk brothers, Archie, 20, and Walter, 18, struggled to preserve their lives after a can of distillate exploded while they were burning brush on their father's farm near Dominion City, drenching them with blazing liquid.

They tore off flaming clothes but not before their bodies were covered with burns. They staggered to their nearby automobile and Walter, a few smouldering rags still clinging to his blistered body, drove three miles to the home of Dr. C. V. McClelland. Archie sat in the seat beside him, nude except for a pair of rubber boots.

At the doctor's home they were wrapped in sheets and rushed by automobile 65 miles north to hospital at Winnipeg. Archie was most seriously burned but doctors held slight hope for either.

COULDN'T GO TO JAIL

EVANSVILLE, Ind., May 11 (AP) —Mrs. Emma McAdoo, negress, was ordered into the state excise officers' automobile for a trip to jail on charges of illegal possession of liquor.

"I can't get in," she protested.

She was right—she weighs 450 pounds. So she didn't have to go to jail. Later she was fined $100 and given a suspended 30-day sentence.

DETROIT, May 11.—(CP)—Perpetuation in Detroit of the last of the 12 Apostles of Water Works park—a four-foot thick French pear tree—has been assured through cooperation of the water board and the parks department. According to legend, the tree is a 230-year-old memorial to unrequited love.

The story has it that a love-sick French youth, one of those who settled in the wilderness colony of Detroit, went to a Jesuit priest and told of his unrequited love. The priest suggested he might find solace in planting of trees. Twelve trees were planted by the river bank, and the youth named them for the 12 Apostles, says the legend.

As a final chapter narrators tell that the youth, grown old, went one night to his grove of French pear trees and saw there the vision of the girl he had wooed in France. Next morning he was found dead beneath the trees.

Tree specialists inspected the last remaining tree, gnarled and lightning-struck, recently, and announced it was budding for the last time. Arrangements have been made to remove scions from it during the summer months for replanting.

"Next year we will have a new grove, which, if the strain is as hardy as in the past, should perpetuate the legend of the Apostles for at least another 200 years," Lawrence Lenhardt, general superintendent of the water board, and delver in Detroit's romantic history, has announced.

Science Calls In Milkman To Assist In Pittsburgh's Fight On "Smog"

Pittsburgh, May 11 (AP)

SCIENCE recruited the milkman today in opening a war on "smog" and this industrial city's extreme pneumonia death rate, feared highest in the States.

On the door steps of 100,000 homes in the Pittsburgh district tomorrow, the milkman will leave his customary order, and a brown envelop attached to the bottle.

The envelope will contain a questionnaire on the effect of "smog" and smoke in the air. On Friday the milkman will gather the reports. From them the city health department and numerous scientific institutions joining in the works progress administration-financed campaign hope to learn enough to launch a practical drive for the reduction of smoke and the disease it induces.

"Smog" is bituminous coal caught in a fog, a condition frequent here in winter and fall months. It sometimes becomes so dense that office buildings burn lights all day and motorists need headlights. Aviators on occasions have reported the city invisible.

Indian, Malay Coolies Refuse To Work Jap Mines

Hostility Threatens To Tie Up Nippon's Chief Source Of Iron Ore

SINGAPORE, May 11 (AP).—Hostility of other Asiatic races to Japan has threatened to nullify the value of one of Nippon's chief sources of iron ore, basic raw material of her munitions industry, working overtime to equip her armies in China.

The 1938 output of rich iron mines in Trengganu worked by Japanese interests under a 60-year lease has been cut to a small fraction of the 1937 figure because first chinese, then Tamil and Malay coolies refused to work for Japanese.

The mines belong to its native government, which leased them 10 years ago to a Japanese company. The deposit is estimated to total at least 50,000,000 tons of high-grade ore.

Normally these mines are working by about 4,000 Chinese coolies, but those quit soon after the Chinese-Japanese war broke out last year. The Japanese hired Tamils from South India and later Malays. Both races quit because of sympathy for China.

Big Pay Ignored.

Not even offers of 54 cents for a nine-hour day, unprecedented pay for this part of the world, have enabled the Japanese to staff the mines.

M.P. Foresees 400 Million New Buyers For Canada, House Debates on Radio

OTTAWA, May 11. — (CP).—Downfall of Japan as a world power and the emergence of China as "a strong, virile and united nation" with 400,000,000 potential customers for Canada's products, was forecast in the House of Commons last night by A. W. Neill (Ind. Comox-Alberni).

Thwarted by a drafting technicality in presenting a bill that would exclude 74 per cent of aliens, including the Japanese, Mr. Neill launched a bitter denunciation of the government, charging it was afraid to take the same bar against Japan as exists against Chinese immigration.

The Neill measure would exclude those over 15 years of age and able to read and write but not familiar with the English language or languages in use in Euorpean countries. When Prime Minister Mackenzie King called attention to the fact the proper explanation of the bill was not printed on the second page, Mr. Speaker Casgrain ruled it out of order.

A discussion of radio broadcasting also featured the swiftly-moving program of the day's work.

Attacks on the foreign policy of Great Britain or other friendly nations will not be permitted on the network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, Prime Minister Mackenzie King indicated.

The Prime Minister made his statement while the House was considering a government bill amending and overhauling the general act relating to radio in Canada. During the discussion, T. L. Church (Con. Toronto-Broadview) protested against radio attacks on British foreign policy by "a man named Ferguson from Winnipeg" and others "of his kind."

(In the course of testimony before the Radio Committee of the House of Commons a request was made by Hon. Earl Lawson (Con York South) for an address by G. V. Ferguson, managing editor of the Winnipeg Free Press, criticizing foreign policies. The address was tabled.)

Resents Attacks.

Some of the topics covered in radio broadcasts could not be touched by members in the House, the Toronto member said, because of the gravity of the international sit-

MICHIGAN CRIMES FOUND INCREASING

LANSING, Mich., May 11.—(CP)—Crime is on the increase in Michigan, according to the quarterly statement on prison populations by the department of corrections. Hilmer Gellein, director of the department, said he was unable to explain it but hopes that surveys now being made of court records in the state will provide the answer.

The prison population of the state increased from 6,926 to 7,252 during the first three months of the year. Thirteen were life termers, and the total of life termers is now 634.

Forty-eight per cent of the prisoners are first-termers. Only 42 per cent of all those confined were born in Michigan, and only 737 of the total, or approximately 10 per cent, are foreign born.

stricted the field for co-operative economies, especially as it was assumed the Canadian Pacific had done the same.

An Intelligent Guess

The $10,000,000 estimate was "a guess but at least a semi-intelligent guess," Mr. Fairweather said. It was impossible to make an accurate estimate. It was based on a prospect of $3,500,000 economy to be achieved by pooling train services and another $1,000,000 by abandonment of about 1,000 miles of line. The rest was made up of smaller miscellaneous co-operative projects.

It was unlikely the maximum could be reached under the present co-operative arrangements within a reasonable length of time unless some tribunal was set up with power to compel co-operation.

While the witness said he had suggested pooling all passenger services in a passenger company before the Duff Commission, he did not now believe it was necessary to go so far. He favored pooling all duplicating passenger services.

Mr. Fairweather was opposed to amalgamating the express services of the two railways which represented a possible saving of $750,000 a year. The distinction between freight and express business was disappearing due to highway competition.

He believed the C.N.R. should merge its freight and express departments as to create a new unified express company would mean a three-way duplication between the express company and the freight services of the two railways.

Uniting the telegraph services of the companies might save $600,000 at a capital cost of $1,000,000. It would involve expropriation of the properties of the Montreal Telegraph Company under lease to the C.N.R. as the C.N.R. was obligated to return those properties unimpaired in 1979.

Pooling Trains and Boats.

Regarding economies, Mr. Fairweather said first investigation showed an economy might be effected by pooling of train and boat services in the Okanagan Valley in British Columbia, but further inquiry showed a flaw so the move was not proceeded with. There would have resulted considerable inconvenience to the public and a dislocation of the whole trans-continental fare system.

A project not actively pursued at present had to deal with a switching pool at the head of the lakes. For various reasons this had been laid aside because no agreement could be reached on the nature of the joint operation.

The C.N.R. had an excellent "hump yard" at the head of the lakes, capable of taking care of large business volume, for both railways. The situation was complicated by the fact each company served a maze of elevators.

Mr. Fairweather said some economies had been effected locally. To solve the whole problem would require six months of concentrated study.

Asked if the whole matter, involving preliminary investigations, would require two years, Mr. Fairweather said he thought "frankly it could be done faster."

At London, Ont., a proposal was found to contain no real economy. At Sudbury, Ont., a project for joint use of certain facilities was tied in with pooling of transcontinental train services. Without that there would be no economy.

Senator Meighen, Conservative leader, said Mr. Fairweather estimated before the Duff Commission that savings of $35,000,000 could be effected by co-operation.

Senator C. C. Ballantyne (Con., Alma) asked Mr. Fairweather if economies could not be effected by merging offices in Canada and other countries, uniting the telegraph companies and amalgamating express services.

No great economies could be effected by merging "off-line ticket offices," said Mr. Fairweather. A saving of $500,000 a year was possible.

Merging Telegraphs.

Merging the telegraph companies would provide a saving of about $600,000 a year and require a capital expenditure of about $1,000,000, but would involve creation of a delicate legal situation.

It would only be accomplished if the Canadian National united the physical properties of the Montreal Telegraph Company with those of the Canadian Pacific Telegraph Company. The Canadian National did not own the Montreal Telegraph Company property. It merely leased it and was obligated to turn it back to the owners unimpaired in 1979.

"Couldn't you get over that by expropriation?" asked Senator Meighen.

"I agree, if you wish to break the contract in that way," Mr. Fairweather said.

He added it had been tried and legislation introduced in Parliament but withdrawn. The Canadian National offered to go ahead with the merger if the C.P.R. would take half the risk of damages for breach of the Montreal contract. The C.P.R. has refused to do this.

"We even went so far as to open informal negotiations with the Montreal Telegraph Company for the purchase of stock, but we couldn't get to first base. They thought they had a good thing."

"They are getting eight per cent.," said Senator Dandurand, Liberal leader.

An Express Merger.

Amalgamating the express services offered a possible economy of $750,000 a year, but it involved "one of the most critical matters facing the railways."

United States and Canada were the only countries in which express and freight were separated. With the development of truck competition there was now little difference in truck competitive territory between the two services, although the division had merits when the railways had a monopoly.

If the two express departments were merged in a new company it would create a three-way competition between the express company, the C.P. freight service and the C.N. freight service instead of eliminating application. Even within the C.N.R. organization it was difficult to keep the express department from competing with the freight department when it went after the business against highway transport.

Instead of merging the two express services, he believed the freight and passenger services of the C.N.R. should be united, fast freight moving on passenger trains and slow freight on freight trains. This was the practice followed in England for many years.

FASCIST UPRISING QUICKLY CRUSHED BY BRAZIL TROOPS

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, May 11.—(AP)—A fascist revolt against the Totalitarian government of President Getulio Vargas was quickly crushed today after fighting in the streets of the capital and unsuccessful attempts to seize government buildings.

The rebellion was started by the Integralist Action (greenshirt) organization, outlawed by President Vargas after he grasped authoritarian control of Brazil in the coup of 1937.

Assaults were made on the Guanabara presidential palace and other government buildings but the only one the rebels succeeded in occupying was the marine ministry. Government militia surrounded them there and forced a quick surrender.

At daybreak, chief of police Filinto Mueller, speaking for the Vargas government, broadcast a communique asserting the government "absolutely dominated" the situation and the revolt had been suppressed.

Disorders lasting 3½ hours spread through the heart of the city before the government gained mastery.

The uprising was so closely concentrated in the heart of the capital that suburbs and outlying districts were unaware of it until disorders had been ended and Mueller broadcast his report.

Traffic for a time was paralyzed in certain streets leading to Guanabara palace and the ministry of war but they were gradually reopened to normal movements.

The revolutionaries, whose number was not estimated, attempted to capture the presidential palace by assault. They failed and 30 of them were arrested in the palace gardens.

BERLIN REACHES 2 SCORE AND 10

HOLLYWOOD, May 11 (A.P.). — Irving Berlin, one hand on the sliding keyboard of his trick piano and the other on the public's pulse, reached the half-century mark today.

For the shy, slender, black-haired man who has written 600 of modern America's folk songs, a 50th birthday has little significance. He already is juggling melodies for his nex job, a Broadway review.

"Let's forget about birthdays," he said. "Sometimes when I was 20 I felt like 60."

He kept office hours as usual today in a carpeted cubicle at 20th Century-Fox, where editors are piecing together a motion picture into which he poured the musical wealth of his career.

The picture is "Alexander's Ragtime Band." It takes its title from Berlin's first hit, but it has 30 others from his song bag, including three the public never has heard.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, May 11.—Five burglaries in one night in the village of Bobcaygeon have kept Constable Hardy busy in an effort to apprehend the guilty parties. The thieves were quite cool during their operations. They were evidently in search of money and money alone. In one or two houses they ransacked drawers containing valuables. In one house they went through a man's pants while he slept, extracted a watch and money, but left the watch on the table.

The story circulated to the effect that the influx of tourists to this district from across the line would not be as heavy as past seasons due to conditions in the republic, appears to be nothing more than a wild forecast. The Examiner has been making inquiries from reliable sources in the different tourist centres, and it has been learned that the bookings to date as well as letters of inquiries relative to accommodation, etc., from across the line are greater than in any other year. Dr. W. Henderson, of New York, a yearly visitor from New York, stated on Saturday that many more tourists than last year would holiday in the Kawarthas this summer. "They are coming over here to escape the business headaches," he told the Examiner.

Lindsay council, at the request of the Board of Health, will pass a by-law which will compel home owners in the municipality to install sanitary conveniences. A survey of the town has revealed that there are two hundred and thirteen houses located on streets served with water and sewer that have not installed these services.

Lindsay council voted the sum of $50.00 towards the booklet being issued by the Kawartha Lakes and Haliburton Tourist Association. A letter was read from J. J. Dorris, secretary of the association and secretary of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce, in which he stated that it was felt that Lindsay had given the association shabby treatment in refusing to contribute some time ago. B. L. McLean, who is a member of the association, and who was present at the council meeting, said the letter of Mr. Dorris expressed the views of that gentleman, but not the association of which he (Mr. McLean) was a member.

The market rallied briskly in late stages in sympathy with higher Chicago prices that resulted from reports of rust damage in the United States southwest winter wheat belt.

Traders suggested the 2¼-cent setback in July occurred on liquidation induced possibly by more than 18-cent spread between the July and October futures.

CALEDON, May 11.—A Coroner's jury summoned to inquire into the circumstances surrounding the death of Detective James Watson, veteran member of the Toronto Police Department, listened incredulously yesterday as two youths who had been driving with the officer told a dramatic tale of the car hurtling along at speeds as high as 105 miles an hour, before the crash at Sligo Hill, three miles south of here, when he was instantly killed.

Mark Breaton, 17, Guelph, and Joseph Glinski, 20, St. Catharines, two youths the officer picked up in Mount Forest to take to Toronto with him for company, told the jury of the whirlwind trip from Mount Forest, in which they described Detective Watson as "slowing down to 95 miles an hour" for curves on the road.

They made only one reply to the skeptical questions of A. G. Davis, acting for the Crown, in connection with the terrific speed: "He did it."

The jury presented Coroner J. T. Thomas, Caledon, with a verdict of accidental death as a result of excessive speed. A rider attached to the verdict urged the department place a red reflector on the sign warning of the dangerous curve, until such time as "the road is straightened out."

Breaton, in his testimony, told of the officer picking up Glinski and himself as they were hitch-hiking to Toronto from Mount Forest.

"After we left Orangeville, he started to go faster, from 95 to 100 miles per hour," the youth declared. 'He was travelling over 90 miles an hour when he went around curves on the road."

"Do you think that that is possible?" Crown Attorney Davis demanded, skeptically. "Have you ever driven at such speeds as those yourself?"

"He was doing it all right," Breaton replied.

Glinski affirmed Breaton's statements regarding speed. He said the speed was "from 90 to 100 to 105 miles an hour" when he had looked at the speedometer on several occasions.

John Watson, Toronto, brother of the dead man, described the speeds given by the two youths as 'ridiculous." A motor mechanic with over ten years' experience, he declared the speeds given were a mechanical impossibility. After a car passed the 60-mile-an-hour mark, no speedometer registered "at all accurately," he stated.

In addressing the jury, Coroner Thomas drew attention to the fact that in the statements of the two youths they had provided for a time allowance of wto hours for the trip of just under 50 miles, which contrasted greatly with the estimates of the speed of the car over the distance.

CAT ADOPTS SQUIRRELS

STRATFORD, Ont., May 11 (C. P.). — Two baby squirrels were found on the farm of Alma Lupton, near Harmony, a few days ago, and there was no trace of their parents. Now the squirrels are being mothered by a barn cat who has two kittens.

Mother And Son Are Implicated

Mrs. Mary Smith, 73, in a sensational statement to police, named her son Decastro Earl Mayer as the slayer of James Eugene Bassett, former, Annapolis naval officer, who disappeared 10 years ago. The mother and son, shown ABOVE, were found in possession of Bassett's car and sentenced for car theft. Mayer is now serving a life sentence in Walla Walla, Wash., as a habitual criminal. Mrs. Smith claimed that her son killed Bassett with a hammer and then dissected his body while she looked on.

CENSOR'S MEASURE IS COMMON-SENSE

OTTAWA, May 11.—(CP).— For 19 years Official Censor J. Sydney Roe, has been pouring over confession magazines, horror tales, crime yarns and pornographic pictures and to-day he disclosed his only yardstick of censorship is "good common sense."

Recent banning of a magazine containing pictures of the birth of a baby directed attention to the mild-mannered civil servant who, as examiner of publications in the national revenue department, decides what Canadians may read and what they mustn't.

No puritan, Mr. Roe judges each book and magazine that passes through his hands on its merits and bans few of the hundreds that are sent to him as allegedly immoral. Last year 856 books and magazines were referred to him. He recommended only 35 be rfused entry to Canada. They didn't measure up on the common sense yardstick.

Despite his contact with risque reading, the former newspaperman still thinks the world is "a pretty good place in which to live."

No erotic collection clutters Mr. Roe's office. Twice a year he and a confidential messenger trek down to the basement of his office with a wheelbarrow of books and magazines which meet their end in the flames of the furnace.

Softball Meeting

A meeting of the Softball Association held in the Armouries on Tuesday evening to receive team entries for the year was adjourned after a brief session until May 19th. It was suggested by Harold Dunk that the town league which was essential as a feeder for the O.A.S.A. team should contain at least four teams. Bruce Reddick was left in charge of the matter of arranging for the various entrants to be present at the next meeting when the association would be reorganized.

LAID UP FOR WEEKS BY SCIATICA

At 76 Kruschen Conquered His Complaint

At 86 years of age, this man is still going strong yet 10 years ago he was laid up for weeks with an attack of sciatica. Read how he keeps fit in spite of his advanced age:—

"Ten years ago, I was laid up for about a month with a severe attack of sciatica. I was quite unable to sleep and suffered a great deal. I tried several remedies, but obtained little relief. At last I saw one of your advertisements, and decided to give Kruschen a trial. I stuck to it and took about half-a-teaspoonful every morning in my coffee and my sciatica gradually went. I was 86 last month—still going strong—and my friends ask me how I keep my clear skin and healthy looks. I tell them all it is due to Kruschen Salts." —C. T. L.

Whether you are in your 'teens or past your prime, it is neither too early nor too late to start on the "little daily dose." Just a tiny, tasteless pinch in your morning tea or coffee—that's the Kruschen rule for constant fitness. Advt

The marks are as follows: Patricia Calberry (honors) 92%, 2nd year; Doreen Hazelwood (honors) 92%, 2nd year; Rosebud Calberry (honors) 80%, first year; Gladys Hazelwood, 60%, first year oral.

The study book for this year will be "The Talks of the Fight in India."

LAST BRIDGE PARTY

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, May 11. — Members of the local branch of the Canadian Legion B.E.S.L. held what was thought to be the last of their winter series of stag bridge parties in the armouries on Thursday evening last. Charles Holmes was in charge of the affair and four tables participated in the playing, the prize being won by W. S. Wiggins.

NORWOOD ENJOYS ORGAN RECITAL

NORWOOD, May 11—On Monday evening a well attended audience enjoyed an organ recital and address by visiting clergymen in the auditorium of the re-built United Church, given by Mr. C. Franklin Leggee, president of the Leggee Organ Company and organist of old St. Andrew's church of Toronto.

The numbers with which Mr. Leggee delighted the audience were: Offertoire in D Minor by Batiste; chorale, Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring, by Bach; Cantiline Pastorale by Guilmont; Done Poem, Finlandia, by Sillelius.

The choir of the United Church, under the leadership of Mr. Wesley Wildman, rendered beautifully two anthems, "I Will Extol Thee" by Ohl, and "All Hail, Emmanuel," Gabriel, which added to the program.

Pleasing addresses were given by visiting clergymen of the churches of the village, the Rev. D. K. Perrie bringing greetings from St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, and the Rev. Mr. Lemon of the Anglican church. A letter was read by Mr. Cleland from the Rev. J. U. McIntosh extending the best wishes of the congregation of the Baptist church and regretting he could not be present at the meeting.

A very pleasant feature of the evening's entertainment were inspiring addresses given by three former boys of the United Church of Norwood, who have entered the ministry. Before calling on the Rev. V. McNeely of Oshawa, the Rev. Gordon Gardner of Brechin and the Rev. Arthur Gardner of Demorestville, Mr. Cleland gave a brief history of the church which was first opened in Norwood as the old Methodist church in 1838. During that time there have been forty-five ministers on the charge and twenty young men, former residents of this circuit, have been ordained to the ministry of the church.

The meeting closed by the singing of the Doxology.

Crisp Delicious Loaves

baked on the hearth of the oven

IN the good old days grandmother often talks about, bread baked on the hearth of the oven was very popular—and bread baked that way certainly had a flavor all its own.

Today this "old-fashioned" bread has again become the "fashion" to such an extent that "Canada Bread" is now offering several different loaves baked on the hearth of the oven.

Taste these crispy, crusty, loaves yourself. You'll enjoy them. And they have so much "body" and wholesomeness they're the very bread needed by hard-working men, active housewives and growing children, all those whose work or play makes them extra hungry.

Ask the "Canada Bread" sales man who visits your street daily for any or all of the loaves illustrated in this advertisement.

Eat six slices of bread daily for better health.

JUMBO

BOSTON SCONE

A long "split" loaf baked on the hearth of the oven. Has a flavor that recaptures the bread of Colonial days.

VIENNA

"A European" loaf baked on the hearth of the oven. Has an "Old-World" flavor that those who have travelled abroad will recognize.

PARISIAN STICK

A long stick of bread made according to an old French formula. You'll enjoy its flavor and crispness.

A Strange Point In Law

Always there seems to be some new point of law coming to the surface. Or if not a new point then a very old one which some person dusts off and brings to the front. Here is a case:

William Hanley Baker, 33 years old, and of no fixed address, secured work on the farm of Arthur Turpin, in Middlesex county. A few days after he arrived there he was left alone in the house and proceeded to make a search of the place to see if there were any cash. He found none but took a small amount of clothing. Then he left the farm home and went to London where he reported to police what he had done and asked to be arrested. He was.

Here is where the strange working of law comes in. If Baker had remained at the farm home and waited for the police to come and get him he could have been tried on the simple charge of theft which is not regarded as serious. As things stand now he cannot be charged with breaking and entering because he was already in the house and had a right to be there, and was present with the consent and knowledge of the owner of the place. Now he faces the strange and unusual charge of breaking out of the home he had robbed, and the charge of breaking out of premises after they have been robbed is said to carry with it a maximum term of fourteen years imprisonment.

So it looks as though Baker, although going directly to the London police and reporting what he had done, is now in a worse position than if he had remained there and faced a charge of theft. His intentions, which appear to be good and honorable, have helped him not in the least.

Hired Man Takes a Chance

After reading a story from Regina it seems wrong to say men do not want to work. There are thousands of farmers in Saskatchewan who need help to work their land, and yet these farmers are themselves dependent on the government for the seed with which to start the season. If they are using a tractor they have to depend on an outside source for fuel and oil.

In the usual course of events it would be hard to figure out how a farmer in such circumstances could get a man to work for him because he has no money with which to pay him, and relief allowances do not make provision for a hired man's salary.

The report from Regina says that on a good many farms there are hired men and they are staying. They have made an arrangement with the farmer—if there is a crop then the hired man gets paid, and if there is no crop then he has to take a chance on getting nothing the same as the farmer who owns the place.

The men who are working under that plan say they might as well stay where they are as otherwise they would just be transients with no place to go. A man who would work and take a chance along with the farmer on getting something out of it is no loafer. He'd make a good hired man any place, and a good farmer on his own account.

Wasting Wild Flowers

A resident of the district north of Peterborough does not think much of the manner in which a good many people from Peterborough and elsewhere raid the wild flowers in the bush. He was referring especially to the trillium for right now is their season.

Our informant said he had often noticed cars filled with people who were perhaps driving as far as Apsley. Along the road they would stop here and there and enter the bush, emerging with great bunches of trilliums. They would have no means of keeping the flowers fresh, and by the time they were on the return trip it would occur to them that they had better get some fresh ones so they would be in good shape when they reached home. So they toss out the flowers which they picked on the trip north and take away others gathered on the trip home.

When the trillium is picked along with its leaves it means the plant is through blooming for perhaps two or three years. It is through the leaves that the bulb is nourished. This form of flower life looks at its best in the woods; it belongs there; it grows and extends and does well in its native surroundings. And the flowers last for days on end. When they are picked they wilt all too quickly. Why not go in the bush, wander about and admire them and then leave them where they belong?

Dresden in Kent county hovers in size between village and town, but it is earning a reputation as a place where a bread war can break out faster and more frequently than elsewhere. We dare say Dresden can take on all comers and register a victory.

Not many weeks ago the council and business men had a meeting and it looked as though peace had been restored. Not so. They are at it again and the price of nine cents which generally is charged for a loaf of bread had been cut exactly in half.

There are we believe two bake shops in Dresden, but it is related there are eight outside bakeries which deliver bread there or offer it for sale in the grocery stores. Already there is talk of another conference because selling bread at 4 1-2 cents per loaf is a certain way of going out of business.

Just why any outside agency should feel called upon to settle a dispute of that sort is hard to understand. The people who are setting the price are the ones who are losing money, and if they have not sense enough to see the extent and nature of the nonsense in which they are engaged then it might be well for them to get sufficiently hurt to cause them to see a little light. The only drawback to that opinion is that the individual who starts such a stupid campaign will for the time being inflict his stupidity upon others.

Success and Dollars

Washington is always prepared to give out material for making another story telling how much money certain people have made during the past year. The information cames of course from the department where they attend to income taxation, and it is considered quite all right in that country to make such figures public.

The figures have been published so often that it has now become a habit to compare the earnings of some of the big-wigs this year with last year and the year before. We know that Eugene Grace, president of Bethlehem Steel Corporation, made $394,586 in 1937, while in 1936 the amount he received was $180,000. Charles Schwab, chairman of the board of the same company, took in $180,000 in each of those two years. Sonja Henie, skating star, was paid $210,729 in 1937 by a film company.

It is no difficult to understand why the correspondents go and secure this sort of information. We admit we generally read such material, then sigh a bit and come to the conclusion that life is rough and uneven. Under such a spell of thinking it is easy enough to sit down and write something deploring the fact that some should have so much and others so little. Easy too to go from there and prove that such conditions make people uneasy and cause them to talk about having a revolution.

But that way of thinking has its limitation. Also its errors. For a long time this old world has been interpreting the word success by putting a dollar mark in front of it, and we may have come to the conclusion that if a man did not make a great many dollars then he had not been a success at all.

The world today knows the story of Father Damien, the Belgian-born priest who at his own request was appointed to work with a colony of 600 lepers on the island of Molokai. He went there in 1873 and died in 1883, a victim of the disease. But he made no money.

Mme. Curie who worked with her husband in the discoverey of radium, and who after his death carried on the work herself, always had a hard time financially. Lord Kelvin, the great British physicist, was never a great money maker; it did not even interest him, and yet it was his fortune to aid in the laying of the first Atlantic cable and he received all the honors which universities could bestow.

Baron Lister the British scientist and surgeon, told the world how to perform surgical operations without the alarming hazard of death due to poison. He did not keep the secret to himself or sell shares in a company to exploit the idea; he gave it to the world.

Sir Frederick Banting could have become a millionaire overnight when he had his insulin ready for use, and he could have repeated the millionaire standing many times over had he cared to entertain the proposal. Instead he announced his find, and today it is the property of the world. We are certain the name of Abraham Lincoln will live in United States long after the big-money people of today have been forgotten. And he was poor. We honor the memory of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Sir John A. Macdonald, and they were not rich men. John Knox never made a fortune, neither did Martin Luther. The world today listens to the music of Mendelssohn, Beethoven, Bach, Schubert and others of their time and school. They made the world actually richer, but they were poor. In all his years Shakespeare never had the equivalent of a year's salary received by the president of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation and Robert Burns, most beloved of Scottish bards, was reared in poverty.

Rembrandt, possibly the greatest of all painters, quickly ran through a modest fortune which his early genius had brought him. In 1656 he was declared a bankrupt, and it was after that he actually did his greatest work although he was always hard up. His cash possessions would not at any time have been sufficient to have engaged the attention of the collectors of what we now call income tax. The world owes a great deal to men who were comparatively poor, and it is well at times to do some thinking along such lines especially when we seem to be in danger of being caught up with the idea that success consists of making many dollars.

Another Old Home Goes

"Wesanford" was the name given to the stately home of the late Senator and Mrs. W. E. Sanford in Hamilton. In that old home there are 45 rooms; it occupies about half a city block. The old place has turrets and lawns, carriage houses and green-houses. In the dining room there is a table at which 36 persons can be seated. Mrs. Sanford died there a few weeks ago. Since the death of her husband she had remained there with only a few servants in the place. It is related she kept the premises much the same as they had been in the days when it was filled with people, when there were great parties and entertainments.

We read that within a few days the doors of the old home will be open to the public so they may enter and attend an auction sale of the contents of 45 rooms. Years ago Mr. and Mrs. Sanford are said to have toured many of the countries of the world purchasing odd, rare and beautiful articles to place in their home. Likely they never anticipated the day when the voice of the auctioneer would drone over each article seeking to determine who wanted it and who would be willing to pay most for it.

What will become of the old home after the contents have been sold is not stated in the report from Hamilton. No person seems to want such a place now. It may be some architect has already been consulted regarding the possibility of turning it into an apartment house. It may be people today will say that such a home was far too big for any person; it was and is evidence of the owner having had in his day too much money to spend. But it is a fact that the operation and servicing of such a place was one which provided for quite a number of people. In the days when it was being fully utilized there would be the groom in the stables, the man who attended to green-houses and lawns, the servants required for the house work, the cook and so on. It is quite possible in a house of 45 rooms surrounded by pretentious grounds there would be ten or a dozen people employed.

In its time the building of such a home would have furnished a good deal of employment to mechanics: the heating and lighting and supplying of provisions would have called for the expenditure of a good deal of money. So in that way the bringing into existence of such a home was not merely the outward expression of concentrated wealth, but it meant that the man who planned it was actually putting his money into circulation in such a way that a number of people in his community were going to receive the benefit.

But today the great old home is out. People don't seem to want them any more. Life and all that goes with it is not centred in the home as it used to be. Cars and the open roads call folk to go here and there; entertainment is so frequent outside that there seems to be little use of providing room for it at home. So that stately old home in Hamilton, in company with a good many others of similar taste if of lesser proportion stands a little apart from the world as it travels and hurries today. If it could speak it might be moved to protest when an auctioneer entered the portals and when the general public raised its voice to name the price to be paid for its treasures.

Moving pictures are being shown the prisoners at Guelph and soon we may expect to hear of a riot over the absence of double features.

To use the language of the still-fresh-in-the-memory war bulletins there is a certain liveliness on the Conservative front.

According to T. L. Church, there is not a Conservative in Canada to fill Mr. Bennett's shoes. Not much use in holding a convention, in that case.

The movement to have Victoria Day celebrated on Monday, May 23, has perished almost before it was born. It might have had a better chance if it had been suggested two months ago.

TACTICS

¶ I used to argue long and loud, and of my tongue grew rather proud, I thought I knew a lot; I know when argument was long, that I'd use phrases pretty strong, words that I shouldn't ought.

¶ And those who disagreed with me, I'd place them on my verbal knee, and then I'd spank them hard; I guess I used them rather tough, their logic was I said poor stuff, plain junk that should be barred.

¶ But then I noticed in my home, I sat there many days alone, and no one called on me; I figured I would make amends, if I was going to have some friends, I must at times agree.

¶ Then one old battler came to talk, he lives not far just down the block, he was prepared to fight; I listened to what things he said, and nodded now and then my head, and said that he was right.

¶ And now I sit alone no more, and folk come flocking to my door, they want to sit and talk; no more I say their brain is clogged, or that their outlook's badly fogged, or brain is made of chalk.

¶ Nor do they now just pass me by, and name me for a ruthless guy, I walk with honored men; they say my wisdom is profound, and that my views are right and sound—for I agree with them.

Horses Too Thin To Work On Land

COMPLAINT was made at Ottawa that seed for Saskatchewan was not being made available soon enough to permit early planting. That was debated this way:

(From Parliamentary Reports)

Mr. McLEAN (Melfort): Rosetown-Biggar has probably had more moisture so far this year than northeastern Saskatchewan.

Mr. COLDWELL: I think the hon. member is perhaps to some extent misinformed, because in Rosetown-Biggar we happen to be just a little bit short of moisture this year.

Mr. GARDINER: Around Surbiton.

Mr. COLDWELL: Yes. As a matter of fact, they could have seeded around Surbiton. But perhaps neither my statement nor that of the hon. member for Melfort is true for the whole province of Saskatchewan. It is with the desire of speeding up the distribution that these matters are being raised in this chamber.

Mr. PERLEY: I should like to answer the hon. member for Melfort. If the seed had been there we would have had it all in the ground in the eastern part of the province before the fine rain and snowstorms which the hon. member has been telling us about came along. Last Sunday we had an excellent rain, and, the Sunday before, snow and rain. The reeve of Indian Head municipality had all his wheat in the ground on one farm of 500 acres on April 22, and a lot of wheat was seeded on my farm on April 23. In the Indian Head and Wolseley districts, had the farmers had the seed, they could have had it in the ground between the 10th and 20th of April. I never saw the land in better condition to receive seed than on the day I arrived home and drove over my farm. I drove down to Whitewood, in which district they were all working on the land, and many of them had seeded on the 12th of April.

Mr. GARDINER: Is the hon. member's farm seeded?

Mr. PERLEY: Yes, sir. I told them to get the seed in. That is the only policy—get it in the first day you can in order to derive the benefit of the splendid rains we have had.

Mr. GARDINER: It is not the only policy.

Mr. PERLEY: I say that seventy per cent. of the land that will be seeded to wheat could have been seeded before the 25th of April had the seed been available, and I stake my experience in that regard certainly against that of the hon. member for Melfort.

Mr. McLEAN (Melfort): On the 10th or 11th of April, in pasing through the territory represented by the hon. member for Qu'Appele, I saw not a sign of any work having been done on the land anywhere in the Qu'Appele or Wolseley district. I would say that it is not yet too late to sow seed. In the next thirty days plenty of seed will be sown in Saskatchewan if other conditions are satisfactory and likely to produce good crops.

Mr. PERLEY: Why were the farmers not on the land?

Mr. PERLEY: Because they had not any feed to feed their horses. Fifty per cent. of the farmers in the district I speak of had not enough feed to give their horses two good feeds of hay; the horses were not in condition to go on the land until they did get feed and fodder, and in that district it was not released until about the 15th of April.

Mr. McLEAN (Melfort): Not even on the gravelled highways were many cars running on that day, and it was a very fine day.

An hon. MEMBER: Hire a hall.

Mr. McLEAN (Melfort): The people who sent me here have paid their share of this hall for me to speak in, but I really think my hon. friend's remarks were addressed to his colleague behind him (Mr. PERLEY).

Mr. PERLEY: I have not taken up as much time as you have.

Mr. McLEAN (Melfort): The hon. member has taken up three times as much of the time of the house as I have, and he has used up a good deal of paper in putting partisan complaints on the record, which I think everyone will admit is something of which I have not been guilty.

Mr. DOUGLAS (Weyburn): The hon. member from Melfort is going from the particular to the general. He cannot say that seeding has been delayed in Saskatchewan generally because of weather conditions. From the 11th to the 23rd of April I travelled by car through the southern part of the province from Moosomin to Swift Current, and the horses were not in fit condition. That is why they were not on the land.

Mr. McLEAN (Melfort): What about tractors?

An hon. MEMBER: Did you have seed in Swift Current?

Mr. DOUGLAS (Weyburn): Yes, but it had not been released.

Mr. McLEAN (Melfort): Perhaps the horses had not been able to go for the seed because they were so thin.

WORLD'S BIRTHDAY.

(Baltimore Sun)

SCIENTISTS have once again revised their estimates of the age of the earth. Seventy-five years or so ago Lord Kelvin argued that the "superficial consolidation of the globe" could not have taken place "less than 20,000,000 years ago" nor more than 400,000,000. Later the same great scientist estimated that the length of "geological time" was "more than 20,000,000 and less than 40,000,000 years, and probably much nearer 20 than 40". But the geologists were consistently in favor of a greater age than were the physicists. There estimates around the first year of this century, ran between 90,000,000 and 100,000,000 years.

However, research in radioactivity led to still sharper upward revision so that a decade ago authorities were disposed to say the earth was between 1,500,000,000 and 3,000,000,000 years old. Now two Yale scientists have upped that to nearly 14,000,000,000 years.

Thus, the earth grows older not only by that sad process of accumulating years which it shares with its present inhabitants, but also by having its natal day pushed farther and farther back into the past.

Yes—Taxation Is "Big Business"

(St. Thomas Times-Journal)

TAXES REPRESENT one of the twin inevitables—the other being death. Hence the persistency with which the matters of taxes and taxation confront us, and the interest which surrounds them.

In the Canadian Chartered Accountant, Walter L. Gordon, C.A., Toronto, discusses taxes other than levies on property in Canada, the United States and Great Britain. The figures quoted by Mr. Gordon are astounding, and the comparisons presented are intriguing.

For the fiscal year ending on March 31, 1936, the Dominion government's revenue from direct taxation amounted to $317,311,809—the three major sources being: $82,709,803 in income taxes, $74,004,560 in customs duties and $77,551,974 from the sales tax.

The provincial governments collected another $110,038,796, the five major forms of taxation being: Gasoline tax $31,715,374, automobile licences $21,178,181, corporation tax $19,162,560, succession duties $18,290,161, and income tax $9,227,220.

The total revenues of municipal governments from real property, business and income taxes were $262,062,573—making a grand total from Dominion, provincial and municipal taxation of $660,413,118. Rather a staggering total for a country of about 11,000,000 population—a per capita tax of approximately $63 annually.

Mr. Gordon worked out per centages to show the relative importance—as revenue producers—of the different taxes levied in Canada, the United States and Great Britain. His tabulation shows that real property taxes in Canada represent 35.4 per cent. of the total, in the United States 36 per cent. and in Great Britain only 18.1 per cent. On the other hand the income tax revenues are respectively: Canada 16.7 per cent, the U. S. 20.8 per cent, and Britain 38.8 per cent. That is, taxes on real estate are by far the greatest source of government tax revenues in both the Dominion and the American Republic, whereas in the British Isles receipts from income taxes are the largest single source of revenue—over one-third of the total.

Succession duties rank much higher in Britain than in Canada—0.6 per cent as against 2.6 per cent. But when it comes to gasoline and motor-car taxation, the British receipts represent only one-tenth of 1 per cent, compared to 7.7 per cent. in Canada and 8.8 per cent. in the United States.

It is significant that in Canada the sales tax nets the Dominion government 11.3 per cent. of its total tax revenue, as against 3.2 per cent. in the United States, with no such tax being levied in the Old Land. But when it comes to customs duties, John Bull collects 23.1 per cent. of his total tax bill from that source, while Canada obtains 10.7 per cent. and the United States only 3.2 per cent.

And, as a closing notation, it may be pointed out that in Great Britain the exchequer collects all income taxes, totalling more than a billion and a half dollars, while the U. S. garners in excess of two and a half billions and Canada almost 115 millions of dollars. Taxation is truly "big business."

Says Gladstone Topped Them All

SIR ALEXANDER MACKINTOSH, who has worked in the Press Gallery of the House of Commons for 57 years, and who retired two weeks ago, has known every premier since Mr. Glandstone.

And the wonders what Mr. Gladstone would think of the House today.

He said to a reporter, records the Evening News of London: "What would Gladstone have said if he had lived to see the Liberal Party so emaciated — and women in the House!

"In his day women visitors were screened behind the grille, and men and women were not allowed to sit together in the public gallery.

"Parliament lost much of its liveliness when the Irish Party left.

"In spite of their obstruction and disorder, they were among the most popular members who ever came to Westminster, because of their good humour.

"I well remember the famous fight in the House over Home Rule in 1893, when the scene was so outrageous that spectators in the gallery hissed.

"It began when Joseph Chamberlain taunted the Liberals with an adulation of Gladstone unequalled since the time of Herod.

"T. P. O'Connor shouted 'Judas!' at Chamberlain. Then a Tory pushed a Radical off the bench, furious Irish members rushed across and the fight started.

"A horrified House watched. In 1901, a squad of police march in and carry out bodily twelve members who had been suspended but refused to withdraw.

"ON ANOTHSR occasion thirty-six Irish members were suspended. At first they refused to go, but they went when the sergeant-at-arms tapped them on the shoulder.

"What I remember most distinctly about Parnell was his extraordinary despotism as a party leader.

"Sometimes, when the Irish party were very noisy, there would be a sudden silence. Parnell had come in.

"But Gladstone was undoubtedly the most impressive figure of them all. He overwhelmed the House. Even his opponents fell under the spell.

"Perhaps it was partly his magnificent voice, partly his extraordinary eyes, partly his great powers of oratory, and his outstanding character and sincerity—the two things that count most in politics.

"But there is one criticism. As a leader Gladstone was too easily provoked to speech. It was easy to get him on his feet.

"I heard the last speech Disraeli made, in the House of Lords in 1881.

"His voice was rather weak then, but his face was Sphinx-like and the famous curl was on his forehead.

"A few weeks after making that speech—which contained the phrase, 'The key to India is London'—he was dead."

Sir Alexander, who is eighty, was Parliamentary Correspondent of the Liverpool Post and biographer of Joseph Chamberlain.

Lord Oxford and Asquith commended his knowledge of political affairs and sought his assistance in writing books.

Once Mr. Lloyd George claimed to be the "oldest inhabitant" at Westminster. Sir Alexander gently reminded him that he was there years and years before!

Sir Alexander has missed less than a fortnight of Parliament in the past fifty-seven years.

A Closed Season for Plans

(Ottawa Journal)

A WASHINGTON despatch tells that something like twenty economic plans or policies are received every day by President Roosevelt. Judging by what comes to our own desk, the number seems small. The world is full of planners.

And all dissatisfying. Mostly they are against the "old capitalism". But equally they are against Socialism. Against Fascism. Against Communism. In other words, against the concepts that generally engage men's thoughts today. Often they speak of the "new capitalism", but just what this "new capitalism" is, they don't say. Or don't say clearly. They don't strike a balance, find the result and say, therefore, that such and such fundamental policy must follow. One is told what is right and what is wrong but never what is to be done in particular.

Which is a serious omission. Because, if we are to reject the "old capitalism", and reject Socialism, and do not take Communism or Fascism, where do we go? Where, seeing that we don't get the foggiest notion of the nature of the "new capitalism"?

So we wish people would stop sending us plans. Life's really too short (and the weather too lovely) to be reading the effusions of people who, coming right down to brass tacks, don't get much beyond thinking that "something should be done."

WAITING AND HOPING.

(In House of Commons May 2)

R. J. Deachman (Lib., Huron North): I turned over today by chance the last page of The Count of Monte Cristo. It is, I think, the strongest closing of any novel I have ever read: The Count sends his message and he says, "The greatest of all human wisdom is to wait and hope". Well, it may be something by the way of a philosophy to go through life with charming ease and patience and say, "We shall wait and hope. We shall not do anything to solve the problems. We shall simply wait and hope". But I want something just a little different. I want something done today.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

AND HE AROSE, and came to his father. But when he was yet a great way off, his father saw him, and had compassion, and ran, and fell on his neck, and kissed him. And the son said unto him, Father, I have sinned against heaven, and in thy sight, and am no more worthy to be called thy son. But the father said to his servants, Bring forth the best robe, and put it on him; and put a ring on his hand, and shoes on his feet: and bring hither the fatted calf, and kill it; and let us eat, and be merry: for this my son was dead, and is alive again; he was lost, and is found. And they began to be merry. —Luke xv: 20-24.

To The Editor

MOORE PARK

Editor Examiner:

Sir: I notice when you refer to the Moore Park that you call it the Filtration Park and I cannot understand why you should not give it its proper name. This property was purchased by the waterworks Department at the time the Filtration Plant was put in and was given the official name of Moore Park in honor of the late W. H. Moore, K.C., who was at that time a member of the waterworks commission and largely instrumental in securing this property. The late W. H. Moore was also for many years a member of the City Council and of the Utilities Commission and also president of the Little Lake Cemetery Company besides being a barrister with a large practice—and I think it a pity that the only place that serves to perpetuate his memory as a public man should be misnamed.

Yours truly,
E. H. D. HALL.

WHERE HE FAILED

"Yes," said the voluble crank, "I used to be as bad as you, but I made up my mind to quit smoking and drinking, and I did it."

"Indeed," remarked Manley; "I guess a man who can quit smoking and drinking could quit almost anything—"

"Except talking about it."

OTTAWA, May 11 (CP).—An independent board to compel co-operation between the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways is favored by S. W. Fairweather, chief of the C.N.R. economics branch.

Responsibility for establishing such a tribunal should not lie with the railways," he said after a day-long examination on track abandonment by the two railways and their progress on establishing pooled train service. He described their difficulties in reaching pooling arrangements and how improved business conditions often interferred with line abandonment.

The Canadian Pacific did not favor compulsory economies, Mr. Fairweather said. It had thrown the whole burden of that, from the standpoint of national well-being, on the C.N.R.

The committee learned that although an arbitral tribunal had been provided by statute neither company applied for such a board. "That does not mean conditions have not arisen where an arbitral board might have been indicated." Mr. Fairweather said. "In train pooling such a board was suggested; and in the 1935 report of the C.N.R. there is reference to that."

C.N.R. Proposal

Pooling of train services had seemed to the Canadian National the type of economy which could be realized the quickest. The C.N.R. passenger department had assured the management that pooling would mean economy of about 3,600,000 train miles which would be a saving of about $3,600,000.

Difficulties were experienced in extending the pool west of Toronto to Detroit and Chicago and to the West. One of the things "which the Canadian Pacific thought was necessary in the circumstances was that, in order to offset the question of prestige, we should withdraw from the transcontinental service," Mr. Fairweather said.

"Do you mean across Canada?" asked Senator J. A. Calder (Con. Saltcoats).

"Yes, or at least part of the way across Canada," Mr. Fairweather answered. "They wanted us to withdraw a part of our transcontinental service so that we would have no transcontinental service out of either Montreal or Toronto except the pool trains operating over the Canadian Pacific."

ENO PEPS UP THE WHOLE SYSTEM

People who are half-well, half-sick most of the time only exist. To really live, you must be well. And to be well you should take steps at once to rid yourself of constipation, which causes most human ailments.

Drastic purgatives and harsh mineral salts, of which Eno has no trace, aggravate the condition. Eno's "Fruit Salt" regulates, gently, effectively—normally. It tastes good and forms no habit.

Life today calls for Eno's "Fruit Salt". If you want to feel like a million, take a dash of Eno in a glass of water morning and night for a few days. No griping, no nausea. Eno refreshes, sweetens the stomach, and there isn't an atom of harshness or harm in a carload.

KLIM CLUB GIRLS TAKE O.A.C. COURSE

MILLBROOK, May 11.—Representatives of the Klim Club, who left on Tuesday morning to take the special course at the O.A.C., Guelph were Kathleen Smith and Jean Belch.

The local branch of the Women's Institute is paying the girls' board bill while at the college, and previous to their leaving for Guelph the Klim Club held an afternoon tea at the home of Mrs. Charles Thorndyke, the object being to raise sufficient funds to defray their travelling expenses.

The door was opened by Dorothy Smith, and Marian Belch acted as cashier. Tea was poured by Mrs. W. H. Armstrong, leader of the girls' club, and by Ethel Belch; the table was very attractive with lace cloth, centred with a silver basket of yellow and white tulips. Assisting with the service were Luella Kennedy, Ruby Fallis, Martha Belch, Lorraine Henderson, Betty Smith, Jacquileen Fallis, K. Smith and Jean Belch.

T. W. Belch drove the girls to Guelph, and Mrs. Donald Tinney, leader of the Cavan Club, will bring them home when the course is finished. The girls going from Cavan were Jean Trumpour and Helen Smith. The convention will close with a banquet at which the guest speaker will be Honorable P. M. Dewan, Minister of Agriculture.

British Farmers Hard Hit

CALGARY, May 11.—(CP)—Agriculture in the British Isles is in "bad condition," 83-year-old Dr. Lawrence C. Tipper, chairman and founder of the Birmingham and Midland Chamber of Agriculture, said in an interview here.

En route home to England after his fourth tour of Canada, Dr. Tipper said last night:

"The land in the United Kingdom is over-cultivated and old men work on farms while the young ones go to the cities. The people have got to be prepared to pay higher prices for agricultural products so that the laborer and farmer will get higher wages."

"Britain can't get along without high protective tariffs," he said. "We need fair trade and protection."

"Did you say Paradol?"

"Oh, yes, I always use Paradol and you know that I do not miss many engagements."

"Lord love us," says George

The Grand Central Hotel of Essex Centre serves dinner at noon—and a solid substantial meal it is, with two pieces of cheese with your apple pie if you say so. George, the proprietor, (everybody calls him "George") receives his guests in the rotunda and ushers them to the dining-room door with a pat on the back, a murmur in the ear, and a hearty laugh.

"Lord love us," exclaimed he when he saw Mr. Picobac. "What brings YOU down at dinner time? Mrs. Picobac gone on strike?"

"Worse'n that, George," chuckled Mr. Picobac. "She's got the Ladies' Aid in for lunch. So I was advised to clear out."

"You come and have dinner with me," said George, "and I'll smoke a pipe of Picobac with you after."

"George," said Mr. Picobac earnestly, "there's only one thing in this world that can improve a mild . . . cool . . . sweet after-dinner smoke of that tobacco."

"And what's that?" said George.

Read what Ford Truck owners say about performance and economy

"My Ford V-8's consumption averaged 14 to 16 miles to the gallon over 15,000 miles with 5 to 6 ton loads"

"My 2-ton 157-inch wheelbase Ford Truck has travelled 47,000 miles, averaging 15 miles to the gallon of gasoline"

"For endurance and power, V-8 trucks can't be beat"

"Two of our Ford Trucks over 75,000 miles cost just $15 for service"

"There seems to be no limit to what a Ford V-8 will pull"

The famous Ford V-8 Truck engine is now in its seventh year of success. More Ford V-8 Trucks were sold last year than any other 1937 make.

With proof of Ford V-8 economy and performance still rolling in, it means a great deal to say that the 1938 Ford V-8 Trucks are the finest Ford has ever built.

Impressive new styling. More comfortable cabs with 3 inches more head room. Handsome new interior trim. Softer seat cushions. A new 122-inch one-ton truck. New 134-inch wheelbase with 60-inch cab-to-axle measurement. A new standard frame width for 134-inch and 157-inch units. New easier steering—roller type with 18-inch wheel. These and all the time-proved Ford Truck features combine to make the 1938 Ford Trucks the finest, most economical trucks in Ford history.

WES. FERRELL TOPS HURLERS IN COMEBACK

WASHINGTON, May 11—(AP).—The team that's the surprise of the American League—Washington Senators—is an aged outfit, as baseball goes.

For his starting pitchers, Manager Bucky Harris has a quintet that averages 30 years, and everyone has seen service with another major league club. His relief hurlers average 27, which is middle-age for a ball player.

Four of his flingers, Monte Weaver, Dutch Leonard, Pete Appleton and Harry Kelley, have come back to the big league from the minors after previous major failures.

Wesley Ferrell—the team's leading pitcher—is one of baseball's few cases of a great athlete who made good in a comeback. When he lost his fast ball he retired, went back home and by throwing against a barn door, developed his slow, tricky stuff that is the scourge of the league.

The outfields' age is 29 plus, the infield is 29, and the first string catcher, Rick Ferrell, who's worked every game, is 32.

Ossie Bluege, the second baseman who plays against left-handed pitching, is 38, Goose Goslin is 38, Al Simmons 36.

Incidentally, the sparkplug of the team—Nick Altrock—is 62, and still coaching and clowning.

FAMED SANFORD HOME ON BLOCK

HAMILTON, Ont., May 11 (CP)—Curious throngs swarmed through "Wesanford to-day as the stately residence of Senator W. E. Sanford was made ready for the auctioneer's hammer.

Once the continent's most renowned Victorian residence and scene of brilliant social functions, the house will be sold today to the highest bidder. It is said to have cost $250,000 and its tapestries, paintings and rare oriental rugs were valued at nearly as much.

In June 46 years ago the first of many far-famed parties was held in the mansion. Senator Sanford, wealthy manufacturer, died six years later but his widow lived in the house until her death last February.

No other residence in North America was equipped as "Wesanford" was in its day. Wired for electricity throughout and with wall switches, it had an auxiliary gas lighting system which could be turned on by pressing a button. An electric organ was installed in the massive dining room. Telephones connected all rooms and dust passages led from every room to the basement.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC PERDUE

SOME U.S. boxing writer a year or two ago coined the expression slap-happy, and it has become part and parcel of the colorful slanguage sports scriveners sling at their public. It means punch-drunk, which means a gee who goes around in a habitual daze as the result of too much pounding about the head. Somewhat goofy, in fact. This, of course, does not mean all boxers are punch-drunk by any means, nor does it apply only to the sour science. We have seen slap-happy local athletes in the ring, gridiron and lacrosse arena. Not often naturally, nor did it last more than a few hours but still there were traces of daffiness. It can happen in any walk of life, as far as that goes—being dazed from a bang on the noggin. And chances of such a head thumping are very small in a town like this where there are no pro sports, packed football schedules or weekly fight cards.

* * * * * *

LIKE THE GUEST finds who hangs around the convivial bowl at a party, there are degrees of punch drunkenness, and certain types fairly invite it. The wide-open boxer who takes two to land one is bound to hear the birdies chirping sooner or later, while the clever defensive fighter will never listen to a peep. Some guys get the odd headache or dizzy feeling, whilst others get so bad they walk on their heels and mumble to themselves. But, we hasten to add, there is practically none of this evidence here—or any small town. You'll find it chiefly among veteran pro gridders or around any boxing gym in a metropolis. Oldtimers who stayed in there too long and didn't keep their guard up. Rugbyists who don't wear helmets—and even lacrossers and sometimes hockeyists—are inviting head injuries.

* * * * * *

VERY RARELY does a ball player become punch-drunk, that dazed look on his pan coming from striking out or taking a verbal beating from his coach. And you never at all hear of a punk-drunch tennis exponent. We mean punch-drunk. While professional rasslers are often somewhat pun-krunched (no, it's punch-drunk) this is not surprising, nor does anyone care much. But let us conclude this little lesson. It may be of interest to a few athletes or their followers, and anyway will give you a rough—quite a rough—idea of what dunk-punned (darn it, punch-drunk!) means in sports phraseology. Wonder why the dickens we keep getting the word bawled up—must be love. Or too much punch. (EDITOR'S NOTE: No., stupid, it's because you are slap-happy).

WITH the rugby season practically on top of us—or so it seems some of these chilly morns (just three months and as many weeks off)—we view with alarm. Looks like a slim grouping for our O.R.F.U.-ers again. Cobourg will be back biggah and bettah than evah, most determined to cop "A" group honors by the time your hack is crying for anti-freeze once more. And the local Orfuns will be in there most determined to smear ye Lakeshore huskies all over the landscape and defend their "A" title. Lindsay will be a very doubtful starter this year but, even if they do climb aboard, where is the fourth team coming from? Our P.C.I. seniors, Ontario champs, will have to hustle to retain that title come autumn, as they lose some '37 stars, and our junior students will be stronger this year. But maybe we hadn't ought to rush the season thisaway. Might be dead, fired or married by autumn!

NOT MUCH NEW on lacrosse locally these days, and that's why we're not busting an arm writing up this sport for the present. On account of they haven't got a grouping yet. They hope to have Brooklin, Oshawa and a Toronto team in a senior "B" setup, but there is nothing definite on it so far. One thing is certain and that is the Petes will trot out one swell squad this summer in O.L.A. competition. Quite a bit stronger than last year, and they weren't exactly anemic then. Club officers are quite tickled with the way the team shapes up in practice, and one of the moguls told us yesterday that the reason for the fist fights recently at a practice was because some of the players aren't at all sure of making the team and they are battling their heads off for a berth. Season should be started around the end of May, with possibly an exhibition tilt or two before then.

CHURCH SOFTBALL LOOP games tonight: Knox Seniors vs. George St. Buzzers at the Oval, umps from Majors and Murray St.; Park St. Juveniles vs. St. James at King Edward School. A bantam game was held up too long last eve at King Edward by a team practicing, and this should not be—a scheduled tilt rates ahead of a workout anytime. George St. Majors beat Murray St., 26-18, in a senior setto which was as ragged as a transient's trousers. St. Paul's are disappointed at not being in the senior grouping again, each member leaving it up to the other to enter the team till entries were closed. Several of the players are young enough for junior, and with last year's juveniles to draw from, they might enter a neat junior crew. This section will play at Central, and no bond for refereeing is required.

THERE will be four junior baseball teams—apart from Herb Ralph's gang in the Lakeshore League—here this summer, playing in an independent City Ball Circuit. P.C.I., St. Peter's, Tigers and the Parnell St. bunch (what name, plizz?) make up the loop. Bill Prindible is prexy and Mike O'Brien the secretary. No entry fee but the ossifers would appreciate it if anyone would donate dough for equipment to help the lads along. Alex Kay, Jack McCarney and Hap Wilgar will do the umping—and that is one department where the City Loop is extra strong! Games are seven innings except playoffs, three in five betwixt top two, which'll run nine frames. Starts off soon, too. No juvenile section, but the bantams will be organized later. We are as optimistic as a munitions manufacturer these days and predict a big season for the boys in baseball. Chip off a few—well, then, quite a few—years and we'd be out there fighting for a berth, too.

* * * * * *

WONDER how come Tip Miller isn't coach of the Oshawa GM-men this summer in the C.O.B.L. He rather expected to be re-appointed, but we see his name does not appear in the new list of Oshawa officers. Prexy is Harry Carmichael, with C. E. McTavish vice-president. They go in big for secretary-treasurers there, having Pud Lane as main one, Neil Hezzlewood as assistant, and Alex Gray as road secretary. So used to making town and road cars we suppose that it becomes a habit in everything. Art Legge is named manager and coach, and there are some minor officials. Tip, we suppose, will be just a player. Which leaves two playing managers in the Central League this year, Eddie Murphy of the Petes, and Bob Elliott of the Ponies.

No Bantam Game Due To Delay

Knox Bantams and St. John's of the Church Softball League were held up in their game last night at King Edward by another team holding the diamond for a practice. They finally started but took so long getting the sides retired that but four frames were played, with Knox leading 25-16 at the time. It was not a regulation game, failing to last five innings. The extra young St. John5s kids clouted the ball hard, with the Moore brothers and Howard leading the hitters. Gardiner and Doughty hit homers with Alcock also whaling the pellet for Knox. The teams:

St. John's — Batten, c; Clark, p; H. Glen, ss; Farrow, 1b; B. Moore, 2b; R. Glen, cf; W. Moore, 3b; Howard, lf.

Golf Facts

Only recently did I stress the importance of maintaining a firm hold on the club with the left little fingers. I tried to point out the advantages in the way of power and accuracy, and more particularly control, that are to be had from this part of the grip. I even called it the "magic ring," a ring that will work wonders for any player.

And now through the mail comes a letter from a player who says that a very prominent golf adviser informs him, "If the fingers of the left hand maintain a firm hold much length may be added to the back swing by allowing the fingers to open without losing control of the club." To me this statement is typical golf advice and it affords an insight into the source of many troubles. Just read it over a few times.

LOSE AT MARBLES AFTER 30 YEARS

TINSLEY GREEN, Eng., May 11.—(CP)—A sorry stroke of fortune has dampened the spirits of patrons of the Greyhound Inn. The local team of knucklers have lost their first marbles championship since Bierlot flew the Channel 30 years ago.

Pioneers of the game, they were favored to win the 351st tournament. But they lost both the British team championship and the open singles—knocked out in the semi-finals by Crawley Busmen, their greatest rivals.

Most of the experts agreed that had Sam Spooner, singles champ for the last 50 years, been up to his usual form, it would have been a different story. It's a sad Sam these days for with the championship Tinsley Green lose the right to hold the tournament next year. Succeeding Sam is Tom Weekes, Copthorne's dead-eye.

Marbles tournaments have been a Lenten pastime in Surrey and Sussex for years and probably of equal antiquity with bowls, the history of which goes back to the 13th century. Times have changed though and the recent meeting marked a new era in the history of play. The new Greyhound Inn for instance has a special balcony to accommodate marble fans and this year the crowd were told of the games' progress through a loud-speaker system.

During intervals between games a band played light music and a crooner was heard. Later Norman Long and Stanelli, well-known English variety artists, provided entertainment. But neither the game itself nor the teams have changed much in the last 50 years.

EDMONTON GRADS WIN FIRST GAME

EDMONTON, May 11 (C.P.).—Edmonton Grads were off to a good start to-day in their first 1938 defence of the Underwood Challenge Trophy and the international women's basketball championship they have held since 1923.

Grads staved off a gallant closing rally of Chicago All-Stars here last night to win 40-33 in the first game of the best-of-five series. They play again to-morrow with the third game on Saturday and the others, if necessary, on dates to be decided later.

Seven points behind at the start of the fourth quarter because of a slow start, the Chicagoans twice fought to within a point of Grads at 32-31 and 34-33, but Grads closed with a rush to win.

Rumanian Netters Are Eliminated

HARROGATE, England, May 11.—(AP)—Great Britain's youthful Davis Cup team turned back Rumania three matches to two in their first round series of the European zone competition Tuesday.

Going into today's final play, the British team held a 2-1 lead. D. Schmidt squared matters, however, by defeating C. M. Jones, 6-3, 6-1, 0-6, 2-6, 8-6. R. A. Shaves, who beat Schmidt on Saturday, saved the day for the Britons by whipping Cristea Caraluis in straight sets, 6-3, 6-0, 6-3.

The victory entitled the British team to meet Jugoslavia in the second round at Sagreb.

Four Ball Teams In City League

Four junior teams will operate in an independent City Baseball League this year, and a bantam section will be run later in the summer. This was decided last night at an organization meeting in Duffus' with a good representation on hand. Teams in are: Art Morley's Tigers, the unnamed Parnell Street bunch, P.C.I., and St. Peter's. Not enough juvenile squads could be rounded up to run that division. O.B.A. rules will be followed by the junior clubs and the opening game date of the season will be named shortly.

Bill Prindible was elected president, with Mike O'Brien the secretary. There are no entry fees in this loop this summer. Donations in the shape of money or equipment are urgently requested, and donors are asked to get in touch with the president. Hap Wilgar will assist Jack McCarney and Alex Kay in umpiring these contests. All games during the schedule will run seven innings, the playoffs, top two teams in three out of five games, being nine innings.

CAGE CHAMPIONS RECEIVE HONORS

Members of the championship St. Paul's and C.G.E. basketball teams, with the "Y" Leaders Corps attended a banquet last evening in the Y. M. C. A., the Leaders Corps being hosts. Jack Wolstenholm, their president, who is vice-president of the City Basketball League, was toastmaster. The C.G.E. team, City League champions, received their presentation by Harry Marsh, City League president, with Captain Cliff Cadd of the Electrics the recipient.

Acknowledgement of St. Paul's success in winning the Ontario Church Basketball Association intermediate title after winning the local church league championship, was made by Gordon Clegg, Church League president. Don Charlton, secretary of both local cage leagues, spoke in response. Alfred Day and William Bennett of the C. G. E. Athletic Association were on hand. It was a short but enjoyable function.

Dad: MAKE YOUR SON THIS Sporting Offer

and he will be sure to pass his EXAMS

SAY to him:—"Son, I know you want a C.C.M. Bicycle. I was going to reward you with one if you passed your mid-summer exams. But I'm going to be a good sport and buy you one right away so that you'll have all the extra time between now and midsummer to enjoy it. But I'll expect you to prove you are a good sport, too, by studying hard and passing with good marks. If you fail we will have to take the bicycle back to the dealer."

The C.C.M. Company and the C.C.M. dealer will back you up in this offer, dad. They will allow you the full price you paid for the C.C.M., if your boy (or your girl) fails to pass at midsummer. (Claim must be made within one week of the announcement of the term's results.) But he will not let you down. When your boy says he will do a thing he will do it.

This year's C.C.M.'s set the pace in style, beauty and easy running. With working parts of specially hardened steel, machined to hair-line accuracy, they run with marvelous quietness and smoothness. To pedal a C.C.M. requires little effort, and the free-running C.C.M. Coaster Brake enables a rider to frequently coast long distances without any foot-work.

All models have seamless tubular steel frames; plated or enamelled steel rims; rustless steel spokes; bright parts chromium plated over a 20-year nickel foundation; Dunlop Fort or Imperial Tires; and other C.C.M. features. For quality and value a C.C.M. is still the big bicycle buy of 1938. 20L

GIANTS STRENGTHEN LEADERSHIP WITH 5-1 WIN OVER CUBS

DODGERS BEAT CARDS 10 TO 2 PHILS LOSE 7-3

NEW YORK, May 11 (CP). — After a good pitching staff and a couple of good sluggers down in the "cleanup" spots, one of the most valuable assets a ball club can have is a good lead-off man. And there you have another reason for the success of New York Giants, who are breezing along with a 4½ game lead in the National League.

In Joe Moore, the Giants have an outfielder who is about as adept at getting on base and stirring up trouble as anyone in the circuit. He's hitting a cool .356 now with 31 hits, and 16 times Comrades Jim Ripple, Mel Ott and Hank Leiber down in the "waist" of the lineup have brought him home.

He provided the hitting thunder yesterday and Harry Gumbert was equally successful on the pitching mound as the Giants whipped the second-place Chicago Cubs for the second time 5-1.

Makes Hits Count.

Jo-Jo made four hits, twice when he was leading off. He opened the game with a single, and before the inning was over the Giants had three runs, and Bill Lee, Chicago's starting flinger, was taking a shower. Moore drove in another tally when the Giants completed their scoring off Charley Root in the sixth.

Gumbert, marking up his fourth victory in five starts, limited the Cubs to five singles although he narrowly escaped trouble in the first two innings with the aid of Giant double plays.

Dodgers Drub Cards.

Brooklyn Dodgers also found the value of good lead-off hitting as they belted over St. Louis Cardinals, next opponents of the league leaders, 10-2. Goody Rosen, the Toronto boy recently promoted to the No. 1 spot, connected safely three times in five attempts, scored one run and drove in one as he hoisted his average to .368. At that his hitting was overshadowed by Ernie Koy, who made two singles and two doubles in five times up.

Although Washington's Senators increased their American League lead to a full game by defeating St. Louis Browns 8-6 and Cincinnati Reds belted over the Phillies 7-3, these games might as well have been called off like four others were from the front-office viewpoint. Only about 3,000 customers turned out at Washington and 1,133 at Cincinnati. The St. Louis attendance was 1,410.

The Senators just did manage to stretch their winning streak to seven straight, scoring three runs to win after two were out in the eighth. The Reds sewed up their victory with a three-run seventh as Jim Weaver and Joe Cascarella collaborated on a six-hit flinging job. The Phils might have done better if Herschel Martin, after hitting safely twice, hadn't been beaned by a thrown ball when he was trying to steal second. He wasn't badly hurt but had to leave the game.

Yesterday's Stars

(By The Associated Press)

Harry Gumbert, Giants—Tamed Cubs with five hits, all singles, and clouted two himself in 5-1 defeat of Chicagoans.

Dusty Cooke, Reds—Got four hits, two of them doubles, in five trips to plate to lead way in a 7-3 trimming of Phillies.

Ernie Koy and Luke Hamlin, Dodgers—Koy banged out two doubles and two singles, while Hamlin turned back Cardinals, 10-2, on seven hits.

National Hurlers Complain Of New Hopped Up Pellet

"Comes Back So Fast, Not Able To Duck," Says Carl Hubbell

NEW YORK, May 11 (A.P.). — There's been a growing suspicion lately that the National League put over a fast one during the winter and supplied its players with a hopped-up ball.

They were supposed to have taken some of the rabbit out of their official pellet and to have made things easier for their pitchers by adding a strand to the lacing. Yet all the evidence has been to the contrary. The batters have been knocking home runs like hey never knocked them before, and such a veteran flinger as Carl Hubbell of the Giants has complained that the ball is coming back at him so fast he doesn't have a decent opportunity to duck.

King Carl already has been cracked on the ankle by a sharply hit ball, and his teammate Hal Schumacher caught one in the groin the other day. Hub says it's the fastest thing he's faced since 1929, and Manager Bill Terry of the Giants caught on so quick that he's dropped his old bunting game and ordered his lads to sock the apple.

Tops in Homers.

Up until two days ago the Nationals actually were leading their American League rivals in total home runs, and even now the Giants and Chicago Cubs are ahead of them all in this important phase. Four-base blows have accounted for approximately 40 per cent. of all the Giants' runs.

Ford Frick, president of the National League, was asked if somebody hadn't possibly made a mistake about the ball's voltage. He professes to be as puzzled about it as the next one.

"All I can figure is that we must have a new bunch of sluggers this year," he ventured. "They do look like the same names, don't they? But I guess they're just hitting better—or maybe our pitchers aren't so good.

"All that fifth strand does is give the pitcher a better grip. The ball underneath is the same. Maybe, like I said, our pitchers aren't so good. Or maybe our batters . . . Shucks, I can't explain it."

TORONTO PLAYER IS DODGER STAR

CHICAGO, May 11 (C.P.).—Amid increasing talk that Brooklyn Dodgers may yet dispose of Van Lingle Mungo, their fireball pitcher, it seemed a dead cinch to-day that Manager Burleigh Grimes would about as soon part with his eye teeth as lose Goodwin Rosen, his Toronto-born fly-chaser.

Boiling Boily's team appear to be digging in lower in National League brackets, but "Goody" is one Dodger definitely making progress. A while back he was just another player, dropping in and out of the lineup, but now he's so "hot" that Grimes finds it difficult to return him to the bench.

To-day, as the Brooklyns move into Chicago after a St. Louis stand, Rosen shows a neat .368 batting average, best in the league after Ducky Medwick of St. Louis who, with .417, is quite a hitter to rank behind.

Yesterday the young Jewish centre fielder, termed the best defensive outfielder on the Dodgers, checked in with three hits in five trips and ran his string to eight successive knocks before being rolled out in the fourth inning.

Tops In Trotting

When starting time for the famed Hambletonian Stake, to be run in August at Goshen, N.Y., rolls round, Vic Fleming, ABOVE, leading Canadian driver from Dundas, Ont., hopes to have more than a slight chance for victory. He is prepping four candidates, Verona, Exeter, Montana and Blair.

GUS DUGAS BATS ROYALS TO 9-4 WIN OVER GIANTS

MONTREAL, May 11 (CP)—Gus Dugas, one of the real "Hard Luck Harrys" of baseball is on the way back and he's dragging Montreal Royals along with him.

Dugas' hitting had a lot to do with the Royals 9-4 win over Jersey City Giants yesterday for their fourth straight. The funny part is last fall no one thought he'd ever play ball, much less top flight baseball, again.

When he lost three teeth and collapsed a lung in a collision in Baltimore midway through last season the ball players gave up on Lefty, as they call him at home in Taftville, Conn. But Lefty had gone through this before. He broke a leg with the Pirates in 1934, an accident which helped shunt him back to the minors. So a little thing like a collapsed lung wasn't going to hold him back.

He got in shape during the winter playing badminton, of all things, and reported 14 pounds over his regular playing weight. Monday he made it three straight for the Royals with a home run that broke a 4-4 tie in the ninth. Yesterday in the league's only game he belted another homer and added two doubles to lead the Montrealers. He scored four times and drove in two more.

The league, which has been considering a team—Newark Bears—with awe, can now look at a ball player the same way. It has had time, for two days now the engagements between the Royals and the fading Jersey City Giants have been the only games. Bad weather halted Newark at Toronto, Syracuse at Rochester and Baltimore at Buffalo, yesterday.

STEVE BLOOMER DIES AT DERBY

DERBY, England, May 11.—(CP)—One of the greatest footballers the game has known, Steve Bloomer, is dead. He was 64 years old.

Starting his soccer career with Derby County in 1892 at a weekly wage of $1.80, Bloomer remained with the club until 1913-14, except for four years at Middlesbrough, quitting the game with 352 goals scored in league play.

Bloomer's record held in England until the 1936-37 season when "Dixie" Dean, then of Everton, brought his total to 375. But the greatest goal-scorer of all time is Jimmy McGrory, brilliant Celtic centre-forward who finished the 1936-37 Scottish campaign with a 405-total in league matches. McGrory now manages Kilmarnock.

Bloomer was little more than five feet, seven inches but his smallness did not handicap him. He was off the mark in a flash with the ball under perfect control, and by almost effortless trickery beat his man before sending in an unstoppable shot. He scored 28 goals in international matches for England.

While Bloomer was with Derby County the club reached the English Cup final three times but lost on each occasion, and so like many other noted players he was denied the satisfaction of obtaining a cup-winner's medal.

George St. Majors Beat Murray St.

George Street Majors of the Church Softball League opened their season last night with a 26-18 win over Murray Street at King Edward School. Bad weather made it a ragged game, with the Majors having an edge in heavy slugging. Akers on the winners' slab was raked hard and often, but he was a bit better than E. Spencely and D. Wilson of the other side. The latter had speed but no control. Gatfield hit hard and had some neat catches for the Majors and Wells' hitting and McClellan's fielding also featured. Frank Spencely and G. Palmer cuffed the apple about for the Baptists, with the former and McNabb outstanding defensively. The teams:

RECREATION CLUB GETS ORGANIZED

HAVELOCK, May 11.—The annual meeting of the Canadian Pacific Recreation Club at Havelock was held on Thursday evening, May 5. President J. H. Moore occupied the chair.

Invitation have been received by the Club from S. S. Curry, secretary of the Old Home Week at Tweed and from J. H. Hughes, manager of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce, asking the local organization to hold their annual excursion and picnic to these respective locations. The secretary was instructed to acknowledge and file both communications for future reference.

The secretary-treasurer presented the financial statement for the past year which showed a slight improvement over the previous season. A small cash balance was reported on hand. On motion of L. G. Hagerman and D. R. Brennan the report was accepted and the executive commended for the way the finances were handle throughout the year.

The membership committee reported a sharp decrease in number of members over previous years, and it will be the aim of the 1938 committee to endeavour to create more interest as was formerly experienced.

The tennis court committee reported that no headway had been made in regards to putting a new top-dressing on the courts, and said that until this could be accomplished there would be little activity in the line of tennis.

The lawn bowling committee were unable to present as favorable a report as they have in the past due to the poor condition of the greens last summer. The icy season experienced the previous winter had winter-killed much of the grass and it was late in summer before the green was in shape to use. Immediately after the schedule was completed however work was commenced filling and re-seeding. Present indications are for a decided improvement and a very successful season is anticipated.

All officers were re-elected for 1938 as follows: President, J. H. Moore; vice-presidents, representing, mechanical dept., R. A. Miller; enginemen, Jos. Hoffman; trainmen, Eldon Pirie; car dept., W. McLaughlin; sectionmen, Wm. McLaren; B. and B. dept., W. H. Gordon; operating, H. W. Roche; time-service, A. T. Armstrong; merical, Dr. A. S. Thompson; veterans, John Barlow, Josh. Parcels, Peterborough, J. W. Anderson; secretary-treasurer, W. W. Hill.

The following committees were appointed: Finance and publicity, the executive; membership, L. G. Hagerman, E. Pirie, E. J. Leeson, Jas. Hooper, R. Anderson, H. T. Mathison; property, H. W. Roche, J. Howe, R. A. Miller; club room, J. H. Moore, L. G. Hagerman, E. W. Seeney, J. Barlow, J. Parcels, D. A. Forde, S. Cole; horse shoe courts, D. McAdam, S. Cole, J. McQuigge; tennis courts, Jas. Hooper, E. D. Chiles, G. Wright, D. R. Brennan; bowling green, L. G. Hagerman, E. Pirie, J. Hooper, D. R. Brennan, Rae Williams, R. Anderson, H. T. Mathison; Christmas, club executive.

Ousted Military Leaders Back In Favor

uation. He objected to attacks on British foreign policies and the upholding of Pan-Americanism. Canada to-day was in the same position as 100 years ago, dependent not on the Monroe Doctrine, but the British Army and Navy.

The Prime Minister said he was "very much in sympathy" with the Toronto members.

"I think at the present time when we are not discussing the actions of another Parliament, being very careful not to mention another Parliament, the practice should be followed by the Commission," the Prime Minister continued.

These were critical times. Even in ordinary times, the Canadian Parliament would not criticize the Parliament of another section of the Empire. It was not for the Canadian Parliament to say whether the Liberals, Conservatives, or Labor in Great Britain were right or wrong or interfere in the domestic affairs of another part of the Empire.

"I do not think," he said, "one country should try to become critical of another Parliament in another part of the world, particularly in times like these."

The British System.

One of the difficulties in Europe was the continual broadcasting by one country of its views on another. The British Broadcasting Corporation wisely took the view it was not proper for it to carry broadcasts reflecting on another country where the criticism was likely to embarrass the Government.

The Prime Minister completed his statement by saying perhaps it was unnecessary to say more at the present time on the policy of the Commission carrying broadcasts of that nature.

Other developments included passage of the Niagara Falls observation bridge bill, the bill providing for registration of trades union shop cards and a bill providing for penalties for violation of the Pelagic Sealing Treaty.

Through committee stage went amendments to the Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act, an Act empowering the Finance Minister to refund up to $200,000,000 Canadian National Railway obligations, an Act empowering provinces to deal with gas conversation and otherwise establishing rights intended to be conveyed under the Northwest Territories Agreement, and an Act amending the New Westminster Harbor Commissioners Act to provide for the acquisition of land and to pay salaries to the commissioners.

Neill the Highlight.

Highlight of the day was the interchange between Mr. Neill and the Government over his efforts to exclude Oriental immigration. When one of these measures was ruled out of order because of the technicality Mr. Neill observed that the Government's method of disposing of unwelcome private measures reflected no credit upon it.

Recently, Mr. Neill introduced a measure that would exclude any further Japanese immigration, placing Japan on the same basis as China. It was rejected by the Government on the ground that it would be an unfriendly act to a friendly nation.

At that time a board was set up by the government to investigate whether any Japanese were entering British Columbia illegally. Mr. Neill said two members of the board were officers of the immigration and mounted police branches of the federal government, who were responsible for preventing illegal entry.

Condemn Themselves?

"Does anyone think," Mr. Neill asked, "that those men are going to condemn themselves?" He suggested all aliens should be registered. All his earlier measure had asked was that Japan be placed on the same basis as China with respect to immigration. That would end the present arrangement under which a few Japanese are entered annually. He thought it would be a friendly action to China that Japan could not rightfully resent.

Mr. Neill moved second reading of this measure but said he knew the government majority would defeat it and he exhausted the time devoted to private bills thus preventing a vote being taken.

"It might be a good idea if we could help China forget the way our minister treated them," Mr. Neill said. "We sent to Japan an infirm old man, unversed in diplomacy, not acquainted with the country, and he allowed himself to be loaded up to the hilt with Japanese propaganda.

"Then he came back and disseminated it through Canada. It was not a globe-trotting tourist who could be passed by with a smile. He was our accredited minister. Do you think China has forgotten that?"

(Mr. Neill was presumably referring to Hon. Randolph Bruce, Canadian Minister at Tokio.)

"If expediency is to govern," Mr. Neill continued, "by all means let us play with China because before long Japan will no longer be a powerful nation and she does not know the meaning of the word gratitude.

China Coming Back.

"China will come back a strong, virile and united nation, with a sense of gratitude to those who have been her friends and offering an enormous potential market of 400,000,000 people to take our goods.

"With no country in the world is it so dangerous to adopt an attitude of not standing up for our rights as it is with Japan. The school bully always get more and more aggressive, pushing around people who do not wish to quarrel with him, until some small boy half his size punches him on the nose and then everyone wonders why someone else did not do it before. We cannot afford to adopt an attitude like that."

There are 30,000 Japanese in British Columbia and judging from the present course of events in Europe a time might come when Japan would demand her nationals in this country be given the vote. Japanese could not be assimilated. "Let us consider British Columbia which will be a bloody shambles if there is a war in the Pacific."

You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

Results Of Tag Day

TORONTO—A total of $17,791 in cash and a considerable collection of plugged nickels, lead slugs, tokens and foreign coins of dubious value were garnered during the recent tag day here for the benefit of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, it was reported by the collectors today.

Grant Is Withheld

TORONTO—Board of Control today withheld approval of a grant of $1,000 to the International Convention of Chiefs of Police, which will be held in Toronto in September, though the grant was authorized by city council.

38 Children Under Protection Of Children's Aid Society

Society Refuses To Pass Motion Debarring Press From Meetings

A motion passed recently by the Cobourg Children's Aid Society in favor of barring members of the press from meetings of the board of directors, found little support in Peterborough. The board turned thumbs down on the resolution and passed one of their own in favor of admitting the press, at its meeting on Tuesday afternoon.

"That this society does not favor the idea of debarring members of the press from the regular meetings of the board, but would respectfully request that reporters be asked to give faithful reports of the meetings, having in mind the work and welfare of the society," read a resolution moved by Ald. James Dutton, seconded by Ald. Walter Stocker, and passed by the board.

In different tenor were the remarks of the chairman, Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr, who said he had "switched the meeting from 4 p.m. to 3 p.m. in the hope the press would not be present for discussion." None of the papers were notified of the change in time of the meeting. Squabbles by board members have featured meetings of the organization for months past and have been reported. Dr. Barr complained that reporters took only the "little bits of stage play" and did not report the meetings in their entirety.

Auditor's Report.

An auditors' report of the society's funds for the year ending March 31 was read, showed a bank balance at the end of the year of $1,697.59 after disbursements totalling $9,844.03. The society passed a vote of thanks to Ed. Humpage, C.A., for auditing the books free of charge. On April 1, 1937, the society had on hand $375.89. The city's grant was $3,-136.39, and from the county the society received $4,116.75. The tag day netted $1,136.23. Largest expenditure was for salaries, which totalled $3,478.26. Board and lodging of children came to $1,436.03, while provisions and food totalled $912.66.

A total of 38 children are under protection of the society, an increase of 13 over last month, Superintendent Miss Rachel Young reported. Under care of the organization are 82 children, a decrease of 21, but the number will be increased once more when the Peterborough organization takes under its care children of other societies who are residing in this area, she said. "During the month two of our children have reached majority," Miss Young said. "One child who has been in the Shelter for one and a half years was placed in a foster home."

Visiting Wards.

"There has been considerable controversy over regulations issued by the Provincial Department in regard to the visiting of wards. May I say that the Provincial Department never intended that superintendents should run all over the province, but I feel they were placed a greater responsibility on each society for its own wards. With one exception, and I have not yet received a reply from that superintendent, all superintendents have willingly agreed to supervise our wards placed in their counties," Miss Young reported. "I feel that with the exception of adoptions, wards of societies will be placed less in other counties, and that is what really should be."

"Six children, five girls and one boy, have come under my supervision during the past month through Court or the Police Department. These children need very special understanding, which unfortunately time does not permit me to give. Thinking, however, not only of these children but of some of our own boys, I have wondered what plan could be made that they get a camp holiday. In all instances it would be a question of a free holiday, but I feel strongly that these are the children who need special consideration in the planning of camp work."

Ald. James Dutton suggested that Rotary, of which he is president here, may be able to look after an outing for the children.

"At a recent meeting of the Synod of the Anglican Church in Toronto a notice of motion was made 'that this Synod is strongly of the opinion that a law should be passed by the Provincial Government requiring each applicant for a marriage licence to produce a medical certificate showing freedom from the social diseases, active tuberculosis, mental disease, including epilepsy,'" according to Miss Young.

She commented: "While it has been shelved for a year, I feel that it so vitally affects our work that each one of us should give considerable thought to it."

Fisherman Pastor

Rev. Lawrence Larrowe, Methodist minister of Springfield, Vt., caused considerable comment from his parishioners when he hired a supply preacher to take his pulpit while he went fishing. A meeting of the trustees of the church was called and approval was given to the Rev. Larrowe's Sunday fishing by a vote of 37-1. Now service is being held early on Sunday so the congregation, as well as the minister, can go fishing.

FISHING WITH NET RESULTS IN FINE

Wellington Freeman of R.R. No. 3, Bobcaygeon, told Magistrate O. A. Langley in police court this morning when charged with fishing by other means than angling or trawling that he had only been after suckers but Game and Fisheries Overseer Lyons put a different complexion on the affair when he said that Freeman was in the company of another man when the latter was found with a maskinonge in his possession.

"I fished with a net; I guess I'm guilty then," Freeman said when the charge was read. "I didn't think it any harm to catch suckers."

"They catch suckers but sometimes a lunge comes along," commented the Magistrate as he found Freeman guilty and imposed a fine of $10 and $2.50 costs. Freeman said that he was unable to pay the fine.

Peter Crowe and Wallie Blaker of Roseneath, charged with spearing fish in the Indian River, near Keene, pleaded not guilty and the prosecution was not ready to go on owing to the absence of the overseer who laid the charge.

"I don't like to bring these men all the way back here from Roseneath," said Magistrate Langley.

Finally it was arranged to hold a special court in the town hall at Keene Thursday afternoon when the charge against Crowe and Blaker will be heard.

Impromptu Program At Campbellford

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, May 1. — A pantomime of the impromptu type formed an amusing portion of the program presented by members of St. John's Y.P.U. when they held their closing meeting of the season on Monday evening. The president Miss Ruth Palliser, presided and a varied program arranged by the literary convenor, Frank McKelvie, was offered.

Among the numbers was a vocal solo by Miss Alva Mowatt and a period of interesting gabes in which all of the members took part. These were in charge of Don Holmes. Thomas Brooks gave the scripture reading and Miss Alva Mowatt led in prayer. The topic, a brief sketch of Canadian literature, authors and poets, was given by Miss Vera Clark.

A dainty lunch consisting of ice cream and cake was arranged by the social convenor, Miss Mazo Blake, and the meeting was reported to have had about the largest attendance of the year.

PRESENT STATUS IS ONLY A BOARDER HUGHES DECLARES

"This is a most unusual case, the first of its kind that I have heard" said Magistrate Gee in police court Tuesday afternoon as he announced his intention of reserving judgment in the charge against Thomas Hughes of North Monaghan of having been a party to an offence under the Liquor Control Act for which Mrs. Nellie Zimmerman was fined $100 a short time ago.

"I don't like reserving judgment usually" continued the magistrate "but in this case I do not think it would be fair for either side for me to decide now".

The case was adjourned for judgment until May 27th.

Hughes took the box in his own behalf when the afternoon session opened and declared that his present status in the household where he lived with Mrs. Zimmerman was that of boarder. He testified that since January 15 of this year that had been the arrangement. "If I do not pay my board she can order me out" said the accused.

He declared that the business known as Hughes' Auto Wreckers, formerly carried on by him had been turned up to H. J. Withers in March of last year and an agreement confirming that arrangement and signed on December 10, 1937, was identified by the witness. He said that Withers owned the business, including the house and that he (witness) merely worked for Withers. He had nothing to do with the liquor alleged to have been in the possession of Mrs. Zimmerman in the house and did not know it was there, he told the court.

Merely A Boarder

Hughes was cross-examined at considerable length by Crown Attorney McElderry. He said that up to January 15 he had been in charge of the house but that since that time he had merely been a boarder paying $6 for his own board and $3 each for his two children.

The argument of Defense Counsel Fair was featured by his attack on what he called the unfairness of the Liquor Control Act, which he described as a "silly" piece of legislation. Certain people were given licenses to sell liquor and they were growing rich in the trade, he said while other men who tried to do a little selling on the side to keep themselves off relief were clapped into jail.

"It is getting to be a habit," said Mr. Fair "to say about some people that they are bootleggers and therefore are not to be believed and of others that they are hotel-keepers and therefore their word is to be accepted".

He argued that Hughes was merely a boarder paying Mrs. Zimmerman for his board, that he had no control over her and had nothing to do with her keeping liquor on the premises.

Mr. Fair also contended that the section had never been intended to cover such cases as the one being tried but had been designed to deal with hotels.

Crown Attorney McElderry submitted that the section under which the charge was laid was a very comprehensive one and that it applied to Hughes who as an occupant of the house had "suffered" Mrs. Zimmerman to remain there and therefore came within the jurisdiction of the section.

SPECIAL SERVICES HELD IN MARMORA

TRANSIENT FOUND ASLEEP IN COTTAGE HELD FOR POLICE

Captured this morning by a posse of Cavendish residents, who found him asleep in a cottage near Bennett's Landing and held him at the point of a rifle until police arrived, William Arthurs, 32, who gave his hame as Toronto but claimed no fixed address, was arraigned before Magistrate O. A. Langley in police court to-day on a charge of breaking and entering the wood camp of Herb Doig in Cavendish Township and stealing a quantity of food.

Doig's place was broken into last night and a quantity of bread, butter and other foodstuffs kept there to feed the workers was stolen. A posse started looking for the thief and this morning Arthurs was discovered asleep in the cottage of Frank Williams. Coleman Guthrie, Wilbert Morrison and several others were in the party and as it was rumored the man was armed, they took no chances, covering Arthurs with a rifle. David Montgomery county constable at Buckhorn, arrived and handcuffed Arthurs and later, Provincial Constable David Silvester brought the prisoner to Peterborough.

He was immediately arraigned and at first refused to plead guilty to breaking and entering. "I am willing to plead guilty to entering," he told the court, "but not to breaking."

Declaring that he could not accept that sort of a plea, Magistrate Langley remanded the prisoner until tomorrow. A few minutes later, however, Arthurs was brought back into court and said that he wished to change his plea to guilty.

Crown Attorney McElderry asked for a remand for a few days for sentence, so that the man's record may be investigated. He will be sentenced on Tuesday next.

According to the story told by Arthurs he has been tramping through the northern part of the county looking for a job.

Is That A New Line Of Business? Judge Asks In Appeal Of Alex Lyons

Toronto, May 11 (CP)

APPEAL of Alex Lyons of Peterborough against a conviction for keeping liquor for sale was adjourned until Thursday after his counsel pleaded yesterday that Lyons, representing a brewery, had not sold beer but merely kept it to treat friends.

A. A. Macdonald, K.C., said Lyons was sent weekly cheques by the brewery to provide entertainment for his friends.

"Is that a new line of business?" asked Mr. Justice W. E. Middleton.

"It seems to be a line of business that is quite prevalent," the lawyer answered. "The idea is the breweries are forbidden to advertise and they take this means of making their wares known to the public."

TERM OF 10 DAYS GIVEN MOTORIST FOR DRUNK DRIVING

Harry Redmond, convicted on a charge of drunken driving before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning was sentenced to ten days in jail.

Redmond was defended by T. J. Carley, K.C. and Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., prosecuted.

Provincial Traffic Officer Lloyd McClure testified that on the night in question his attention had been attracted to a car on Aylmer street between Hunter and Brock streets which swung over on to the wrong side of the road and nearly struck his car.

The officer testified he had followed the other machine which at McDonnel street ran half way across the interesection before being brought to a stop abruptly.

He had followed the motor car to a house on Conger street and there after a man had got out and tried to gain admittance to a house for some time, the automobile was turned round and returned over much the same route, but this time it was being driven more carefully.

Near the corner of Stewart and King streets it had come to a stop and witness found Basil Reid at the wheel of the car and saw Redmond walking away from the machine. He was unsteady in his gait and his breath smelled strongly of beer, the officer stated. Redmond was arrested and brought to the police station.

Read the Number

In cross examination Officer McClure stated that he had obtained the number on Redmond's car while following it on Aylmer street.

"I submit to you," said Mr. Carley, "that you cannot read these 1938 markers unless you are very close to them."

"That is true," said the officer, who added that he had got as close as 25 feet from the Redmond car.

He said that the reason he had followed the other car so long without making an arrest was that he was not in uniform and that he wanted to pick up some witnesses if possible. The Redmond car was being driven slowly.

Basil Reid swore that Redmond was at the wheel of the car at the time of the incident on Aylmer street reported by Officer McClure. The accused had driven up to Conger street and he, the witness, had, at Redmond's request, taken the wheel for the return trip. Reid said that Redmond had been drinking and was "under the weather." "I would not say he was actually drunk," witness said.

Mr. Carley, in cross examination, asked Reid if it were not a fact that he had testified against Redmond to save his own skin, but the witness denied that inference. He admitted that he himself had had two quarts of beer before starting out on the drive but that he was not as much under the influence as was Redmond.

Constable John Naples and Sergt. John Thompson testified that Redmond was drunk when he was brought into the police station and locked up. Reid, they said, did not show the same signs of intoxication.

No evidence was called for the defence and Mr. Carley argued that the only evidence as to who was driving the car had been supplied by Reid and he suggested that the latter was "running for cover" to save himself.

Magistrate Langley said that Redmond had been very ably defended but on all the evidence he found the accused guilty of the offence charged.

A charge against Reid of reckless driving was adjourned.

Twenty Tuberculosis Cases Examined Daily In Clinic

Belleville Unit of Department's Prevention Branch Visits Hastings

HASTINGS, May 11.—A travelling chest clinic sponsored by the Department of Health, tuberculosis prevention branch, has been examining on the average of twenty patients per day here since Monday. This is the third successive year this community has been favoured with this free voluntary service.

Dr. G. G. Brearley, clinician, and D. Wise, X-ray technician, both of Belleville General Hospital, are the attendants. Dr. Brearley has an office arranged in the town hall where patients are examined and Mr. Wise has his X-ray equipment set up in the council chambers.

Dr. Brearley explained the purpose of this service is to assist local doctors to detect tuberculosis in its early stages before the person has had a chance to spread the disease by contact with others and before the patient reaches the incurable stage..

Gets Greater Attention

He pointed out that tuberculosis is given more attention than heart disease, cancer and similar serious diseases, because it could kill a whole family, whereas cancer and heart disease have not yet been found to be contagious.

In the past year this clinic has examined 2,000 cases and found over 100 new cases of tuberculosis. This is an alarming percentage, Dr. Brearley believes.

In addition to this, last year they re-examined 300 repeat cases of tuberculosis and gave advice regarding future treatment.

Over 300 pneumothorax treatments have been given at Belleville General Hosptial last year in addition to their travelling clinic work. This is a treatment where the lung is collapsed by air. "Tuberculosis has very few symptoms in early stages, he explained.

The first travelling chest clinic was established in 1926. New clinic centres were established in Belleville and Ottawa in 1935 and last year, North Bay and Fort William were added.

Dr. Brearley's unit covers an extensive territory from Port Hope to Gananoque and north to Haliburton and Bancroft.

GIVEN TWO MONTHS FOR ILLEGAL SALE

Joseph J. Emery of Howden avenue, North Monaghan, was found guilty by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning on a charge of illegal sale of liquor and was sentenced to two months in jail.

The case against Emery, who was defended by T. J. Carley, K.C., was heard some time ago and Magistrate Langley had reserved judgment until this morning.

In his judgment the Magistrate pointed out that no evidence had been given by the defence and that the evidence of the crown witnesses had established beyond the shadow of a doubt that Emery had sold six bottles filled with some sort of liquid to one of the witnesses for $2. The contents had not been tested and no analysis had been made but three of the witnesses had described the contents as beer and Constable Bruce Menzies had referred to it as vendor's beer. Magistrate Langley said that therefore in default of the defence producing any evidence to show that the contents of the exhibits were not intoxicating he felt at liberty under section 147 of the Liquor Control Act to draw the inference that the contents really were intoxicating, in the absence of proof to the contrary and having regard to the time and manner of the alleged sale.

Fellowship Group Plans Programme

About sixty young people attended the meeting of the Christian Fellowship Group, held under the leadership of Mrs. C. Wasson. The recreation period was taken by C. R. Wasson. A sing-song led by F. Trethewey, and accompanied by H. Delahaye, followed. The Scripture readings were taken by M. Akers, K. Brenton and G. Thompson. A story, "The knight who would not quit," was told by H. Arnold. K. Brenton gave a reading which was followed by a delightful solo, "I can hear my Saviour calling," by Mr. Hueston. Prayer was offered by R. Akers. The meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction. Lunch was served by the girls of the Fellowship Group.

DOING FAMILY BAKING

When two representatives of the Examiner called on the family of John Moir Tuesday on the Hastings-Campbellford road, Mr. Moir was in the act of doing the family baking over the hot stove. One end of the kitchen table was stacked high with cooling cookies of two varieties. Both men agreed after taking lusty samples, they were just about the best cookies they ever ate.

Mrs. Moir, however, was not idle. She was discovered in the pantry preparing the cookies for the oven. Mr. Moir had the hot job but the flavour and texture originated in the pantry—

The United States is unwilling to supply the non-inflammable gas unless they receive an iron-bound guarantee that it will not be used for military purposes.

HOUSING ACT TO BE EXPLAINED

Operation of the Dominion Housing Act, especially in its application to the building of houses in the $2,500-$3,000 bracket, will be discussed and explained by R. W. Card of the Federal Department of Finance at a public meeting in the city council chamber tonight.

The visit of Mr. Card has been sponsored chiefly by the Chamber of Commerce for the purpose of directing attention to this loan feature by which people of moderate incomes can become owners of their own homes. Citizens who are interested in this question, also building tradesmen are urged to attend the meeting which is called for eight o'clock.

The Home Improvement Plan which is still available to the public through the medium of the banks elicited many enquiries about loans sufficient to pay for a new house. At that time the Dominion Housing Act had been shuffled into the background. At the present time it is again receiving general attention and its details will be fully presented by Mr. Card.

Complying with request of the sailors, Britain's navy will issue underwear in five sizes instead of three.

THERE WAS instant confusion in the great living room when the shot rang out. It had come from the direction of Basil Worthington's den. Immediately everyone ran for the wide spaces, draped in velvet, that separated the two rooms. The living room was long, and the study at its far end.

Garry had said one word when the shot occurred. "Wenda!"

Either Wenda or Jimmy Minton would be dead. That was a certainty in Barbara's mind. Garry had turned toward the stairs and was staring down. He flung back the words:

"Don't come, Barbara. Wait!"

She hesitated. No, she didn't want to go down. But she couldn't stay away. There was something she musn't forget. Oh, yes, the gun! It wouldn't do to leave it in Garry's room. It must be handed to Basil with an explanation. Funny how her mind could reason through such unimportant matters when somebody had just been shot—and all the time she thought, she was walking slowly, but surely, down the stairs to the den.

She heard a gasp from beyond the portieres, caught quick questions and a scream and a silence, followed by a rumble of voices.

A figure darted from another door, which opened into the other end of the game room, looked quickly but furtively around the living room and started for the hall.

"Julia!" Barbara said the word as a whisper that refused to accept the presence of her cousin, even while her eyes watched the girl. "Where did you come from? Julia, Julia—— The words died away. Her eyes grew larger and wider, and the room swayed like a boat ,then righted itself. One thought only was in her mind. Julia had kept her word. She had come. What sort of scene had she witnessed in the library? Her words came winging back—"He'll marry me ,or at least he wont marry anyone else!"

"Barbara, how do I get out? Quick, tell me!" Julia's voice was frantic. She darted toward the hall and came back as steps sounded. She ran up the steps. "Hide me a moment—I'll leave then. Oh hurry!"

"You—did it?" Barbara asked.

"No, no. Of course not! Just help me get away!"

There was no time to help or hinder Julia. People were coming back from the den. Half a dozen pairs of eyes sighted the two girls on the stairway.

"I came to see my cousin, Barbara Kingsley," Junia said.

Barbara became aware of Garry's presence. He was coming up the stairs to her. He looked at Julia, and said: "This is an unexpected visit, isn't it, Miss Kingsley?" His voice was low.

"Yes—but Barbara knew I was coming. I had telephoned her."

A scream interrupted. Wenda was coming from the den, supported by two men.. "Is that—that the woman who shot him?" she asked.

"A woman shot him? You saw it?" someone queried her. "You said it came from outside, in the game room ,that you didn't see the person."

"I didn't see anyone," she whispered.

"This is Julia Kingsley, Barbara's cousin," Garry was explaining to the assembled group.

The widening of Wenda's eyes was pregnant with meaning. "The cousin she talked to on the telephone this afternoon She called her Julia."

"Yes," Barbara admitted, fear for Julia mingling with contempt for the girl, and pity mastering both of them. Julia was trapped. She was her cousin. She alone in this group could defend her. "Julia wanted to come out and I hunted Natalie to tell her."

The room was so quiet that a log snapped and people caught their breath at the quiet sound.

Wenda was not through, and her voice came clearly through the silence. "This cousin said she had to come out, that Barbara must invite her out, because she had to see Jimmy Minton!"

Garry's blue eyes were pleading with Barbara. "Did she say that?" he asked.

"I don't know what she said," she answered miserably.

"Oh, she knows but she won't talk," Wenda went on. "Maybe long ago Barbara said it was a shame that it wasn't all right to permit Bobbie to, shoot Jimmy! Remember, Garry?"

She asked the question so quickly that Garry's astonishment at the cleverness of the actress, in choosing what she wished for her revelation, passed for recognition of the thing she told. Barbara saw the glance that passed from face to face.

Natalie spoke swiftly. "This is preposterous! Barbara may have made some idle remark, and goodness knows Jimmy Minton deserved it if she did, but you are not a prosecuting attorney, Miss Ayer, and we are having no cross-examinations by amateurs!"

"Why didn't Barbara come running when the shots were heard if she was surprised?" Wenda came back, ignoring the criticism.

"See here, I can explain that," Garry intervened and again Barbara, on the stairway, with Julia standing below her, had that sense of a jury hearing evidence for a verdict. "She was with me. I told her to wait when the shot rang out."

"Oh, so you are involved, too, Garry?" Wenda asked. "You used to be fond of Barbara—you've always hated Minton. And you hated him worse when he took me from your show to put me in one he was producing for me." She stopped. Barbara knew that the knowledge was just coming home to Wenda that nothing about that show had been down in writing—that it had vanished like a toy balloon with a pin stuck in it. That knowledge sharpened the actress' voice. "Of course you wanted to get me back, Garry! You hated him! You would approve of any plan—anything!"

Others said things. They were just words to Barbara. Basil was kind. Ray was saying biting words to Wenda. Natalie had ordered the girl to keep still. None of the words focused—only Garry's voice when it came again:

"Wenda, neither Barbara nor I know one thing about this beastly affair. That little incident in the den, an hour or so ago, can be explained very easily. We were both upstairs when the shot rang out. The folk here saw me come running..."

Several heads nodded.

"That alibis you," Wenda said. "But it doesn't prove what you knew or didn't know! That girl shot him!" She pointed her finger at Julia.

"But I didn't! I didn't!" Julia cried. "I came out to talk to him —he had asked me to marry him and then he was leaving me — for you!"

"Don't talk, Julia," Barbara said. She knew that every word that Julia said was linking her closer to the murder.

"Don't talk?" one of the men Barbara didn't know repeated, and looked wondering from one girl to the other.

Barbara remembered that she didn't know as yet if Jimmy Minton had been killed outright, if he was wounded dreadfully, or if he had a chance to live. "Is he—did he—I mean, is he dead?" she asked.

Natalie answered. "Death was instantaneous, Barbara. Fortunately one of our guests is a physician, so if there had been any chance to save him we would have known. Dr. Sana is with him now."

The whisper that came from Julia was so frightened that it brought back the pall of silence. "He's—really—dead?" Then the girl slipped to the step in a faint.

As Julia was carried to a great divan below, and the doctor summoned, Barbara did not move. Garry spoke in her ear. "Don't be scared, honey. If Julia did it, it has to come out. You didn't know anything about it. Barbara, sweet, I'm here!"

It was the old Garry, the old voice, the old words. She tried to smile at him. Was he trying to restore her faith and her hope by reverting to the old familiar relationship? He couldn't mean it, of course. Such a few minutes before he had said he loved Wenda and hated her, too. Men didn't change their minds just because somebody else needed protection.

"Im fine, Garry," she answered.

She was aware of every person in the scene in the room below. There was the copper teapot from which she had poured, and the yellow cups, scattered here and there, where they had been left when that shot had come. There was the blazing log on the hearth, and there were cushions and chairs in a friendly circle around the fire.

She was looking at Ray. He stood a little aloof from the others, his eyes puzzled. He took a step to come to her, but Basil Worthington's voice interrupted.

"I'm going to ask each of you to sit down, just where you are, and not to move from the room until the police arrive. This request was made when I talked with headquarters. Fortunately the chief of the department is over at the club, nearby, and it will be only a few minutes until he will be here. Please make yourselves comfortable."

Julia was regaining under the ministrations of the doctor. Her eyelids fluttered and her eyes opened. "I didn't do it!" she said. There was stark terror in her faint voice.

Barbara was seeing again that figure in the shadows. Julia had come stealthily. There wasn't a chance in the world that she could save herself. Her gun would be found and she would be caught.

"Barbara dear, won't you sit down?" Garry was asking.

Barbara became aware that she had been standing all this time with her hands behind her. She couldn't quite remember why. But it seemed that a long time ago it had been necessary to hide something. Oh, yes, something was in her hand. She began to draw her hand forward. Now she remembered. The gun. She must give it to Basil and explain at once.

She moved her hand and took a step forward.

Wenda was watching her. "Look! Everyone! The gun—she has it!"

Lack of Money, Interference by or Preference for Their Own Families and Governing Actions of Offspring Are Stumbling Blocks in Path to Married Happiness

SOMETIMES I think that the ideal set-up for a happy marriage would be for both the husband and wife to be either millionaires or paupers, for them to have been doorstep babies and for them to have no children. At any rate, that would abolish the three principal causes of friction in domestic life.

Married couples quarrel more over money than they do over anything else, and their disagreement as to who shall have the spending of the family income provokes more anger, bitterness, vituperation and leads to more divorces than unfaithfulness and drunkenness and all the combined major and minor sins. They fight over the pocketbook like dogs over a bone. Balancing the home budget is just as controversial a matter as is balancing the national one.

If trees grew greenbacks and all we had to do was to reach out and pluck a handful of the needful; if wives had only to make a few passes and conjure delicious meals out of the air; if we sprouted our own fine feathers and required only a few wisps of straw to construct a perfectly swell house in a desirable neighborhood, we could emulate the birds and "in our little nest agree," as the old song says.

But, alas and alack, such is not the case. We have to pay in good, hard, legal tender for all we get. There is a price tag even on domestic harmony, and that why love and romance begins to flatten out when the wife's daily theme song is not "I adore you, darling," but "Gimme, gimme," and the husband's response is "What did you do with that dollar I gave you last week?"

Bills are the greatest danger that threaten any marriage. Cupid can take a lot of punishment, but when a man begins grouching over the high cost of supporting a family and reproaching his wife for the way pork chops have soared and she says, goodness knows, she has pinched every penney and hasn't had a decent hat for two years, and why can't he make more money like Mr. Smith does, the little pink god packs up his kit and scrams.

The next thing that married people quarrel over is each other's families whom they appear to regard as their hereditary foes against whom they must always be on the defense. Of course, the basis of this is jealousy. No bride could be as green-eyed over any siren, though she were Jeanette MacDonald and Greta Garbo rolled into one, as she is of her husband's fat old mother. Nor could any bridegroom be as suspicious and as much on guard against any Lothario as he is of his mother-in-law.

Hence the young wife feeds her husband's family on cold shoulder when they come to visit him, and he goes into the sulks when hers are camped in the guest chamber. For each to mention his or her people in a laudatory manner is like waving a red flag before a mad bull to the other.

"Why can't you make bread like Mother used to make?" "Mother thinks we should do so-and-so" are fighting words in virtually every family. And one of the main reasons that husbands and wives can never discuss any problem logically together is because in about two minutes they have got away from that they started out to decide and got their hands in each other's families' hair.

The third thing that married couples quarrel over is the children. They rarely see eye to eye about how their youngsters should be brought up. Father thinks they should be disciplined or spoiled while Mother is determined to bring them up according to the Baby Book, or it is the other way about. Especially does this issue become acute when the children get to the adolescent stage and begin to want to step out a bit.

Generally, then, Father, who has been overly indulgent, wants to calmp down on them. He thinks it is absurd for Mary, who is still a baby, to want to go to parties and have boy friends, and he is all for taking away from Dick the automobile he has given him. Mother, who wants her daughter to be a belle and have a good time and who realizes that they can't keep their children from doing what everybody else's children are doing, champions their cause. And she and Father battle over it until they almost come to the parting of the ways.

So, if we could eliminate money and family and children from marriage, it might be a lot more peaceful than it is at present.

Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND JIMMIE'S SHOWER

Out of the Hollow Tree School rushed the animal boys who lived near Uncle Wiggily's stump bungalow.

"Hurry! Hurry! Hurry!" they shouted.

"I suppose they all said their lessons perfectly, didn't they?" asked the rat gentleman janitor, as he brushed some chalk dust off his whiskers.

"Well, no, I wouldn't say that," laughed Miss Mouse. "But they did very well and now they are—"

"Going to do their home work, I suppose," chattered Mr. Rat after he had begged the pardon of Miss Mouse for interrupting.

"No, they are going to play ball," said Miss Mouse.

First Base

"So I hear!" chuckled the rat gentleman panitor. Over in the vacant lots he heard Billy Wagtail, the goat, bleating:

"I want to be catcher!"

"I want to be pitcher!" chattered

"Oh, my goodness! A May shower!"

Johnnie Bushytail, a squirrel.

"I'll play first base," offered Jacko Kinkytail, a monkey boy. He could jump very high and catch balls that were sailing over his head. Sometimes Jacko caught them in the quirk of his tail. So they all agreed Jacko should play first base.

In a little while the game started and the Lady Mouse Teacher of the Hollow Tree School, as she crept past the ballfield, had to hold her paws over her ears so she would not be deafened by the shouts.

After the boy animals had been playing ball some time, along hopped Baby Bunty, the orphan rabbit, Jingle and Jangle, the twins, and Arabella Chick, the hen girl.

"May we play ball with you?" asked Baby Bunty.

"No!" cried Jackie Bow Wow, a puppy dog.

"No! No! No!" shouted all the other animal boys. "No girls!"

"Oh, dear!" sighed Baby Bunty sadly. And just then along came hopping Uncle Wiggily.

"I will help you girl animals get up a ball game," offered the jolly rabbit gentleman. "Here is a soft rubber ball with a hole in it. You can pitch and bat this ball."

To the Rescue

This made the girl animals happy and they were soon playing ball like the boys over near the Duck Pond. All of a sudden Jingle knocked the ball into the pond.

"Oh! Oh! Oh!" cried the other players.

"Unkie Wig will get the ball from the pond," said Baby Bunty.

But Uncle Wiggily couldn't swim and the girl animals were afraid to go in thep ond, so Uncle Wiggily called to Jimmie Wibblewobble, the duck boy and asked him to swim out and get the floating rubber ball.

"Sure, I'll do that," quacked Jimmie, who had just made a home run. Into the duck pond he jumped and with his yellow, webbed feet, he paddled out to the ball, which he took in his beak.

"There you are, Uncle Wiggily!" quacked Jimmie. But as he spoke he opened his mouth and he closed his mouth and in doing that he bit his beak or bill hard down on the rubber ball . And the ball, being filled with water, it squirted like a fountain all over Mr. Longears.

"Oh, my goodness! A May shower!" cried the rabbit gentleman as he found himself all dripping wet. But he didn't mind as it was a warm day. He was soon dry again and went on playing ball with the animal girls and having fun.

And if the hammer will please stop hitting the nail on the head long enough for the poor thing to put on a hat, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's long teeth.

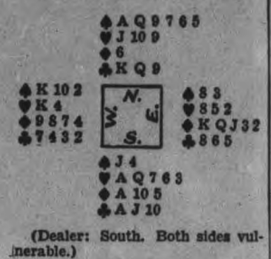
BLIND MAN'S BUFF

IF YOU think the declarer has you beaten by straightforward bridge, try to inveigle him into the old-fashioned game of blind man's buff. Make him grope around in the dark imagining the situation is entirely different from what it really is. By befuddling him, you may cause him to bump his head against a door while trying to protect himself from an imaginary obstruction which doesn't exist.



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

North and South reached a contract of 6-Hearts on this deal. South opened with 1-Heart, North called 1-Spade, South 2-No Trumps, North 3-Spades, South 4-Hearts and North 6-Hearts.

West felt that he had a fair chance of cashing the heart K, but from the bidding had little hope of winning a trick with his spade K. The opening bidding of the opponents indicated there was small chance that East would capture a trick.

In desperation, therefore, West led the spade 2, hoping South would read it for a singleton. South gave the lead very thoughtful consideration and finally went up with the A, figuring that if East held the K, and the lead had been a singleton, the play might cost him an extra trick.

West was highly elated when he saw the A played, for he then knew the contract was set.

Tomorrow's Problem

Against bidding of 1-Spade by East, 2-Hearts by West, 3-Spades by East, 4-Clubs by West and 4-Spades by East, what should South lead?

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, May 12.

According to the lunar transits, this is a day beset by conflicting astral conditions. While financial and business prospects are under expansive influences, yet there are some sinister indications hinting of treachery, fraud, and irregular dealings. Be alert to these and guard against incriminating or ill-advised speech or writings. Avert scandal.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of mixed influences, with definite attainments in a financial way and in the endorsement and solid co-operation of superiors. However, there are portents of fraud, trickery, questionable dealings and much underhand conniving. Be vigilant to these and be careful with all writings and speech, lest these precipitate disagreeable conditions or probable scandal.

A child born on this day may be capable and ambitious, mentally quick and clever, with possibly more craftiness than integrity. Its hasty speech or ready facility in writing may involve it in treachery, fraud or scandal.

Run Down—Tired Out Only Weighed 96 lbs.

Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills are what weak, nervous, run down men and women need to help make them strong and well again.

They are a well balanced tonic for the treatment of those whose nerves are shattered, and for those feelings of faintness, weakness and dizziness caused by an overworked, run down constitution, or whose health is not up to par.

They help to infuse new life and energy into depressed, health shattered men and women who have come to think there is no relief for them.

Mrs. P. Broughton, Fenwick, Ont., writes:—"I was so run down and tired out all the time I did not care whether my housework was done or not.

I only weighed 96 pounds, but after taking three boxes of Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills I now weigh 122 pounds, and do my own work for eight in the family.

I only wish I had started taking H. & N. Pills a year ago."

Mrs. J. H. Quirt
President Central H. and S.

The regular monthly meeting and annual election of officers of Central School Home and School Association was held on Monday evening in the kindergarten room of the school. Mrs. C. H. McWilliams, the retiring president, presided, and opened the meeting with the Lord's Prayer, repeated in unison. The reports of the secretary and treasurer were read and adopted. The convenors of the various committees were called upon for their reports of the year's work, and each gave brief outlines which they had prepared very satisfactorily.

An interesting and enjoyable half-hour was spent by the meeting when Mrs. C. H. McWilliams, the delegate to the O.E.A. convention in Toronto, gave a concise and colorful report of the sessions which she attended. Mrs. F. Smith also attended the convention as a delegate from Central. Mrs. McWilliams also read a poem composed by Mrs. E. Wand.

A message from the Y.W.C.A. requesting the members to attend the pageant was read.

The president then called upon Mrs. E. Wand to take the chair in order to conduct the installation of officers. Before vacating the chair, Mrs. McWilliams thanked the officers and members for their co-operation and help during the three years in which she has successfully guided the affairs of the Association. The Federation has recommended that a president's term of office be not longer than three years.

The election resulted as follows: Hon. President, Mrs. K. S. Wightman; President, Mrs. J. H. Quirt; First Vice-President, Mrs. C. Phillips; Second Vice-President, Mrs. Poulson; Secretary, Mrs. L. Callander; Treasurer, Mrs. L. Raper. Convenors of committees: Health, Mrs. N. Stanger; Membership, Mrs. G. Metcalfe; Telephone, Mrs. H. Delahaye; Sick and Visiting, Mrs. G. Hempstead; Relief, Mrs. G. E. Marshall; Social, Mrs. Honor and Mrs. W. Payne; Press, Mrs. J. Wyllie; Pianist and Program, Mrs. A. H. Radford; Representative to Home and School Council, Mrs. C. Phillips; Local Council of Women, Mrs. C. H. McWilliams and Mrs. F. Smith.

Mrs. Wand, after the installation ceremony, spoke briefly to the officers about their duties. After taking the chair, the new president, Mrs. Quirt, addressed the meeting briefly, and thanked the members for the honor conferred upon her and hoped for the same co-operation as shown to her predecessor.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem, with Mrs. Radford at the piano.

Miss Dorothy Anderson and Mr. Meiklejohn played two delightful guitar selections during the evening. An interesting report of her attendance at the meetings of the Ontario Educational Association Convention in Toronto during Easter week was given by Mrs. E. Wand.

Business included plans for a garden party in June and for the annual school picnic. An interesting item was the reading of the first meeting of King George Home and School Association as reported in an Examiner of May, 1920.

Lily Lake Society
Guests of St. Andrew's Y.P.

Members of the Lily Lake Christian Endeavour Society were guests of St. Andrew's Young People's Union Tuesday evening, and had charge of the meeting. The visitors were welcomed by the Misses Dorothy Ridyard, and Corinne McArthur, also James Harvey and Jack McKone. Miss Alta Wilson, past president of the Lily Lake Society, presided, with Walter Morrow at the piano. During the devotional period, Harold Thompson led in prayer and Cecil Hancock read the scripture lesson.

Miss Wilson spoke on the subject of choosing a vocation wisely. There are three kinds of vocations in life, she said, those in which a person deals with things, as the farmer, or carpenter; with ideas, as the poet or philosopher; or with people, as the minister or doctor. Each person should strive to find his particular aptitude, and if possible take the course his gifts dictate. We often find that by trial and experiment we are led in the right direction, the speaker pointed out, showing that though the first may be failure, the second or third may prove successful.

There are certain questions which every young Christian should ask at the threshold of life, she continued. They are: what does the world need most, and what is the will of God for my life? Every person should cultivate his own gifts whatever they may be, and should render enthusiastic service to Christ and his Church. One need not necessarily be a minister or a missionary to do good, the speaker declared, in all the vocations service can be rendered if one has the right psirit.

A period of recreation directed by James Harvey, followed Miss Miss Wilson's fine address. Refreshments were served later by the social committee under the Misses Dorothy and Betty Harle, Margaret Lytle and other helpers.

The many guests were served tea in the dining room, where the table was beautifully arranged with a Cluny lace cloth, a lovely bouquet of daffodils, tulips and roses, and tall tapers in silver holders. Two nieces of Mr. Bell, Mrs. Sam McKibbon and Mrs. Sam McKee, presided, and assitants were the granddaughters and a great granddaughter, Doreen Northey. The guest of honors family who are living, were all present, including: Mrs. Ernest Rosborough, Mrs. Fred Bell, Smith township, Mrs. Whitfield Northey and Wilbert Bell of Peterborough, and Mrs. Fred Webdale of Lakefield. Mr. Bell's only living brother was also able to be present, William Bell of Smith township, also a brother-in-law, G. Wiliam Mann of Smith township, who recently celebrated his 90th birthday.

Asked the question during the evening, "How he attained his long span of years and good health?" Mr. Bell replied, "Through living a pure clean life. I don't smoke and I drink no liquor. I eat no meat, I drink no tea and I keep regular hours." Many handsome gifts and many bouquets of spring flowers were received, also letters of congratulation from distant parts of Canada and the States, among them letters from his two remaining sisters, Mrs. Dorcas Stewart and Mrs. Victoria Lang of Santa Monica, California.

General arrangements for the delightful evening were in charge of Mrs. Ada Gardener and Miss Emma Rosborough.

Television has cost the British Government $2,500,000 in 18 months.

The French-Grieves Wedding

Play Is Presented by St. Luke's Anglican Young People's Association

A good sized audience watched the 3-act play, "Barbara Makes a Splash," staged by the A.Y.P.A. of St. Luke's Church Tuesday evening, with the president, Bert Pammett, making a capable chairman. An interesting event, the production showed that some of the young people, acting for the first time, have promise for the future.

Half the action of the play takes place in the office of the "Wescott Motor Company," where Barbara Allison (Roma Reid) is private secretary. The company, manufacturing what promises to be "the fastest car in the world," is in financial difficulties, and Barbara, who has its interests very much at heart, suggests to Mr. Wescott (Cecil Hope) that the wealthy Samuel Harris (Ernest Bell) could help them with a large loan.

Jimmy Wescott (Ralph Mason) plans to drive a Wescott car in the next big race, and he and Barbara are very much in love, the latter unsuspecting that the older Wescott is the man, who ten years before took all her father's savings in exchange for worthless deeds and so caused his death. Barbara learns the truth from Horace Townsend (Floyd Curtis), an old friend, who turns up from her home town, in revenge she persuades Mr. Harris to withdraw his assistance, and the company goes down with a big "splash" in the business world.

A light note is provided throughout by the love affairs of Charlie Denton (Arthur Sayers) and Nonie Galloway (Daisy Bell), also of Horace Townsend and Marjie Rennsler (Dorothy Green). Charlie, a clerk in the Wescott office, continually proposes to Nonie, a friend of Barbara's, and employed also in the office, and Nonie, as persistently refuses him.

The part of Barbara, the attractive secretary, was a very heavy one and was well played by Roma Reid, who presented a most convincing portrait of the girl, whose mind is deeply troubled by what she has resolved to do, and yet whose loyalty to her father's memory is unswerving. Daisy Bell and Arthur Sayers as the stenographer and clerk are deserving of praise also for their natural and humorous portrayals. Floyd Curtis should receive special mention also for his part, portraying exceedingly well the character of Horace Townsend, who strives with repeated reminders from Marjie to impersonate her dream of an Englishman, complete with monocle. Dorothy Green made a delightful Marjie, and the other parts were all well taken also.

The production was directed by Miss Queenie Hope, dramatic convenor, with her assistants, Mrs. F. Curtis and Arthur Sayers, the committee receiving valuable assistance also from Miss Cathleen McCarthy. Others to whom credit is due include V. Sedgewick, stage manager, assisted by C. Hamilton, and property man B. Pammett. A good deal of trouble had been taken with the scenery and the office was cleverly changed for the 3rd act into a pretty sitting room, with French windows.

Between acts an additional feature, most popular and thrilling to young and older alike, was the performance of a 'magician,' R. Hardy, whose exceedingly clever program included the producing of bouquets of flowers from the air, card tricks, manipulating of 'magic' sticks and rings and producing a number of optical illusions.

A door prize, won by Miss Galvin, appeared as large parcel, which proved after successive wrappings had been discarded, to contain a silver dollar. Little packages of delicious homemade candy placed on decorated trays were sold by Joyce Wyatt and Monica Lawless, with Eva Patterson in charge. W. Hill was treasurer at the door.

COMMISSION ASKS ONTARIO'S VIEWS ON ITS "19 POINTS"

TORONTO, May 11—(CP).—Views of the Ontario Government on 19 points held to be essential to any new economic or administrative formula that may be devised as a result of the Royal Commisison inquiry into Dominion-Provincial relations is sought by the commissioners in a questionnaire they have submitted to Premier Hepburn.

The Premier, earlier in the inquiry sitting at Queen's Park, informed the commission that the questions were of such importance and broad scope that they could be answered only after they had been given the consideration of the entire cabinet. The government's views are to be forwarded to the commission in a formal documentary presentation.

On each point the commission has asked the government to not only state its opinion, but to give its recommendations on how the proposals can best be carried out.

The commission completed Ontario sittings yesterday and moves on to Quebec where it opens sittings Thursday—without Chairman N. W. Rowell.

Rowell Has Cold

Mr. Rowell is confined to his home, on the advice of his physician, suffering from a slight cold. Three weeks ago he was similarly confined for a few days.

At his request, however, the commission has decided to adhere to its program and will begin its Quebec sittings Thursday under the chairmanship of Commissioner Dr. Joseph Sirois.

When the Quebec hearing is completed, the commission will open at Fredericton immediately after.

The commission heard half a dozen submissions here yesterday, winding up with the Housewives Association of Canada. Just before it received the suggestions of the League for Economic Democracy and the Economic Reform League for reforming the monetary and economic system.

The 19 Questions

The questions submitted to Premier Hepburn follow:

Is it the government's opinion there should be any change in the financial basis of confederation or in the distribution of legislative powers?

Does the government suggest any change in the present system of taxation?

Does the Government believe the weight of taxation is too great and should be reduced?

Is the Government of the opinion that the refunding of the public debt at lower interest rates is feasible? This suggestion was emphasized in Western Canada briefs. It asks also if the Government believed a refunding scheme should be accompanied by some form of debt control to prevent an undue reaccumulation of an undue burden of debt?

Should a province be unable to carry on financially, should it be allowed to default or should assistance be given to it? Information on the type of assistance and regulation is asked also.

Should subsidies from the Dominion to the provinces continue to form a part of the Canadian Federal structure?

Is the method of conditional subsidies by the Dominion to the provinces generally satisfactory in the Canadian Federal system?

Does the Government believe that its present methods of alleviating the burden of taxation upon real estate give an adequate measure of relief to municipal finances and property owners?

What is the Government's opinion concerning municipal taxation on: Government-owned commercial enterprises, Government-owned utilities, Government buildings and other Crown lands?

Would the Government indicate where there is prodigality, waste and overlapping in public administration?

Would the Government indicate where economies can be affected in public administration?

A Vicious Circle.

The commissioners pointed out that the Government submitted that a vicious circle has developed under the capitalist system, whereby the revenue for social services has to be raised by taxation with a resulting increase in prices and decrease in consumption resulting in unemployment and the necessary expansion of social services. They asked if the Government thought a revision in the system was necessary, and if the governments of Canada were providing too few or too many social services.

What form of national economy does the Government suggest to insure wide distribution of the proceeds of productive effort? And what policy does it believe the State should adopt in order to insure the profitable employment of the great mass of its citizens?

Does the Government believe, as recommended by the Nova Scotia Government, there should be an annual Dominion-Provincial conference, with a permanent secretariat for research and the collection of statistics?

Does the Government believe that provision should be made in the B.N.A. Act for delegation or transference of legislative power from a province to the Dominion or vice versa, to provide greater flexibility in the constitutional framework?

Is it the Government's view that any economies for governments and individuals would result from the attainment of uniformity in company law, securities, frauds regulations and company returns?

In the opinion of the Government, should any alteration be made in the constitutional jurisdiction over insurance?

What is the Government's view as to the inclusion in the Canadian constitution of safeguards for fundamental right of citizenship, such as freedom of speech, of the press, of assembly and of access to the courts?

Is the Government of the opinion that Canada should have the same power to legislate with respect to implementing international treaties and conventions under the present status as she had under her former status in respect of "Imperial treaties?"

Candid camera shots clicked at random in Peterborough the other afternoon are shown here. The unsuspecting victims were intent on other things when the Examiner photographer "shot" them. Hitler Back On His Own German Soil Wires Thanks To King Victor

Brenner Pass, May 11 (AP).—CHANCELLOR HITLER'S special train, carrying him homeward from a nine-day visit to Italy, crossed into Germany today. The Governor of Austria, Arthur Seyss-Inquart, welcomed the Fuehrer at the frontier.

On reaching German soil, Hitler telegraphed his thanks to King Vittorio Emanuele and Queen Elena for their hospitality.

"Ever memorable will be the happy reception accorded me by the Fascist people and the demonstrations of Italian military forces which are above all praise," he said.

He assured Il Duce in a message that the "ideologies of the Fascist and national socialist movements are guarantees that the true comradeship connecting us will be for ever carried into our nations."

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARSAW, May 11—There was a large attendance of both Cottesloe and Warsaw W.M.S. members on Thursday afternoon, which was held at the home of Mrs. Harold Payne. Mrs. Allan Taylor presided. Mrs. Taylor welcomed the Cottesloe ladies and announced that all officers of all the branches are asked to meet in George St. Church, Peterborough on May 18, in the afternoon. FACTIONS DISTURB U.A.W.A. EXECUTIVE DETROIT, May 11—(AP).—Factionalism within the United Automobile Workers of America was foremost among half a dozen problems before a meeting of its internationa lexecutive board opening yesterday.

What for months had been a rivalry between two groups within the Committee for Industrial Organization union appears to have undergone a realignment that finds the membership divided under the leadership of three influential U.A.-W.A. officials.

Homer Martin, the clergyman who became the union's international president, heads the "Progressive" faction which has remained in the driver's seat despite prolonged opposition of the "Unity" group, led by Walter Reuther, president of Detroit's big west side local.

A truce between the two groups seemingly took place at the U.A.-W.A. convention at Milwaukee last August, and Martin was re-elected for two years, but not all their differences actually were buried.

Another Unit

Lately a third faction has emerged under the leadership of Richard T. Frankensteen, who was elected a vice-president and subsequently was designated assistant president by the 24-member executive board.

The husky Frankensteen, without Martin's approval, submitted to the board members his own plan for ending the factionalism. For this he was rebuked by the U.A.W.A. president. Most of Frankensteen's following is said to have come from the Reuther-Unity camp.

It was understood that Frankensteen and Reuther would lay before the board separate programs to reunite the divergent groups. It was said also that charges "probably" would be brought against Martin, but the possibility of his removal was considered remote.

Other subjects on the board agenda are proposals to reduce union expenses, conduct an organizing drive in shops competing with unionized factories, organize aircraft industry workers, and intensify the campaign to enroll Ford employees.

POOR ADVERTISING

Taxpayers of Glasgow, Scotland, are aroused because advertisements of the Empire Exhibition were sent with notices that taxes were due.

Wild Geese Flock At Barry's Lake

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASINGS, May 11 — Many citizens have visited Barry's Lake, two miles south of here, to view a flock of 23 wild geese that have been there for two weeks. A duck hunter said it was very unusual for geese to stay in this vicinity more than a day. They usually go farther north.

UNEASY BRITAIN DOUBLES ORDER ON WAR PLANES

Need 40,000 More Fliers; Balloon Barrage Charged "Farce" to Fool Nations

LONDON, May 12.—(CP Cable).—Great Britain is to double her first line strength in the air. Under a new expansion scheme announced by Earl Winterton, Chancelor of the Duchy of Lancaster, in the House of Commons to-day she is to have 3,500 first line machines by March, 1940.

The existing scheme, known as "Scheme F," calls for a first line strength of 1,750 first line machines by April, 1939. First line strength does not include reserves. Nor does it include the air forces of the Dominions.

Lord Winterton disclosed the government considers important "the possibility of building up war potential in Canada" but did not explain the reference beyond mentioning the air mission now in North America inquiring into the aircraft situation there.

The new scheme will mean the enrolment of another 40,000 officers and men within the next two years. Royal Air Force personnel now numbers 70,000. It will mean the establishment of 30 new airdromes and new flying schools all over the country. It will involve an increase in the size of the squadrons. It will mean increased reserves.

Be Tripled Later.

Lord Winterton, spokesman for the Royal Air Force in the Commons—the Secretary for Air, Viscount Swinton, is in the House of Lords—said he had received assurances from the constructors that production of aircraft would be increased 50 per cent. within the next 12 months. Afterwards it would be increased to three times the present rate.

He declared the types of aircraft now supplied the R.A.F. were very satisfactory. The new types would be still more satisfactory.

TORONTO, May 12.—(CP)— The Ontario Milk Board informed Mayor Ralph Day of Toronto that a new milk price agreement has been entered into between milk distributors supplying Toronto and district, which will provide a lower price structure for milk.

The letter stated the revised agreement would go into effect almost immediately and the board of control decided to interview the Milk Board under provisions of the legislation which provides that before a revised agreement is made consumers' representatives should be heard.

U.S. SEEKING ISLES IN PACIFIC WASTE FOR DEFENCE LINE

WASHINGTON, May 12 (A.P.).—The United States Navy intends to add to its wartime "lien of observation" in the Pacific Ocean a few more islets near Canton and Enderbury Islands, authoritative persons said to-day in explanation of a Bill pending in the House of Representatives. Canton and Enderbury are claimed by both Great Britain and the United States.

An obscure $25,000 item in a measure which the House Naval Affairs Committee approved yesterday involves purchase by the Navy of portions of the tiny Palmyra group, about 1,000 miles south of Honolulu, informed persons said.

The projected acquisition fits into the Navy's plans for a half-circle of island warning stations about Hawaii. The House Bill would authorize $28,751,000 for 43 shore construction projects, the largest in Hawaii, Alaska, and the Canal Zone.

BENNETT LOSES SISTER MILDRED, MRS. HERRIDGE

Was Popular as Hostess In New York and Ottawa; Aided 'R-B' in Campaign

NEW YORK, May 12.—(CP)—Mrs. W. D. Herridge, wife of the former Canadian Minister to the United States and sister of Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, former prime minister of Canada, died in a hospital here today.

Although Mrs. Herridge who was in her late 40's had been seriously ill for the last several weeks, her death had not been expected.

Mr. Herridge was at her bedside when she died. Mr. Bennett was preparing to leave Canada for New York at the time.

Her husband will accompany the body to Ottawa tonight. Funeral arrangements will be completed there.

Mrs. Herridge was the former Mildred Bennett. She was born at Hopewell Cape, N.B., the daughter of Henry J. and Henrietta Stiles Bennett.

Popular in Washington

Her marriage to Mr. Herridge took place in Ottawa while her brother was serving at Prime Minister of Canada. Soon after her marriage she accompanied her husband to Washington and was one of the United States capitol's most popular hostesses during her residence in the ministerial mansion.

Mrs. Herridge entered Memorial Hospital here about five weeks ago. Medical reports since then had been to the effect her condition was favorable and hopes had been held for her recovery. However, her condition suddenly became critical last night. She sank rapidly.

The marriage of Mildred Mariann Bennett and William Duncan Herridge on April 14, 1931, was an outstanding social event in the Canadian capital. It took place six weeks before Mr. Herridge, a prominent lawyer and distinguished soldier, proceeded to Washington as Canada's envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary. Mr. Herridge served in that post until October, 1935.

Mr. Herridge's first wife, who was Rose Fleck of Ottawa, died in 1925.

Mourned In Ottawa

OTTAWA, May 12 (CP)—Residents of the capital city here received with profound sorrow and a sense of personal news of the death of Mrs. W. D. Herridge in New York. Throughout Ottawa's administrative and public circles Mrs. Herridge was merely "Mildred" — the Christian name of the woman who had endeared herself to those who claimed her acquaintance.

Few women were as well known to the Canadian people as Mildred Herridge, not because she had for years been the Chatelaine of a household whose head was her distinguished brother, the Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, but because of her natural capacity for making friends. She never forgot those whom she had met; her memory for remembering names and faces was a gift

Move by Britain, France Gives Nations Free Hand In Regard to Ethiopian Situation And Dooms Negus' Hopes for His Empire

GENEVA, May 12 (AP).—Last hopes of Haile Selassie of blocking an Anglo-French move to recognize Italy's conquest of his Ethiopian empire vanished today as a majority of the delegates of the League of Nations council declared in favor of recognition.

The council members' judgment came after a session in which the fallen Ethiopian ruler made a despairing appeal against recognition and demanded that the issue be taken to the whole assembly.

The black-garbed Negus sat silent at the council table as the president, Wilhelm Munters, Latvian foreign minister, summed up:

"The great majority of members feel that despite regrets it is for individual members to decide as they choose."

Proponents of recognition, chief among them great Britain and France, considered this summation and the preceding declarations left league states free to recognize Italy's king as emperor of Ethiopia.

Russia, Bolivia Neutral.

Ten nations declared in favor of recognition. New Zealand and China were opposed. Soviet Russia and Bolivia took neutral positions although opposed in principle.

Munster's summary simply passed over without comment Haile Selassie's plea that the question be carried to the Assembly.

The Negus' aides said they would fight out his exact status in the September meeting of the Assembly.

Bitterest opposition to recognition came from New Zealand, whose delegate, W. J. Jordan, said: "This is a return to the laws of the jungle."

The Dominion's spokesman, who is New Zealand High Commissioner in London, opened his speech by saying: "We sometimes seem to be but little different from brutes." He called the Anglo-French plan "a direct denial of collective responsibilities which are a fundamental part of the League."

HOUSE TURNS IRE ON COMMENTATORS C.B.C. BEEN USING

OTTAWA, May 12 — (CP) — Charges that one of the regular news commentary features of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation contained imaginary facts and "Communist twaddle" enlivened a "free speech" debate in the House of Commons yesterday.

The Government was urged by some members not to "muzzle" the corporation in this respect, while others took strong exception to the people's money being spent on paid commentators who voiced their own opinions which were often at variance with beliefs prevailing in the House itself.

The programs specifically mentioned were those on which Dr. H. L. Stewart, Professor of Philosophy at Dalhousie University, Halifax, and George V. Ferguson, managing editor of The Winnipeg Free Press, at regular intervals, broadcast on a national network.

In the House, Tuesday night, the subject was raised by T. L. Church (Con., Toronto - Broadview), who criticized the corporation's policy of airing these broadcasts as well as others dealing with international affairs.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King on that occasion, agreed that radio commentators should not voice opinions and criticisms of internal affairs of other countries to an extent not indulged in by members of the House of Commons. Such criticisms and comments were unwise during critical times, and he suggested that the remarks he was then making might be sufficient to deter the corporation.

Curb On the C.B.C.?

The Prime Minister's statement was interpreted by M. J. Coldwell (C.C.F., Rosetown-Biggar), and by others yesterday as indicating the Government would put a curb on the corporation with respect to the Stewart-Ferguson broadcasts in particular.

Mr. Mackenzie King was not in the House during any part of the discussion, but Transport Minister Howe, who was piloting through Committee of the Whole, a bill amending the Radiotelegraph Act, answered for him.

Mr. Howe suggested the Prime Minister was expressing his personal views and that no action had been taken to muzzle the Radio Corporation. No such action could

Groom Gets Cheque Five Feet Long

IT WAS the biggest cheque the teller had ever seen. It was five feet long and 20½ inches wide and instructed the Banque Canadienne Nationale to pay Eddy Larivee $150. Signed by A. S. Gregoire, the cheque represented the wedding gift by ninety of Larivee's friends, and the bank duly cashed it today.

Eddy plans to marry Henriette Noel, Quebec, next Monday. Friends presented him with the monster cheque at a stag party. The wording and figures were to scale. Gregoire signed it with a flourishing signature as large as an ordinary cheque itself. The two three-cent stamps, however, were standard size.

TRANSPORT TRUCK MEN SEE MENACE IN AGREED CHARGE

OTTAWA, May 12.—(CP).—Automotive transport organizations today combined to protest against Transport Minister Howe's bill extending jurisdiction of the Board of Railway Commissioners to cover aircraft and certain forms of shipping. They levelled their argument solely on the provision permitting a carrier to make an agreed charge with a shipper for transport of all or part of his goods.

Seeing the $4,000,000 Canadian Highway transport investment imperilled if the railways made agreed charges, Lewis Duncan, K.C., of Toronto, called the bill "a most dangerous threat to the common carrier." Appearing for the Ontario Automotive Transport Association before the House of Commons Railway committee, he supported the arguments advanced earlier by M. J. Patton of Toronto for the Canadian Automotive Transportation Association.

"You are not suggesting if this bill goes through the trucks will be put out of business?" asked Dr. A. M .Young (Lib. Saskatoon).

"This is a most dangerous threat to the common carrier," Mr. Duncan replied. It was a "blunderbuss" directed against the carrier.

In Ontario alone there are 75,000 trucks, representing an investment of more than $150,000,000, he said. There are 200,000 trucks in Canada and the investment is $400,000,000

This was supplied mainly by private individuals who put all their money into the venture. For them, everything was at stake.

WHEAT HARVEST IS 2ND LARGEST IN SOUTHERN U.S

Railroads Issue Orders For 40,000 Grain Cars To Carry Flow North

CHICAGO, May 12.—(AP)—The vast machinery that moves food from farm to consumer was being mobilized today to handle the second largest winter wheat crop ever produced in the United States.

With harvest of the first new wheat reported in the south and threshers scheduled to move into Texas fields within a week or 10 days, railroads were making plans to concentrate a record number of cars in the southwest to haul the grain to market.

Elevator interests and millers, likewise, were preparing for the influx of wheat that will give work to farmers, transportation agencies, handlers, processors and grain dealers throughout the producing belt. The flow of grain will move northward as the season progresses.

The car service division of the Association of American Railroads has issued orders for concentration of 40,000 to 50,000 box cars suitable for loading grain in the wheat belt.

The 754,000,000 bushel crop forecast in the latest official Department of Agriculture estimate would have a market value of $600,000,000.

JAPS TAKE AMOY, U.S. BLUEJACKETS HELP FOREIGNERS

SHANGHAI, May 12. — (AP)—United States bluejackets today patrolled the small international settlement on Kulangsu Island, off the South China coast, as thousands of refugees and soldiers poured in after Japanese naval forces captured nearby Amoy.

The Japanese reported occupation of Amoy Island, including the city of Amoy, important port 600 miles south of Shanghai. All foreigners were said to be safe.

The Japanese reported new gains on the Shantung front, where fully a dozen columns were moving steadily toward the Lunghai railway against "stubborn" resistance.

On the left wing of this 65-mile front, the Japanese said they had occupied Langtzelu, south of Tancheng and only three miles from the Lunghai, and said the Chinese were in "ful flight." This is the nearest they have approached the vital east-west railroad in their five-months drive.

Two Chinese divisions fighting at Matowchen, five miles northwest of Tancheng, were said to have been "almost annihilated."

While Kulangsu Island, ordinarily populated by 250 foreigners and 40,000 Chinese, was reported quiet, the great influx of refugees presented an increasing problem. It was to help control the refugees and safeguard United States property that the United States bluejackets landed from the gunboat Asheville.

The United States destroyer Edsall left Shanghai today en route to the South China coast for patrol duty. It was believed it might go to Foochow where Americans might need assistance in the event of developments such as those at Amoy.

U.S. Plays At War As "Enemy" Attacks From Atlantic

Fighting Planes And Fleet Practice Keeping European Power Out Of America

NEW YORK, May 12.—(AP)—Searchlight batteries of the United States army's coast artillery stabbed the skies in the early morning darkness throughout the metropolitan area of New York today as the general headquarters air force went on a wartime footing for elaborate manoeuvres involving "invasion" by a European power.

For five days, 24 hours a day, starting last midnight, the G.H.Q. and the combat units of the army's air power, will try to 'repel a foe which, in number of airplanes, has been described by the umpires as far superior to the defending forces.

A fleet of warships—so the tactical problem decrees—is approaching the United States coast somewhere in the New England area. Another powerful fleet is in mid-Atlantic, steaming to bolster the forces which will attempt to gain a foothold on this continent.

At 18 airdromes in six states, blanketing the rich industrial east, 3,000 oficers and men and slightly less than 200 Amercian warplanes are waiting for word to take off on reconnaissance, strafing or bombing missions.

The defence problem of the "blue" forces is two-fold: to prevent an actual landing of troops on the mainland or on any island adjacent to it; and to prevent bombing raids on industrial districts whose products are essential to victory.

Signs of recession are reported in Czechoslovakia.

JUDGE REFUSES TO LIFT MURDER CASE FROM JURY

Claim Woman Followed The Accused to Toronto And Once to Peterboro'

TORONTO, May 12 (C.P.).—Defence of Robert J. Irwin, charged with the murder of Mrs. Nora Thormin on Feoruary 26, began to-day after Mr. Justice Norman Urguhart refused a request that the case be taken from the jury. She died of injuries which included a broken jaw and internal hurts.

G. W. Ford and Ross Wilson, appearing for Irwin, argued the Crown had produced nothing but evidence of opportunity and suspicion and that a prima facie case had not been established. Crown Prosecutor W. O. Gibson argued successfully, however, that the court could not take a murder charge from the jury, but could only instruct a jury to bring in a verdict of acquittal.

"But there is sufficient evidence to allow this charge to go to the jury," the prosecutor contended.

Mrs. W. R. Lang, who testified she had employed Irwin as a chauffeur and Mrs. Thormin as a maid, testified for the defence that she understood the man and woman were married.

"She did queer things at times on impulse," Mrs. Lang said. "He was a perfect servant."

Mrs. Kathleen Halferty said that when Irwin came to Toronto from Gananoque, where Mrs. Thormin's estarnged husband lives, Mrs. Thormin followed him.

"She even went after him to Peterborough," the witness declared.

REVISED DIVORCE MEASURE PASSES

OTTAWA, May 12 (CP). — First measure of the parliamentary session to originate in the Senate, the bill to widen the grounds for divorce in Canada today awaited third reading, usually a formality. Before it becomes law the measure must also pass the House of Commons, where, it has been predicted, it will meet strong opposition.

Adoption yesterday of the report of a committee which amended the legislation after it had been given second reading paved the way for final action. The measure was drafted along the lines of the Liberal Divorce Bill adopted some months ago in the British Parliament.

As it stands now the bill would add cruelty "as interpreted and determined by the High Court of England," desertion for six years, incurable insanity and exceptional moral depravity on the part of the husband to the present single grounds for divorce—adultery.

3-Year Clause Out.

During committee consideration of the bill, introduced by Senator Lendrum McMeans (Con., Winnipeg), a clause which would have prevented divorce petitions being entertained until after three years from the date of the marriage was struck out.

Discussion of the committee report yesterday centred on the constitutionality of various clauses of the bill. Opposition Leader Meighen led an attack on an argument of Sir Allen Aylesworth (Lib., North York) that some clauses were unconstitutional. Sir Allen had directed his attack at clauses treating of the legitimacy of children, provision for the children of divorced couples and nullity of marriages.

Eckener Charges U.S. Dooming Any Future Zep Flights

Blames One Man, Ickes, For His Opposition To Export Of Necessary Helium

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP) — Dr. Hugo Eckener held little hope today for the future of Germany's lighter-than-air passenger travel, in view of the apparent failure to obtain helium from the United States.

"There will be no more passenger zeppelin flights without helium," the veteran president of the zeppelin manufacturing plant said in an interview.

He explained he felt "disappointed and astonished" by the refusal of Interior Secretary Ickes to consent to sale of the non-inflammable gas.

"It is sad," he said, "that we are held up by the military opinion of one cabinet officer, when the United States military authorities have indicated they fear no military developments from the sale."

Ickes is a member of the board of six cabinet officers who must agree to the sale of any helium to foreign powers. The United States has a natural monopoly of gas. Eckener said the decision might be "the death stroke" to the experiment in lighter-than-air transportation. He insisted that Germany would derive "no military use whatsoever" from helium.

The father of transatlantic dirigible travel said he expected to continue zeppelin development at least another year. "Maybe something will change by then," he added.

The demand for helium to inflate the giant airships was spurred by the explosion at Lakehurst, N.J., last year of the zeppelin Hindenburg, in which 36 persons were killed.

Doctor Called To Aid Injured In Crash Involving His Own Stolen Car

Hamilton, Ont., May 12 (CP)

CHARGED with theft of a car owned by Dr. C. L. Rymal, two men were arrested last night after a hectic chase when their machine was involved in an intersection crash with three other cars while trying to elude the police cruiser.

Those arrested were Elton McKay, 30, and John Smith, 33, a cripple. Dr. Rymal himself was called to attend those injured in the crossing accident, not knowing that his own car was involved. In the mix-up Mrs. John Galloway, Hamilton, was slightly injured.

McKay was sought since his escape from the Burwash reformatory June 12 last year, according to police. Every member of the department had been armed with McKay's description as a result of charges against McKay of forgery and uttering.

Barcelona, May 12 (AP)

AT LEAST 47 persons were killed and 70 or 80 injured today when insurgent planes made a swift raid on the centre of this capital of government Spain.

The raiders approached with such speed, unheralded by the usual anti-aircraft fire, that exploding bombs were the first indication in many parts of the city a raid was in progress.

Streets were jammed with crowds which had no time to take shelter.

Authorities immediately began searches through wrecked buildings for victims. Anti-aircraft squads had time to fire only a few rounds before the raiders made off.

Negus Pins Hopes Upon Assembly

Emperor Voices His Sorrow at British Desertion As Two Great Powers Fawn Italy

GENEVA, May 12 (AP).—Emperor Haile Selassie today demanded that the question of recognizing the Italian conquest of Ethiopia be taken to the League assembly.

The demand of the former negus if accepted would delay Anglo-French plans to recognize the king of Italy as Emperor of Ethiopia.

Haile Selassie, too ill to speak, sat at the League council table while his representative, Ato Lawrence Taezez, read his speech.

He told the council he had come to Geneva to "defend my own people."

"All the procedure that the League can command has been used to try to get Ethiopia out of this body of nations," Taezez read in a low voice.

The statement of the exiled Emperor said Ethiopia held not only legal but factual rights as an independent state and that Italy had by no means completed conquest of the country.

"I am sorry I do not find myself in agreement with Great Britain, which has given me hospitality, and France, to whom Ethiopia owed its original membership in the League," the statement continued.

"Members of the League, this is a reign of fear. The states that are members of the League are each one for himself. They are tearing up treaties of non-aggression, the League of Nations covenant and the Briand-Kellogg pact.

"Since the contagion of aggression has spread throughout the world, states have permitted international morale to vanish. May God forgive them."

Mourns British Desertion.

The statement expressed Haile Selassie's "sorrow to see the most powerful state in the world which has never ceased to affirm its attachment to the covenant desert us in our sorrow."

Georges Bonnet, French Foreign Minister, spoke when the Ethiopian statement was completed.

"We have done all we can," said Bonnet, shaking his head emphatically at the Negus, who sat with his eyes closed.

He said all members of the Council were "sorrowful" over the step which "must be taken."

"The presence of Emperor Haile Selassie increases our emotion," he said.

The Negus had entered the League building by a back door to avoid the crowd which had gathered. He took his place in the 15th seat at the Council table—the place formerly occupied by the Italian delegate—

Took Part In Campaign

Prior to her marriage in 1931 she was the constant companion and confidante of her brother, Mr. Bennett. She accompanied him on his political campaign preceding the 1930 election, and at times ventured little platform addresses in his support. They were naive utterances which were always pleasing, always refreshing.

After her marriage to Hon. W. D. Herridge, she filled the role of hostess at the Canadian legation in Washington, to which post her husband had been appointed. There her popularity was immediate and continued until the departure of the Herridges from the United States capital late in 1935. In April, 1932, her son, William, was born.

Returning to Ottawa, she took her place in the social life of the city, her public activities embracing presidency of several organizations, among them the Ottawa Women's Conservative Club, the Ottawa Women's Club and the Mount Allison Alumnae Association. She was Hon. President of the newly formed Conservative Women's Business Club.

be taken under the Act except in case of war, riots or other grave emergency.

Mr. Coldwell precipitated the discussion when he declared the discussion of policies of the British Parliament and Government were the same as discussing domestic affairs because if the former led to war Canada would be involved. He urged the Government take no action to restrict freedom of speech on the air. But could only interpret the Prime Minister's remarks as being an indication pressure would be brought to bear upon the corporatnon.

Cahan is Opposed.

C. H. Cahan (Con. St. Lawrence-St. George) said he had no objection to people buying time on the air to expres stheir views but he condemned the practice of paying salaries and providing expensive facilities and networks for the commentators referred to.

From his own knowledge and experience, Mr. Cahan said, these comentators sometimes trusted to their imagination for facts, and when not trusting to their imaginations were, on occasions, "simply repeating communist taddle which finds expression in some of the German and other foreign newspapers."

J. S. Woodsworth, following Mr. Howe's explanation of the Prime Minister's remarks, said: "I do not think the Prime Minister can very well speak as a private individual in his House, especially when he lays down such important propositions as he did last night. I regard them as a very serious menace to the freedom of speech which we should have in this country.

"oS long as I am a member of this Parliament I propose to speak definitely regarding anything that concerns the interests of my country, whether it is being talked about in New Zealand, Great Britain, or Germany or Russia or anywhere else."

A Sacred Right.

Joseph Thorson (Lib. Selkirk) said "the right of public discussion is one of the most sacred rights that we in a democracy enjoy. It is one that men have fought to win, and we must not permit encroachment upon that right." The speech by Mr. Cahan was "an attempt to insert the thin edge of the wedge of repression of that right."

Commentators were employed for the sole purpose of expressing their views of the news, not for straight narration of the news which was provided in other services. The broadcasts under discussion were "eagerly awaited by thousands from one end of Canada to the other."

A recent decision of the Supreme Court, Mr. Thorson said, had established that "the right of public discussion of public affairs underlies our whole constitution."

Malcolm McLean (Lib. Melfort) differed with Mr. Thorson. "Should paid servants of the Corporation have more latitude in remarks or criticism of either parliamentary or other subjects than do the representatives of the people in this House?" he asked. "To me that is a most amazing doctrine. I do protest against the possibility of public money being spent on peddling political propaganda."

Hon. H. H. Stevens (Recon. Kootenay East) agreed in part with Mr. Thorson and thought any limitation of speech on the air should be the same as limitations to platform speech and the newspapers.

"But when it comes to a Government paying a man to express views for which the Government would not hold themselves responsible, from which views they may indeed differ, then I think we are entering upon a dangerous field."

Same Supervision.

Mr. Stevens thought the Radio Corporation should be limited to supervision of the technique of broadcasting and that the business of broadcasting itself should be left in the hands of private corporations.

A. A. Heaps (C.C.F. Winnipeg North) observed that in his criticism of the Stewart-Ferguson commentaries Mr. Cahan had not named any specific instance of mis-statement of facts.

Mr. Cahan replied he would direct the members' attention "to reference by Mr. Ferguson to what he called the Cliveden intrigue, when he broadcast throughout Canada that there were meetings at Cliveden, at Lady Astor's house, which brought the Government of the United Kingdom under the influence of 'Der Fuehrer' of Germany—

LACK OF ONE TIP BRINGS FAILURE TO BRAZIL REVOLT

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, May 12.—(AP).— Brazil's strong man president, Getulio Vargas, invoked full military and police action today to wipe out the Fascist Greenshirts, whose 3¼-hour rebellion failed because they did not know the government palace was without a garrison within its walls.

Police, with 500 of the rebes already in jail, spread through the city, searched every suspected Fascist's home, and found evidence the revolt was well planned but had been executed without coordination.

The rebels made their attack yesterday against President Vargas' palace, the residence of the chief of staff of the army, and other strategic points—but they lacked the one vital piece of information that could have carried them to at least momentary success.

J. Alberta Lins De Barros, who helped defend the President's palace told about it to-day.

"I believe the attackers did not know the palace was completely without an internal garrison, otherwise they would have advanced into the palace instead of fighting in the gardens," he said. "The truth is the President's life was in imminent danger."

Vargas, with his dark-eyed 23-year-old daughter, Donna Alzyra, and only five others were inside ready to fight off the attackers from palace windows, but fighting outside apparently convinced the rebels they faced a strong body of defenders. Arriving reinforcements saved the palace and the attackers capitulated.

Vargas invoked martial law to carry on puntive action against leaders of the revolt. Twelve were killed and 22 injured in the short-lived revolt.

CAMPBELLFORD

D. Carnegie's Book Is Topic Of Study

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, May 12. — The Young People's Union met in regular session on Tuesday and inaugurated the Interest Groups which are to feature the May meetings.

Jean Burnham led the one on "How to Win Friends and Influence People," basing her talk on Dale Carnegie's book of that title. The students were so interested that they voted to complete the book's study in the Interest meetings.

The president, Phyllis Kidd, and Della Mae Sisco are taking turns in leading the group studying "How to Make the Most of the Worship Period," which also had an interesting and profitable session.

The devotional section was in charge of Miss Sisco, Leitha Edworthy reading the lesson, and the leader giving a helpful commentary on it. A hymn and the benediction closed the gathering.

things such as that which started first in foreign propaganda."

The committee proceeded to discuss the Bill itself, dealing with that section which would require repairmen to refuse repairs when the radio set is not licensed. Several members including Opposition Leader Bennett declared this was going too far.

Mr. Howe observed that it was already the law that no radio could be sold except with a licence, and this was merely a further effort to ensure that all radio users paid the necessary fee.

Military Women In Parade

In marked contrast to previous Mexican May Day parades, 70,000 men and women marched through the streets of Mexico City without any disturbance. Instead of carrying guns as in previous years the workers carried shovels and pitchforks. A detachment of the women's militia is shown ABOVE taking part in the parade.

UNEASY BRITAIN

ed the House had been lulled by ministerial pronouncements into a false feeling of security.

In Sir Hugh's view the Air Ministry was not the proper body to have charge of large-scale production. A Ministry of Supply should be created. It was known throughout the R.A.F. that the Air Ministry was unwieldy with committees which were lacking in decision and held up production.

Far From Parity.

Great Britain, he said, was not within distance of Earl Baldwin's objective of parity with the most powerful air force within striking distance. Germany was able to produce from 400 to 500 planes a month and was not working at capacity.

Within a year Germany could have something like 6,000 machines.

Sir Hugh gave as an instance the Hawker Hurricane type. An order was given for 340 of these machines two years ago. Only 28 were in service. Of the spitfire type only one was in being. The Air Ministry was delaying production by too many types of machines and gun turrets.

"You are falling further and further behind," he declared. "Germany is laying out so that she can produce in wartime. We are merely building what is really a peacetime expansion."

Could the minister deny, Sir Hugh asked, that operational training was practically non-existent and that it could not be pushed forward because of the danger of wastage? Could the minister deny that bombing accuracy now was less than before expansion?

Few Balloon Men

There had been a lot of propaganda, he charged, about the balloon barrage planned for the defence of London, trying to make people believe the balloon barrage now was ready, whereas only 330 men had been trained, of whom only 160 were really trained.

"You have got a few balloons but you have not got men," he asserted. "You cannot use them without men. It is camouflage. You are putting up a farce to make people believe there is security."

It could not be denied, Sir Hugh added, "that the present state was highly unsatisfactory in regard to airplanes and worse in many respects in regards to armament.

"The scheme never would stand up to war conditions," he declared.

KALADAR CRASH KILLS MOTORIST

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, May 12.—Captain T. E. Haight, 55, of Mount Clare, New Jersey, was instantly killed, when the automobile which he was driving turned completely over along No. 7, five miles east of Kaladar at noon, Wednesday, while Frank Austin, 58, 307 Fairlawn Ave., Toronto, sustained superficial injuries. The accident was caused by the blowing out of a rear tire on Mr. Haight's car forcing the vehicle into the ditch.

Austin was rushed to the Belleville General Hospital where he was admited shortly after 2.00 p.m. Wednesday. Following examinations by Dr. G. S. Stobie, hospital officials announced Austin had sustained superficial head injuries and minor abrasions, but he was not considered to be in a serious condition.

The two men were proceeding westerly in Captain Haight's car when a tire blew out forcing the vehicle into the north ditch, where it turned completely over, pinning Haight beneath the steering wheel and resulting in his instant death. Austin managed to extricate himself and was rushed to the Belleville General Hospital by a passing motorist.

Investigations into the accident are being made by Constable C. J. Hayes of Tweed and Constable Patterson of Sharbot Lake. An inquest is expected to be held.

Moonshiner Robbed

Charged with being found in the possession of a still suitable for the manufacture of illicit liquor, Charles Genereaux of the Township of Elzevir, appeared before C. H. Kerr, Justice of the Peace, at Tweed Tuesday and was remanded for one week. Genereaux was arrested by the R.C.M.P. following the discovery of an illicit still on his property Tuesday. A boiler worm cooler and fifteen gallons of mash was confiscated by the Mounties, the mash being destroyed. Genereaux was admitted to bail, set at $500.

Actual new Canadian export business was difficult to confirm, but barley export sales, principally to the United Kingdom, were placed at 100,000 bushels.

Committee Is Appointed To Stimulate Interest -n Housing Act In City

Act Is Explained By R. W. Card Of The Federal Department Of Finance

After listening to R. W. Card of the department of finance, Ottawa, explain the Dominion Housing Act, the manner in which it works and the objects for which it was drafted, a representative gathering of Peterb ugh citizens, meeting in the city council chamber Wednesday night under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce appointed a committee to stimulate interest in Act in Peterborough and to give y possible assistance to prosive home-owners who wish to advantage of the provisions of legislation.

committee as named in a n moved by Mayor James ton and seconded by Ald. Dutton consists of D. B. ner, J. J. Dorris, secretary of hamber of Commerce, Ald. McCannan and Ald. Malcolm McIntyre with power to add to their numbers.

The meeting was featured by the complaint of a number of the citizens present that the greatest difficulty in Peterborough had been to secure loans under the Act because of the fact that loaning institutions, d not seem to be interested in erborough. Fred J. Overend exsed it that in a sense Peterbordo n was suffering from foreign ination and it was almost imsible he claimed to secure loans. e same objection was voiced by d. Dutton and other speakers.

George H. Hewitt, president of the Chamber of Commerce presided and introduced Mr. Card to the meeting.

In beginning the guest speaker said that the Dominion Housing Act was often confused with the Home Improvement Loan scheme, both of which were operated by the department of finance. The Home Improvement scheme dealt with those who wanted to make improvements or repairs to existing buildings—the other was concerned with new work.

Speaking first of the Home Improvement plan Mr. Card said that it had been very successful especially where enterprising people who specialized in some one line had taken advantage of the opportunities it provided. Up to March 31, Peterborough had had 246 loans under the scheme representing an expenditure of $75,000.

Its Primary Object

In regard to the Dominion Housing Act Mr. Card explained that its purpose was to increase the security of home ownership by making funds available under reasonable conditions. The idea was not to give out money to make employment but rather to help people who wanted to build homes to do so under better conditions.

The speaker explained that the plan provided for an 80 per cent mortgage, thus eliminating the necessity of a second mortgage. The mortgage was for a long term with interest at 5 per cent. Another advantage of the scheme was the amortization feature by which it was possible through monthly payments to cover the interest on the loan, the repayment of the principal and the estimated taxes on the property.

Mr. Card explained the minimum requirements to which plans for all houses must conform and the memorandum specifications which have been provided. He told of the plans that were available for smaller houses as a result of a competition that had been held, stating that $3,000 to $3,500 should cover the cost of these particular houses. He thought they could be built in Peterborough for $3,000.

"There is not much point in going below that figure," the speaker said. "Loans under the Act have averaged $4,200."

Mr. Card said that loans under the scheme had been made in Peterborough by two companies, the London Life and the Mutual Life.

Government Disappointed

Ald. Dutton said that the government had been disappointed with the results in Peterborough under the Act. There was a very great need here for houses of the smaller type, he remarked, and the difficulty was for the man who had the 20 per cent available to secure the loan he required. He submitted that it should be made more easy for such citizens to secure the financial assistance they needed. Ald. Dutton also declared that the 8 per cent sales tax on building materials was an obstacle in the way of the scheme and that the assessment factor also entered into the picture.

Fred J. Overend said that the great difficulty was that none of the approved lending institutions had headquarters here. Peterborough was suffering from foreign domination, and loan companies were apparently not interested in this city.

In answer to a question Mr. Card said that more than half the plans that had been submitted to the department in connection with loans under the Act had not been architect's plans.

Mr. Overend said that the companies that had made loans here had been insistent upon confining them to choice residential sections. He believed they did not include Ashburnham or the south end of the city.

Mr. Card replied that the loans issued here concerned houses on Bolivar street, Armour Road, Crescent street, Burnham street, Aylmer street and Monaghan Road.

Ald. Glover said that with the excellent financial position Peterborough was in it should not be difficult to go out and sell the city to financial institutions. "If we cannot get loans, in the shape in which this city is it is a funny thing to me," declared Ald. Glover.

Roland Denne remarked that as chairman of the Home Improvement Association he had found that one great obstacle to building had been that the cost of building materials, lumber, plumbing etc. had advanced as soon as the scheme got under way.

Fred J. Overend and Harold Scott, speaking for the lumber companies said that so far as lumber was concerned there had been no advance in prices for three years and this year the price had gone down.

F. R. Wootten of the Sun Life Assurance Company stated that he proposed to bring the facts of the meeting before his company and he was sure Mr. Moore of the Sun Life would be glad to come to Peterborough to discuss the loan situation.

A Good Record

Mr. Overend instanced the record of the Peterborough Loan and Building Society which had not "lost 40 cents in 40 years" as an example of what could be done to encourage home building.

Ald. Dutton said that the meeting should not be allowed to disperse without accomplishing something definite. He suggested that a committee should be formed to help put over the Dominion Housing Act in Peterborough.

T. J. McMurray said that if such a committee were appointed it should be composed for the most part of members of the working class who were chiefly interested. He declared that there must be security for the working man who today had no guarantee of how long his job would last and who was fearful of taking on any obligations for fear that he would lose his equity, if he became unemployed. Something would have to be done to get interest down, he maintained or agriculture would be ruined and with it would go everything else.

John T. Hornsby said that Mr. McMurray's remarks might better have been addressed to the Federal member. "This is not a political meeting," he said.

Mayor Hamilton's motion, seconded by Ald. Dutton that a committee composed of D. B. Faulkner, James Dorris, and Ald. McCannan and McIntyre be appointed, was carried unanimously.

Before the meeting adjourned a vote of thanks was extended to Mr. Card on motion of Ald. Glover and Dutton.

JOB COMES FIRST WITH DYING YOUTH

TORONTO, May 12.—(CP)—Robert Thompson, 19-year-old messenger boy whose legs were crushed when he fell from a bicycle in front of a street car, died in hospital here last night after an operation in which both legs were amputated.

Hospital internes donated blood in unsuccessful efforts to save Thompson's life. Fully conscious, Thompson, employed by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, lay beneath the car for five minutes before being freed. Dr. Smirle Lawson, chief coroner of Ontario, crawled beneath the car to release him.

As rescuers worked, the youth took three telegrams from a pocket and asked Jack Sullivan, a spectator, to "try and deliver these for me." He added: "I guess I'll have to go to hospital, eh? It's too bad. I don't know how I'm going to pay. I haven't much money."

It Doesn't Make Sense

A farmer was in court at Walkerton, the charge being cruelty to his horses. A provincial officer happened to be passing the farm and saw the man plowing with a team, with one of the horses down on its knees. The officer very wisely went across to see what was the matter and found large raw patches on the shoulders. A veterinary surgeon was sent for and he advised that the horses be destroyed as they were in such bad condition they could not be successfully treated.

The decision of the court was that the farmer did not realize the condition of the horses and on that count suspended sentence was given. And that of course is pretty tame and rather lame.

For the benefit of those who know little about horses and working them it should be stated that a sore or raw shoulder is right on the place where the full weight of the load comes. The collar is rubbing and digging right into it. A farmer knows at once when a shoulder is not good. For one thing he can see it when he is cleaning his horse; next thing he can see the horse if working in team harness holding back a little, and when a horse goes down on its knees in harness then the warning is as plain as the ringing of a fire bell. The chances are that by that time the horse has been ruined. To say that a farmer did not realize how serious was the condition of his horse when he kept on working it until the animal went down on its knees through pain and suffering is not according to common sense.

The Date Is the 24th

Canadians will have to celebrate Victoria Day on May 24th this year even if it does come on a Tuesday. Premier King has said so. The holiday is fixed by statute and can only be changed by parliamentary action, which is another way of stating there could be a change made if parliament so desired.

A good many people favor having the celebration come on Monday so it would give a longer week-end. With Tuesday being the official holiday it means no added time to go places or do things at a time of year when many folk are minded to take advantage of a holiday.

As a rule it is not well to tinker with holiday dates, but the 24th of May is not one which would suffer from being changed a little. It used to be the greatest celebration of the year during the days of Queen Victoria, but the edge has gone off it. It is more or less of just another holiday coming at an appropriate time of year for one.

Dates and other things which are fixed by statute are unyielding affairs as a rule. They cannot be readily shoved this way or that. There is at least uniformity in the announcement of Premier King. The 24th will be on the 24th, although we can think of a number of pleasant enough reasons why it should be on the 23rd this year.

No Postage Stamps

Newspaper offices become accustomed to receiving a fair quantity of mail from Ottawa in brown colored envelopes, large and small. Most of them bear the mark "O.H.M.S." Therefore being on His Majesty's service they bear no postage stamps.

There was one in the mail this morning and it had on it the House of Commons postal mark with the word "Free" in the centre. That is also recognized as being quite all right as members do not pay postage on correspondence, and if an individual desires to write a letter to a member of parliament or the senate such letter can be forwarded without postage during the session of the House.

But this particular envelope from Ottawa contained the current issue of the Canadian Liberal Monthly, the price of which is $1 per year. We do not know to what extent the franking privilege at Ottawa is used to distribute the magazine, but we do know it should not be used at all.

The Examiner, in common with other daily newspapers, has reason to make frequent use of the mail service. It is a prompt, reliable and well-conducted service, but this paper has to pay every time it mails a paper or a letter. And that is as it should be.The distribution of copies of the Canadian Liberal Monthly should be on the same basis. Members of parliament and senate are well aware of the restrictions which are supposed to be placed on the material they send through the mail without any cost assessed for postage. There is nothing in the regulations to say they can send out political literature, and the wonder is that the Postoffice Department allows the custom to continue.

German Invasion?

...ish manufacturers of motor cars ... new form of competition. Gen...otors has a subsidiary company ...any which manufactures a light car, and these "Opels" are now selling on the British market at about $675. In order to do that it is necessary to pay a tariff of one-third the import price of the car.

The question was asked in The British Commons if the makers of these cars were being subsidized by the German govermnent as it was not considered possible that they could be making their way into the British market in spite of the duty and then sold so that the trade would be profitable to the makers. The answer was that such a question would be hard to secure.

It is a difficult matter for outsiders who have factories in Germany today to get any of their money out of the country, and the suggestion is offered that General Motors is using this method to try and get returns from its German investment. If there is any plan of subsidy by the German government to aid this invasion of the British market it is unlikely to be known. The British car maker has had the small car market pretty much his own way at home and the coming of the German "Opels" is sufficient to make him blink.

Putting It On Thick

Ottawa will not leave the radio alone. Nor will it leave alone the individual who owns one—particularly if he has not whacked up $2.50 for a license.

The owner of a radio it appears is liable to be fined $5 if he has not made his peace with the government through the issuer of licenses; he may even be fined up to $50.

Going from that mild form of punishment it is stated that a person who violates the Act may be fined $500 or be placed in prison for a period of twelve months. A radio inspector shall have the right to search homes.

It is right enough to have regulations for radio, particularly for stations which may be hidden or unauthorized, but the general working of the Act looks as though the government measure were built up all out of proportion to the needs of the situation.

If we keep at the piling up of laws and penalties we may yet see in this country men in prison who will be confiding to a convicted bank robber that he is serving time because he held back information from the government concerning his radio.

Means Nothing At All

There will be more evidence heard by the committee of the Senate regarding failure of the Canadian railways to cooperate in bringing about reduction of conflicting service. If we had two privately owned railroads in this country the public would probably not care much to what degree their services conflicted, but as matters stand now the public pays for the losses of one of the roads.

We do not believe voluntary action on the part of the two railways will ever accomplish much. Perhaps the extent of the accomplishment would be closer to nothing at all. Nor is that to be wondered at. The C. P. R. and the C. N. R. are competing for businesss; they are advertising for it; they have their sales agents on the go all the time seeking trade. The pressure of business is on each of these organizations, and within the limits of regulations of the Railway Commission they are going to get all the business they can.

What use can there be in having rulings made at Ottawa directing that such railways shall indulge in a series of cooperative movements to curtail competing or duplicating services? The answer is —none at all. If the country is looking for savings made that way then the country is going to look for a long time and see mighty little.

Evidence which has already been produced at Ottawa makes that plain as a pikestaff. Some of the curtailments already made mean taking a certain amount of work from C. P. men and giving it to C. N. employees, and in turn the C. P. will insist that the next move be one which will offset that advantage. Back of it all is the human and understandable feeling that the C. P. is fighting for its existence, and the C. N. is also fighting for its existence plus its continued identity. Voluntary co-operation means so little that it is hardly worth seriously considering.

Nothing New In It

The Globe and Mail has been printing pictures of houses in Toronto which are offered for sale at less than the figure at which they are assessed. If the Toronto paper cares to continue the series it could go into any community in the province and produce similar pictures. There is actually little relationship today between selling prices and assessed values.

The explanation is not difficult to state. One house in Toronto which cost $6,000 after the war is up for sale at $4,000, and it is explained that if a person with cash wants the place it can be secured for well under the $4,000 mark. It is assessed for $4,300. That is not an extreme case, as there is one place in this city which is assessed for $7,500 and it can be purchased for $5,500.

The trouble is that when the market value of the property in Toronto or elsewhere dropped the need for revenue on the part of the municipal spending bodies did not drop. It stayed up and went higher. It is right enough to say that the influences which caused the market or selling value of a house to drop were the same ones which were causing municipal expenditure to increase. The financing of increased social services and afterward of relief were not factors in taxation when the $6,000 house was built in the boom days following the war.

According to our present way of doing things we have been raising municipal revenue almost exclusively by taxing houses and places of business. The amount which municipalities receive by way of licenses, etc., is very small. A finance committee will know at the beginning of a year just about how much is going to be needed to run the business of the municipality. If the committee were to try and make taxation agree with the market value of property it would be sunk; it is actually forced to work on values of assessment which will yield the revenue required. So there is actually nothing new in properties being assessed for more than the market value. It has been going on for years, and as long as real estate is made the basis of municipal income it is certain to continue.

NOTES AND COMMENT

According to an American business executor there is no depression in Europe. Between drilling and manufacturing armaments there should not be any unemployment, anyway.

Bermuda is importing water at a dollar a ton, to meet the drought situation. There are times when other parts of the world would be glad to have the stuff taken away.

A code for elephants has been established in Southern India. The big animals are probably regarded as members of the Baggage Handlers' Union because they all carry trunks.

Toronto council has ruled that relief recipients may keep one dog per family. That may be unsound economically but at least it is an indication that Toronto's aldermen are not hard-boiled.

Yehudi Menuhin, famous violinist, has become engaged to an Australian girl over the wireless telephone. Most folk would have been afraid of getting the wrong number.

A member of parliament says that the Farmers' Creditor Arrangement Act is not needed and not wanted in Ontario. He will not deny however that a lot of folk seem to find it useful even in this province.

London bank director has discovered he can save seven minutes getting to his business by riding a bicycle instead of motoring. There's a good tip there for the fellows who write bicycle advertising.

Toronto Separate School Board has decided to ignore complaints that children playing in the school grounds are making too much noise. The Board is right. It is better to have noisy children than dead ones.

Pitcairn Island has purchased $23.64 worth of war material from the United States and that puts the little spot in the Southern Pacific on about the same level as Canada from a defence viewpoint.

Reports as to conditions in the Ontario reformatory read almost like the prospectus of a summer hotel. It seems a pity the Parole Board is so hasty about taking people out of such a home away from home.

Twenty-five persons were injured when two windows crashed during a bargain rush in a New York store. Only one of the victims was a a man and it must be admitted that he in his case there are evidences of culpable negligence on his part.

There have been a good many orders made saying transients must not ride on freight trains, but each time there is a freight wreck the story tells of the number of transients who either hopped off in time or who were caught in the wreckage.

CONTENTMENT

¶ I met my friend from Thistleville, the little place upon the hill, he told me all the news; I listened well to what he said, he told me what he'd heard and read, he likewise aired his views.

¶ I spoke of Hitler going to Rome, and how they welcomed him back home, I mentioned Europe's strife; I talked of nations far and near, of folk who spent their days in fear, how joy went from their life.

¶ My friend from Thistleville just smiled, and said his life was seldom riled, and peace was in his home; he didn't follow Hitler much, nor care if he said such and such, he left such things alone.

¶ Cold weather held him back a lot, from working on his garden plot, wind sifted through his jeans; his onions were all coming through, but now he'd wait a week or two, before he'd plant his beans.

¶ He'd hoped to get his spuds in soon, he might be cramped a bit for room, he'd work another lot; for there was land in Thistleville, the pretty place upon the hill, he knew the place he sought.

¶ For they don't bother much he said, nor do they live their days in dread, he finds life pretty good; and neighbors don't put on much airs, content to mind their own affairs—and live like how they should.

Says Patronage Used In Relief

(English Translation of Speeches Delivered in French in House of Commons).

Mr. TREMBLAY (Donchester, Que): Mr. Chairman, may I offer a few observations on the question which the house has had under consideration for the past few days. Honourable members have voiced criticisms and protests against the manner in which the monies voted by this house have been expended in the various provinces. I may be permitted to take a few minutes to state what is being done in this regard in the province to which I have the honour to belong.

The Minister of Labour (Mr. Rogers) stated from his place in this chamber that he would not allow the money voted by the House of Commons to his department for unemployment relief to be used for political purposes. I shall quote to the minister and to the house, without adding any comments of my own, cases where, in the province of Quebec, sums voted for unemployment relief have clearly been used for purely political purposes.

Last summer, I took the trouble to visit several parishes in my constituency, in order to ascertain whether the amounts granted to Quebec province were really being used for the purpose for which they had been voted. I should like to draw the attention of the House and particularly of the Minister of Labour to the manner in which the money voted by parliament was used in the parish of St. Benjamin. This parish received relief grants to which the dominion government contributed and I investigated among others, the case of a recipient of relief who had a wife and six children, several of which were old enough to help their father. One of the sons was 25 years of age; another, 23; another, 21 and another 17, all employed in lumber camps and earning wages sufficient to enable them to support themselves and to help their father. They were all living with their father in the same house. I could give the name of this man whose three eldest sons earned $780 during six months and who received at the same time unemployment relief during five months, from December to April. This man was the sole owner of his farm which was clear of debt and equipped with rolling stock fully paid for. He had a horse, nine cows and other farm animals. His crop had consisted of 300 bushels of oats, 3,000 bales of hay, 100 bushels of potatoes and 400 pounds of maple sugar. He was therefore able to maintain his family. Moreover, he had three sons living with him who turned over to him the wages they earned in the lumber camps. In spite of that, he received unemployment relief. And I take upon myself the responsibility of stating that he received this relief solely because he was regarded by the inspector appointed by the government of the province of Quebec to supervise the distribution of unemployment relief in the parish in question as a friend of the party which is at present administering the affairs of Quebec province.

Here is a well-to-do farmer with an income sufficient to maintain his family, with three sons helping him and bringing him their wages, who receives relief allowances during six months, while another man, living in distressful circumstances, cannot obtain any relief. In the same parish, Mr. Chairman, a man with a wife and nine children, the eldest of whom is 16, has been refused relief. The provincial government inspector reported to the authorities charged with the administration of the funds voted by this parliament to Quebec province for the care of the indigent that this man has no need of unemployment relief. But see the difference! This man has only six cows—I am giving you the result of an investigation I made myself. I therefore know whereof I speak—he had harvested only 90 bushels of oats—you will recall that the other man had had a few hundred bushels — 2,000 bales of hay and 50 bushels of potatoes, and he was living in a hut measuring 16 feet by 17. This family was undoubtedly in dire need. The local inspector saw all these things with his own eyes. He told me personally that he was acquainted with the situation of this farmer.

He even admitted, Mr. Chairman, that the man had a right to relief, and, after having denied him relief allowances during two months, he gave him a recommendation to that effect. However, when I went there in May, he had received nothing yet. He had a larger number of dependents than the other man, and he was destitute; and, yet, relief was denied him. Useless to say that he was not known as a supporter of the present government of the province. And that is the only reason,—no other can be seen,—why he was denied relief allowances, while such allowances were given during six months to the man who had no need of them.

OVERPLAYING NEWS.

(Editor and Publisher)

THE DISTORTED use or sensational use of type faces has been one of the most inexcusable abuses of the freedom of the press," Arthur J. Sinnott, editor, Newark Evening News, declared at a luncheon in Philadelphia at which his paper was presented the Francis Wayland Ayer Cup for typographical excellence.

Mr. Sinnott said that "overemphasis in type presentation can sometimes do as much harm as distortion of text. The newspaper which constantly plays news in screaming type may for the moment have the box office appeal, but for the long pull, and as our democracy is educated in news values, the newspapers that practise moderation, that refrain from the shock appeal in type faces, will prevail. They must prevail if we wish to preserve freedom of the press and the process of democracy.

Letters To The Editor

Correspondents Discuss Various Topics

THE 24th OF MAY

Editor Examiner:

Sir: There is some talk in a few centres of trying to celebrate the 24th of May on Monday. I think that would be a very good idea, because in the city at present a lot of men are on short time, only working four days a week. They don't start their work week till Tuesday, and if they have to lay off on the Tuesday it only leaves them with 3 days for that week, and with a very short pay, and will cause hardship. Even on full time a lot of men find it a hardship to just get by, so another day off for the 24th only makes it worse. The only men who will welcome the 24th on the Tuesday are those who are on a salary, and the only men who are on a salary are generally the foremen of a factory or the office staff.

So here's hoping the majority of workers will have the 24th on a Monday.

A WORKING MAN.

Peterborough, May 11.

FROM THE TENTH

Editor Examiner:

Sir: It was very cheering to learn from your editorial the other day, that "grandfather" lived to be 92. He seems, by your description to be a man of sich vigor, strength and intelligence. It is plain he lived a useful as well as a long life.

We have laughed over your recent editorial about "Feeding a Calf" or rather teaching it to drink. The men here say it is not at all exaggerated; they can be regular devils. Perhaps that is one reason why so many farmers are raising "baby beef" instead of selling the cream in the old way. They seem to think it pays. I know very little about that part of farming, but I doubt if it does pay.

The Tenth Concession these days shows many acres of brown soil well tilled and planted, with here and there a few teams putting the finishing touches to the crop. The early indications are very favorable for a good crop.

We read your paper carefully every day and enjoy its contents very much. To make a product from straw, that could be used in news print would be quite an advance over using up the forests so quickly.

Success to one and all who work so hard to give us the news.

Yours truly,
EMERALD ISLE.

Cavan, Ont.

• This, We Think, Is Sarcastic

(Chicago Daily News)

"SIXTY THOUSAND secret police having first spied upon one another, and then having locked one another in the Hoosegowus Romanus Mussolinius held public games in the Colosseum for Hitlerus, the visiting tribal king of the Nazi Himself the foremost athlete of Italia, and therefore disdaining the use of hired gladiators to impress the Nazi and the Roman populace, the Dux wrapped himself in his portfolio, and descended into the arena. Nor did the adulatory multitude forget also to extend their right feet in the goose-step salute in honor of Hitlerus, who was fresh from his military triumph over the coffee shop keepers, the violinists, and the poets of Vienna."

"First striking ten attitudes and hurling them prostrate to the sands, Mussolinius so thrust out his chin that a great air current roared all the way to far-off Britannia, and knocked flat Neville, the court Chamberlain. After that the Dux performed a series of those mighty combats which invariably carry the prowess of Roman grandeur all the way to Rome."

"Armed with most primitive weapons, and contending against fearful odds, Mussolinius girded himself with a machine gun, a tank and a motor lorry, and, after a desperate encounter, eliminated a legion of Ethiopian tame house cats. Next this incomparable warrior hovered over the arena in an airplane and, at formidable risk, dropped bomb after bomb upon a herd of Spanish sheep awfully arrayed. Descending then from the clouds of his own eloquence and accomplishments, the Dux wrestled with the ideas of liberal Italian writers and professors, and finally threw these ideas into jail."

"At last the magnificent spectacle was concluded by Hitlerus coming down into the Arena and engaging Mussolinius in a prolaged battle of ducks and drakes".

• Living Now In The Last Days

(Letter in Chatham News)

TO THE EDITOR, The News: Dear Sir: Farmers must have justice.

Just a little comment on a few things that appear in your paper from time to time. The minister of agriculture says farmers must help themselves. They truly do with long hours. He also spoke of them co-operating. As for that it would be fine. But without the co-operation of a good government that would be a failure, as marketing of farm produce is neither in the hand of the farmer or the government but the financiers or rich man. As the prophet James 5-4 says: "Behold the hire of the laborers". Who have reaped down you fields? The farmer. Which of you have kept back by fraud. The rich man, our present day market. A real fraud. Now what is to become of them? James says: "Go to none ye rich man; weep and howl for your miseries that shall come upon you. God's word is being fulfilled. Ye have heaped treasures together for the last days." Truly we are living in the last days. Never in the history of the world has their been such vast sums of money stored up for war purposes. This must be collected at the expense of the poor laborer and farmer, who is truly a laboror. The salaried man who answered one of Mr. Ball's letters a few days ago says it is possible for a salaried man to lose his job. Truly it is for he is at the mercy of the rich man; and if he saw a chance to get a higher salary he would try to get it. The love of money is the root of all evil. So it seems to be human nature to love the dollar more than God and his fellow man, which is the first and greatest Commandment. If our government would study this command and rule the country accordingly we would soon have peace which can come in no other way except giving justice to all.

NEXT OF KIN.

(Southwark Diocesan Gazette)

THE SEXTON of Peover turned out to be a very genial fellow. He told me that a few years ago a donkey was found dead in a neighboring churchyard. The vicar wrote to the local authority asking for instructions. The clerk wrote that it was hardly the affair of the council and that the burying of the donkey came rather within the province of the vicar. Thereupon the vicar acknowledged the letter and said he had only bothered the council because it was customary to get into touch with the nearest relatives.

ALL FOR THE PRAIRIES.

(Moose Jaw Times-Journal)

FAITH IN the prairies is not confined to those who dwell on these once fertile grain lands, for Senator Iva C. Fallis, who knows the prairies from former residence until 1920 in the West voices the opinion that, given rain in June and July, the prairies can raise the finest wheat in the world.

In that opinion she is simply expressing the general view held by farmers in the West. They know that, given reasonable weather conditions during the growing season, the land will yield an abundant crop, but they also are aware, from bitter experience, that under drought conditions little or nothing can be expected from the land.

LAYING IN SUPPLIES

(Sault Daily Star)

THE UNITED STATES, too, is laying in supplies in case of war. For the first time in recent history the U.S. War Department is quietly building up substantial stocks of tin. At the moment the metal, which is being stored temporarily in an Army clothing warehouse in Brooklyn, N. Y., amounts to about 1,500 short tons, worth some $1,200,000. Reports are that after the new military appropriations go through the total may climb as high as 20,000 tons. Behind the move is this fact: practically all tin vital in munitions manufacture, must be imported, and the U. S. is afraid an emergency might cut it off from supplies.

After Forging Anglo-French Bond

Well pleased are Premier Edouard Daladier (front) of France and his foreign minister, Georges Bonnet, as they are pictured leaving 10 Downing St., after an all-day conference with Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and his ministers. The day's conclave brought forth the most powerful military pact of modern times, virtually combining the armed forces of France and England to stand shoulder to shoulder against aggression. Land forces of both countries would be under command of the French general staff; sea and air forces under orders of the British high command.

BATTLE FOR AMOY RAGES UNABATED

SHANGHAI, May 12 — (AP). — Chinese reported to-day 4,000 houses had been damaged and 300 civilians killed and wounded in an air attack on Suchow, base of the huge Chinese army defending the Lunghai Railway.

More than 300 bombs were said to have been dropped on the city, leaving sections of it burning. Japanese said large stores of military supplies had been ignited.

Japanese warships and planes also continued intensive bombardment of Amoy, gateway to Fukien Province on the South China coast, where H.M.S. Diana stood by ready to evacuate Britons if necessary. Fires were reported spreading rapidly through Amoy while 30 foreigners watched in comparative safety from Kulangsu Island nearby.

Fighting Continues in the City.

(Reports from Hong Kong said a Chinese air fleet of at least 30 planes had been transferred suddenly to Canton, South China metropolis, and had sunk a Japanese destroyer and destroyed a gasoline depot in raids on Sanchu Island, near the mouth of Canton River).

(The planes, according to Chinese advices, also surprised five Japanese bombers near Canton and brought down two of them. They were said to have made two raids on Sanchu Island.)

A Japanese naval spokesman said Amoy University had been bombed because Chinese had built strong defence works on the university grounds. He said Amoy was being attacked because it was a centre of anti-Japanese activity as well as an important port of entry for Chinese munitions and supplies. He asserted also that 30,00 Formosans who lived in Amoy had been "oppressed and maltreated by the Chinese."

George Lyon Ranked High In Sportsdom

"Mr. Lyon was one of the best all-around athletes Canada ever had, if not the best," F. M. De la Fosse told the Examiner this morning. He was referring to George S. Lyon, who died in Toronto yesterday. Mr. De la Fosse played cricket many years ago with George Lyon in Toronto, and later golf. The latter played cricket for the Canadian team and competed against England and the United States. He made the highest Canadian batting record in 1894 when playing for Rosedale against Peterborough.

Referring to him as the highest type of gentleman and sportsman, Mr. De la Fosse briefly outlined some of the noted golfer's and cricketer's activities in the field of athletics. He was a first-rate tennis player, a baseball star, a famous runner and jumper, one of the best curlers and a prominent swimmer. But he excelled in golf and cricket. "A grand athlete, and Canada will be the poorer for his passing," his oldtime teammate stated.

Ontario Baseball Playoff Planned

OTTAWA, May 12—(CP).—President E. V. O'Meara of the Eastern Ontario Baseball Association said last night he had received an invitation from the Ontario Baseball Association to attend a meeting between officials of the two organizations and arrange an Ontario baseball playoff at the end of the season.

The invitation came through Secretary W. J. Snyder of Hamilton, whose organization has had differences with the Eastern Ontario body for 14 years.

O'Meara said he would accept the invitation of the O.B.A. and co-operate to the fullest to arrange an Ontario play-off.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

A RULE in the Provincial Women's Softball Union constitution calls for girls who compete in the game to have a doctor's okay. Clubs look after it and 'tis not a tedious nor expensive item. But a very good one, even if it should mean the expulsion of but one player in a league during a season, due to some physical frailty which might prove serious to a lass if she played. Girls' softball is not too strenuous a game and it is a fine outdoor sport for the fairer sex, but no harm can result from having a physical examination or a medico's nod before participation. Some of the more gruelling games in which men play, notably lacrosse and rugby, could well fall in line with this rule and insist that all athletes have a physical examination before the season opened.

LAKESHORE LADIES Softball League was re-organized night before last at a gabfest in Bowmanville. . Archie Russell of Cobourg is president, P. Etcher of Port Hope vice-prexy, and Greta Hunt of Bowmanville the secretary-treasurer. Teams in are Bowmanville, Cobourg and Port Hope, while Courtice, Newcastle and Orono are expected by May 20th. And so the Cobourg colleens, whose overtures to re-enter the Peterborough loop were greeted with a chilly shoulder, can enjoy the latest chuckle. But local ossifers say it is oke by them.

WE WILL have to call in Operatives 7½, 4.4 and 17 to get busy and bring us tidings of how the gals' teams in the district loop are shaping up. One of our better spies recently disguised himself as a rose bush and witnessed C.G.E. team working out—giving us the low-down on that squad. But we haven't heard a peep of Westclox, last year's champs, nor of Keene. Ivan Fletcher and Ab Delahaye are kind of close-mouthed at times about their teams but they can't continue to buck our extensive espionage system, nossir. Lindsay lasses are drilling like oil men and frequent boosts emanate from up Scugog way, but we don't know anything about that team yet. Nor are we likely to before the season commences, in a couple of weeks, unless we hitch-hike up and watch them practice from behind a telephone pole.

LOYD STANLEY of Owen Sound is living here now and has high hopes of clicking in a couple or three local sports. He is a tall, husky junior O.H.A. defenceman and an O.B.A. centre fielder. Also plays several other games. Will likely line up with Ralph's junior ballsters in the Lakeshore League, and is apt to make the Colts in puck wars next winter. He and Earl McNabb—Colts' goalie last winter—played ball for the Owen Sound team which went to the Ontario junior finals a year ago. He must have something. The lad came here on his own hook.

QUITE A FLOCK of entries are rolling these days in the big bowling tournament on at the K. of C. alleys. A number of out-of-town teams will compete for prizes here toward the end of the week. Nels Routley and Bill Stanbury were blasting the pins about in a nifty bit of doubles the other p.m., and Angelo Cremasco to date has high single. In a practice game last eve, Syl Shaughnessy startled onlookers by coming closerthanthis to rolling a possible, scoring 353 when he spared two after getting the rest on strikes. Fred Martin, generalissimo de pinnage at the Knights, is confident of a bangup finish this week-end to the tourney.

THERE WERE 83 present last gloaming at a dandy banquet of the Carpetball League at the Legion Hall. Presentation of season's prizes, singing, music and a good time by all. President Dave Leether was master of ceremonies and R. M. Glover the guest speaker. He told the gathering that sport is an essential thing nowadays and pointed to its value mentally, morally, physically and financially. He believed that parents should encourage their children to go in for competitive sport. We quite agree with the speaker's remark that this city provides ample facilities for athletics—there is no more sports-minded town for its size anywhere. The merry carpetballers terminated a fine season in fitting fashion.

COMPLETE CARD for the Riverview A.C. mitt show here May 30th won't be known for a few days, but we can give you a good idea of it. Seems Len Minicola really intends to hang up his gloves after many years smart campaigning in amateur rings around here. Main bout will be a five-rounder between Nick Orlando, local lightweight, and Young Jackie, colored Toronto pug. Semi-final sees Dutch McIlmoyle, Peterborough 165-pounder, return to the wars against Harry Hinds of Toronto. Two other Toronto mitt-slingers go in against Joe Hobbins and Bill Joiner in prelims, while three all-local bouts are lined up like this: Roy Prince vs. Hal Jones, Mal Packenham vs. Bert Prince, and Buddy Redmond vs. Don Batley of the Peterborough A.C. Red Garner and Bert Crothall of Toronto meet in a rassle match. At the request of Toronto fighters, Referee Jimmy Simpson, noted Toronto ref of boxing, will be used. More again on this card.

BAY OF QUINTE intermediate ball loop suffered a blow yesterday when word came out that the R.C.A.F. Fliers had dropped out. They decided to have a few inter-unit baseball teams this year as a starter, and maybe enter O.B.A. competition next year when they test their strength. Which leaves Belleville, Picton and Napanee yodelling a lonesome blues number out on the limb. However, they have sent a hurry-up bid to Kingston Locomotives—whose application they turned down several days ago—and hope to still operate a four-team circuit. No blame for the Fliers' takeoff is attached to Squad Leader Tommy Lawrence, who worked hard to keep the Airmen in there. And certainly no one can say Fred Collins—former local pilot—didn't do his durndest to make the Fliers baseball conscious.

GEORGE S. LYON DIES AT TORONTO

TORONTO, May 12.—George S. Lyon, Canada's Grand Old Man of Golf, died here yesterday in his eightieth year at his home, 61 Garfield Avenue. The veteran of the links, who won far more major golf championships than any person in the history of Canada, suffered a stroke last Christmastide and failed to recover his once-robust health.

He was eight times Canadian amateur golf champion, ten times Canadian seniors' champion, and four times North American seniors' title-holder.

His triumphs in the Canadian amateur classic started in 1898 and were not ended until after 1914. Then Mr. Lyon switched to the seniors' field of activity and he wore Dominion seniors' crown ten times between 1918 and 1930. In 1923 he captured the first North American seniors' championship, and then repeated the feat in 1930-31-32. He regularly captained the Canadian Seniors' Golf Association team in the international matches with the United States, last of which was played at Lambton Club, Toronto, last summer.

Mr. Lyon also was a good cricketer and curler, but golf was his main sports love. Hale and hearty star of the links that he was, Mr. Lyon will be mourned in the finest golfing circles of North America and beyond the seas. Mr. Lyon was an honored life member of the Toronto, Lambton and Rosedale Golf Clubs. In 1923 he served as President of the Royal Canadian Golf Association.

Last season he continued to play golf despite the handicap of having suffered a broken wrist only a few months before, but his brilliant and lengthy sports career was nearing its end when he was grievously stricken by a lingering illness last winter.

Canadian sportdom this morning mourns one of the most renowned, popular and efficient competitors in the nation's history. He was one of the foremost fathers and furtherers of golf in Canada.

Where's Sam?

Many fans are asking what has happened to Sam Snead. His name hasn't been so prominent in recent reports from the tournaments. And my readers who recall that I expected the young Virginian to be among the leaders for the next three years are reminind me of the things I said about him a few month ago.

Those who follow the players through newspaper accounts have a right to be somewhat puzzled by his apparent reversal of form. Well, I can be wrong, but everything that brings success to other players is so strongly implanted in Snead's line-up that his supporters can rest assured that he will come through with flying colors eventually. During the past winter he expressed a desire to rest. He wanted to get back to his home in the hills and perhaps his fiancee, but tournament officials stressed the fact that his appearances in many cities had been advertised, that it was his duty to play in the various events. So he tried to carry on, as it might be expressed, without having his mind on the race.

He can be side-tracked by poor advice but up to date his technique, his swing and competitive spirit are miles ahead of what any other player has had at his age. He should more than live up to the expectations of his best boosters. He may hit his stride in the coming Metropolitan open or the National open. If not, then certainly before the summer is over.

Grave Charge of Internal Sluggishness

(Before Mr. Justice Kruschen)

JUDGE: It literally astounds me that such charges still come before this court. With Kruschen Salts on sale at every drug counter this crime is inexcusable and will not be tolerated.

Prisoner, I order that you take Kruschen Salts—as much as will lie on a 10c piece—every day from now onwards in your breakfast cup of coffee or tea.

COUNSEL FOR THE DEFENCE: My client desires to put one question to your lordship.

JUDGE: The prisoner may ask what question he likes, but nothing can alter the fact that he needs and must take 'the little daily dose' of Kruschen. Now, my man, speak up.

PRISONER: My lord. Why is anything like Kruschen Salts necessary.' Surely Nature never intended. . . .

JUDGE: Nature, my good man, never intended you to live as you do live—sitting at a desk, eating cooked foods, riding when you should be walking. Don't you realize that?

PRISONER: Yes, my lord.

JUDGE: Then you must realize that something must be done to rectify all this. Internal sluggishness is simply Nature's revenge on humanity for being civilized and not living like healthy animals.

PRISONER: I see what you mean now, my lord. And will these Kruschen Salts supply what we miss through our unnatural way of living?

JUDGE: 'The little daily dose' is one day's supply of those vital mineral salts of which normal men and women are deprived by their lack of exercise and fresh air and their improper diet. In fact, everything in Kruschen is necessary if you want constant, vigorous physical fitness.

Now you may go, prisoner. Never miss your daily dose in future and we shall never see you here again. And let me warn you—if there is ever a recurrence of this crime the results may be very serious indeed.

relieve constipation and rheumatism

Kruschen is a combination of several mineral salts which your body must get, in some way, to keep the blood pure, the inside clean, and the system generally toned up, but which you can't get in Nature's own way without abundant exercise and fresh air. You should have those salts every day; hence the importance of the "little daily dose". Every drug counter sells Kruschen in 25c, 45c and 75c bottles. It's the little daily dose that does it.

COMMENT FROM THE COACH

Stance, Grip, Swing All Important In Baseball

By Lloyd A. Percival

Getting around to baseball today, we find the average player concerned mostly with hitting. So here are a few tips you will find of value.

The bat you use is an important factor in hitting. Use one that suits you. You can discover the right one by experimenting with different models and weights until you find one that "feels" right. When you have one that suits your style and in which you feel confident you are ready to pound out a hit or two.

Gripping the bat is important but often overlooked. The hand nearest the pitcher should be in the lower position about four inches from the end of the handle. The other hand should be close above the first. Improve your grip as the season advances. That is, grip the bat tightly and strive to increase that tightness. The power of your body should flow through the medium of the bat to the ball without interruption, but if the bat is held loosely there is a loss of power just as there is a loss of current when an electric connection is loose. A firm, tight grip also produces as good mental effect by cultivating aggressiveness.

Stand Properly

Stance is important. Your proper stance you must discover yourself. There are a few general instructions of value, however. The weight should be distributed almost, but not quite, evenly on both feet, with the rear foot—that away from the pitcher—receiving more than the other. Keep the weight on the front of the feet and use the heels only for support. The toes should point toward the plate or slightly toward the pitcher.

The knees should be flexed a little. This prevents the muscles from getting "set" and permits you to shift your weight quickly and get a maximum of effort into your swing. In this way also, you present a smaller "strike area" to the pitcher bringing the upper part of your body closer to the ground and decreasing the distance between knees and shoulders. There is no hard and fast rule as to distance from the plate or spread of the feet. It's up to you to find what position allows you to apply your power and start quickly.

Swing Smoothly

The arms should be kept far enough from the body to permit free swinging, but not so far that when an outside ball is hit no body power is imparted. Practise getting the feel of your swing by cutting with even swings over the plate seeing that the best surface of the bat passes over the best "strike area." Keep the rhythm of the swing even. If possible, practise in front of a large mirror. In this way you can be your own critic. Watch your reflection and bawl him out if he fails to satisfy. Mirror practice will help the mechanics of your batting.

When you're up to bat—keep alert and watch the ball. On visual control of the ball depends the timing and direction of your swing. If you watch carefully and the pitcher is not adept at hiding his delivery you should have a field day at his expense.

BEARS' 5-RUN SPLURGE IN 9th INNING DEFEAT THE LEAFS 8-7

MIKE MEOLA IS UNLUCKY VICTIM BRUIN BARRAGE

TORONTO, May 12 (CP).—Take the word of International League pitchers who have faced them, those Newark Bears are mighty unfair to members of opposing hurling brigades.

If things aren't bad enough for pitchers, what with lively balls and short fences, the Bears are making it tougher for those elbowers who hold by the time-honored customs of "easing up" with the big leads.

Mike Meola, Toronto Maple Leafs' right hander, found that out yesterday. Mike was holding a 7-3 lead over the Bears going into the first half of the ninth when the big blow-off came.

Before Manager Dan Howley could signal to the bullpen for help, the Bears had blasted Meola for five runs that won the ball game, 8-7. It is an old Newark custom. The Bears have rallied to win four games this season with last inning splurges.

It was the Bears' third straight win and increased their lead over the second-place Buffalo Bisons to 4½ games. The Bisons had their game with the third-place Baltimore Orioles postponed because of cold weather, and the fourth member of the first division, Jersey City, had an off-day, having played their scheduled game with Montreal as part of a previous doubleheader.

The Leafs' loss dropped them into sixth place as the Rochester Red Wings took over the leadership of the second division with a double win over Syracuse Chiefs, 5-4 and 7-6.

Park St. Victors Over St. James

Park St. opened the Church Softball League juvenile section last night at King Edward with a 17-8 win over St. James. Two innings of seven runs each gave the winners a big bulge, the Saints being a bit jittery at times. Campbell, House and Martin led the Baptists' attack. Gillespie and Roberts were St. James' best stickers. The two catchers pulled in neat foul flies, and Lawson and Sanderson fielded well. The teams:

KNOX TEAM WINS FROM BEES 16-5

A big first inning gave Knox Seniors their second Church Softball League win of the season, taking a 16-5 verdict from George St. Buzzers last night at the Oval. The losers booted a bunch on the wet diamond, and Knox counted nine runs in the first. They coasted through then on A. Wedlock's neat hurling. After the first, Burnham pitched well for the losers but had shaky support. Gatfield, W. Wedlock, Masters and Charlton got two hits each for Knox, Gatfield hitting a homer. Copping got a three-bagger. Kingdon and Burnham led the Buzzers at bat, with R. Parnall and Richards their best fielders. McDonald had two nice grabs for the winning side. The teams:

Knox	901 031 2—16
Buzzers	301 000 1— 5

City Basketball League Champions

Above is shown the strong C.G.E. team which won the City Basketball League championship this season. Playing brilliantly and ruggedly they knocked over all opposition to come out on top. Tuesday night they were presented with the titular trophy at a joint championship banquet for the Electrics and St. Paul's (O.C.B.A. winners) given by the "Y" Leaders Corps in the Y.M.C.A. The C. G. E. crew dressed and posed for the above photo. Reading left to right in the back row are: Wm. Bennett (executive), Joe Jakafby, Cliff Cadd, Al Holmes and Alfred Day (vice-prexy); middle row, left to right: Don Crowe, Herb Galley, Grant Cameron, George Hunter; in front, Jack Archibald. Absent from the picture were Mick Magee and Roy Tranter. (Examiner Staff Photo.)

Cliff Melton Of The Giants Stands As No. 1 Southpaw With Six Straight Wins

Yankees Top American League With 4-1 Win Over Indians

NEW YORK, May 12 (CP).—Meet the icicle, folks. He not only has the temperament, he even looks like one, this Cliff Melton, the Giants' sophomore southpaw who's standing National League batters on their ears.

He's built on the general proportions of a beanpole, stretching about six-feet-six straight up from his size 12's, and his most distinguishable features are a pair of out-sized ears. But he can pitch.

Cliff today is big league baseball's No. 1 elbower of the year in the matter of games won and lost, with an unbeaten run of six straight. He's one of the chief reasons Bill Terry's Giants are making an early season runaway of the National League race, what with Chicago Cubs showing signs of coming apart at the seams.

Yankees Gain Top.

And, with the Yankees in first-place in the American League pennant parade, as the result of their 4-1 win over Cleveland Indians yesterday, the situation looks as though things are on the way toward the third straight championship monopoly for old New York, despite the fact the calendar shows only May 12.

It took a lot of pitching to whip St. Louis Cardinals yesteray, but Melton had it, and the Giants won out 5-3 for their fifth in a row. Cliff was given a hot fight by Lefty Bob Weiland, but he kept breezing 'em in, and finally his mates shoved two runs across in the ninth to put the game on ice and drop the Gas-house gang into seventh place.

The Yankees, meantime, gained their seventh straight win, on the strength of their extra-base power and a fine nine-hit pitching effort by young Spud Chandler. Tommy Henrich and Red Rolfe whacked homers in the Yanks' 10-hit attack that was good for 19 bases.

Since Washington Senators were having their seven-game streak ruined 4-1 by Vernon Kennedy and the rest of Detroit Tigers, the Yanks pulled themselves out in front by a few percentage points, and the Nats dropped to second.

Red Sox Top Chicago.

Lefty Grove made it five in a row and tossed Boston Red Sox to a 4-2 decision over Chicago White Sox, thereby boosting Boston Red Sox into a third-place deadlock with Cleveland.

The Cubs came apart with a bang as Van Lingle Mungo got back to the wars with his fireball, a neat curve and control, and won his first game of the year, 7-0, for the Dodgers. It was Mungo's first shutout since he whitewashed these same Cubs back in September of 1936, and raised the Brooklyns to sixth place.

St. Louis Browns, buried in the American League cellar, worked a triple play and went on to a 9-5 edge over Connie Mack's fumbling Athletics, who only made five errors.

Pitchers' Battle In School Tussle

Prince of Wales took a 3-2 School Baseball League nod over King Edward Seniors yesterday. This was a fine sample of the bigger diamond game with both teams turning in a clasy performance. Smart pitching and clever fielding by the rivals made for a low score in the tight tilt. Smith on the losers mound fanned 10 while Detlor on the victors' slab breezed the ball by an even dozen. It was a hurlers' duel all the way through. The teams:

King Edward	100 100 0—2

Trouble Follows Foot steps Of Galento,

NEW YORK, May 12 (AP). — It looks as though Tony Galento, who asks only that he have his beer and be permitted to bite in the clinches, was born to trouble. Nothing seems to go right for Tony except his left hand, with which he expects to knock out Natie Mann tomorrow night.

He only just managed to get himself reinstated by the State Boxing Commission so he could start making an honest living for his first-born, and now he finds himself the unwitting cause of war between his manager, Joe Jacobs, and the promoter, Mike Jacobs.

"Something's always happenin' to me," the Newark round man mourned after Joe and Mike had their verbal clash yesterday at the Boxing Commission. "I got kicked out of school because I hit the principal with a house-brick, and it seems like I been hittin' somebody with a house-brick ever since.

"Chee, Joe's sore at me now because I signed a contract for this fight. They shouldn'ta told me they was goin' to reinstate Joe as a manager if they wasn't gonna do it. Joe says I made a 'scratch man' outa him, whatever that means."

"Besides, these guys here are always tryin' to tell me I gotta fight fair. Ask anybody—I always fight fair, only except maybe I get sore and bite a little."

CANADIANS DROP FIRST

VICTORIA, May 12 (CP) — The world-touring Islington Corinthians used their soccer wizardry to produce four second-half goals last night and register a 6-3 victory over Victoria all-stars, the first win of the Canadian schedule. It was the tourists' 80th game since leaving England.

Sports Spice

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, May 12 (AP)—Yankee Stadium has Cleveland Indians jinked for fair ... The Redskins have won only two of their last 23 starts in the "house that Ruth built"...One correspondent wired his paper from the West: "The Dodgers are just one big, unhappy family"...Leo Durocher and Bill Posedel, the pitcher, were the latest to square off ... Old Blump Phelps wedged himself between them, took a toe-hold, and there was no fight that day...

Arch Ward, Chicago sports editor who gave birth to the idea of the annual game between the professional football champions and a team of college stars, is here on his way home from the World Boxing Congress in Rome...Since he became a popper, Joe Cronin has been hitting at a .500 gait and most of his blows were for extra bases...Seems Joe, Sr., should be passing around the cigars...

Jigger Staz, veteran Los Angeles outfielder, hasn't bought more than three new gloves in all the years he has been in baseball...He always carves out a big hole in the palm of the glove and then he is ready to go to work...When someone discards an old glove, Jigger salves it, cuts out the hole and makes a new one for himself . . And don't forget they used to consider Jigger one of the niftiest fielders in the biz back in his days with the then oh-so-daffy Dodgers.

Pickings in the provinces must be good, Al Schacht, the baseball clown, has added a combination chauffeur and valet...Omigosh!

Henry Gets Great Reception

One body solidly behind Hammering Henry Armstrong, world's featherweight champion, in his bout against welterweight champ Barney Ross, May 26, will be the red caps of New York's Grand Central Station. Here is the scene when the great Negro fighter arrived to begin training for the fight.

2 TRAPPED, 1 HURT AS SLIDE OF ROCK SHAKES KIRKLAND

KIRKLAND LAKE, Ont., May 12 —(CP).—One man was injured and two other miners were trapped by falling rock when a rock burst occurred at the 2,800-foot level of the Lake Shore Gold Mines here last night. The slide, one of the worst in the history of the mine, shook the town.

Peter West and another man named Bolan were trapped when the rock burst caused a gigantic cave-in deep in the shaft. A man named Francel was injured, but was brought out from the scene of the accident without difficulty.

It was believed rescue workers would be forced to dig at the piles of rock throughout the night to release West and Bolan. They were said to be in no danger unless another slide occurred.

Merchandise on shelves in Kirkland Lake stores fell to the floor when the cave-in occurred. Microphones in the town's radio station toppled as buildings trembled. Extent of damage to the mine could not immediately be determined.

Coffee and food was sent down to the trapped men several hours after the accident. Mine officials were unable to say how many men were at work at the time.

WINNIPEG TO SEE FOURTEEN DRAMAS

OTTAWA, May 12 (CP)—Fourteen amateur theatrical groups will converge on Winnipeg this weekend for six days of play-acting at the Dominion drama festival in the Walker Theatre May 16-21.

Col. H. C. Osborne, honorary director, said here today final arrangements had been completed and officials anticipated one of the most successful festivals ever held. Lord Tweedsmuir will attend the opening performance Monday.

Eleven English groups and three French groups from cities scattered across Canada will compete with two other Winnipeg groups for top honors in the Dominion's theatrical world.

Barrett H. Clark, adjudicator for the finals, will leave New York Friday for Winnipeg. Col. Osborne and several other prominent sponsors of the Little Theatre movement in eastern Canada will entrain for the West within the next few days. The Bessborough Trophy, awarded for the best play in either French or English, has already been sent to the Manitoba capital along with the other awards.

Appreciative Audience Greets Religious Play At Millbrook

Young People's Union Of St. Andrew's Church Sponsors Event

MILLBROOK, May 12.—A large and appreciative audience gathered in the basement of St. Andrew's Church after the regular service on Sunday evening to see the Young People's Union present its religious drama, "Joseph of Arimathea."

B. B. Dawson, president of the Y.P.U., welcomed the gathering, and Jean Burnham, dramatic convenor, gave a brief synopsis of the play, and introduced the cast. Marie Douglas was at the piano, and to the strains of Handel's Largo, the reader, Phyllis Kidd, entered and gave the Bible account of what was about to be enacted on the stage.

The play was in two acts, of two scenes each, and takes place throughout in the home of Joseph of Arimathea in Jesusalem. The staging and lighting were well done and costumes were rich and appropriate, while the several characters carried out dialogue and acting so well that a deep and lasting impression was made on the minds of the onlookers.

The time of the play is immediately preceding the crucifixion of our Lord; the title role was played by Jack Arundel, and in the opening act, he and his friend, Nicodemus (Orval Wainman), have left the early morning meeting of the Jewish Sanhedrin when, through hatred and envy, the members were determined to put Jesus to death, are deeply troubled that they have lacked the moral courage to avow their faith in Him as the Messiah, and while lamenting their cowardice in not standing forth in His defence, are wondering what after all they could have done to save Him.

Esther, Joseph's wife (Esther Might), and her maid, Annah (Eleanor Bigelow), whose child had been brought back to life by the Saviour, both openly state their allegiance to the Christ, and Esther repeatedly urges her husband to take the same stand and reproaches him for failing to make any effort to save the Master from the anger and jealousy of the Sanhedrin that morning. Two of the women who have followed our Lord during His ministry, Della Mae Sisco and Beatrice Fallis, come in when the crowds in the street are shouting, "Crucify Him! Crucify Him!" and add their entreaties that Joseph will use his wealth and influence to save the Messiah from the murderous anger of the chief priests and of the mob.

Joash (Bill Kerr), a servant in the home of Joseph, runs in in great excitement with the news, "They are taking Him to Calvary; He is bearing a huge cross on His back; they will crucify Him and there is nothing we can do to save Him."

In the second act the almost unbelievably good news of the resurrection of the Saviour is brought to her mistress by Annah, who has seen Him alive, walking in the garden and talking with Mary Magdalene. Joash also comes with this glad story, and brings with him a soldier (Gordon Might), one of the Roman cohorts set to watch the tomb, who declares it a lie that the disciples came and stole the Lord's body while the legion slept, and who personally saw the stone rolled aside, and the Lord of Glory coming forth. A page in Joseph's household (Fred Brown) announces the visitors, and in the final scene both Joseph and Nicodemus have come to the understanding that God's kingdom is to be set up in the hearts of men, and that the wonderful story of the Saviour, and of God's forgiving love, together with the necessity of the new birth, must be told to all men and all nations everywhere, and are determined that they themselves will have a part in this great mission.

The benediction by the pastor dismissed the gathering: the Young People will meet Lakefield in competition for Presbytery honors at Millbrook on Friday, May 13, at 8 p.m., the latter bringing a royalty play, "Dust of the Road."

FACES MANSLAUGHTER

BROCKVILLE, Ont., May 12 (CP) —Victor Baynham was charged with manslaughter to-day in the death of his farm neighbor, Thomas Noonan, who died last night allegedly after being struck by Baynham during an argument.

Baynham appeared before Magistrate G. A. Wright, and was remanded until May 19. His application for bail was withheld at the request of Crown Attorney H. Atkinson pending further police investigation, and the accused was kept in jail.

GROOM OF 78 WEDS BRIDE OF 77 YEARS

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, May 12.—Death by causes unknown, was the verdict rendered by the coroner's jury at Beaverton inquiring into the cause of death of Jos. Michaud, of Gamebridge. The unfortunate man was found dead by the crew of the Lindsay-Midland C.N.R. alongside the track near Beaverton a few days ago. The body remained unidentified for some time. It is believed that Michaud was riding on a freight train when he fell off and broke his neck.

The marriage was solemnized in Lindsay of Joseph Scott and Mrs. A. Burley. The bride, it is understood, was in her seventy-seventh year and the groom his seventy-eighth year. They will reside in Lindsay.

The Lindsay Warder, which has published a daily newspaper the past couple of years, has quit the daily field. It is understood the firm will reproduce the Shopper's Guide, a weekly publication.

J. G. Watson, it is announced, has commenced the construtions of a 30-room lodge on the shores of Sturgeon Lake. Building activity is brisk at the different lake resorts this spring.

Local merchants are in two camps on the question of the observance of a Wednesday half-holiday during the summer months. It is understood that a meeting will be held this week in an effort to reach some decision on the question.

Street paving operations are being held up in Lindsay awaiting the decision of the Department of Highways relative to the paving of certain designated streets. At the council meeting on Monday night a motion to appoint a local inspector on the work was defeated, it being contended that the Highways Department would have such an official on the job. Ald. Butler stated that he would hold up operations until a local inspector was appointed. Lindsay, he declared, had been "buncoed" in street paving contracts in the past.

LOYALIST FORCES TRAPPED IN HILLS

HENDAYE, France, May 12—(AP)—Spanish insurgents reported today thousands of Government militiamen had been trapped in the mountains west of Castellote by the rapid advance of two insurgent columns on the eastern front.

The columns, starting simultaneously from Morella on the east and Aliaga on the west, were reported to have formed a rectangle in the northern foothills of the Altos de la Canada, closing the last means of escape for Government forces in that area.

The Altos de la Canada are about 40 miles northeast of Teruel. The pocket in which the Government troops were said to have been trapped was about 25 miles long and 15 miles wide.

Among the towns reported captured by the advancing insurgents were Mirambel, La Iglesuala Del Cid and Villarluengo.

The full force of the insurgents' mechanized artillery and heavy bombardment squadrons was used to screen the advance, insurgent despatches said the retreating militiamen left hundreds of dead on the battlefields.

Meanwhile, the Government's "lost division," cut off from the rest of Barcelona's troops in the mountains near the French border, made raids on General Francisco Franco's northern lines.

The division struck twice into the Bielsa Valley from its virtually impregnable position deep in the Pyrenees, but insurgent and Government reports conflicted as to the outcome.

teenth Parliament, followed by suggestions of what the government should be accomplishing for the primary purpose of providing employment and thereby reducing the country's relief rolls, and finally a reassertion of the traditional policies of the Conservative party. Mr. Massey was introduced by the secretary, R. A. Elliott.

"With the world of today in a state of flux, and the things that were understood yesterday not so easy of understanding today, our party is faced with the most challenging situation in the history of the Dominion," Mr. Massey said. "We came into office in 1930 under the most outstanding leader of government this country has developed. We carried forward under his leadership, although in 1929 the bottom seemed to have been drawn out from under the affairs of the world. The hardships faced by our farmers, our industrial workers and our manufacturers were not peculiar to Canada, although the government during the 1920's had been warned and had failed to take heed of the warnings."

Bennett Agreements

The great accomplishment of the Bennett administration, Mr. Massey said, was the meeting in Ottawa in 1932 of the representatives of the British commonwealth of nations. In that conference the predominant figure was the Hon. R. B. Bennett, described by Stanley Baldwin as the outstanding statesman of the British Empire. The net result of the agreements was too well known, Mr. Massey said, for detailed review, but any retrospect of the years from 1932 to 1938 would be forced to acknowledge that the Ottawa agreements saved Canada from disaster. When those agreements came up for revision in 1937 the government that had opposed them in 1935 ratified them in full except for a few "face-saving changes."

Mr. Massey stated that the Mackenzie King government was elected with the strongest following of any other government that ever conducted Canada's affairs from the House of Comons, 179 members out of the total of 245. "And what has the government done in the last three years? I could answer that in three minutes, but if I were to tell you what it has not done we should be here until next Wednesday. The triumph of its first session was the Washington agreement. Mr. King was hardly elected until he was climbing the steps of the capitol at Washington with his pen dripping ink. That agreement was signed in a matter of only a few days after taking office. Do you think the agreement could have been fully considered in that short time? As a matter of fact the agreement had been drafted by Mr. Bennett, but he had refused to sign it because it was not in the best interest of this country. And that is what it has proved to be since it was signed in 1936. Liberals will tell you that we are exporting thousands of cattle on the hoof, but they don't tell you of the meat we are importing in tins.

The Hawley-Smoot tariff schedule was the highest in the world, and Congress was directed that in trade agreements its average of 60 per cent. duty must not be reduced by more than half, and no imports were to be placed on the free list. That plainly meant that the best tariff we could get was 30 per cent. on our products entering the United States. The result is what you might have expected. Our exports have gone down since October and November at the rate of $1,000,000 a month, and our imports from the United States have been increasing. The spread is farther and farther apart, and that was the Liberal government's triumph of the first session.

Its big accomplishment of the second session was the revision of the Ottawa agreements with only slight changes to make it appear to be something this government had produced. It was essentially the agreements obtained by the government of R. B. Bennett.

Doing Nothing Now

Now we are in the third session and what has been done. Well, they have made marijuana a drug under the narcotics act, and there was a private bill relating to performing rights, curbing a racket in the use of radio, and it was introduced by a Conservative member. True, we have had a lot of bills passed, but they were only dealing with routine matters that don't effect this country one way or the other. What are we doing at Ottawa? Frankly, I don't know. There have been some bitter speeches and we have tried to answer a few of them, but otherwise the House is marking time, doing nothing. You might think that this inaction would be to the advantage of our party. It used to be that when one government lost the confidence of the people the opposition gained in strength; but today we have a multiple party system in Canada, and the net result is that what the government loses may prove a gain for any of the other groups. Our great concern is that the democratic institution of parliament is on trial. Only two great democracies remain in the world, and British democracy is being challenged in Canada because the government is tinkering with results instead of dealing with causes."

Mr. Massey said that the emergency of the early 1930's had passed. Certain aspects of it were not recognized as likely to be permanent, and the present government was content applying measures which had been instituted by the previous government in the face of the greatest emergency Canada has ever experienced.

Denmark's Example

The second phase of his address was devoted to suggestions of what might be done if the government would look to the future and adopt policies which had proved successful in Sweden and Denmark. In 1850 Sweden adopted a forestry policy which after eighty-seven years left the country with 40 per cent. more pulp and timber than it had originally. That policy provided permanent employment for many men. The Dominion government was satisfied to pay out millions of dollars annually for relief, but if any one proposed a forestry scheme for the future that would cost $50,000,000, for example, the Minister of Finance would throw up his hands and ask where the money was to come from.

Denmark's agricultural policies were held up by Mr. Massey as an example of what Canada might accomplish if the government was doing the job as it should. In 1936 Canada with free entry for 2,500,000 hundredweight of bacon into the market of the United States actually shipped 1,092,000 cwt. as compared with 3,373,000 cwt. by Denmark, and the Danish bacon sold at prices 12 per cent. higher than ours. Mr. Massey quoted similar figures for butter and eggs. Every head of livestock in Denmark is registered, and should there be any complaint about a side of Danish bacon sold in Great Britain it can be traced back to the inspector who passed it and also back to the farmer who produced the pig.

Mr. Massey also said the King government had done nothing to exploit the resource of iron and other minerals found by a geological survey under the Bennett government four years ago, and he contrasted that inaction with the development of an iron mine in Sweden far up in the land of the midnight sun. The present government had also failed to advance an adequate housing policy, and for the relief of the west it was content to hand out $22,000,000 instead of planning an irrigation scheme that would provide permanent advantage.

Conservative Principles

In conclusion Mr. Massey sketched the three motivating principles of the Conservative party: loyalty to the Crown, maintenance of our national unity, and the development of Canada for Canadians by a policy that would keep jobs in this country instead of letting them go to the United States as illustrated by the fact that in 1929 there were 750,000 magazines imported into Canada, 400,000 under the Bennett tariffs, and the present total of 1,000,000 magazines a month coming from the United States, where they are manufactured instead of having most of them printed in Canada.

Mr. Lancaster moved the vote of thanks that was extended to Mr. Massey.

and listened without display of emotion to the French translation of a speech made by Viscount Halifax, British Foreign Secretary.

Defending his move to seek recognition of Italy's conquest, Lord Halifax declared it was the duty of France and Great Britain "to protect the world from the scourge of war" and that it was "not feasible to attempt successful international acceptance of the high ideals for which the League stood."

Decision For Each Country.

After outlining the reasons for the "realist" diplomacy of his government, the Foreign Secretary said: "The British Government hopes the members of the Council share the opinion that the question of recognition of Italy's position in Ethiopia is a question which each member of the League must decide for itself in the light of its own situation and its own obligations."

He denied Haile Selassie's claim that his followers still hold a large part of Ethiopia.

"The British Government's information," he said, "is that Italy has virtually the whole country with no centre of organized resistance capable of reversing Italian control."

Democracy Needs Guarding Mrs. Percival Foster Warns At Y.W. Annual Meeting

Value Should Be Taught In As Glowing Terms As Dictators Use

A challenge was flung by an orator whose words were burning with the bright flame of combined sincerity and enthusiasm, an appeal for awareness of the fact that democracy needs guarding in Canada today—with our great richly endowed lands under the covetous eyes of the nations of the old world. In as glowing terms as the dictators of the totalitarian states teach their creeds, the value of democracy should be taught in the homes and in the schools, prejudices and fears should be fought, also the prevalent tendency to strive for much and give nothing, and we should learn "to walk the middle way," remembering the individual is more important than the state, which exists to serve the individual.

Holding her audience in the grip of true eloquence, Mrs. Percival Foster, formerly Field Secretary of the National Council, Y.W.C.A., and since National Chairman of the Council of Friendship in Canada, also active in many other fields, told of her impressions and experiences during seven months in Europe this past year, to an audience at the annual meeting of the Young Women's Christian Association Wednesday evening.

Found a Way Out

The Co-operative Movement in the Scandinavian countries was set forth as an example of what can be accomplished. "Thank God for the Scandinavian countries," said Mrs. Foster. Taking in the economic, cultural and spiritual fields, the movement is conducted by "these honest, clean God-fearing people, who teach the true principles of democracy, believing still in human nature, teaching sympathy, tolerance, love, and most important how to live together." The high cost of living, caused partly by the Empire Trade Treaty (for which they bear no grudge) determined the Swedes to find a way out, and they have done so in a movement that has swept over the country, realizing its ideals of lowering the cost of living, increasing the value of products, providing proper homes and wages for workers. It is not a socialist movement, it saves capitalism, but avoids its mistakes, and it has abolished all slums. The speaker doubted if the same principles would succeed at present in Canada. "We are not yet quite honest enough," she said. In Norway, famous for its rivers and scenery, the movement includes the handicrafts of a people determined to bring more beautiful things into everyday life.

An urgent plea to rekindle a dying faith in the League of Nations was brought by this visitor so lately returned from watching it at work. In Geneva Mrs. Foster attended a three-day study course on peace, also the International Labor Conference. "Here where we are a long way from the heart of international thinking do forbear to criticize the seeming failure of the League. What conceivable thing would you put in place of this great international court? There is the sincerest devotion among the delegates, trying to come to some understanding on international matters, in spite of different economical and social standards, but they cannot now be sure of support from their home bases, and the League is only as strong as the support it receives from the countries represented," declared the speaker, and added: "The fear and distrust of the nations is killing Europe today."

Youth Behind Dictators

Impression of Italy and Germany last summer were given. "Make no mistake, when we speak of Italy we speak of Mussolini, and when of Germany we speak of Hitler. The youth of both countries are solid for the dictators, but in Germany there is unrest among the middle-aged, who remember the Germany of the old days, and in both countries is the undercurrent of tension. "But the youth are growing older and will soon hold the responsible positions," she warned, continuing: "Do not underestimate the achievements of these two men who have changed the history of the world."

The beauty of Italy, the reforms effected by Mussolini, and the fine construction work being accomplished were spoken of, and regretful mention made of German's lost culture, where fear is more evident than in Italy, and where Hitler's philosophy is so clearly taught, "The preservation of the strong at the expense of the weak." Reference was also made to the controlled money in Germany, as an uncomfortable thing for the traveller.

Bright impressions were given of the Coronation, with London ablaze witr color, of the magnificent naval review at Spithead, and of the World Exposition in Paris. Glowing tributes to the fine qualities of the French people was paid by Mrs. Foster, whose description of the exposition included reference to its unfinished state, "as expositions always are," except the buildings of Germany and Russia, which were ready and in both educational (or propaganda) work was going on.

HARRY McFADDEN IS GUEST OF HONOR AT C.G.E. BANQUET

Foreman of the Tool Department at the Canadian General Electric plant here for more than a quarter of a century, H. T. McFadden, prominent Peterborough sports enthusiast, was guest of honor at a banquet at the Kawartha Club on Wednesday night.

More than a hundred associates in the Tool Department and other parts of the plant crowded the club's banquet hall to capacity to honor the veteran employee. Ernie Rahmell was chairman. The head table was representative of some of Mr. McFadden's oldest fellow-workers, and prominent plant heads. Seated there were C. A. Salmonsen, plant manager, Jack Pilling, W. C. English, I. F. McRae, A. D. McLeish, A. Primeau, A. Spicer, T. McMillen, Reg. Dyer, and Chairman Rahmell.

Presentations Made.

In token of the high esteem in which fellow-workers hold him, Mr. McFadden was presented with a deep easy chair and a twilight lamp. Jack Pilling made the presentation on behalf of the Tool Department. A handsome writing desk, bookcase, and clock were gifts presented by I. F. McRae on behalf of fellow-workers in other sections of the plant.

H. T. McFadden joined the staff of the C.G.E. in 1910, and in 1912 he was appointed foreman of the Tool Department, holding that post from that time until the present, Chairman Ernie Rahmell told the gathering. Later in the evening C. A. Salmonsen, plant manager, announced Len Vass will take over the position following Mr. McFadden's retirement.

Followed Sports Closely.

A keen sports enthusiast, the retiring foreman was most interested in baseball and hockey, the chairman said. He was president of the C.G.E. Intermediate team, champions in 1922; and was president of the Central Ontario Baseball League in 1928. The chairman lauded his ability to instruct younger men, and paid tribute to the type of work the foreman himself did.

The C.G.E. is more concerned with the social welfare of its employees than any other company with which he has worked, declared A. D. McLeish, proposing a toast to the company. He urged young employees to give careful heed to older workers, and to learn their trade thoroughly and efficiently. W. C. English replied. The company is always looking for young men of intelligence and ability, and offers all opportunity for their advancement, he said.

Praised Work.

C. A. Salmonsen praised the work of the retiring foreman, told of his qualities of leadership, and his reputation as an expert at his trade.

Replying, Mr. McFadden said: "Above all, I wish to express my thanks to and my satisfaction with the men on whose efforts I had to depend, for the high quality of their work. I shall long remember our association together."

"Then I move for dismissal," said J. F. Strickland, K.C., counsel for Gregson, smilingly.

And dismissed, of course, it was.

Automobile Stolen From Water Street

Another audacious automobile theft was perpetrated shortly before noon today when a Pontiac car belonging to Ford Turner was stolen from in front of the Turner residence at 800 Water Street. The car had been left there at 11.30 o'clock, and a few minutes before 12 o'clock it was discovered to have been stolen.

A young man had been seen loitering around the vicinity shortly before the theft. Police in surrounding towns were quickly notified by local authorities, and city and provincial police started a general hunt for the missing machine.

Guest Of Honor

More than 100 associates at the Canadian General Electric plant paid tribute on Wednesday evening to H. T. McFadden, foreman of the Tool Department for the past 26 years, who is retiring from the company. Mr. McFadden is seen seated in the deep chair which was presented to him by his associates, and surrounded by other gifts from fellow workers, reading a scroll that they gave him. —(Examiner Staff Photo).

THREE TRANSIENTS GIVEN SENTENCES

Four transients who were arrested a few nights ago in the Peterborough Lumber Company's building at Burnham's Point and who pleaded guilty to vagrancy when arraigned on Monday were disposed of by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K. C., in police court this morning.

Earl Jones, 19, the youngest of the quartet, who according to Chief Newhall had no previous record was allowed to go.

James Ryan, oldest member of the party, asked Magistrate Langley to give him a chance. "I have a job to go to, your worship," he said. The statement did not help his cause a great deal for the court awarded him a sentence of seven days.

"He has a record but there was nothing very serious in it," the Chief Constable said.

William Thompson also had a list of not very serious offences to his discredit and he too will be the guest of the management of the county jail for a week.

John Sullivan had the longest record, dating back to 1925 and he got the longest sentence, a ten day stretch at Castle Johnston. Among his previous convictions was one here in 1931 for vagrancy.

"You keep coming back to Peterborough," commented Magistrate Langley. "How is that?"

"Oh, just passing through," returned Sullivan with a broad grin that still lingered as the court awarded him a ten-day retirement from society.

PEEPING TOM IS PUT TO FLIGHT

The West End "Peeping Tom," whose spying activities have caused considerable annoyance to residents on Charlotte street and other thoroughfares west of Park street is still at large but he is probably nursing a very sore shoulder today.

For a considerable period there have been complaints about this individual whose habit has been to endeavor to look into bedroom and bathroom windows by climbing on to shed roofs at the rear of residences where there are young girls. He was engaged in that pastime at the back of a Charlotte street house last night when he was detected by one of the occupants and the head of the family, picking up an axe handle, soon put the Peeper to flight. He did not get away however until he had been on the receiving end of a lusty swing from the axe handle which landed on his shoulder and brought a loud yell of pain from the recipient.

Police who have had calls on many occasions because of this nocturnal spying scoured the neighborhood last night but were unable to get any trace of the man.

Delays in tractor repairs held up Russia's spring grain planting.

'Cure For Rheumatism' Talk No Aid For Lifting Farmer's Pocketbook

HASTINGS, May 12.—An Elgin farmer was the near victim of a lady pickpocket on the outskirts of the village, Tuesday afternoon.

He was leading a horse when an approaching car stopped and a lady stepped out. "Have you a match?" she asked. A few matches were given her. "Are you ever troubled with rheumatism," she enquired, and proceeded to point out different parts of his body that could be helped by a patent medicine she claimed to be selling. The farmer said he did not require any medicine and proceeded on his way. He walked about five feet when he missed his pocketbook.

The lady denied she knew anything of it but later pointed it out on the side of the road. The farmer believes she took it from his pocket and threw it to one side later to be picked up after the victim had gone.

The license number of the car was obtained but he said he could not lay a charge because he could not actually prove that his pocket was picked. The purse contained $2

Aged Man Held By Police Believed To Be Suffering From Some Form Of Amnesia

Unable To Give Clear Account Of Himself, His Home Or His Destination

The case of Edward Neil, aged man who was taken in charge Wednesday afternoon when he tried to enter a house on the Lakefield Road, claiming that he lived there, remains a problem to city and provincial police to-day.

Neill, who says he is 80 years of age and looks it, has been unable to give any clear account of himself, his home, or his destination and may be suffering from some form of amnesia, although he is quite voluble in recounting experiences of bygone days in the lumbering business.

When he was searched after being brought to the police station yesterday it was discovered that he had part of a C.N.R. railway ticket, covering his passage from Peterborough to Lindsay and then to Lochlin, a hamlet in Victoria county. The remainder of the ticket had evidently been taken up on the train and a memorandum written apparently by a C.N.R. employee at Ottawa showed that the ticket had been bought in that city.

According to this memorandum Neill was to have left Ottawa at 10.45 on Tuesday night and arrive in Peterborough on the C.P.R. train, a pool train reaching here at 4.45 o'clock Wednesday morning. Here he was to have transfered to the C.N.R., taking the train leaving here at 7.25 a.m. and eventually reach Lochlin at 2.40 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

Wandered From Station

It is evident that the aged man after reaching Peterborough early yesterday morning wandered off somewhere instead of going to the C.N.R. station. No reports have been received of his activities during the day, but last evening he turned up at a house on the Lakefield Road, near the Water Works pumping station and told the occupants that he lived there. He was brought into Peterborough and questioned repeatedly but his story of where his home was and as to other points about his recent movements was incoherent.

In his pocket was the address of Mrs. Veale, 4th avenue, Ottawa, and inquiry made there by The Canadian Press revealed the fact that a man who answered the description of Neill stayed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Veale one night last week. The elderly man had told Veale that he was the brother of a friend of Mrs. Veale's and that he came from Arundel, Que., 20 miles south of the Mon.-Laurier-Montreal highway and about 80 miles from Montreal. At that time the man was to leave for Lochli on May 6.

To-day The Examiner queried the C.N.R. ticket office at Ottawa to inquire as to whether any member of the staff remembered selling a one-way coach ticket to anybody answering Neill's description.

C. A. Belford of the C.N.R. staff replied promptly that a woman apparently from the country district accompanied an elderly man to the Ottawa depot ticket office at noon on Monday and bought a single coach ticket to Lochlin. The man was to leave Ottawa Tuesday night and Mr. Belford wires that the ticket provided for transfers between stations in Peterborough. The selling agent, he says, said the man seemed to be all right then except that he had difficulty in seeing.

Is Minus One Eye.

The latter point is explained by the fact that Neill has lost one eye. He told reporters that a kick from a horse during his lumbering days had been responsible.

The man is well provided with money. Pinned inside an envelope he had $40 in bills and in his pocketbook another $10 bill and some silver.

India Missionary Is Y.P.S. Speaker

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, May 12.—Miss Bessie McMurchie gave an interesting illustrated lecture as a feature of the meeting o. St. Andrew's Young People's Society on Monday evening. Miss McMurchie, who is a missionary in the Beal field in India, stressed her work in the hospital and as a Christian worker among the people. The young people were intensely interested in the several items of apparel which the speaker displayed telling how and when each was worn by the different peoples.

Other numbers on the program included a recitation by Constance Black; dialogue by the Misses Eleanor Allan, Frances Hendy, Josephine Nesbitt and Ruth McEachern. Constance Black and Beryl Spencer presented a short missionary story. The program was in charge of Mrs. Charles Fraser.

The devotional portion of the meeting, which was presided over by the president, Mrs. Bruce Grills, was opened with a hymn, following which Rev. B. Simpson Black led in prayer and Miss Violet Patrick gave the Scripture reading. During the business portion of the meeting it was decided to send a representative to the Glenmore Camp this year.

Hawthorne was the hostess for the occasion, when it was decided that the next meeting would be held at the summer home of Mrs. R. A. Connor near Hastings. Following the business session cards were played and the prize won by Mrs. S. Hopping. Lunch was served by the members of the Social Committee: Miss Hazel Wright, Miss Georgie Davidson, Mrs. A. J. DONALD EDWARDS GRAND OLD MAN INSURANCE GAME

One of the oldest members of the Canadian Underwriters' Association is Donald C. Edwards, an old Peterborough boy whose youth was spent in this city, where he still has relatives, among them Gerald A. Wood, Monaghan Road, who is a nephew.

For more than 55 years the grand old man of Canadian insurance has been actively connected with the growth of the insurance business in this country. Before that time he was a bookkeeper in the old Scott and Edwards law office here, at the same time E. A. Peck, K.C., was articled to the same firm.

More than 55 years ago he was chief inspector for the Citizens Insurance company; then he was manager of the firm of Taylor Brothers, general agents at that time for the Northern Assurance Company in Canada. In 1889 he was made secretary to the Eastern Insurance company at Halifax, N..S., and remained with that company until 1895, when the Union Assurance company of London, England, acquired it. Leaving company employment, he opened an adjusting business in Toronto and has lived to see his venture grow into the responsible and efficient organization it is today as the firm of Edwards and Angas Limited.

He was one of the chief adjusters in the losses arising from the Toronto conflagration in 1904, and in 1922 was chairman of the group of adjusters chosen to handle the claims arising out of the Haileybury fire, which amounted to somewhere in the neighborhood of $1,800,000.

SEEDING SEASON IS WELL ADVANCED

Norman Andrew told the Examiner this morning the seeding season must be exceptionally favorable because a certain Otonabee farmer, who is hard to please in such matters as the weather and other influences affecting agriculture and its practitioners, reported several days ago that he had all his crop in, as compared with his sowing last year in the final week of May and the first week of June.

"When that farmer is willing to concede that the first part of the season is getting away in good shape, it must be extra good," Mr. Andrew remarked.

In the meantime there may be flurries of hail and occasional gusts of wet snow that melts as soon as it falls, as it did yesterday, but on the whole farmers have got the bulk of the seed in the ground.

"I think most farmers prefer what is called a dribbling June," Mr. Andrew said. "I'd just as soon have a dry May, because there is always sufficient moisture in the ground to carry the grain through that month, but when you get into the hotter weather of June you need the moisture for growth. However, we have to take it as it comes whether we are on the farm or not."

BIG BUSINESS MENACE

LINCOLN, Neb., May 12—(AP).—Walter L. Locke, editor of the Dayton, O., News, told a dinner audience here tonight freedom of the press is being lost because of economic and social pressure from big business and special interest groups. Locke, former editorial writer for the Lincoln Journal, recommended newspapers dispense with editorial opinion and publish the opinions of only qualified persons who could write under their own names.

Special Offers

Communications read by the secretary, J. N. McGill, included an offer from The Family Herald of one year's subscription as a prize to be donated by the fair board to any exhibitor they might wish. Also an offer from the Robin Hood Flour Company offering ten prizes for various baking entries; and from the Pure Gold Manufacturing Company offering to donate three, two and one dollar prizes for the best half dozen tea biscuits made with their powder.

Some suggestions were advanced for increasing the number of grain and seed exhibitors at the fair, this section needing improving and expansion.

On motion, it was decided to again hold an afternoon of sports at the fair grounds on July 1st, and have a street dance at night. The convenors of committees, P. Stinson, H. A. Fallis, L. W. Smith, P. I. Bentley, will be called for an immediate meeting to prepare a tentative program and submit same at a meeting of the directors to be called early in June.

After some discussion regarding needed repairs at the fair grounds, and particularly some means of stopping the wilful destruction of windows and other parts of the building which causes needless expense and goes on, apparently, all the year round, the meeting adjourned.

COMBAT RHEUMATISM

Rheumatism is often caused by uric acid in the blood. This blood impurity should be extracted by the kidneys. If kidneys fail, and excess uric acid remains, it irritates the muscles and joints causing excruciating pains. Plan to help prevent rheumatism by keeping your kidneys in good condition. A Box Of Bad News For Britons

You'd never guess from the tender, almost benign smile on the face of Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir John Simon, that the battered case he holds in his hand here as he left the treasury for the house of parliament, contained bad news for Britain's millions. That is the famous and historic budget box, containing Sir. John's recommendations for raising revenue in the coming lear. This year, thanks to Britain's rearmament program, new taxes were imposed on Britons, among them an increase in income tax, bringing the total income levy of Englishmen up to more than 27 per cent.

ONTARIO SEEDING TWO WEEKS EARLY

TORONTO, May 12 — (CP). — Nearly 50 per cent of spring-grains seeding in Ontario has been completed and farm work is from two to three weeks earlier than has been the case for the past two seasons, a result of favorable weather in April, the provincial Department of Agricultural reported today.

Eighty-five per cent. of spring-grain seeding was finished by April 30 in Southern Ontario, the Department said in its monthly summary of crop conditions. About 60 per cent. was completed in Western Ontario, 40 per cent. in Central Ontario but only eight per cent. in Eastern Ontario and two per cent. in Northern Ontario.

Reports indicate the acreage sown to spring grains "will be just slightly smaller this year than in 1937," the Department reported. Intended acreage of spring wheat was estimated at 89,600, compared with 94,200 last year; oats 2,253,000 against 2,263,900; barley 526,000 compared to 555,900 and mixed grains 883,900, a decrease of 6,200 acres.

Little Fall Wheat Killed

Winter killing of fall wheat was "comparatively slight," averaging only nine per cent. "Practically the only county which suffered heavy losses was Simcoe, and here a considerable acreage has been ploughed up and reseeded with not more than 40 per cent. of the wheat fields

Fall wheat acreage remaining for harvesting this year was estimated at 616,700, compared with 718,000 in 1937 and 509,300 in 1936.

A 5.3 per cent. decline in potato acreage this year was estimated, from 150,600 to 142,600. Seedlings throughout the tobacco-growing areas "as a whole are in excellent condition," while fruit trees in Western Ontario are in good condition with "practically no winter injury in evidence."

CHAPTER 34

THE GROUP which waited in the vast living room of the Worthington lodge, impatient for the arrival of the police, divided itself into two groups. Barbara could feel the sides being called, just as though they had leaders and were lining up. One side believed that she knew nothing about Julia's activities. One side was afraid that she did. No one, though, doubted Julia's guilt of Mintons murder.

When Wenda had screamed out that Barbara had a gun, Barbara had continued coming down the stairs. She went straight to Basil Worthington and handed it to him. She was aware that Garry was standing near her.

"It was Mr. Minton's gun. I heard him suggesting a good game to Bobbie ,one where Bobbie would press the trigger when he gave the word. A little later Bobbie had an idea that it was necessary to make a big noise, so I took the gun. You see, I didn't believe Mr. Minton when he said the gun was empty. But it was. I intended to apologize."

"I witnessed the scene, Mr. Worthington," Garry added. "And I have a hunch that the gun had been loaded when Bobbie was first asked to be an accomplice."

It was then that Barbara had dropped down on the davenport, while Garry sat near here. Wenda said no more, but her face was as white as her dress. Suddenly she began to cry softly.

"Don't," Garry said.

Through the maze of suffering and bewilderment that dimmed the brightness of the room, Barbara caught the agony in his tone.

"I said such awful things. I—I even accused Barbara of knowing something about all of this. Oh, Garry, how could I? How could I?"

The acting was superb. Jimmy Minton wouldn't have lost his hundred thousand dollars, Barbara thought. Garry might believe that Wenda was penitent and would begin to shield her. He would not realize, caught in the web of a silken voice and golden hair, that Wenda's darts had gone home, suspicion had been aroused, and her own reluctancy for repeating her words would only make the case stronger.

Were men always and forever so dumb where women were concerned?

Wenda was shrewd with the cunning of a serpent. She, Barbara, had aroused Garry's protective instinct. Wenda knew that was bad so she had shown a need for the same protection.

"It was a strain that might have rattled anyone," Garry answered quietly. "Explain to the commissioner when he comes.

"Garry, will you get me some water?" Wenda asked.

"Certainly." He poured some from the long sideboard that stood near the fireplace and brought it back to her. He made no effort to speak again to her.

Barbara knew that Wenda was angry because she had not been able to look at him and win him back. Even with tragedy all around, Barbara smiled. Garry was real. He might be hurt but he would not fall again for shoddiness. No, Wenda had played her cards and lost. This new attitude of Garry toward Wenda, Barbara realized, in no way affected her. She and Garry had been finished before any of this had happened. Pity and gratitude might pass for synthetic love with some people. They were not good enough for her; not good enough for Garry, either.

The commissioner of police arrived. Several other members of the police force in the nearby town came, too, and police were on their way from New York. The atmosphere, that had been heavy and oppressive while the people waited, came to life swiftly.

"You will take your places, just as you were a minute before the shot rang out," the commissioner said.

Barbara looked at Garry. Then she started upstairs. Garry followed.

"Is everyone here?" the commissioner asked suddenly.

"Not Bobbie!" Barbara said. She glanced at Wenda. The little boy's aunt would know about him.

"I haven't seen him," she said.

"Who is Bobbie?" the commissioner was inquiring.

Garry was running down the stairs, headed toward the game room, and an officer followed him. He came back, holding the sobbing form of the little boy in his arms.

"I found him huddled back of a post, frightened to death." Barbara wondered if Garry knew that he brought the child to her instead of to Wenda.

"It's all right, now, son," the commissioner said. "Tell us what scared you?"

"There was a shot and I thought it was just a big noise the way Mr. Minton said it would be if I shot when he said I should. I ran into the den and there he was—on the floor—with blood, and Aunt Wenda screamed and I didn't know who passed me in the game room because the lights went out just before I heard that shot—only it was a woman because I touched her coat and it had fur and she was talking to herself and she said somebody couldn't do something to her—"

The commissioner stopped the child. "Take it easy, Bobbie. You will wait, everyone, please. Now Bobie, did the lights go out before or after the shot?"

"Before. I was going to turn them on when the lady in the fur passed."

'And she was talking to herself?"

'She said somebody couldn't do something to her — I don't know what. Grown people are so funny."

"That's all, Bobbie. Will you stay here with me?"

There was fur on Julias coat. For a dozen inches the bottom of it was banded with thick black fox. Barbara knew that the commissioner and the guests at the house party had not missed that. Re-living the scene would do no good. Why didn't the police arrest Julia and let them all go home?

To-morrow Julia would get a lawyer. Maybe she could prove the depth of the wrong that Jimmy Minton had done to her and escape with a light sentence. Maybe she didn't deserve to escape!

The commissioner said something to a fellow officer who signaled another officer and they took Julia away. Then the commissioner said: "You will now take your places."

As Garry and Barbara started up the sairs, he called: "You were in your own rooms?"

"No, I was in Mr. Page's room. I had to warn him that I thought he was in danger from Mr. Minton."

"Why would he have been in danger from Mr. Minton?"

Wenda took up the theme. "He couldn't have been. That's Miss Kingsley's funny notion—she could not mean it, really. She's just upset."

Barbara looked at Wenda and her eyes did not waver. "I dont believe I need to have you defend me, Miss Ayer. I'm quite capable of explaining my own fears."

They took their positions. They re-lived the drama again. Then they were summoned back to the living room and questioned until the commissioner had every shred of evidence that had been flung around so carelessly before he came. Julia was brought back to the room.

"You say that your cousin did call you?" he asked Barbara.

"Yes, she did."

"While the scene was being conducted I had a man check with the telephone operator at the hotel from which she called. She reports that a young woman, answering Julia Kingsley's description, made a call and she happened to listen in. Her story corroborates Miss Ayer's."

"Oh but it doesn't mean a thing!" Julia wailed.

"You knew that your cousin was coming but you told no one, Miss Barbara." The commissioner was courteous but relentless.

Garry spoke up. "She did. She told me."

Barbara did not look at him. No time now to let the police see her register quick gratitude.

She saw the way the case was heading. How did they dare to believe that she had approved the diabolical scheme Julia may have had?

The man who had been given some secret duty to perform came back and spoke to his chief who listened gravely. Then he turned to the others: "Ladies and gentlemen, I have some news that may interest you. Miss Julia Kingsley's fingerprints and those of the last person to turn the button that controls the lights in the game room are not the same. It becomes necessary to discover who turned out—that—light!"

THE EXAMINER HOME SERVICE

Invited Everywhere — Now That They Can Tap

You, Too, Can Learn Easily

"But it must have taken years of practice, expensive lessons," you sigh. You're wrong! This couple taught themselves at home from diagrams.

The secret is, most people don't realize that all tap dancing routines —even the slicket ones you see on stage and screen—are based on just four simple tap sounds that you can learn in one evening.

To make these sounds, use your feet in four ways as our diagram shows: (1) strike floor with ball of foot only; (2) strike with heels only; (3) with tip of toe; (4) with whole foot.

Now—turn on your favorite fox-trot, waltz, or rumba. Keep slim and trim tapping out the rhythm of the latest dance hits.

Follow diagrams and step-by-step directions in our 32-page booklet. Full-length waltz, buck, military routines. Practice routines for beginners.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of TAP DANCING SIMPLIFIED to Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

DOROTHY DIX

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I have tried very hard to be a good mother and rear my children properly. Now they are in their teens and are modest, self-respecting girls, but I do not allow even the one past 16 to have dates with boys. My problem is this: I have found that they are reading the trashy, sex magazines that it seems are passed around the school and traded back and forth, and I fear that continuous reading of such sordid stories may color a young girl's mind. Do you think that I should forbid my daughters to read magazines or to bring them into the house?

Answer:

Certainly not. The only result of your forbidding your girls to read the magazines that all the other girls are reading will be to make them deceive you and read them on the sly. It will pique their curiosity to know what it is in the magazines that Mama thinks is so bad that she doesn't want them to see it and they will break a thousand of your taboos to find out.

Maybe highly colored sex literature isn't the best pabulum for adolescent girls, but there is nothing you can do to prevent their devouring it. In the past, when books and magazines that even hinted at what we euphoniously called "the facts of life" were kept under lock and key to prevent them from contaminating the minds of the young, it may have been possible to control the young person's reading, but not now when every erotic novel is dramatized and shown on the screen with its most lurid details emphasized and when every newspaper is filled with accounts of sex crimes.

Personally, I doubt if familiarizing the young with these sordid matters does half the harm it is supposed to do. After all, they are things that are happening in the world. They are a part of modern life and in their way they are a warning and teach a moral lesson. Ignorance is not innocence, and certainly for a girl to read of how the battered and mangled body of some girl of her own age was found by the roadside where it had been pitched by the fiend who lured her into his car for a joyride would make her chary of pick-ups. Nor would it incite any boy to crime to read of how some gunman has been hunted like a wild animal until he was finally captured and sent to the chair.

Forbidding adolescent children in these days of the emancipation of the young to do a thing is more likely to do harm than good. They are at a time of life when they are rebellious, when they are avid for selfexpression and jealous of their newly acquired freedom, and when they think that they are incarnate wisdom and their parents are old fogies. So the most that their fathers and mothers can do is to suggest and try to tole them into the strait and narrow path instead of attempting to coerce them.

It is a time for driving with a light rein, and, incidentally, you are not doing that when you refuse to let a girl past 16 have dates. She is old enough to begin going about a bit, if you will not recognize that and let her have her boy friends at home, she will be meeting them at the corner drug store.

• • • • • •

DEAR MISS DIX—I am 24 years old, desperately in love with a married man in his late forties. He is fond of his children and respects and admires his wife, but she does not understand him and he no longer loves her. She knows of our affair, but will not consent to a divorce or our continued relationship. The man is well-to-do and would provide handsomely for her and the children, and I would not mind his doing that. Since the wife has not been able to hold her husband's love, do you not think she is very selfish in not being willing for him to find happiness with me? She would have her home and her children and his support. The husband is not willing to insist on a divorce, but says to wait and things will work out. Am I not justified in demanding that he close up things with his wife? He is a professional man. Will his standing in his profession be in any way impaired by his leaving his wife for me?

Answer:

You are quite right in demanding that your married lover put his cards down on the table and let you see where you stand, and when you look them over I think you will find out that you are beaten. It is dollars to doughnuts that he has no intention whatever of jeopardizing his position in his profession, and of breaking up his home and separating himself from his children by divorcing his wife and marrying you. The sooner you find that out, the better for you.

There is no other creature on earth so credulous as the girl who falls in love with a married man. She falls for the story that is the come-on of every married Lothario—that his wife doesn't understand him, that his home life is unhappy and that he is pining for companionship. And the girl swallows it hook, bait and sinker, no matter how attractive the wife is, nor how many years of devotion she has given her husband, nor how much they are seen around together in apparent contentment.

The girl believes it when the man tells her that the only reason he doesn't divorce his wife and marry her is because his wife won't agree to it, although he makes no effort whatever at securing the divorce himself and gives as his only alibi for that he doesn't want to hurt his wife's feelings.

The girls won't face the bitter truth, that the philandering husbands are simply hiding behind their wives' skirts and that the last thing on earth they want is a divorce. And so they go on wasting their youth and wearing out their hearts waiting for what will never happen until their lovers get tired of them and kick them out for younger and fresher and newer faces.

But you deserve scant sympathy for whatever happens to you, for you are seeking to build your house of happiness on the wreck of another woman's. Has it never occurred to you what a monster of selfishness you are in being willing ta take this woman's husband form her and half-orphan her children? And have you never thought that the man who will be unfaithful to one wife will be to another?

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a college girl and go steadily with a boy who has no money to spend on dates. Don't you think that my parents and brothers should be willing to pay his way and mine so we could go around to places of amusement? SUE ANN.

Answer:

I certainly do not. No boy with any self-respect would permit such a thing. DOROTHY DIX.

Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S LONG TEETH

From the bath room where he had gone to put a little polish on his pink nose so it would twinkle brighter, Uncle Wiggily called to Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy:

"Where is my tooth brush, if you please?"

"Isn't it there on the shelf?" asked the muskrat lady housekeeper.

"No, it isn't," replied Mr. Longears. "I hope you haven't taken it, Janie, to polish the gas stove."

"The idea!" exclaimed Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy, indignant like and justly so. "As if I would do such a thing!"

"Once you took my razor to open a tin can," said Mr. Longears.

"That was because I couldn't find the can opener," said Nurse Jane sort of sniffling like. "But I couldn't open a can with your toothbrush. Look around more carefully, please."

Uncle Wiggily did and found his brush had been pushed behind the can of tooth powder. So he was soon scrubbing his teeth ready to go adventuring.

"Why were you so fussy about your tooth brush, Mr. Longears?" asked Nurse Jane when he had hopped down stairs.

"Well, I happened to notice that my front teeth are growing a little longer than I like and I thought I would brush and polish them down a bit to keep them even. And I am going to the woods to gnaw on a hard log."

"Oh, daddy! How funny you look!"

"My goodness! What for?" asked the muskrat lady.

"We rabbits must use our teeth in gnawing to keep the front ones from growing too long," said the bunny uncle.

"You aren't spoofing me, are you?" asked Nurse Jane.

"No, indeed, I'm not teasing you," laughed Mr. Longears. "Our front teeth grow so fast that if we don't keep them busy by gnawing they soon grow too long. And that reminds me. When Baby Bunty and the other rabbit children come home from school, send them to the woods to meet me. I will have them all gnaw on hard logs to keep their teeth in good shape."

"I will do that," promised Nurse Jane.

When Baby Bunty and the others went hopping to the woods to find Uncle Wiggily, they saw him gnawing, chewing and biting on a hard log, wearing down his long teeth.

"Oh, daddy! How funny you look!" laughed Jingle.

Beavers Come

"I would look funnier and so will you if you don't exercise your front teeth so they will not grow too long," said the bunny gentleman.

"Here I go!" cried Baby Bunty the orphan rabbit and she began to gnaw, chew and bite on a piece of wood as fast as a coffee grinder.

Soon all the rabbits were practicing their teeth-shortening lesson which was quite different from just cleaning their teeth. And then along came Toodle and Noodle, the beaver boys.

"Ho! Ho!" shouted Toodle. "The rabbits are turning beavers."

"No," said Uncle Wiggily, "you are mistaken Toodle. It is true you beavers use your big front teeth for gnawing down trees to make dams for the ponds you live in. We are just gnawing to keep our teeth from growing too long and sticking out, which is unlovely and a trouble!"

"I should say it was a trouble!" said Noodle. "Once I knew a wild rabbit who wouldn't gnaw and keep his front teeth from growing too long."

"What happened him?" asked Baby Bunty.

"His teeth grew so long," said Noodle, "they stuck out of his mouth and he couldn't hop without stepping on them."

"Ohoo-oo-oo!" said Baby Bunty and she gnawed harder than before. So did the other little rabbits and soon their teeth were all right.

And if the front door knob doesn't turn around so fast the milk bottle cannot get hold of it to come in for breakfast, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the lazy bird.

Barclay On Bridge

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

"The Authority on Authorities"

VICTORY FOR MORPHEUS

SLEEPINESS is hardly considered an adjunct of winning bridge, but most anything you can think of may be true at times in this funny game. Inattentiveness which causes a player to perpetrate some unbelievably bad bid or play has been known to redound to his advantage because the missing cards happened to be distributed in his favor.

(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

Coming late in a long evening of play, this deal brought forth the worst bridge of the night from all concerned. East started it with an opening bid of 2-Spades which was far from justified. West called 3-Hearts and East 4-Spades, which crowded the bidding so badly that West, who really should have spoken more if he trusted his partner, was scared out of any further action. Or perhaps he was just too tired.

South hadn't bothered to listen to the bidding. So far as he was concerned, it was his turn to lead against a 3-No Trumps contract, so decided to open the fourth-best from his star suit, diamonds. As a consequence his side got two tricks, holding the contract to five-odd. Had he realized he was leading against spades, he would have led a club. And if you can find a moral in this, make the most of it.

WOMEN'S WORK AND INTERESTS

Washability Needed in Garments for Little Folk

By LISBETH

Smart young costumes are shown in new and attractive designs, and youthful fabrics take the spotlight in patternings and treatments to combine the simplicity and practicability necessary in clothes which must survive the wear and tear of energetic, carefree play.

Washability, of course, is of prime importance in these frocks for little people. And party frocks, as well as everyday dresses, must be able to be popped into the washtub and come out with no loss of freshness or vitality.

Fine Swiss cottons, with their clarity of pattern and smooth, permanent finish are known to be one of the ideal fabrics for little girls' frocks. This year these fine cottons are appearing in new and softer finishes as well as in the well-known crisp types. These soft finishes are just as permanent as their predecessors, and they have a certain amount of body which makes them easy to drape and handle, but they have plenty of perkiness too.

For Best Dresses

For Sunday or special occasions the new cloque organdies are very charming and practical. These come in new "thick-and-thin" effects with a seersucker-like crepey patterning against a sheer soft organdie ground. This combination of qualities make it possible to achieve unusually interesting efefcts.

Multi-color floral prints, in large or close designs are equally lovely in pale or deep color combinations. They are in excellent taste, and may be worn for everyday as well as for festive occasions.

Do Not Wrinkle

These crepey materials do not soil easily and are not marred by crushing or wrinkling.

The allover embroidered or cut-out embroidered organdies are as popular as ever for frocks for the young miss. White dots are embroidered on a clear pink Swiss organdie background for the diminutive frock worn by the little girl sitting on the rock. White Val lace edges the wide collar and tiny puffed sleeves. The unbelted frock falls in wide spaced pleats from a tiny shoulder yolk, and small pearl buttons fasten the front closing, which is finished with a little pink satin bow.

A pink ribbon in her blonde hair, and pink or white socks complete as pretty and dainty an ensemble for the small girl as any mother could hope to see.

Rhubarb Is Much Better If It Is Baked In Syrup

Now Is Time To Have All Rhubarb, Asparagus And Pineapple You Want

....have all the rhubarb, asparagus and pineapple you want.

Baked Rhubarb

Please do not stew your rhubarb—the color and texture and flavor are better if it is baked in syrup. When the oven is hot for some other purpose, make a syrup, 1 cup sugar, ½ cup water and ⅛ teaspoon soda. Place washed, cut up but not peeled rhubarb in enamel or glass baking dish, pour over syrup which is hot, cover dish and place in oven (this amount of syrup is sufficient for one quart rhubarb). Bake until tender and let chill without stirring or uncovering.

While that is an old saw and so is Rhubarb Meringue Pie I have to get them off my chest first before giving you this season's discoveries.

Rhubarb Meringue Pie

Two or 2½ cups chopped, washed but not peeled rhubarb. Pour boiling water on it and drain in 5 minutes. Add ⅞ cup sugar, 2 egg yolks, 1 tablespoon melted butter, 1 tablespoon flour and 1 tablespoon water all stirred together. Arrange in raw pie crust and bake about 30 minutes. While still hot cover with meringue made with remaining whites, beaten until stiff with 4 tablespoons sugar, and flavored with 1 teaspoon vanilla. Bake meringue 40 minutes at 275 deg. Fahr. (very slowly).

The recipe for Apple Crumb Pudding is quite well known because it is simple and delicious and used so often in restaurants. Well rhubarb can be treated in the same way:

Rhubarb Crumb Pudding or Rhubarb Crisp

With fingers mix together 1 cup each sugar and flour, and ½ cup butter. These must be thoroughly blended.

In enamel or glass baking dish which has been buttered put 3 or 4 cups washed but not peeled rhubarb cut in ½-inch pieces. Spread crumb mixture over, patting it down and bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for 15 minutes, then reduce heat to 300 and bake 30 minutes longer. Serve with cream.

Such substantial desserts as dumplings are not for the likes of me who has to struggle every day of her married life to keep the hips. from getting that spare time effect—but there are folks who couldn't gain weight on a full diet of baked potatoes, toast and bananas (all of which I forbid myself) and there are also those who would rather eat and laugh and grow fat. The very thing for them is

Rhubarb Dumplings

One cup flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons shortening butter or lard or both), ½ cup milk, 2 cups thinly sliced unpeeled rhubarb, 6 tablespoons sugar or more, 2 teaspoons butter, 1 teaspoon cinnamon. Sift together the flour, baking powder, and salt; rub the shortening into them lightly, and add just enough milk to make a dough soft enough to roll out. Roll out to ⅛-inch thickness and divide dough into four squares. On each square place ½ cup rhubarb and sprinkle over it 2 tablespoons sugar, a dot of butter and ¼ teaspoon cinnamon. Wet edges of dough, and fold around rhubarb pinching it tightly together at top. Place dumplings on greased dish, sprinkle top with sugar and dot with more butter and make at 450 for 10 minutes, then reduce heat to 350 for 30 minutes. Serve with cream or 10 minutes before taking from oven pour over a syrup made of 1½ cups hot water, ½ cup sugar and 2 tablespoons butter.

Those ought to take you through the rhubarb season without too much repetition of the baked version (I'll print a rhubarb conserve next week) so we can get on with my third-to-favorite vegetable (peas and tomatoes topping) asparagus.

Just as we have to remind you of the run of the mill way of preparing and serving rhubarb we have to repeat the precautions for boiling rhubarb to preserve its rare color and best flavor.

Asparagus Tip Luncheon Dish

When you wish to make asparagus serve a whole meal and it must be especially nice, cut the tips off about 3 inches from the top. Boil the trimmed stalks until tender, then either force them through sieve or grinder or chop them finely on board. Make a rich thick cream sauce of 4 tablespoons butter melted and blended with 2½ tablespoons flour, and 1 cup warm milk, stirred together until thick. Add the ground or chopped stalks to it. Spread this sauce thickly on buttered toast, and place the tips radiating from the centre—using one slice of toast, one-quarter of the sauce and about 8 tips for each serving. This is especially nice if garnished with slices or hard cooked egg. Hollandaise is of course even more delicious to use as the base for spreading.

Asparagus (Boiled) With Butter

Cut root ends off for about ½ to 1-inch then peel or pare off outside coating of stalk for about 2 inches. In this way much of the stalk that would be too tough to use is usable and nice and tender too. Boil in just enough water to barely cover—uncovered—until tender. Drain saving juice for soup pot. Have butter melted but pass at table or much of it is wasted in pot or serving dish. Salting the boiling water tends to change the color of the asparagus from bright to olive green.

Audrey spends at least one hour of each Saturday afternoon during the pineapple season shredding pineapple from the core with a strong fork. Over this we have lately been pouring an interesting syrup: Boil together ½ cup sugar and ½ cup water with ½ cup chopped mint leaves for 5 minutes. When done strain over the freshly shredded pineapple, cover and let stand overnight in refrigerator. We think it is the nicest possible way to serve a pineapple. By persistent scooping out we have saved the skin of the pineaple in halves (having washed the outside well) and returned the shredded pineapple to it—making a delightful natural bowl to serve it in—leave the pines on of course to give it a flair. The mint flavor in the syrup is well worth a trial.

Pineapple Sherbet

One cup fresh shredded pineapple, 1¾ cups water, 1 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 cup thin cream, 2 egg whites. Sprinkle sugar over pineapple and pour over water and let stand 1 hour. Drain off syrup and boil gently for 15 minutes. Remove from heat, add pineapple and lemon juice. Cool, pour into freezing tray and freeze firm. Remove to cold bowl and beat until light, then add stiffly beaten whites and cream and return to tray to finish freezing—a delicious and economical frozen dessert.

Rounding Horn Was No Picnic

LONDON, May 12 — (CP). — "A Child Under Sail" is the title of a story by Elizabeth Linklater.

The part of which Mrs. Linklater writes is that which 60 years ago was brought to the knowledge of the women of a captain's family, who is those days were permitted to share his narrow quarters on long voyages. Her first voyage was made at the age of four and in the ensuing years it was followed by many more, with her mother for her only companion of her own sex in the sailing-ship of which her father was captain. She went the world over.

Calcutta delighted the child with jugglers, snake - charmers and sword-swallowers; other ports of call furnished her with pets to be cherished until fate or the cook intervened.

Mrs. Linklater has not forgotten the loneliness and the discomfort and the feelings of women battened down in a cabin when some great sea off the Horn filled the ship fore and aft. They were exicited not by the wetting but by the fear that the men on the poop had been swept away.

The ship biscuits of the period tasted none the worse when the maggots they harbored had been shaken out. "They were also a frequent source of amusement and maggot races enlived many a meal. It was most exciting to speculate whose entry would cross the table first."

Women are staging motorcycle races in Russia.

Successful Event
Salvation Army Bazaar

Charmingly decorated booths holding many attractive wares, and the intriguing little "Tulip-Time Tea Room" made the Salvation Army spring bazaar a delightful and most successful event Wednesday afternoon.

As is customary the bazaar was opened with a short service of hymns, scripture and prayer by Mrs. Neil Warrander. The different classrooms of the Boys' Sunday School, each individually and effectively decorated in varying color schemes, held the various booths.

Commencing at the right, was the home cooking display, arranged in a pink and white setting, and in charge of Mrs. J. Drummond and Mrs. J. Richmond. Green and yellow decorated the novelties booth, looked after by Mrs. W. Magee, Mrs. Robert Routly and Mrs. A. James. Groceries arranged amid pink and green decorations, were sold by Mrs. Leslie Boorman and Mrs. Gordon Kennedy. Lovely children's things were displayed against an effective background of pink and blue, and were in charge of Mrs. J. Craig and Mrs. A. McDonald and rose and white decorated the ice-cream booth, looked after by Mrs. W. J. Hamilton and Mrs. H. Barton. Across the hall, the beautifully designed quilts were displayed among red and white streamers, with Mrs. J. Isles in charge; the candy booth was decorated in pink and green, in charge of Mrs. A. Smith and Mrs. L. Cox; the ever popular "White elephant" stall had its huge elephant sign, and was looked after by Mrs. H. Withers; and the beautiful fancy work which was very quickly disposed of, was found beyond an arch of mauve and green hyacinths, with similar decorations on the table. Mrs. R. G. Routly and Mrs. W. Jones were in charge. Rainbow colors were prettily blended to decorate the ladies wear stall, where Mrs. M. Braund and Mrs. Ronald Routly were busy, and aprons were sold by Mrs. S. Winterbottom and Mrs. M. Shadgett in a pink and green setting.

The tea room, decorated with shaded lights, bouquets of flowers and streamers, was a busy spot. Mrs. H. J. Richardson was convenor, Mrs. George Thomas poured tea and coffee, and assistants included Mesdames R. C. Braund, F. Grey, T. Rose, A. Scott, A. Wilson and W. Butcher.

Mrs. H. Hedge was general convenor for the bazaar assisted by Mrs. M. Smith. In the evening the Saxophone Party supplied music.

This past month we have been enjoying our savory items that take the place of meat at a meal and this one is among the best:

Turkish Pilau

Wash and drain ¾ cup rice and cook in 2 tablespoons butter until brown, stirring, then add 1 cup boiling water and boil gently until water is absorbed. Then add 2 cups stewed tomatoes and cook until rice is soft and tender, adding more water or tomatoes if it becomes too thick. Salt and pepper to taste. A little grated onion may be added with the tomato. To make this a delicious supper dish chicken or diced lamb or veal may be added—and the whole served on toast points in the form of a border on a hot platter.

WOMEN'S WORK AND INTERESTS

Young Women's Christian Association Holds Annual Meeting in Green Room

The Young Women's Christian Association, in its work of studying and meeting the needs of girls and young women depends upon the co-operation of a large group of volunteers—board and committee members, advisory board and group leaders as well as a trained staff, and evidence of how generously this co-operation has been given during the year was shown by the secretary, Miss Leta Brownscombe, in her report to the annual meeting in the Green Room Wednesday evening.

Twelve Board meetings and one hundred and three committee meetings, representing a group of seventy-three, have studied and planned the major activities of the Association during the year, and in addition a group of four hundred and fifty men and women gave freely of their time during and since the big financial campaign last fall.

Largely attended the meeting was opened by the Rev. Dr. E. W. Young with prayer. The president of the Board, Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner, presided. Welcoming those present to the 47th annual meeting of the Peterborough Y.W.C.A., Mrs. Kenner said: "Many milestones have been passed during the years and another this year when the need for extension was realized. At the close of the year, we say a real 'thank you' for the loyalty of the staff, the Board and to you all, whose Association this is."

The business included the minutes of the last annual meeting, read by Mrs. G. E. Porter. The amended constitution was read by Mrs. H. C. Sootheran and seconded by Mrs. A. Moir. Notice was given of a meeting on June 13, when it will be passed. A complete financial report was read and moved for adoption by Mrs. R. H. Turner, and was seconded by Mrs. H. M. Yelland. The report of the Nominating Committee was read by Mrs. N. D. Buchanan, and the adoption seconded by Miss Jessie Deyell.

In Miss Brownscombe's report it was shown that 125 girls have made the Y.W.C.A. their home during the year, and 250 transients have been accommodated. A total of 80,500 meals have been served, and in deserving cases free accommodation given.

The gymnasium clases have a registration of 460 in fifteen regular classes. Eight basketball groups and two badminton clubs enrolled 113, with a junior group making a total of 600 using the gym weekly. The gymnasium pageant on May 27 will demonstrate some of the work of this department. In the swimming department 280 girls learned to swim, and 70 registered in life saving and stunt classes, an aggregate of 1,900 lessons. An outstanding senior swiming club has been formed during the year for ornamental swimming and diving, the Silver Finettes. The swimming department has also built up a splendid group of trophies and prizes competed for by Public and High school teams and senior and junior swimmers of Peterborough.

209 girls enjoyed holidays at the Y.W.C.A. Camp, "Inglestane" at Stoney Lake, where under capable leadership, is an excellent program of summer sports and character building projects. Five organized, self governing camps have met during the season with an enrollment of 200.

255 girls were enrolled in the following educational classes: household workers' training course, reading club, junior story hour crafts, home nursing in co-operation with the Red Cross, and leadership training in co-operation with the Christian Education Council Lectures, Sunday vesper services and fireside tea, World Fellowship programs and foreign work were important phases of the educational program. 25 social visits, varied in character, were held.

During the year a new group was enlisted in the service of the Association, the Twenty Club. Many city organizations have enjoyed the association rooms for meetings, recitals, lectures and social affairs.

A total of $21,305.87 was required last year to finance the Association, 93 per cent. of which was received from revenue-producing departments and 7 per cent. given in subscriptions. The financial campaign, conducted last fall was the outstanding event of the year, when receipts and promise reached a total of $46,000. To all who had helped in the work of the Y.W.C.A. during the year, thanks were expressed, in Miss Brownscombe's report.

The meeting was addressed by Mrs. Percival Foster, formerly Field Secretary of the National Council, and well known to those associated with "Y" work in Peterborough. Mrs. Foster's talk on her impressions during a seven months' visit to European countries is reported in another column. In commencing, the speaker paid glowing tribute to the work accomplished, shown by the splendid records just heard.

Mrs. F. M. Somerville expressed appreciation, in well chosen words, to Mrs. Foster, to Dr. Young, to the guest soloist, Miss Olga Westbye, and her grandmother, Mrs. M. Ormman, and lastly to the splendid work and courtesy at all times of the Y.W.C.A. staff.

Miss Westbye sang beautifully "The Fairest Daughter of Islington", "Halfway Down the Stair" and "Christopher Robin is Saying His Prayers", with piano accompaniment by Mrs. Ormman. Refreshments followed the National Anthem, served from an attractively arranged table in the library with Mrs. Sheldon Smoke and Mrs. T. Barrie presiding, assisted by members of the board, gym and residence.

The nominating committee submitted the following names for the Board of Directors for the ensuing year: Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner, Mrs. E. E. Harvey, Mrs. R. C. ..., Miss M. Hamilton, Miss E. Morrow, Mrs. R. H. Turner, Mrs. W. R. Widdess, Mrs. N. D Buchanan, Mrs. A. Moir, Mrs. G. E. Porter, Miss A. Wood, Mrs. H. Wightman, Mrs. H. M. Yelland, Mrs. T. N. Greer, Mrs. B. Shortly, Mrs. Le Clair, Mrs. G. Boucher, Mrs. R. H. Parsons, Mrs. F. M. Somerville, Mrs. F. D. Kerr, Mrs. T. A. Mackay, Miss L. Davidson, Mrs. C. G. Collins, Mrs. S. L. Smoke, Mrs. C. J. Ray, Mrs. D. T. Diplock, Mrs. R. E. Cutting, Mrs G. S. Easton, Mrs. H. Paige-Rowell.

Mrs. VanNest Is Hostess to Circle

The May meeting of the X.L. Mission Circle was held at the home of Mrs. Percy VanNest, 218 Reid Street, with the usual good attendance.

Community singing opened the meeting, after which the president, Jessie Martin, conducted the brief business session. The worship service was based upon Pslam 15, and after quiet music an appropriate "call to worship" was read. The Psalm was then repeated in unison from memory, and Connie Wagar gave a short talk on its application to daily life. Prayer was offered by Mrs. Sedore and Mrs. Rose. The hymn, "Jesus I Come," sung responsively and led by Jean Rose, closed this part of the service.

Loving tributes to "Mother" were brought in a reading by Gladys Rutherford on "The Purpose of Mother's Day," and a solo, "When Mother Prayed," by Mrs. Gerald Cuff.

The study for the month on missionary educational work among the Indians was made most interesting by Annie Deyell, who described the various schools established and kept up by our W.M.S. "A Little Indian Maid" was appropriately sung by Anna Hubel as a part of the subject under discussion.

Typical of the literary achievements of Japan was the poem, "To Tears," written by Kagawa, which Jean Hammond recited.

Prayer by the president and the benediction closed the meeting proper, and a happy social time followed, with refreshments served by a committee, including Gladys Langton, Alma Welch and Alberta Frost.

St. James' W.M.S. Holds Meeting

Mrs. Waterman, Lock Street, was hostess on Tuesday afternoon to the members of her Auxiliary of St. James' United Church, with a good representative attendance.

Presiding over the meeting, the president conducted the opening devotions with silent prayer for the missionaries. Department reports were given by the stewardship secretary, Mrs. F. W. Craik; the temperance secretary, Mrs. Beavis; Mrs. Rose for the supply secretary in her absence, and Mrs. Davis for the Baby Band, which has its annual meeting in June. An important business feature were the plans for the 20th anniversary of St. James' Auxiliary, which is being observed by a mother and daughter banquet.

The Presbyterial Congress for officers was also announced, to be held on Wednesday afternoon, May 18th, in George Street United Church, and to which every W.M.S. member in an executive capacity is cordially welcome.

The study part of the program was in charge of the hostess, Mrs. Waterman, who was also leader of the group, one of whom, Mrs. W. Rose, presided during this session, and opened with a hymn. The Scripture lesson, "God in Nature," was read from the 19th Psalm by Mrs. Bert Pitchford, followed with prayer by Miss Kidd and Mrs. Emery.

A splendid summary of work in Japan, as seen by the Dominion Board president, Mrs. G. E. Forbes, was given in a pithy paper by Mrs. R. B. English, while Miss Morton, in a well-told story, synopsized the study book, which was also on Japan.

"Sweet Hour of Prayer," sung in duet by Mesdames Pitchford and Rosborough, fitted in well with the day's program.

After the closing hymn, the meeting was concluded with prayer by the president and the Mizpah benediction.

MILLBROOK

TOUR OF STATES INTERESTING TALK

MILLBROOK, May 12 — F. C. Scott's talk on his trip to the South last winter drew an interested audience to Grace Presbyterian Church at the week-end, the event being sponsored by Group 5 of the Ladies' Aid Society, the convenor, Mrs. Z. Seaton, extending a warm welcome to the incoming guests, and the secretary, Mrs. Mervan Kinsman, acting as cashier.

Mr. Scott covered 14,000 miles in his trip, going south by way of the east coast of the United States, and making the return journey after crossing the States to California, where he visited Hollywood and other important centres, and then up the west coast, and so home.

The speaker said he started off with a minimum of luggage—a tooth brush, razor, and a clothes brush — and at the border had some difficulty in persuading the customs officers that this was actually all the "impedimenta" he was carrying with him. From the comfort he experienced through being thus lightly supplied with baggage, he urged that others, and particularly the ladies, try his plan on their next holiday journey. Admission was made, however, that the customs officer did make the traveller even open his mouth to see if he was concealing anything in that manner, since he had neither suit case nor trunk to be examined.

Some interesting sidelights were enumerated in connection with the trip south, such as the stay in New York and having to go up, by elevator, sometimes to the twentieth storey in certain buildings to attend church or Sunday School, because of scarcity of ground space; of the parade in Philadelphia in which practically every country in the world was represented, and which took one whole day to pass; of the leaves being still on the trees in Kentucky, a question bringing the information that they would remain so until the drought forced them to drop off; of the board walk at Atlantic City five miles in length; and of many interesting historical points visited in Washington.

At Tampa, in Florida, which is a big bus centre, and at whose port the ocean vessels come in, and which has within it Ybor City, entirely Spanish, the speaker found that milk was ten cents a cup, and forty cents a quart. At Port Richey, not far from Tampa, the salt air eats the paint off the houses, and destroys the roofs, practically every second year.

St. Petersburg on the west coast of Florida, and Miami on the east, rival winter playgrounds of the south, were both visited, and while staying in the former city, Mr. Scott became so enthusiastic over shuffleboard that he is building three courts in Millbrook, since his return home, and is donating them free of charge for use by the citizens.

Much information about the flowers, trees, and animal life in the south was included in the lecture, and the personal visit to Hollywood was also full of interest.

Rev. H. R. Williams acted as the chairman for the lecture, Miss Vanita Ingram contributed a solo, "The False Prophet," and little Elizabeth Williams gave a recitation between the two parts into which the speaker divided his story of his travels.

Face Broke Out In Large, Red Pimples

Many an otherwise beautiful and attractive face; many a cheek and brow in the mould of beauty, have been sadly defaced, their attractiveness lost by the presence of skin eruptions.

Pimples are caused by the blood being in an impure condition, and are a source of embarrassment, and many of those so afflicted are ashamed to go out in company.

Miss Phyllis Twiddy, Ivanhoe, Ont., writes:—"Last spring my face and back began breaking out in large, red pimples.

It was very embarrassing for me to go out in company, and people began to avoid me.

I tried several kinds of blood purifiers, but none of them seemed to help me. I heard of Burdock Blood Bitters. I took three bottles, and my friends wondered where all the pimples had disappeared to."

MACDONALD SEEN IN COLONIAL POST

LONDON, May 12—(CP-Havas)—The Daily Express and The Daily Mail (both independent) predicted today that Dominions secretary Malcolm MacDonald will be made Colonial secretary if that post is resigned by the new Lord Harlech—William Ormsby-Gore, who succeeded to the title on the death of his father Sunday.

They declared the persuasive talent shown by Mr. MacDonald in the successful negotiations for an agreement with Eire would be highly useful in meeting problems now facing the colonial secretary, notably the Arab-Jewish conflict in Palestine.

Saying that if Mr. MacDonald accepts the colonial office Lord Stanley, under-secretary of state for India, may become Dominions secretary, the Daily Express added:

"A change in office, for Mr. MacDonald has strong support in influential quarters, where it is argued that his powers of persuasion, recently used with success on Mr. De Valera (Prime Minister of Eire), will prove useful in the settlement of difficult problems faced by the colonial office.

"These include the position in Palestine, where Jews and Arabs are at loggerheads, Germany's claim for a return of colonies, which may become a live issue, and the labor and political troubles in Jamaica."

For Friday, May 13.

The planetary operations for this day may react in very lively or exciting situations in connection with promoting new undertakings or the breaking up of old frustrating congestions. There may be much hard work and energy expended in this, especially in connection with mergers, political or diplomatic circles, or fraternal or secret organizations. There may be sudden disruptions, notably affecting the private life. These call for vigilance and sagacity.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a very exciting and eventful year, with much readjustment of the affairs, both business and private. Old matters should reach culminations, with attendant hard work and initiative. Politics, rings or secret agreements may precipitate sudden change or travel. Move with vigilance and acumen.

A child born on this day may be bold, adventurous and enterprising, but is apt to accomplish its objectives by the use of diplomacy, stratagem, or secrecy. It may have a strenuous and adventurous career.

NAZI CHIEFTAIN VISITS TO TEST BRITSH FEELING

Head of Czech Minority Has Extra Police Guard During Visit to London

LONDON, May 13 (C.P.). — Konrad Henlein, Czechoslovakian Nazi Leader, to-day had luncheon with Winston Churchill. It was understood he would also see Sir Robert Vansittart, chief diplomatic adviser to the Government.

Reliable sources said Henlein, who arrived in London unexpectedly last night, is here primarily to see influential persons and hear their views on the problem of the German minority in Czechoslovakia.

The British Government has urged Henlein to modify his demands that the Czech Government grant extensive concessions to his minority group. Under Anglo-French pressure President Eduard Benes and Premier Milan Hodza now are busy working on legislation intended to meet the demands at least in part.

It was believed Henlein intends to talk with as many British statesmen as possible to explain his aims and to gauge British reaction. The urgency of his visit was indicated by the fact he left Czechoslovakia in the midst of the election campaign and shortly before publication of the Republic's new minority statute.

Police Guard Hotel.

Extra police were on duty outside the hotel where he spent an hour this morning talking earnestly over a breakfast table with some of his countrymen.

Commenting on the visit, the diplomatic correspondent of The Yorkshire Post said:

"Herr Henlein has an English version of his political program which he hopes to submit to the British Foreign Office.

"Otherwise his London visit may be taken as a move to contradict the popular impression that he is solely a tool of the Berlin Government and cannot act on his own initiative. He has undoubtedly realized, as indicated in Praha quarters, that the resistance of the Western Powers to his autonomy demands has strengthened the Czechoslovak Government's position.

"His London talks will therefore, attempt to gain sympathy for his own projects which have hitherto found little appreciation here."

BARCELONA RAIDS KILL ANOTHER 60

BARCELONA, May 13 —(AP)— Bombed twice in 19 hours, this capital of government Spain today counted 60 dead and 150 wounded as the cost of a new wave of insurgent aerial attacks.

A dozen persons were killed and 40 injured today when six big Junkers swept in from the Mediterranean at about 16,000 feet, split into two groups and bombed the southern portion of the city. Many bombs fell into the sea but caused casualities even there. About 20 men and women, gathering mussels, were wounded.

The small craters left in Barcelona streets indicated the bombs were not so large as those used in the attacks which took hundreds of lives in March. An unfinished concrete building used as an air attack refuge was struck. The explosion ripped the reinforced concrete, killing one and injuring others of the group that had sought safety.

Forty bombs were dropped yesterday, resulting in 48 deaths and injury to more than 100 persons.

44, On Friday 13 Lucky, Says Rowe

TORONTO, May 13.—(CP)—Hon. Earl Rowe, Ontario Conservative leader, here for a meeting of the provincial executive, was 44 today, and although his birthday falls on Friday the 13th he said "it will be my luckiest birthday in years."

Members of the party executive said they had heard reports that the "committee for conservative action" headed by R. C. Wood, Toronto, would call a meeting of its own to select delegates to the fedral party meeting in Ottawa. Mr. Rowe said, "let them go ahead. No one can stop them from holding a meeting. If they are going to have a showdown they might as well have it now and gt it over with. We are not the slightest bit disturbed and we will not be stampeded."

Visiting New York in the course of an eight months survey during which he is travelling around the world. Axel Wenner-Gren, Sweden's wealthiest industrialist, owner of 5,000,000 acres of Scandinavian timber land and a dozen other enterprises, says that America's current recession is without economic justification. He blames crippling taxation and mutual distrust of capital and labor. Thirty years ago, Wenner-Gren worked as a laborer in a New Jersey factory for 15 cents an hour.

27TH VICTIM DIES OF PAINT POISON DATING BACK TO '22

ORANGE, N.J., May 13.—(AP).—The 27th name was added to-day to the list of fatalities among women workers who painted luminous numerals on watch dials some 16 years ago.

Mrs. Margaret Laudate, 38-year-old mother of three children, died yesterday and an autopsy by Dr. Harrison S. Martland, county medical examiner, established the cause as radium poisoning.

Mrs. Laudate courageously sought to fight of ravages of the disease that doomed so many of the women who moistened radium paint brushes with their lips. Five years ago Mrs. Laudate developed a hip ailment. By November, 1936, when her third child was born the disease had so advanced that a Caesarian operation was resorted to in a successful effort to save her and the baby.

Dr. Martland said the poison from the radium developed a scaroma (a malignant tumor) in the skull.

Ten years ago there were legal suits for $1,250,000 damages by a group of women who became known as "the five radium girls." In 1926 Federal Judge William Clark, acting as private intermediary, announced the women each would be given the equivalent of a jury verdict of $48,000.

The company said it did not recognize the liability but was actuated in settling "solely by humanitarian reasons."

Two of the five women are alive to-day.

Usual Downward Swing In Ontario Relief Lists Show Trend in Reverse

TORONTO, May 13 (CP).—Latest figures of the Ontario Department of Labor showed today that 2,000 more men and women were registered with employment bureaux than at this time last year.

H. C. Hudson, superintendent of employment bureaux, said relief rolls in Ontario have not shown the usual seasonal trend downward at this time of year. He said that while in April and May last year the number of unplaced men and women steadily diminished the trend this year is in the opposite direction.

Dominion Bureau of Statistics figures showed employers in Ontario had reduced their payrolls by 15,951 persons between March 1 and April 1.

Welfare Commissioner A. W. Laver of Toronto said that Toronto is not experiencing the usual spring pick-up in employment and acting Mayor William Wadsworth declared that it was uncertain whether the 1938 appropriations would meet the demand for relief. "We are at present over our quota as set by the government for the first three months of the year," he said.

MAGISTRATE GEE IS NEW MEMBER ON COMMISSION

Magistrate E. A. Gee of Lindsay, has been appointed a member of the Peterborough Police Commission. For several years now Magistrate Gee has been presiding weekly at courts here. Magistarte Gee succeeds Magistrate O. A. Langley, the senior magistrate of the district.

Since the Magistrates' Act was amended several years ago the status of Magistrate Langley and several other magistrates in the province who were sitting on police commissions has been questioned. The result was an amendment to the act at the last session making an order-in-council necessary to name the magistrate who will sit on the commission.

Magistrate Langley, who has been a member of the commission since Magistrate D. W. Dumble resigned, preferred not to be re-appointed and the order-in-council was passed this week naming Magistrate Gee.

Gale Plays Havoc Across Alberta

Rain, Hail, Dust and Snow Accompany Hurricane That Flattens Buildings and Trees at 70 M.P.H.

EDMONTON, May 13 (CP).—Widespread havoc to telephone and telegraph lines and extensive property damage in towns was caused by a 70-to-130-mile windstorm that swept Alberta yesterday.

The gale lasted less than 15 minutes at each point but the thunder and lightening combined with dust, hail, rain and snow led many old-time residents to describe it as the worst in their memory.

Mrs. W. H. Owen, government meteorologist in Edmonton, said it was the most terrific windstorm ever recorded here.

Many escaped injury by narrow margins. One person was known to have been hurt. Mrs. Christina Sigmund was taken to hospital with cuts suffered when wind blew out a plate-glass window of an Edmonton drug store.

Telegraph companies reported damage throughout the province while Alberta government telephones officials said as many as 57 poles were down.

City in Darkness

Many sections of Edmonton were in darkness throughout the evening as linemen toiled steadily to put electric power lines back in service. No large industrial users of power suffered serious inconvenience. Power was cut off at one hospital but no serious inconvenience was caused.

A light department official gave $2,500 as a tentative estimate of cost of repair work.

Signs, trees and fences were blown down in Edmonton and it was estimated about 20 plate-glass windows were shattered in the business section. A few private garages were blown over and it was believed damage from minor results of the gale might total several thousand dollars.

Reports from Stettler, about 110 miles southeast of Edmonton, said

SHACK DWELLER DISCOVERED SHOT, MURDER HINTED

OWEN SOUND, Ont., May 13 (CP)—Provincial police today studied the Balaclava shack of 72-year-old William Waterton and the pellet-marked body of the recluse in an effort to determine whether Waterson was murdered yesterday or committed suicide.

Waterton's body was found in the shack where he lived alone a mile from Balaclava village and about 15 miles northeast of Owen Sound. Edward Morrison, a neighbor, made the discovery.

Following a post-mortem examination last night, revealing the left lung was punctured by shotgun pellets, Dr. E. R. Frankish of Toronto, Ontario government medico-legal expert, reached here today to conduct a further examination.

A theory Waterton was shot by an intruder was strengthened by the fact the aged farmer had only one arm. It was regarded as doubtful whether he could have fired a shot-gun without assistance. The shot-gun was found within a few feet of the body.

Reports he carried $100 the day before his death were not confirmed. No money was found in his pockets or in the shack by police.

Fear Convention May Mar Old Tradition

Claim Kingston Business Men Justified in Alarm At Prospect of Party's Gathering;; Fear Adverse Publicity in Centenary Year

KINGSTON, Ont., May 13 (CP).—Disapproval of the proposed national fascist convention, scheduled to be held in Kingston, June 30, was expressed by 22 members of Queen's University teaching staff in a letter published today by the Kingston Whig-Standard.

The letter said:

"The undersigned members of the staff of Queen's University, though all fully conscious of the value of free speech, would be grateful for an opportunity of publicly registering their regret that Kingston should celebrate the year of its centenary by entertaining the first Fascist convention.

"The city has a long and fine British tradition which it would be unfortunate to mar by hospitality towards elements which are attempting to take advantage of Kingstons historic traditions for their own purposes.

Alarm Justified

"Kingston business men are justified in their alarm at the prospect of publicity like that which has already done so much damage to the reputation of another Canadian city. We feel that all patriotic Canadians are opposed to this convention and that residents of Kingston are very anxious to express their disapproval.

"We wish to repeat that this is no question of opposing freedom of speech; it's a question of defending our freedom against padlock laws and other more violent and anti-democratic procedures.

FIVE POLES START 16,500-MILE DASH

LOS ANGELES, May 13 (AP)—Delayed more than two hours by an early morning fog, five Polish fliers took off in their American monoplane at 1:15 EDT today on the first leg of a 16,500 mile flight to Warsaw.

First stop is Mexico City, 1,620 miles distant. They expect to remain there overnight, then continue non-stop to Panama City in the canal zone.

Their course is down the west coast of South America through Peru and Chile, across the continent to Argentina and northward to Natal, Brazil.

From Brazil, they will fly 1,800 miles across the South Atlantic to Dakar, French West Africa, and complete the remainder of the journey by easy stages.

HOWE UNDER FIRE FOR STRICT LAWS ON RADIO LICENSE

OTTAWA, May 13 (CP).—It will be difficult for radio owners to evade payment of license fees under legislation now before the House of Commons unless the sharp criticism directed at it in the House yesterday causes some amendments rendering it more lenient.

Transport Minister Howe was under fire because of clauses which would make it possible for a collector to obtain search warrants from a Justice of Peace where he suspected an unlicensed radio was being concealed, and which would place the onus on the householder to prove his innocence.

Led by J. Earl Lawson (Con., York South), a number of members of different political leanings argued these clauses were too harsh and that they would create fresh offences, the penalties for which were out of proportion.

Mr. Howe said he would reconsider those clauses which presumed that if a radio was owned it was being used and that the onus would be on the owner to prove it was not being used. In practice no prosecutions were started unless the collector was satisfied the unlicensed set was in use.

A few years ago in the Windsor case of the King versus Gignac, the Government had lost because at that time the onus was on the Government to prove the unlicensed radio was being operated. Other than placing the onus of proof on the owner the regulations were the same as those used by the Conservative Government.

The House divided yesterday's time between agricultural estimates and the amendments to the Radio Telegraph Act. A little progress was made with both.

TRAPPED YOUTH DIES DOWN MINE AS HELP NEARS

Rescuers Fight 4 Hours To Reach Victim Pinned Under Tons of Debris

GERALDTON, Ont., May 13 (CP).—John Harold McAdam's main fear while a rock slide gradually crushed out his life in Little Long Lac Gold Mines was apparently that he had lost an arm or hand.

Rescue workers told of snatches of conversation they had with the 22-year-old Ottawa youth yesterday before they burrowed to where he was entombed and found him dead.

McAdam expressed fear his hand had been torn off when he was plunged 40 feet while at work in the mine and pinned down by tumbling rocks. Dr. J. V. Riches, mine physician, explained severe pain and loss of muscular control might create such a sensation, and when the body was recovered this theory was borne out. A gash over one eye was the only external injury, but the chest wall was crushed.

Rescuers worked desperately but necessarily slowly for four hours before reaching McAdam's body. McAdam talked to them at first but his responses to their words of encouragement stopped later.

Slow, Dangerous Work.

The rescue work was slow and dangerous because the stope in which McAdam was trapped had to be strengthened by timbers and cribbing before the men dared burrow toward him. They feared another slide would engulf the Queen's University student, who worked only three days in the mine, 150 miles northeast of Port Arthur.

J. M. Kilpatrick, mine superintendent who supervised the rescue operations, would say little concerning his part in the task.

"All the men feel the loss of this youngster keenly, and our sympathy goes out to his widowed mother, but aside from that all I can say is that the men had a job of work to do and they did it," he said. "There wasn't anything sensational about the rescue attempt. It was just slow, dogged work, and we all wished it could have been faster."

When the cribbing had been built up sufficiently and a bulkhead established above the spot where McAdam was imprisoned, two men were lowered down the adjoining chute to cut away the cribbing with an electric saw so the youth could be reached and removed safely.

Coroner Dr. W. J. Henry, Jellicoe, ordered an inquest to be held at Geraldton on Friday. A mine inspector's investigation will be required, but no date for it has been set.

Girl Missionary Has 3rd Escape

CHENGCHOW, China, May 13 — (AP)—Miss Pearl Reid of Kingston, Ont., together with three American missionaries and a Briton, escaped injury today when Japanese aircraft bombed Chengchow, a railway centre 275 miles north of Hankow.

Eight bombs hit the Baptist compound, damaging church buildings and causing eight casualties among the mission's Chinese staff. Three bombs hit the Italian Catholic Parma Society Mission, injuring or killing 10 additional Chinese.

It was the third occasion in recent months Miss Reid's life had been endangered in Japanese bombings of her mission.

Red Hot Kansas To Be "Cooled"

KANSAS CITY, May 13.—(AP)—Henry Nangle and Dewey Hughes, State Liquor Control Inspectors, set out today to cool down Kansas City's red-hot 12th street (12th Street Rag.)

"Everything dark on Saturday night at 12 o'clock and at 1:30 a.m. on week-days," was the ultimatum to this "wide open" town.

Strip dancers must go too.

"If they want immoral dancers in New York or Chicago that is their business," Nangle said. "I don't believe the people of Kansas City want them. The night club owners who have them can take this as a warning."

State law empowers the Liquor Control department to regulate entertainment at places liquor is served.

Holland Will Stick To Tulips If Another War Comes

Official Sees Little Sign Of New Strife Unless Czech Issue Boils Over

By J. C. Stark
(Associated Press Foreign Staff.)

THE HAGUE, The Netherlands, May 13 (A.P.). — This little land of the chunking wooden shoes and creaking windmills sees straws in the wind for peace.

But if war does come, she wants to go right on tilling her tulip beds and building up the great dyke system which keeps out the sea for much of the 196-by-108-mile kingdom.

Just as during the Great War, the Netherlands is determined to preserve her neutrality, or what "we prefer to call our policy of independence," a high official close to the Foreign Ministry put it.

"We take sides with none of the opposing groups," this spokesman told the writer, who is on a tour of the land of winding canals.

He thought no country in Europe really wanted war and that "the fact that war has been so near several times in recent years is proof the people generally want peace."

The Anglo-Italian agreement was seen as a favorable sign for peaceful settlement of European problems, and the official viewed also the British move at Geneva to settle the Ethiopian question as a realistic step, in accord with the Netherlands' own proposal several months ago to the Oslo Convention States (economically linked Norway, Sweden, Finland, Belgium, The Netherlands, Denmark, and Luxembourg).

New Negro Dance Apes Laborers

Memphis, Tenn., May 13 (AP)

A LUSTY NEW DANCE, featuring flying feet and swaying, twisting bodies, made its bid for fame today.

It was born last night, happily enough, on Beale Street—where the "Blues" began as fifty young negroes swayed from step to step of the new "Jubilee Dip."

Observers said their movements were remindful of laborers toiling in delta cotton fields or along the levee, hoisting to their shoulders the cargo from the glamorous packet boats of another day.

Quiet Dignity To Feature Visit Of King George To France

No Gaudy Display Such As Mussolini Put On In Rome For Hitler

PARIS, May 13—(AP).—France will give King George VI and Queen Elizabeth of Great Britain a far different reception from the welcome Chancellor Hitler received this month in Rome.

There will be no striking modern illumination, Swastika flags and Fascist symbols when the King and Queen come to Paris, June 28, to pay their first state visit abroad.

Instead, traditions of monarchy and democracy have been maintained in the preparations for the royal visit.

The sovereign's four-day stay will centre around the Foreign Ministry, on the Quay d'Orsay facing the River Seine, where they will occupy the same apartments in which King George V and Queen Mary lived on their visit in 1914.

When Their Majesties leave July 1 by train and boat for London, France will have done everything to offer them a pleasant visit—and to impress on the world that France and Great Britain are better friends than ever.

Lad, Regular Church-Goer, Robs 100 In Month – Each Good For $5-$15

Los Angeles, May 13 (AP)

DON TEEL attended church regularly. In fact, he visited more than 100 churches between Los Angeles and San Francisco in the past month. From each, he told police and reporters today, he and his partner took small collection funds.

"We worked the churches because they're easy — no one around to poke a gun in your stomach," said the 18-year-old youth. "Sunday night or Monday is the best time — but any day's good for $5 to $15."

Teel was charged with suspicion of burglary. Police claimed they found his fingerprints on the windowsill of a burglarized house.

Bramptonite Suggests Municipalities Trade Boys Cameras For Rifles

Brampton, Ont., May 13 (CP)

ONTARIO municipalities should adopt a plan enabling boys to exchange their air rifles and .22 calibre rifles for inexpensive cameras, Dr. J. C. Stevenson, head of of the Brampton Camera Club, suggested today.

"The idea is not so far-fetched as it may seem," Dr. Stevenson said. "When the plan was tried in the United States youngsters flocked to authorities with weapons of all types and vintage to trade for new cameras."

Hunting with a camera is often more exciting than hunting with firearms, Dr. Stevenson said. Hunting is "merely an expression of an instinct" and cannot be stopped by law, he said.

SALESMAN MUST STUDY PRODUCT KIWANIS TOLD

The salesman is not generally accepted on an equal plane with men of business and professional life, M. S. Brooks, president of the Studebaker Company of Canada told Kiwanians at their weekly luncheon, Friday.

The day will come soon when all that will be changed, the speaker said. The day of the blustering hypnotic-eyed and voiced salesman is gone, and now a man who wants to sell a product must study his job, he pointed out. He traced the development of salesmanship from the early days of barter trading, through the rise of world trade with currency's development.

In olden days newspapers seldom carried paid advertisements in their columns because to advertise one's product used to be considered cheap, he said. People used to think if a man's product was good it would sell itself.

Salesmanship first arose in this country after the Great War, the speaker said. Although there had been salesmen before that time, there was not the intense rivalry and price-cutting that has developed since and made good salesmanship necessary, he defined.

Became Exporters

When the World War broke out Canada, the United States, became exporters rather than importers, while the former great supplying nations had become fighting nations, no longer supreme in trade.

But after the war, when the European countries once more became great producers and sellers, this continent experienced a depression in 1921, he said. "That's when high pressure salesmanship came into being." That struggle fo world trade is still going on, and the companies in this land have never been able to make the profits of European countries.

He believed the day of the high pressure salesmanship is going and will soon be a thing of the past. Canada and the United States are going through a period of "settling down" to tradition and reputation, to a system like that of old England.

Sell By Reason

The salesman of tomorrow is going to have to sell by reason, by showing the worth of their goods, the speaker said. He forecast that the good salesman of the future will not be just an "order taker", but a man who has studied his business thoroughly and efficiently.

A motor car is the third biggest investment the average man makes in his life, he said. First comes the business, then the home, then the car. He said auto salesmen must, therefore, be able to explain the car thoroughly if he is to be successful. No man will make such a purchase without known the car's abilities.

A physician must spent years in training before he can practice his profession, and many more in efficient work before he establishes himself, yet a salesman used to think all he had to have was a "gift of gab" and a hypnotic eye, he said. "I would rather have a trained salesman any time than a born one, because the latter will usually get you into trouble at some time or another," he declared.

The biggest job in training salesmen is to get them to plan their time, the speaker said.

Prospecting, telling, showing, convincing, closing sales form the basis of teaching salesmanship, he said.

Broadens One's Life

People should look upon salesman in a different way than they do now because the wel-informed salesman can broaden the life of every man and woman. He pointed to the rise in appreciation of the insurance agent during the past 20 years, when he used to be considered a sort of "pest," Mr. Brooks related.

Contrary to general opinion people do not buy from their friends, he said. Statistics show that 85 per cent. of sales are made in larger cities after five calls by a salesman; the other 85 per cent. of the salesmen's time is spent trying to convince their friends to buy, he maintained.

A study of what the average car-owner wanted revealed, surprisingly, he said, that the first requirement was style, then comfort, low upkeep, good performance, and last of all, safety. This was the finding of the firm in "Facts Incorporated."

Experiences Related

The speaker was introduced by Charles Elliott, who related his experience with the motoring industry. Mr. Brooks was born in Port Elgin, in Bruce County, and was educated in Western Canada, where he received an extensive training in practical mechanics. After an early association with the Canadian Fairbanks-Morse Company in Saskatoon, he then gained more diverse experience by lecturing on automobile mechanics in the winter and selling cars and tractors at retail and wholesale during the more clement months of the year.

In 1921 Mr. Brooks joined the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Ltd., and shortly thereafter was sent to Australia with one other to investigate the feasibilities of setting up manufacturing operations on that continent. After a short trip to Canada, he returned to Australia as General Service Manager of the newly-formed Ford Motor Company of Australia.

The Studebaker Corporation of Australia attracted Mr. Brooks' capabilities in November of 1926. He was first made Sales Manager and later Managing Director. Following this, he returned to the United States and Canada, where he served as Assistant Sales Manager of the Studebaker Corporation of Canada, and as Manager of Retail Branches for the Studebaker Corporation of American in South Bend, Ind. In August of 1933, he resigned this post to join the Chrysler Corporation of Canada as a sales executive, where he remained until he returned to Studebaker of Canada in the fall of 1934 as Vic-President and General Manager. He was elevated to the Presidency of the corporation in December, 1937.

Jacob Low moved a vote of thanks, extended to the speaker by L. J. Pettit, president of Kiwanis. Mr. Pettit asked for a full attendance at next week's meeting, when plans for the club's fall activity will be discussed. There will be no speaker, and the meeting will take the form of a discussion as to what activity Kiwanis will enter, and every member should be present, he said.

Dog Brings Tea Master Forgot

LINDSAY, Ont., May 13.—(CP)—Joe McConnell admitted Thursday the latest stunt of his police dog, Buddy, had set him back on his heels. But he had a squad of grocery clerks to back up the story.

Buddy heard Mrs. McConnell tell Joe to bring the morning paper and a pound of tea from the corner grocery. He trotted along to the store with his master.

Joe remembered the paper and forgot the tea—but Buddy had a better memory. Joe was leaving the store when Budy dashed back and grabbed a pound package of tea from a shelf.

KINSMEN CLUBS MEET IN TORONTO

TORONTO, May 13. — Canadians must draw upon the rich pioneer traditions of self-reliance and common-sense of the past to aid in solving the problems of the present. Hon. Eric Cross urged last night at an inter-club meeting of Kinsmen Clubs of Central Ontario in the Royal York Hotel.

"Our constitution is still a good one," Mr. Cross argued. "You can't change the social order by changing the constitution. The way to bring the necessary changes is through improved leadership in public affairs and by an increased and more intelligent interest on the part of all the people in the solution of our problems."

Mr. Cross thought education, in the widest sense of the word and including the influence of church, service clubs and the home, was an important factor in building a better Canada. The far-too-common belief that "the world owes me a living" was a false one, he contended, and suggested that every man owed it to the State to use his full physical strength and mental equipment to the best of his ability in the effort of making a living.

Hal Rogers, founder of the Kinsmen movement, spoke briefly. Addresses also were given by National President Robert McGillis, Max Kirby, Banty Bantick, Bruce Whitside, Alex. Elliott, M.P.P., Controller W. J. Wadsworth and William Austin.

FUMES IN TANK KILL THREE MEN

MOOSE JAW, Sask., May 13. — (CP).—Total of deal from asphyxiation in a sedimentation tank at the sewage disposal plant stood at three to-day. William Munro, 60, died in hoshpital late last night.

An inquest into deaths of Henry Clarke, 46, and A. J. Warren 42, adjourned last night after the jury viewed the bodies. Coroner Dr. J. M. Hourigan presided.

George Paul, 65, was in hospital and reported in fair condition. All four men, affected by the fumes yesterday morning, were married. Clarke was the father of three children.

Warren, overcome by the fumes, was noticed in the tank by Clarke, who informed the plant chief, William K. F. Durrant, and the latter telephoned for a doctor, while Clarke returned to the tank to aid Warren.

When Durrant reached the tank he found Warren, Clarke, Paul and Munro all inside. Fire Department members were summoned, and, working with gas helmets, carried out the men but Clarke was dead. Warren died three hours later in hospital.

CRASH IN SLEEP COSTS DRIVER $10

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, May 13—A car driven by Keith Garbutt, Belleville, left the road south of Bethel Church on Sunday morning at four o'clock, breaking off a telephone pole and tearing down about one hundred feet of fence. The vehicle was badly wrecked. Fortunately, the two occupants, Garbutt and Oscar Rath of Sulphide, escaped with a few bruises and minor hurts. The pair were proceeding north at the time of the smash. Garbutt informed Chief Constable J. Clair Hayes, who investigated, that he fell asleep, permitting the car to leave the highway.

The driver appeared before Magistrate J. L. Lloyd in police court at Northbrook on Wednesday and after pleading guilty, paid a fine of $10.00 with additional costs.

AGED MAN STARTED FINAL LAP OF TRIP

The mystery in regard to aged Edward Neill was solved Thursday afternoon when the police got in touch with the Haliburton constable and found that Neill was expected by a man named Pringle who runs a summer resort near Lochlin.

Neill at one time owned a farm in that district and is well known to a number of residents there. He was on his way from Ottwa to visit the Pringle place when apparently he suffered a partial loss of memory here and instead of transferring from the C.P.R. station to the C.N.R. when he arrived early Wednesday morning wandered off.

Police put the old man on the C.N.R. train today in charge of the conductor and arrangements were made to have him looked after during his wait of several hours in Lindsay and on his arrival at Lochlin.

A small suitcase he had been carrying with him when he arrived here and which in his confusion he had left at a house on Water street north was recovered by the police, the householder telephoning the police station as soon as she heard about the old man's plight.

CHEESE PRODUCERS CASH SENT ABROAD CLAIMED WASTED

OTTAWA, May 12.—(CP)—Money spent by the Cheese Producers Association for marketing abroad was of no use to the dairy industry of Canada, T. A. Thompson (Con. Lanark) told the House of Commons yesterday. He declared the money might better be spent on production in Canada. The government already had good marketing agencies abroad.

Success of Canadian cheese in the Old Country depended on its quality and its availability in quantities to meet market needs. For 60 years the Eastern Ontario Dairy Association had served the industry well in improving production and quality. But its grant of $1,500 a year had been withdrawn.

Cooperation between the Ontario Agriculture Department and the Federal Department had not been of the best in the interests of the cheese industry.

The Ontario government had permitted organization of the Cheese Producers Association which collected a fee on the production to finance its activities and received a $5,000 annual grant from the government.

$38,000 Fees in 1938

In 1937 the Cheese Producers' Association had collected $38,000, Mr. Thompson said, and so far as what was spent for markets abroad, "Not one dollar was of any use to the dairy industry."

R. M. Warren (Lib. Renfrew North) protested against any efforts to prevent farmers co-operating in the sale of their own products. The farmers were making a contribution to the organization of five cents a hundred pounds of cheese produced.

The Renfrew North member accused Mr. Thompson of trying to prevent this cooperative movement as a selling organization which he believed was a step in the right direction.

The House, in committee, was considering an item of $50,000 for marketing services administration in the estimates of the agriculture department. The item carried.

ROBERT IRWIN IS FREED BY JURY

TORONTO, May 13 (C.P.). — Rearrested as he walked from a courtroom where he had been acquitted on a charge of murdering Mrs. Nora Thormin, Robert J. Irwin to-day faced a charge of deserting his six children at Gananoque, Ont.

Sworn out by Gananoque authorities prior to his arrest on February 27 on the charge of murdering the 50-year-old woman with whom he lived, the desertion warrant was served last night on Irwin as he was assisted from the courtroom. Court officials said he would be held in custody pending disposition of the charge.

Mrs. Thormin died in hospital here the night of February 27. She had walked into the hospital the previous day and had been treated for a fractured jaw and internal injuries. Irwin, who gave the woman a blood transfusion, testified she had suffered the injuries in a fall from a bed in their home.

Irwin, whose wife died recently, wept when the verdict was announced by a jury which had been out for three hours. Mr. Justice George A. Urquhart, in his charge to the jury, said the evidence did not justify conviction of a murder charge. "What you have to consider is the question: Was the accused too drunk to form the intent to commit the crime?"

BIG WHEAT CROP AID TO BUSINESS

Prospects of a big wheat crop in Western Canada will become a substantial and timely stimulus to business, was one of the encouraging reports Alderman G. N. Gordon gained from his visit to Ottawa Thursday with a deputation from the City Council.

"I was talking to members from nearly every province, Liberals, Conservatives and Progressives, and the consensus of their opinions was confidence that if weather conditions continue favorable during the growing months the West is going to have a big crop," Ald. Gordon said. "They told me conditions were never better for this season of the year, that there is abundant moisture, and farmers are building up hopes for something like an old-time harvest. Reports from the East were equally encouraging, and although it is admitted that Canada is feeling the effects of the recession in industry and business in the United States, it is felt that we are going to see a decided improvement as the year advances. Western grain promises to be a real factor this year in restoring business confidence throughout the country."

Alderman Gordon said he was informed that orders for munitions and airplanes from Great Britain and France would also have a helpful effect in some parts of Ontario and Quebec.

3 BRITISH GROUPS DEMAND INQUIRY ON AIR DEFENCES

LONDON, May 13.—(CP)—The government, having disclosed intense interest in Canada as a source of military airplanes, and its intention of building Royal Air force strength to 3,500 first-line planes by 1940, prepared today to meet new criticism of its air rearmament program.

Government spokesmen in both Houses of Parliament yesterday parried attacks on air defence measures, centred particularly around charges Britain has fallen far behind Germany as a producer of military craft.

The government's majority in the House of Commons defeated a Liberal motion of censure on the air ministry by a vote of 299-131 but there were a number of Conservative abstentions.

After the debate—in which Canada loomed large—three motions were tabled demanding an inquiry into the state of Britain's air defence. One was by a group of 20 government supporters headed by Winston Churchill, Conservative; one by the opposition Liberals and one by Labor.

Government Agrees

Faced with this triple demand, the government acquiesced, setting May 19 as date of the fresh debate. Prime Minister Chamberlain was expected to speak then.

Earl Winterton, chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster and air ministry spokesman in the House of Commons, stressed the possibility of building up a "war potential" in Canada. Several members referred to the value of having the Dominion as a centre where planes can be constructed in absolute security.

British factories, members said, ran the risk of being destroyed early in any war. But factories in Canada would continue to provide the all-important supply of airplanes that several members said would assure victory. Such fresh supplies were termed a psychological factor of tremendous importance.

Lord Winterton said one of the main objectives of the party of experts in North America was to investigate the possibilities of a Canadian supply.

Minneapolis Dogs To Be Muzzled

MINNEAPOLIS, May 13—(AP).—Minneapolis' 6,500 dogs must be muzzled tomorrow—a threat of rabies began the trouble—and harness makers today were panting.

Big dogs, little dogs—even docile, toothless ones—must observe the city health order designed to check rabies. Durable, binding muzzles, stretch-proof and drip-proof, were decreed for the properly equipped pet.

Sixteen positive cases of rabies prompted the six-month ban on biting. Nine suburbs were included in an additional ruling from the state livestock sanitary board.

Perspiring harness makers slashed at hides as they struggled to catch up on orders for the special muzzles. Two dollars was the going price of a regulation muzzle for short or long snouted dogs.

OBITUARY

MRS. WESLEY FALLIS
(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, May 13—The community lost one of its well-known and highly-respected citizens in the death of Mrs. Wesley Fallis, which occurred on Monday, after some months of illness.

Mrs. Fallis was born in Clarke Township seventy years ago, and was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Potts, her maiden name having been Elizabeth Jane Potts. She was a life-long resident of this part of the county, and previous to coming to Millbrook to live five years ago, when her husband decided to retire from an active agricultural career, they had made their home on the Fallis Line, where practically all of her married life was spent.

Mrs. Fallis was a faithful and active member of the United Church, but previous to her marriage had been brought up in the Anglican communion. Besides the bereaved husband, the immediate surviving relatives include one daughter, Mrs. Edward Armstrong (Evelyn), of Millbrook, and one son, Clifford, on the Fallis Line; also one sister, Mrs. William Palmer, and one brother, Walter Potts, both of Elizabethville.

The funeral took place on Wednesday at 2.30 p.m., from her late residence, Queen street, Millbrook, Rev. A. L. Sisco and Venerable Archdeacon Simpson conducting the service. The pall-bearers were William Palmer, William Sulley, Bert Dawson, Stewart Fallis, Alexander Potts, and Austin Sutton; interment was in the family burial plot at Gardiner's Cemetery.

A COMPLETE JOB

DIVORCE MEASURE RUNS INTO DELAY

OTTAWA, May 13 (CP) — The McMeans bill which seeks to widen the grounds for divorce has slipped back a stage. Just when everything appeared all set to give the bill its third reading, a motion by Senator John T. Haig (Con. Winnipeg) shot the measure back into committee of the whole yesterday.

This was not accomplished without considerable protest. Attention was drawn to the fact there was no modern precedent for referring a bill, which had been reported from a standing committee, back to a committee of the whole. However, lack of precedent was less potent an argument than government leader Dandurand's dictum that the senate was master of its own procedure.

Mr. Haig's purpose was to have re-inserted in the bill a sub-section which the standing committee had deleted. This was to the effect that no petition for divorce could be entertained until after three years from the date of the marriage.

Tied up with this was another item on which Senator Haig insisted. It was that, notwithstanding this restriction, the powers of provincial courts as they now exist should not be interferred with. He wished these courts to continue to entertain petitions for divorce, regardless of the date of marriage, where an appellant sought dissolution on the grounds of adultery. In both cases the senator was successful.

When next the committee discusses the bill it will have before it a proposal by Senator W. K. Hugesson (Lib. Montreal), aimed at getting round the difficulty as to whether or not the bill infringes provincial jurisdiction. This arises in those sections dealing with "nullity" of marriages. Mr. Hugesson yesterday voiced doubts on the validity of those sections.

He suggested they be transferred from their present position in the bill and, with the term "nullity" deleted, inserted in the section which treats of causes for divorce.

Ireland Forbids Wood To Speak

TORONTO, May 13—(CP)—W. H. Ireland, president of the Ontario Conservative Association, today informed R. C. Wood, secretary of the committee for conservative action, that he would not be allowed to address the Ontario executive meeting tomorrow.

Mr. Ireland explained that Friday's meeting of the executive would be fully occupied with selection of delegates for the coming Conservative convention at Ottawa.

Mr. Wood has been demanding an Ontario meeting for election of new officers before the federal convention at Ottawa in July.

What Recognition Means

The League of Nations has recognized the King of Italy as being the Emperor of Ethiopia. So the struggle between Italy and Ethopia will go down in history as another example of where the lion and the lamb laid down together but only the lion got up.

There was not a united British Empire front in favor of recognition. The spokesman for New Zealand was bitterly opposed, and said it meant a return to the law of the jungle, and he might have added that a good deal of what goes on in the world today is of the same type.

It is difficult to explain just what the term "recognition" means. The conquest of Ethiopia is something which has been completed; it is something which cannot be undone. Recognizing that which has been done is not the equivalent of approving of it. It is merely an act to recognize the King of Italy as the ruler of Ethiopia at the moment, and that's what he is.

Refusing to sanction such recognition would be a form of gallantry extremely late in arriving. If international gallantry had desired to become assertive then the time for such assertion was months ago when Italy was moving her army into Ethiopia for the known purpose of conquest. The nations were willing that Ethiopia should be sold up the river because none of them desired to become plunged into a war to prevent such an outcome. Having stood back then it would be no sign of strength to come forward now and refuse to recognize that Italy had conquered Ethiopia.

Getting to Work

The figure is only an estimate, but an interesting one. This way—the Institute of Transport figured out several years ago that due to traffic hold-ups in London there were 13,500 hours lost each day. Individuals might be delayed 10 or 15 minutes each, and the total of the delays made that impressive figure, 13,500 hours per day.

London's traffic is rather slow-moving at best, but it is well regulated considering the width of some of the streets and the manner in which they twist and converge. With increased traffic the number of hours lost per day may be even higher now.

But leave it at the old figure, and allowing 300 days in the year when one might be working, it would mean a total hour-loss for the year of 4,050,000. And that in turn means 506,000 working days of eight hours each. That of course would have little bearing on the actual time which the people would spend on getting to and from work, the total of which in a city the size of London would amount to millions of hours per year.

Something Wrong With Him

A young man residing in London, Ont., wants a wife. He says so, and has done his saying in a letter addressed to the mayor of Windsor. He states he is the possessor of $13,000, that amount of money having come to him from the estate of his father. He seems to have had little success in London as he admits he cannot get acquainted with the girls there. Just how hard he has tried we have no way of knowing and of course we have no information on the technique he employs All we know is what we read in the papers—he wants a wife between 19 and 21 years of age and he has $13,000.

The wife seeker does not say whether or not he could get out and earn another $13,000 if his present money was spent; he does not mention whether he is tall or short, fat or lean, Roman nosed or with one like a button. Just that he has some money and wants a wife between 19 and 21.

We suspect there's something wrong with him. He's facing one of the oldest problems in the world, that of going forth and finding for himself a wife. They are to be had and thousands of men who did not possess $13,000 have secured 'em in the past and made a fairly good job of it too. We haven't much patience with a man in a city of some 80,000 people writing off to the mayor of some other city to come to his assistance. If he can't go out on his own hook in London he would probably be a washout in Windsor.

Arbor Day Once More

The Bar River correspondent of the Sault Ste. Marie Star writes:

"Friday the pupils of our school recognized that it was Arbor Day and enjoyed the usual hike to the rapids for fish, after having done their share of cleaning and improving about the school grounds".

That of course sounds like a pleasant enough Arbor Day. It was never done that way on the Tenth Concession. Going to school that morning one carried either a hoe, rake or spade according to instructions from school and also according to which of the trio of implements could be located on the morning in question. There was never a great deal of joy in the work because the trustees came that day and they always liked to see the hole used for the pitcher's box in the back yard filled up.

Generally there were a couple of trees planted. As a rule the teacher did not know how deep a tree hole ought to be so some of the excavating was liable to be like the first stages of a new well. After the trees had been planted the scholars stood around in a circle and sang "The Maple Leaf Forever," although it might have been a young elm or a bit of jack pine that had been planted. Then some of the trustees would be likely to have a few words to say to the scholars telling of the success some of those had met who used to go to school on the Tenth. But they always emphasized the fact that success waited only for those who stood head of the class and paid attention generally, so at that early day it was made apparent that success was something which had a formidable barrier in front of it.

There never was any fishing party such as they had at Bar River because Mud Creek was the closest body of water and the fish never seemed to take to it. Generally on Arbor Day school was dismissed an hour earlier, and as the trustees were still there it was necessary to start straight home. Which meant getting home an hour earlier and getting started at the chores that much sooner.

Responsibility Is There

What sort of censorship can there be for radio addresses given by people who feel themselves competent to discuss anything under the sun including the policies of the various governments of the world?

That is what the Canadian parliament has been discussing. The broadcasting business in Canada is controlled by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, and the Corporation in turn is responsible to parliament. The government can fire and hire the members, so in that way it becomes a matter of parliamentary concern when addresses are given which deal with the affairs of other governments. If broadcasting were a private enterprise in Canada it would be a different matter.

Censoring broadcasts under such auspices is different from trying to censor the press. Newspapers know the rules; they understand what comment can and should be made; those who furnish and publish articles in newspapers are fully aware that they are responsible for what they say, and for that reason they generally attend to their own censoring before the printing is done.

Free speech is a good theory when operating a radio station if the people who are going on the air have a fair enough understanding of the responsibility which is attached to free speech. If broadcasting is done under the auspices of the Canadian government then that government cannot very well shake itself free of the involved circumstances which may arise if a radio address has in it unwise and harmful criticisms of the policy of some government with which the people of Canada are on friendly terms.

The "Big Shots" Were Absent

There was one of those unsigned letters in the mail this morning, and by all good rules of the office it should have been tossed in the waste paper basket. There are times when a person grows interested in a letter and then wonders why the writer did not sign a name. Often enough these people seem to be twisted in their views and they write without having asked questions or secured facts. If one had nothing else to do it might be interesting enough to have a chat with them and discover if they think as they write, and if so why they write.

Today's letter had this in it:

"The subsidized press today fears to tell the truth and it says just what its financial task masters tell it to say. Perhaps it is the way for you fellows to play safe when going through hard times for you know the big shots won't let you down so hard that you will fail".

We were looking over some statistics the other day which came from the central office of the Canadian Press, and there was a comparison of membership between 1917 and the present. In 1917 there were 117 daily papers in the membership. We believe we knew personally nearly all the representatives from those papers who used to attend the annual meetings; they came from the Pacific to Atlantic and all the way between. In 1917 there were 57 papers in Ontario and Quebec alone, but today there are but 42. In the Dominion instead of 117 members there are now but 89, and a little simple arithmetic shows that is a decrease of 28 newspapers.

We do not believe there was one newspaper publisher in that entire list who wanted to go out of business, nor would there be any of them who would have gone into an amalgamation if he could have kept his paper going so it would return him a living. But when this decrease of 28 was taking place the "big shots" who are said to subsidize the press were not in evidence. They were not coming forward to the publisher who was turning the key in the door for the last time and saying "Courage brother." Nor were they marching in like the hero in the play who saves the old homestead by placing a sack of gold on the kitchen table. Perhaps we should pay no attention to an unsigned letter which talks about the "big shots who won't let you down," but we can't help feeling that if the writer of the letter knew anything at all about newspapers and the way in which they are conducted he would not have written it at all.

Only One in Town Now

There was photograph published in the Stratford Beacon-Herald showing members of the cast which presented a comedy "Al Martin's Country Store" in Listowel 28 years ago. We know nothing of the excellence or defects of the presentation, although Marjorie Lucas writing in the Stratford paper from Listowel attests it was a success.

Now and then we get the idea that a village or town is a place of fixed residence. We know people in cities come and they go, but we are apt to think of folk in lesser places as staying fixed. Truth seems to be the older ones may but the younger ones do not. There were 32 taking part in that performance in Listowel 28 years ago, and they all belonged right there. Today there is but one lone member of that cast residing in Listowel. The present addresses of those people range from Ontario to Western Canada and to United States.

Strange too how even a close-knit town like Listowel forgets. In the search for the names of those in the picture we notice this: "Rear row: First four unknown." We have not the least doubt that the "first four" in the back row were all well known 28 years ago. Four men they are. They lived in the town; they appear to all be of the age where they would be working. They were of the sort which take part in local affairs, and yet within 28 years they are classed as "unknown" in the town which they must have known so well. These players of Listowel were for the most part young folk, so it must be the world outside calls them from the towns and they respond to the beckoning hand. But that is rather a striking illustration—32 in the cast of a play given 28 years ago, and but one lone actor in Listowel today.

NOTES AND COMMENT

Col. George A. Drew says he is speaking as an individual Conservative. That seems to be the trouble with the party these days—it is all individual.

Free speech over the air is said to be threatened. But then there does not seem to be anything free about the radio in Canada anyway.

With snow and frost damaging Ontario's crops in May, there does not seem to be any reason why folk in this country should find the summers unduly long.

T. L. Church M.P. says every person has been mentioned for leader of the Conservative party except J. P. Morgan, Mahatma Gandi and Charlie McCarthy. And, might we add—T. L. Church.

German government has bought the house in which Hitler lived as a boy and will make it a national memorial So far at least the Chancellor has not voiced any violent objections to the scheme.

Leaders of the movement for votes for women in Quebec state that they see success near. At any rate they cannot be charged with an noticeable lack of optimism.

One good thing about Thursday's weather is that we did not have the same brand a year ago when the coronation of King George VI was loyally observed.

The Ottawa Government has informed the House that it does not know how many slot machines were imported into Canada last year. The answer is simple—too many.

Toronto police say Queen City drivers are the best in Ontario. They should not judge outside motorists however by the drivers who happen to visit Toronto. They probably do a lot of speeding trying to get out of the place.

The magistrate at Sarnia, after listening to evidence in a case of drunk driving, was moved to remark "There must be something done about this." Say what you like about magistrates, but we still claim this Sarnia man was quite original.

WORRIED

¶ Wee Angus puzzles now and then, when he looks on the world of men, he don't know what to do; when he grows up to be a man, he wants to do the best he can, when schooling days are through.

¶ And he likes staying on a farm, knows everything about the barn, with farming he's no fault; but Uncle Jed says if he farms, and has to fix his sheds and barns, he'll never earn his salt.

¶ The man down at the barber shop, says that he works an awful lot, Wee Angus talks with him; the barber's always poor he said, and he can't save and get ahead, his purse is always slim.

¶ The man who ran the corner store, he operates the place no more, nor is he working yet; Wee Angus heard him tell one day, how folk got goods and wouldn't pay, and he is sunk in debt.

¶ The man who drives the baker's rig, told Angus that his pay's not big, and he works quite a lot; the man where he buys all his shoes, has nearly always got the blues, says trade is not so hot.

¶ So Angus really wants to know, just how he'll ever make it go, he'd like to have a plan; I tell him just to learn a lot, and keep on livin' like he ought—and do the best he can.

Our Statesmen At Their Labors

(Official Parliamentary Reports)

WHO PAYS THE TAX?

Mr. DUNNING: That is after cost of production.

Mr. BENNETT: I say that is included in the cost of production.

Mr. DUNNING: No.

Mr. BENNETT: Excuse me; it is. When the Minister of Finance says that fixed charges are not included in the cost—

Mr. DUNNING: I did not say that. Income tax is on earnings, after the cost of production has been met.

Mr. BENNETT: Surely, but the manufacturer has to make allowance for these taxes in fixing the price at which he is to sell if he is to make a profit. Does anyone suggest that when I go to sell my goods I have not to consider the tax I have to pay on my earnings?

Mr. DUNNING: Income tax is in a different class from the other taxes.

Mr. BENNETT: It is a tax on profits that are shown. If no profit is shown, no one need be concerned; but if he makes a profit, the state taxes him fifteen per cent.

Mr. DUNNING: Fifteen per cent. of the profit, which is determined after production costs.

Mr. BENNETT: I include that as part of the selling price if he is going to make a profit. We have the same view, but the minister desires to express it in another way. I am not going to get into a partisan discussion. I put it to you: As a matter of business what would you do? Suppose you were an executive, a member of a board of directors; suppose you had your own business; what woud you do?

Mr. TUCKER: I would not raise prices. I would sell less goods if I raised prices.

Mr. BENNETT: If the hon. member would not raise prices, then he would continue to have a loss and he would be bankrupt at an early date. Surely the hon. member realizes that if you continue to sell for less than your cost of production you are going to be bankrupt at an early date.

1 OR 2 OR 3 OR 4

Mr. STEWART: I was discussing more particularly subsection 2 of section 1, which has not been passed, surely.

Mr. DUNNING: Oh, yes; section 1 is passed.

Mr. STEWART: It was not passed, as I understand it. Subsection (2) was not read and was not passed; certainly not.

Mr. DUNNING: I do not want to hurry matters, but I was under the impression that section 1 had passed. If the hon. friend wants to revert to subsection 2 of section 1, I shall not object.

Mr. ROWE (Dufferin): There was a misunderstanding there. Only subsection 1 passed, I think.

Mr. STEWART: Subsection 2 did not pass at all.

The CHAIRMAN: I called clause 1 and clause 1 was carried. Then I called clause 2, and we are now on clause 2, "Deceased farmers."

Mr. STEWART: If that is your interpretation of it, Mr. Chairman, we shall have to ask you to read what you propose to pass because you read paragraph (d) and stopped when you called it, and paragraph (d) has nothing whatever to do with the matter under subsection 2 section 1. It is not a clause at all; it is section 1.

Mr. DUNNING: Perhaps I may facilitate matters, though I think the Chairman proceeded in the normal way in considering the clauses of a bill. I think it is for the committee to indicate to the chair if they desire to have the subsections of all sections dealt with separately. This session I do not think that has been done very frequently. However, I have no wish to limit discussion, and if it is your wish, sir, I am quite content to revert to section 1 for the purpose of considering what my hon. friend has to say with respect to subsection 2 of that clause.

Mr. STEWART: And also subsections 3 and 4.

Mr. DUNNING: Does my hon. friend desire that the committee carry each subsection of each section?

Mr. STEWART: Certainly. I think that is the usual way.

The CHAIRMAN: Very well; the committee will revert to section 1, subsection 2.

TOWN OF MADMEN.

(Detroit News)

IN GHEEL, Belgium, one person in five is said to be mad. The insane are everywhere. You meet them in the street, in the train, in the public houses. But they are not ostracized or regarded as in any way strange. This is not surprising, because the town gets its principal source of income from them. Madmen come from all over the world to live in Gheel and the insane of Belgium nationality who are too poor to keep themselves are supported by the state. There is scarcely a family that does not have a madman boarding and rooming with it. The lives of the insane are regulated and controlled by the municipal authorities—yet there is surprising freedom and lack of restraint. Once in a while, perhaps Napoleon may meet Washington but even such an awkward situation as that is easily and peacefully settled over a glass of wine.

MUST BOOKS BE READ?

(Liverpool Post)

THE COLLECTOR of books need not fear the challenge that is sure to be made, sooner or later, by his skeptical ecquaintances: "Have you read them all?" The first idea he ought to get out of his head is that he must only buy books for immediate reading.

"The charm of a library," said that devout book lover, the late Arnold Bennett, "is seriously impaired when one has read the whole or nearly the whole of its contents."

Bennett confessed that he had hundreds of books he had never opened, and which, perhaps, he never would open. But he would not part with them. He knew they were good, and as he gazed on them, he said to them, "Some day, if chance favors, your turn will come. Be patient!"

• The Caterpillar War Is Here

(By Mrs. Joseph Hamilton, Lakefield)

REFORESTATION plan is a great improvement to bring to materialization especially to be beneficial for future generations, but it would be most beneficial for the present generation as well as for future generations to preserve the forests and plants we now have.

Right now we have in Ontario a silent but most evident forward march of a very destructive pest. There are millions of tent caterpillars beginning their drive against the existence of valuable trees and plants.

Unless immediate action is taken to curb the tent caterpillar epidemic especially fruit trees, as well as many other types of trees and plants will be destroyed by these pests. And who wants such wiggly creeping worms crawling over your lawn seats and vines to give more annoyance. Travel where you may, you will find these pests dominating the growth of many types of trees and plants. At present they are chiefly found on apple, maple, thorn and cherry trees.

My experience in destroying the pests has been experimental but persistent. I do know it can be done with little cost, constant efforts and relentless patience. So why let a little worm destroy in a few weeks what it has taken years to develop? Some may suggest spraying, some may say cut the effected branches, carry to a certain place and burn but the spraying method cannot be used by everyone; the next method may shake the caterpillars from the bough thus scattering them without destroying all. I have been working at this project for a week. In that time I have added to previously gained knowledge the facts concerning speed of growth, persistence in development and various other facts which assures one of the extent of their destruction as well as speed in waging their war.

For masses formed high on branches, I found this the most sure method of destroying the pests. Wrap an oil soaked cloth around the end of a pole, light the cloth and hold the torch around the web which incloses the mass. It must be held around it a lengthy time to destroy all within the web for if held there only a short time you will find those on the outer surface act as a fire proof insulation for others nearer the center. If the flame is there only a short time and you open the mass you will find many uninjured. Many will fall to the ground so to kill them there should be that portion of surface burned. The masses formed low enough to reach easily. I wrapped paper around the web, set fire to the bottom part in order to burn all as they fell. There are few that will be alive when they fall from such treatment. All fallen ones should be killed. If the mass is near the ground, I used kerosene by pouring it on the mass then set fire to the mass. Caution must be used to prevent spread of fire. For you must remember there are more ways than one to kill a dog so likewise there may be great destruction by your carelessness.

Many may say, "Oh that is such a job so why bother." We have travelled through the devastated western provinces of Canada and through certain western states of the U. S. when we travelled for many miles without seeing a green blade of grass, a live tree or any other living plant but where dead thistles rolled in heaps ahead of a car while the dust and sand blew high over the barren land. These conditions were partly brought about by such pests as the grass hopper. Our province has been blessed so we could shake our produce by sending surplus food to such devastated areas thus giving to our people a slight impression of what a pest epidemic can cause to any province.

You will find the task of exterminating them is a fascinating one at times, but more often a disgusting and disappointing one, yet the more you work to destroy them the greater your interest for by so doing you better realize the speed, extent and certainty of their destructive battle against plants and trees dear to us. Are you going to be a citizen with knowledge, strength and power, yet let this little insignificant pest wage a winning battle against the property in our province? If you don't kill them they will destroy in a few weeks the valuable trees it has taken years to produce. Get out today, while you walk or travel you will find these pests are waging a battle camparatively unmolested. This war can be checked by the co-operative work of school children, scouts, farmers, select groups or individuals, but if not checked in time it may be a serious problem for the government to take action and battle. Why leave it for the government for in any event it is costing greater sums of money the longer the war as not waged. It is much cheaper to prevent than to cure it is cheaper to find fruit in your property than to buy from neighboring provinces. Protect the trees we now have before they are destroyed. Co-operation and immediate action of all property holders is necessary to obtain results and eradicate the pests. Just figure for yourself—God alone can make a tree, but think what you can do to save it!

• "Haven't Got Time To Do It"

(Chatham News)

"I'D LIKE TO, but somehow I don't seem to get time."

Ever heard that phrase? If you haven't you have not listened, for it's in constant use. With all the hustle and bustle, this seems to be getting more and more an age of "I haven't time."

At every social or public function nowadays, the chairman almost invariably announces that "Mr. So and So 'phoned me that he regretted exceedingly that another engagement made it impossible for him to attend."

Men don't seem to have time to spend an evening at home with their families; women don't seem to have the time for the same motherly care of their children that mothers had a generation ago.

The business and professional world has got to the stage where there seems to be time for nothing but chasing the elusive dollar. Time was, and that not so many years ago, when a funeral in the community was a sign for drawn blinds, and a large turn out at the obsequies. Now a great man or a financial pillar must fall in our midst before the work-a-day world takes much notice. Many of the finer and nobler sides of human nature are being blurred and spoiled because "we haven't time" to do those things which bring out and develop the finest traits of character.

It will be noticed, however, that people find time for the things they want to do most, and if they are losing sight of the finer things of life it is largely because material interests are paramount.

These people that "never have time," are losing the best in life. They'll have to take time to die some day.

MERCY KILLING.

(Michigan Catholic)

GEN. JOHN PERSHING'S recent recovery and that of Pope Pius XI over a year ago should give pause to the advocates of euthanasia or "mercy killing".

Both of these illustrious men are old and both have been so ill that all hope for their rallying again had been abandoned by the world.

According to the proponents of euthanasia, they should have been relieved of their sufferings by a "merciful" medical potion. If the "mercy killers" had had their way, these famous leaders would now be dead and buried.

The God Who gave them life decreed otherwise—in spite of the opinion of expert physicians. Now both gentlemen are enjoying fairly good health. In fact, the Holy Father has done a tremendous amount of work very successfully for a whole year since his recovery. His great service to mankind during this critical twelvemonth would have been lost —if a Godless, brutal theory had been applied.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

BRETHREN, my heart's desire and prayer to God for Israel is, that they might be saved. For I bear them record that they have a zeal of God, but not according to knowledge. For they being ignorant of God's righteousness, and going about to establish their own righteousness, have not submitted themselves unto the righteousness of God.—Rom. x: 1-3.

This I say therefore, and testify in the Lord, that ye henceforth walk not as other Gentiles walk, in the vanity of their mind, having the understanding darkened, being allenated from the life of God through the ignorance that is in them, because of the blindness of their heart: who being past feeling have given themselves over unto lasciviousness, to work all uncleanness with greediness.

But ye have not so learned Christ; if so be that ye have heard him, and have been taught by him, as the truth is in Jesus: that ye put off concerning the former conversation the old man, which is corrupt according to the deceitful lusts; and be renewed in the spirit of your mind; and that ye put on the new man, which after God is created in righteousness and true holiness.—Eph. iv: 17-24.

COINS

Editor Examiner:

Sir: In the edition of the Examiner of Monday May 9th, under "Main Street Topics," was an article under the heading, "What Is it". The coin in question, which Ald. Robert Cotton has in his possession is a so called half-penny token of Lower Canada or the Province of Quebec. These coins belong to the older currency; on many of them the name of "Sou" is retained, while many have the half-penny or penny title only. These were issued Provincial and Trader's Tokens, all of the "Sou" or half-penny denominations, then the "Ships, Colonies, Commerce and miscellaneous tokens under which class Mr. Cotton's coin belongs. These coins were exported in quantity from England for use in Canada until 1841, when the regal coinage founded on the decimal system was adopted. The afore-mentioned tokens were issued in the years 1813, 1814, and 1815. There were also Trade and Navigation tokens of 1812, 1813 and 1814 with the figure of Commerce on the obverse and the legend "Pure Copper Preferable to Paper" and one Penny token on the reverse side.

EMPLOYERS MUST JOT DOWN FACTS OF HOUSE GRIND

OTTAWA, May 13 — (CP). — "Wanted: An experienced maid for moderate family, references required."

Similar advertisements appear continually in newspapers the country over, inserted by women searching in vain for a dependable, qualified girl to assist with the duties of running a household.

Such girls are available in graduates from centres established throughout Canada under the Dominion-Provincial Youth Training program. But, rather than submitting references, they are available only on satisfactory application from a prospective mistress, who must state the nature and condition of her household before consideration is given her application by the Home Service Training Centre.

Ottawa application forms require to be answered by the employer such questions as: size of family, children's ages, size of home, duties expected of worker, entertainment by employer, provisions made for overtime, hours on and off duty, wages offered to start, increases, holiday time allowed, rooms available for worker's use.

When possible two girls are recommended to each accepted applicant to provide a choice. Examination and conduct ratings obtained by the "trainee" during her 12-weeks training are shown the employer. Following the first three months' service the employer makes a follow-up report to the centre on the progress of her new charge.

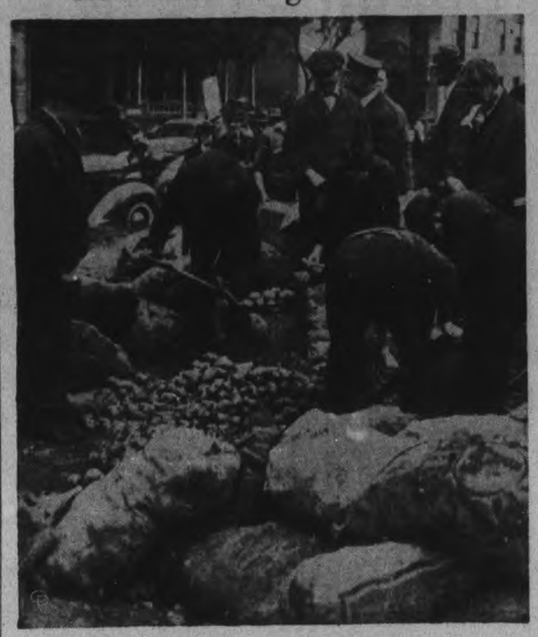
All Got Jobs

Thirty-one graduates who finished their courses in Ottawa the end of April were placed successfully in Ottawa and the outlying districts. Two of the "trainees" failed to finish the course through sudden illness and family circumstances.

Two sisters wanted to be near their mother, who was ill in Brockville, and they were placed in homes close by. One girl became cook and another assistant cook at the Young Women's Christian Association; another girl was placed in the lap of luxury in Ottawa's residential district, with a radio and library in her bed-sitting room. Her particular chum from the centre was placed in a home two blocks distant.

Leaving the centre to assume her new position each girl was sent to her placement in a taxi. The directress believed this a wise idea in that it gave the girl more assurance and poise on arrival at her employer's home. Too, it will start a precedent, she thinks, and the girls will try and save enough money for these extras, thus keep up their morale and make them look up rather than down on the position of the household helper.

Cleveland Facing Relief Crisis



With nearly one-quarter of the entire population of 1,200,000 on full or partial relief, Cleveland is facing a serious crisis following the shortage of funds. It is feared that serious riots may occur if outside help is not obtained for the relief recipients, many of whom have been on scanty rations for several days. Emergency relief stations have been established in an attempt to cope with the long lines of reliefees and ABOVE is shown one of these stations distributing potatoes.

Babe In Woods

NO LEGAL SWEEPS SAYS PRESBYTERY

LINDSAY, May 13.—At a meeting of the Lindsay Presbytery of the United Church at Fenelon Falls yesterday, Rev. M. Wallace, Greenbank, was elected chairman, succeeding Rev. J. J. Black, Lindsay. Mr. Wallace was also elected as a representative to the Settlement Committee of the Bay of Quinte Conference, which meets in Napanee in June.

Presbytery went on record as disapproving the action of the Ontario Legislature in requesting the Dominion Parliament to legalize sweepstakes.

H. S. Johnston and Dr. J. W. Henderson, Lindsay, were elected Presbytery delegates to the annual Conference. Dr. Henderson was also elected as representative to the General Council of the Church in Toronto in September.

The following clergymen requested a change in pastoral relations: Rev. James Leach, Bobcaygeon; Rev. T. Wilkinson, Dunsford; and Rev. W. Lovelace, Manilla.

Knox Hostess

A very enjoyable "Hostess Tea" was conducted by the members of the Ladies' Aid of Knox Presbyterian Church, on Wednesday afternoon, in the church basement. The tea was very well attended and proved a decided success.

The basement was very prettily decorated for the occasion with apple blossoms and spring flowers. Mrs. Avery, Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Watson acted as a reception committee. Tea was poured by Mrs. W. Yuill and Mrs. J. Armstrong. The nine tea tables were in charge of the following hostesses: Mrs. Wm. McLaughlin, Mrs. Jos. Hoffman, Mrs. H. T. Mathison, Mrs. P. Colquhoun, Mrs. R. Buchanan, Mrs. Wm. Copp, Mrs. T. Wannamaker, Mrs. G. Rutherford and Mrs. J. Hunter. The remainder of the members assisted in serving and looked after the refreshments.

One corner of the basement was made to resemble a sitting room and here the guests following their tea were able to spend a social afternoon.

DAUBER HOLDS FAVORED SPOT FOR PREAKNESS

BALTIMORE, Md., May 13.—Although counted out of the three-year-old championship picture after their dismal showing in the Kentucky Derby, Fighting Fox and Bull Lea last night remained big question marks in Saturday's running of the $70,000 Preakness at Pimlico.

Both horses failed to run to their best performances in the Derby and that's what worried the experts and railbirds alike as the probable field for the classic was increased to ten with the addition of Hal Price Headley's Dah He.

With The Fox, sixth in the Derby in the role of the 75 to 5 favorite, turn in another such race as carried him to victory in the Wood Memorial? Is Bull Lea, second Derby choice and eighth at the finish, still the same sharp horse that hung up two track records at Keeneland?

May Make Difference

The Fox, wearing blinkers for the first time, indicated he was on his toes when he worked a mile in 1:40 Wednesday.

"Maybe blinkers is just what he needs," said Trainer James Fitzsimmons. "Gallant Fox (a full brother) wore them and so did Omaha, another of the same family." They both won the Derby and Preakness.

Frank Kearns, trainer of Bull Lea, worked Warren Wright's ace seven-eighths of a mile in 1.29 3-5 this morning.

"I only asked him to really run the last eighth and he did that in 12 1-5 seconds," said Kearns. "Unless he is bothered, as he was at the start of the Derby, he'll have no excuse Saturday."

Regardless of the fine trial spins of the Fox and Bull Lea, Dauber from William Dupont Jr's Foxcatcher Farm still remained the favorite as the result of his fast closing second back of Lawrin in the Derby. He may go postward at 5:45 p.m. (EDT) as short as 2 to 1 in the mutuel machines. The Foxcatcher colt, out for his last extended trial yesterday morning, worked 1⅛ mile in 1:56 2-5.

Tommy Taylor also had Myron Selznick's Can't Wait, third in the Derby and second choice at 7 to 2, on the track for a slow six furlongs in 1:20. Taylor announced he had secured George Woolf of Cardston, Alta., to pilot.

If Dah He accompanies Hal Price Headley's fleet Menow to the post, he'll have Charley Kurtsinger in the saddle with Raymond (Sonny) Workman again astride the stable's No. 1 hope.

Anaflame, a filly, will be entered as a running mate for the Fox, but whether she'll start will not be decided until Saturday morning. A. C. Compton's Sun Egret, Ral Parr's Hypocrite, and Townsend B. Martin's Cravat, all outsiders, complete the probable field.

Max Loves The Little Birds

"His soft hands caressed the pretty little bird gently as he whispered sweet words in its ear." These words might apply to the picture ABOVE, but one night this June they'll be talking about the same person only using phrases like "iron fists crashing with devastating force, etc., etc." Anyway, it's Max Schmeling making friends with a pigeon as he arrived in New York to begin training for his June tilt wth champion Joe Louis.

Willie Klein Slices Stroke From Par In Metropolitan

Hines, Guldahl And Horton Smith Bunched Behind Pace-Setter

NEW YORK, May 13.—(AP)—Willie Klein, 36-year-old pro from East Williston, N.Y., sliced one stroke off par with a 69 over the Fresh Meadow Country Club Thursday to gain a one-stroke first-round margin over the strongest field the Metropolitan open golf championship has drawn in years.

Closest to Klein, at par 70, was a threesome including defending champion Jimmy Hines, United States open champion Ralph Guldahl and Horton Smith, lanky putting star from Chicago.

Another shot back, at 71, came Lawson Little, former Canadian open and United States and British amateur champion; Frank Moore, like Klein, a local "dark horse," and Walter Kozak, entered from Bayside.

Other potential contenders in the starting squad of 104 were scattered all the way from 72 up to 77. Ted Turner of Clementon, N.J., stood at the former figure; young Ben Hogan of Texas and White Plains, N.Y., at 73 together with Tony Penna of Dayton, O.; Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W.Va., alone at 74; Vic Ghezzi and Paul Runyan at 75; Harry Cooper, Jimmy Thomson, Frank Walsh and amateur Frank Strafaci at 76, and veterans "Long Jim" Barnes and Willie MacFarlane, together with amateur Dick Chapman, at 77.

Klein's 69 easily might have been a 66. Willie shot six birdies, but also three-putted three holes on the back nine. From tee to green he was in trouble only twice, while he dropped stroke-saving putts ranging from one to fifteen feet.

Of the three 70-shooters, Hines's round was the most remarkable. Hard-hitting Jimmy, out in 33, two under par, seemed to have lost the leaders when he took eight blows on the par-four eleventh, where his approach caromed off a tree into a fence and he finally got on in six. What saved him was the fact he was three under at the time, and able to pick up one birdie and six pars the rest of the way.

Guldahl, who missed six of the first nine greens, "had to be a sculptor to get his 70." "I've never seen such carving," in the words of Cooper, who played with the national champion.

TRIPLET FATALLY HURT

BROCKVILLE, Ont., May 13. — (CP).—Robert Gartshore, aged four, one of triplets, died in hospital here last night as a result of injuries received four hours earlier when he was struck by a car at Prescott.

The car was said to have been driven by George Bradley, of the township of Augusta, it was expected an inquest would be held.

TRADE IN YOUR CLUBS

A new season means a new set of clubs to many players. And a new set of clubs means that the cost must be considered seriously by most of the buyers. The better grade clubs are not to be picked up like shaving cream or current novels, the price being something to frighten any budget.

Those selling the new clubs have very wisely set up an arrangement whereby the careful buyer can acquire the most up-to-date set at a reasonable figure. The arrangement followed by some manufacturers and many individuals is much the same as that followed by automobile dealers. You can trade in your old clubs for a nallowance on your purchase of a new set. As a rule fairly liberal allowances are made for clubs that are in good condition, so the more modern clubs do not represent too great an outlay of cash.

Now that this trade-in practice has begun, I suppose the next step will be the buying of golf merchandise on the instalment plan. But, as I think of it, I wonder if golf clubs can be handled like vacuum cleaners. Before the third payment has been made, the player may throw the clubs into a lake and tell the salesman to dive in after them.

If you have a hankering for the new 1938 clubs, ask your pro about a trade-in deal.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC PERDUE

A NOTE from Norm Bowler, promoter of the Riverview A.C. fight card here May 30th, the other day said: "Len Minicola seems real serious about quitting the game altogether and will definitely not fight on this card.' For which we are sorry. Not that it will hurt the show any, but local boxing in general will suffer a loss if Len—or Ned, as he is often called—hangs up his gloves for good. Minicola has been an important figure in the roped arena here for quite a few years, and he has been a popular pugilist all the way through. We can recall him back some 14 or 15 years ago when, as a kid, he was belting it out with Jack McDonough and others in the old Victoria Hall, with George Graham the referee. He is not old but is decidedly a veteran in the boxing game.

* * * * * * *

WE ALWAYS HATE to see a fighter drop out of any sport, and Ned was always a fighter. Just a lightweight, he couldn't for years find anyone in Peterborough or district to stand in there against him. So he went to Toronto and held his own in many bouts. And in recent years, he has been meeting Toronto ace leather-pushers whenever he fought. And winning as many bouts as he lost against them. We still recall his surprise kayo of Frankie Pigeon several years ago in the Brock. And in his two battles this year with Genovese, he was outboxed but neither outgamed nor out-punched. He could have blasted his rival to sleep at anytime, except that the Toronto flash wasn't giving him the chance to land a solid smack. Ned has always been a game, rugged, cool scrapper, who never fought dirty and never lost his temper. A local credit to the sour science.

* * * * * * *

RIVERVIEW CLUB has some good local talent lined up for the next card, an outdoor one at the lacrosse arena. Nick Orlando is in the main spot, the ex-Montreal mauler tackling a Toronto gee. Dutch McIlmoyle is in the semi-final against Queen City opposition. Joe Hobbins and Bill Joiner face Toronto toreadors, too, in prelims. Three all-local bouts see such mittsters in action as Roy Prince, Mal Packenham, Buddy Redmond, Hal Jones, Bert Prince and Don Batley. Referee Jim Simpson of Toronto will be third man in the ring. Two Toronto matmen dish up some rasslin' in this show also.

* * * * * * *

GOING by the schedule run yesterday, we see where the gal softballers have the Bowl mostly on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Which leaves the men's games on Mondays, Thursdays and Saturdays. The lasses open next Friday in Lindsay and here May 25th with C.G.E. playing Westclox. First game in Keene is May 30th when the Armour Hill maidens journey there. The executive has reappointed the same umpires, groundskeeper and scoreboy as last year. So Messrs. Batley and Bennett will do the guessing again in the girls' circuit. One Cliff Smith of the southend has been named substitute umps in case one of the regular arbiters can't make it. They run a single schedule in the first half, followed by playoffs, and a double bill in the second half—if they figure they have time.

ON MAY 24TH, the Lakeshore Junior Baseball League opens with Oshawa at Bowmanville—our gang not starting till the 28th. The Oshawa kids will trot out a 14-carat crew and they may be tougher to take than castor oil. Moose Matthews, husky senior star, has been taking an active interest in the boys and expects to field a nifty club. Several of the aces who were recently in Canadian junior hockey headlines will be out with this team, including Billy Taylor and Bobby Forster. What, you haven't heard of 'em? How fame is forgotten!

HERB RALPH'S local juniors will have an exhibition affair, if the weather thaws and dries some, against the seniors tomorrow aft at three in Riverside. The boys don't have their first home game till June 1st, but they're practicing regularly now. Herb should line up a potent pack. He has Lefty Condon, Gee Clark and Bob Todd as hurlers with Gerrard catching. And McNabb has caught, also. Looks like Castle will be on first, McNabb on second, Stanley at short (Owen Sound keystone combination) and Berwick at the hot corner. Edmunds, Kelly and McCormick are available for outfield duty, including the idle pitchers. Crowe, Hollingsworth in the infield and Curtin in the garden are also good prospects. Maybe a few more as well. There is a heap of good diamond talent tied up in this team, and maybe the Oshawa lads will have to be stronger than castor oil flavored with horseradish to cop the duke over the Liftlockers!

HEWITT SMITH, former scrappy third baseman of the Kingston Ponies—Ash will recall how he used to tramp on Fred's toes every time he came down to first—lives in Ottawa now. But he is as lonesome as the sound of a train whistle in the night, his heart being back with the Kingston ballsters. In fact, he came up here a couple of times last year to see his buddies beat the Petes and took over the managerial reins for the day when Joe got the gate by an angry umpire. However, what we started out to say was that Smith recently wrote the Limestone City sheet and suggested that a "Joe Daley Day" be run some time during the summer as a token of appreciation for the former noted Kingston coach. Hewitt praises Joe highly and hopes he'll be back in the C.O.B.L. wars again, meantime wishing Bob Elliott—Smith's successor at third and Joe's successor as coach—much success.

SAYS HE, in part: "Many a time I felt sorry for Joe, especially those hot Saturday afternoons in Peterborough or Oshawa. Joe would be up there full of fight even if he didn't have his night's sleep, and how he did it was always a mystery to me. About 10 years ago I can remember saying to Bernie Tetro, 'Boy, I hope I never have to play ball for that Joe Daley,' but I have eaten those words plenty since that day. He used to frighten me, and I am sure I cannot tell you why, because he is a grand guy. He always knew how to give you that necessary fight, even if he had to promote one himself with Knotty Lee or Shiner Johnston, but still it used to work wonders and many a time we pulled one out of the fire after some people had left the park." A neat tribute, eh?

Canadians Take Part In Trapshooting Tourney

Heres How To Step Into The Ball For Base Hits

By Lloyd A. Percival

Continuing to-day with tips on batting we come to the task of "stepping into the ball." This consists of advancing the forward foot and so widening the spread, at the same time throwing the body balance towards the oncoming ball and carrying the bat back to the position from which it starts its swing. Just as a pitcher winds up, so does a batter.

The "stepping in" must be varied slightly according to the position of the ball as it crosses the plate. For instance, if the pitch is inside, a right-handed batter, to avoid crowding the ball, must pull his step in toward the third base. If the pitch is outside he will step in so that the direction of his swing will be toward second base.

Finesse, Not Ferocity.

Don't put too much effort into the swing. It should owe its power to rhythm, timing and smooth follow-through, not to ferocity. It's the former that add distance to your hits.

Don't be impatient to hit. Take your time and study the pitcher. Make him work on you and don't go reaching for bad pitches. He is just as anxious as you, so make him lay them in. Don't beat yourself by being over-eager.

Bunting.

In bunting, the position of a left-hander is definitely superior. For him, tapping the ball and getting into stride are almost one action, and frequently he will be well on his way before the ball strikes the ground.

If you are nervous at the plate, don't let the pitcher or catcher suspect it. Don't shift your feet about or swing your bat back and forth. Take your stance, keep your eyes on the pitcher until he delivers the ball, and concentrate on what you're there to do. Pulling away from the ball and reaching for bad pitches are easily-detected signs of nervousness. Both indicate you are not watching the ball.

Don't try to be a hero by attempting to slam out home runs when all that's needed is a single. Make the pitcher put it over the plate. Be on the offensive every minute, but keep cool, and remember a pass is often as good as a hit and a whole lot better than three strikes.

Lyon Passes

Winner of more golf championships than any other Canadian, George S. Lyon, grand old man of the links, died in Toronto in his 80th year. Among the titles he took were the Canadian amateur eight times, Canadian senior 10 times, and North American senior, four times. This picture of Mr. Lyon was taken last July as he celebrated his 79th birthday.

Will Retire From Pro Hockey Ranks

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., May 13 (CP).—Cliff Barton, Port Arthur bred winger of Philadelphia Ramblers, has announced he will retire from professional hockey.

The star left-winger of the high-scoring Jimmy Creighton-Bud Jarvis-Barton line that led Port Arthur to an Allan Cup victory in 1929, has been playing in professional ranks for nine years.

He is in fine physical condition but figures the time has come to look to the future when he must depend upon something besides hockey for a livelihood. "I have a good job now and I'm perfectly satisfied to stay here and settle down," he said.

Barton, who is now 31, feels there is now little chance of his getting into the big time as Lester Patrick, head man of the New York Rangers' farm system, of which Ramblers are a part, is after young players.

He would like to go back to amateur hockey and turn out with the Bear Cats next fall, but the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association rule requiring that a professional must be out of hockey for three consecutive years before being reinstated prevents.

He finished well up in the point scoring last season with a total well over the 30 mark.

FIGHTER WINS JAMAICA SPRINT

BELMONT PARK, N.Y., May 13 (AP)—Another overnight attack of rain left the racing strip deep in mud for Thursday's card, with the result that the fields were small. The featured Delhi Handicap, in which three horses of the class "B" variety covered six furlongs of the main track, saw the second 4 to 5 shot in a row winding up third. This was G. D. Widener's Grass Cutter. W. F. Morgan's The Fighter, a two-time winner at Jamaica, took the honors by four length, while Mrs. E. Graham Lewis's Little Miracle held a like margin over the choice.

In the previous event, Bonnie Vixen met a similar fate in a four-horse race. The Fighter was a 13 to 5 second choice, while Little Miracle closed at 3 to 1. The time was 1:13 3-5.

Grass Cutter, four straight losing favorite of the day, recently finished a splendid second to Caballero 2nd at the Jamaica meeting, and it was thought that the black colt would benefit by mud. However, the son of Sickle trailed virtually from the start and never was a menace. The Fighter dashed right to the front and, nursed along by "Buddy" Haas, never left the result in doubt. Little Miracle, a daughter of Bud Lerner, showed good speed while outrunning Grass Cutter by a wide margin. Miyako was scratched.

FELLER HALTS YANKS' WIN STREAK—WHIFFS NINE CHAMPIONS

Bob Feller Greatly Improved Over Last Year's Deliveries Better Than The Old Timers?

Ace Mound Work And Unearned Runs Give Indians 3-2 Victory

NEW YORK, May 13 (CP).—Lou Gehrig's dimples broke through a rueful smile. He had just finished fanning for the second time against Bobby Feller's dipsy-do's.

"Boy," he said, "anybody's going to be plenty lucky to get a hit off that kid this year."

It didn't matter that Rawhide Lou stepped up to the plate a few minutes later and blasted one of Bobby's fast balls out of the lot for two runs; nor did it matter much that Bobby, in taking a 3-2 decision from the world champion Yankees yesterday, was lucky in being presented with a pair of unearned runs, which allowed Cleveland Indians to finish on top.

What did matter was that the right-arm rifle from "Ioway" is so far improved over last year that he looks like two other fellows. His fast ball, which they've called the hottest thing since Walter Johnson was whistling 'em around American League ears, is still a fancy dido that comes up to the plate with a hop that might take your chin off if you're standing in close. Added to that is a brand new curve that breaks across the platter like a hot knife slicing through butter.

Can Be of the Best.

With that equipment, and given a little more time to cure a youngster's natural nervousness and to eliminate a nasty little habit of getting feverish with runners on base, this 19-year-old feller Feller is going to make the folks forget a lot of "names" of years gone by.

A lot of the credit, as has been whispered before, goes to rollicking Rollie Hemsley, who, for all his playboyishness, is improving the kid more every time out. Rollie knows American League batters, and, when he's working, is up near the top in handling pitchers.

Ruin Gomez's Work.

The most peculiar thing about Bobby's duel with Lefty Gomez, however, wasn't so much the fact that he allowed only five hits, fanned nine and walked only three. It was that Joe DiMaggio and belting Bill Dickey, who are great defensive ball players anytime, and greatest "in the clutch," came apart in just that spot. Each fumbled an easy one in the sixth inning to ruin Gomez's neat four-hit job of flinging and set up two of the Tribe's three tallies.

That defeat, coupled with the 7-6 beating Washington's upsetting Senators handed Detroit Tigers, dropped the Yankees out of first place in the American League, after a one-day stay, and boosted the Nats back to the top.

Like the American League, the National presented a rain-and-cold curtailed program of two games, with Chicago Cubs' "noble experiment" batting order trouncing Brooklyns 9-5, and Cincinnati Reds blanking Casey Stengel's stingless Bees 4-0.

BEARS WILL ADD HURLING POWER FROM THE YANKS

TORONTO, May 13 (CP)—Comes May 23 and there'll be plenty of reason for joy as well as grief in the International Baseball League.

That's the day when the major league clubs will have cut down their rosters to the 23 players limit, and the managers of the circuit are keeping an anxious eye fixed in the direction of their parent clubs.

The pilots had a whole day to engage in some wishful waiting yesterday as inclement weather caused the postponement of all games. But Sunny Jim Bottomley, the usually genial master-mind of Syracuse Chiefs who's been anything but sunny lately, had something to make him a little happier.

Cincinnati Reds dropped Charley (Red) Barrett in his lap to aid his pitching staff, and Bottomley with a cellar club on his hands, is hoping for more of the same later. Barrett, a 23-year-old righthander, won 24 games and lost 12 for Muskogee of the Western Association last year and is considered a year away from the big show.

The chief headache as far as seven of the International managers are concerned, is that Newark Bears, already far in front in the pennant race, are certain to get some fine prospects themselves. New York Yankees are carrying four more pitchers now than they will a few weeks hence and the Bears, who are weakest in the hurling department, are counting on getting two of them.

Two of the Yankee flingers who are mentioned as likely to go to Newark are Atley Donald and Steve Sundra. That pair won 34 and lost but six games between them last season, and if they come back it looks like the flag race is going to be 1937 all over again.

OLD CRICKETER DIES

LEEDS, England—(CP).—William Mitchell, professional cricketer, who played several years with East Lancashire, the Blackburn club, died at his home here, aged 62.

A Nifty Dresser Is Tonypandy Thomas

Quite a fashion plate is Tommy Farr, LEFT, British heavyweight, seen as he leaned on the rail of the Normandie, prior to sailing for home in Wales. Shaking hands with him is James J. Braddock, who defeated him in one of his bouts in United States. Between them is Joe Gould former manager of Braddock and now guiding the destinies of Farr—at least at the time of writing. Very unpredictable is Thomas who may fight in Toronto this summer against Maurice Strickland, New Zealand youngster.

CHARLEY GRIMM HAS MUCH PRAISE FOR THE GIANTS

CHICAGO, May 13.—(AP)—Manager Charley Grimm of Chicago Cubs paid tribute today to New York Giants as a fine baseball club and then, in the same breath, added somewhat hopefully that "something has to happen to them pretty soon if we're ever going to catch them."

While nothing more exciting than regularity has been happening to the National League-leading Terrymen, everything has been happening to the second-place Cubs, and all of it has been mad.

The pitching staff has cracked almost wide open, and Bill Lee, counted on as a starter, has been retired for a rest. Dizzy Dean was purchased for $185,000, received credit for there victories and then was laid off with a sore arm.

Joe Marty, whose slugging has kept the Cubs from falling further off the pace than they have, is out with a cold. Frank Demaree, supposedly the team's most consistent hitter, has been benched for failing to hit into anything but double-plays, and his clean-up spot in the batting order taken over by old Tony Lazzeri. On top of all this, Catcher Gabby Hartnett has been trouble dwith a sore arm.

"Our losing two straight to the Giants and then being shut out by Brooklyn yesterday was just the result of one of those things that will happen to a team, with things all going wrong at one time," Grimm said. "The Giants have a fine ball club, and they'll have to ease up that hot pace they're setting if we are to catch them. I think they will, and I know we'll get into our stride soon."

To Quit Playing Ball For Hockey

WINNIPEG, May 13 (CP).—Outstanding first baseman in the Northern Professional Baseball League and a star defenceman with Philadelphia Ramblers of the International-American League, Hughie Gustafson of Winnipeg will give up a career on the diamond in favor of Canada's national game.

He trained with Winnipeg Maroons of the Northern League at St. Paul, Minn., and just before the baseball schedule got underway he announced the 1938 ball campaign would be his last.

"I figure my future in hockey is more secure," Gustafson said. "There are so many more ball players than hockey players and I've got a long road to trek before I reach the majors in baseball.

"On the other hand, I'm just one step from the National Hockey League, and figure it won't be long before I'm in the big show. As much as I love baseball, hockey looks like my best bet."

Italy's colonies are buying much more from Italy than they are selling to it.

DON BUDGE AFTER FRENCH NET TITLE

NEW YORK, May 13 (AP).—Don Budge, who is practically a kleptomaniac where tennis titles are concerned, is in town with the world's foremost tennis armament and an eye on the French tennis title.

Don has won the British, United States and Australian singles championships since July 2, 1937. He would like to add the French crown to his loot and thus become the only player in history to hold all four titles at one time.

Besides being a triple champion, Budge is the mainspring of the defending United States Davis Cup team. The trophy is not often out of his thoughts, for one of the first things he did when he arrived in company with Gene Mako was to predict that Sidney B. Wood, Jr., would make a strong bid for a berth on the Cup team.

"Wood is playing awfully good tennis," said Budge who has practiced with Wood on the coast and watched him in several tournaments.

Noel MacDonald Leads Grads To Win

EDMONTON, May 13 (CP).—Led by Noel MacDonald, who scored 19 points, Edmonton Grads defeated Chicago All-Stars 42-26 here last night in the second game of the best-of-five series for the Underwood International Women's Basketball Trophy. Grads also won the first game, 40-33, and third encounter will be played here tomorrow.

The tall centre, returning to the form of two years ago that resulted in many ranking her at the top of the basketball heap individually, tossed 11 points in the first half and added eight more in the second.

Johnson Released To Rochester Club

ST. LOUIS, May 13.—(AP)—The outright release of Si Johnson, right-handed hurler, to the Rochester club of the International League, a farm, was announced Thursday by the St. Louis Cardinals. Johnson has been with the Red Birds since July, 1936, when he was obtained from Toronto Maple Leafs.

SPEEDY TRIAL BY CABIN GAL

TORONTO, May 13. — It was Cabin Gal, which will fly the blue and white silks with red stars of Harry Giddings in this year's King's Plate, that put on the show for the railbirds at Woodbine Park on Thursday morning.

The three-year-old daughter of Marine-Calm worked a mile in the fastest time yet recorded by any King's Plate eligible this spring at Woodbine Park.

Working Alone, Cabin Gal worked the eight furlongs in the following fractions: .24 for the quarters, .50 for the half, three-quarters in 1.16 1-5, and the mile in 1.43 3-5, galloping out the full Plate distance in 1.58 3-5 for the mile and an eighth.

Bunty Lawless also caused much favorable comment due to the easy manner in which the son of Ladder-Mintwina worked a mile. With Green Iris as a running mate going only part of the way, the Morrissey-owned colorbearer skimmed around the oval in 1.46 3-5, anxious to run at the finish.

The fractions of the Bunty Lawless trial were as follows: .25 4-5, 51 2-5, 1.18 3-5, 1.46 2-5, cantering out the Plate distance in 2.02.

The four George M. Hendrie King's Plate candidates were breezed, but showed nothing sensational in their trials. Storm Drum, Horus and Rockbound went three-quarters in 1.19 2-5. Grand Dame, running with Stormblown, went the same distance in 1.17. The Hendrie candidates looked as if they could have travelled much faster if Trainer Harry McDonald had so wished.

Skyros, the Mrs. H. Talbot candidate, was also worked a mile in 1.48 4-5, being accompanied part of the way by Pearl Tipped from the same stable. Other King's Plate candidates to show a little speed were Tabmark and Tabhim, from the Jim Fair Stable. They were worked a mile in 1.47 flat.

HOGS REGAIN LOSS AND CATTLE GO UP ON WEEKLY MART

TORONTO, May 13 — (CP). — Cattle prices gained 15 to 25 cents Wednesday after a steady opening on Toronto Livestock Market this week, the Dominion Livestock Branch reported. The close was draggy with some of the advance lost. Calves were generally unchanged. Hogs recovered most of an early loss of 25 cents cwt. Sheep and lambs were 50 cents higher.

Overseas exporters took only 450 steers, but Toronto demand was good enough to keep prices steady at the start. The mid-week improvements came on a short run of butcher cattle and cows.

Weighty steers sold at $5.50 for common up to $7 for choice lots. Butcher steers and heifers of good quality traded at $6.35 to $6.75 with common as low as $5.25. Buter cows ranged from $3.75 to $5.50, and canners and cutters from $2.50 to $3.50. Good butcher bulls were $4.35 to $5.25, and bolognas $4 to $4.25. Fed calves brought $6 to $7.75, with odd tops at $8.

Small lots of stockers made $4.50 to $5.25 cwt. for common to medium quality. Milkers and springers remained dull at $70 for tested tops.

Vealers Close at $8.50.

Calves eased slightly after a firm start to close about unchanged. Choice vealers moved at $8 to $8.50 with common downward to $4.

Hogs opened at $9.75 to $9.85 but came back to $10 Tuesday and held at that figure. The Toronto market would have been lower except for the re-shipment of 1,000 hogs to Montreal. Sows were $6 to $6.50 off trucks.

Lamb receipts included 800 from the west. Good western feed-lot lambs brought $11 cwt. With some Ontario animals at $7 to $10.75 cwt. sheep ranged from $2 to $6 cwt. according to quality. Spring lambs sold generally at $5 to $10 each with a few tops reaching $11.

HOWE UNDER FIRE

A. M. Shaw of the Department of Agriculture were heard several times during discussion of the agriculture estimates.

After the report had been widely distributed, Mark Senn (Con., Haldimand) said it had been "suppressed and distribution cancelled." Another report was recently put out differing widely from the original. This was a "rather unusual procedure," Mr. Senn thought.

Mr. Gardiner said about 6,000 copies of the original Shaw report had been published and 5,000 distributed. It was not suppressed. Later a booklet was published containing those recommendations of the report which the Department intended to carry out, and this was distributed to the general public. Copies of the original were available to any member desiring them.

W. Earl Rowe (Con., Dufferin-Simcoe) thought the procedure with respect to the Shaw report was unusual, and required more information than the Minister had given. He proceeded to compare, page by page, the new edition with the original.

Just An Advertisement?

Matter had been written into the new booklet, Mr. Rowe said, that had not been a part of the original report and he suggested they had been placed there for political purposes as "more or less an advertisement of the Government's virtues."

Claiming the present Government was taking credit to itself for improved markets gained by the Empire agreements negotiated by the Conservative Government in 1932, Mr. Rowe criticized Government policy on the ground too many agricultural products were imported. He urged greater efforts to improve the condition of farmers.

Mr. Rowe said subsidies were paid on iron and steel production and bonuses and subventions on other activities. He believed some such assistance should be given the farmers. He suggested greater assistance to the establishment of cold storage plants where needed.

Gordon Graydon (Con. Peel) and Denton Massey (Con. Toronto-Greenwood) urged that something be done to assist marketing of Ontario vegetables. William Hayhurst (S.C. Vegreville) told the minister that droughts in the United Kingdom and Northern Europe made this the psychological time to expand markets there.

Collect Only By Fear.

During the radio debate Mr. Howe said only the fear of prosecution enabled the Department to collect radio licence fees to the extent it was doing at present. Collections were still far from 100 per cent. Since 1932 it has been the custom to issue search warrants to enable collectors to obtain evidence.

"This collection of radio fees is most difficult," the minister said. "It causes more complaint and upset than anything else in the Department. But after ten years of diligent search we have found no other practical way of collecting this fee."

Mr. Lawson presented the picture of issuing a search warrant to ascertain whether a man kept a dog without a licence. Any Parliament "would be laughed to scorn" if it passed such legislation.

"There is a terrible tendency in Legislatures and Parliaments generally in this country to-day to go on curtailing and interfering with what we have always regarded as the inherent right of a British subject, namely that his home is his castle.'"

Mr. Howe said that a large percentage of those questioned as to whether they had radios told collectors to mind their own business.

If that were true, Mr. Lawson replied, "nothing could be a clearer indication of the feeling of the people in connection with this whole business of radio licences. I would ask the Minister to bear in mind that neither this Government nor any other Government on earth can maintain and enforce a law which has not behind it the great weight of public opinion.

U.S. RADIO STATION TO FIGHT FASCISTS

WASHINGTON, May 13 (A.P.).—The House of Representatives Naval Committee made public reports today showing President Roosevelt had approved construction of a proposed United States Government radio station designed in part as an "antidote" for Fascist and Communist broadcasts to South America.

Chairman Vinson (Dem.-Georgia) said the committee would begin public hearings on Monday on a bill to authorize a high-powered station in Washington. A Senate sub-committee heard proponents yesterday of a measure to set up a station near San Diego, Calif.

It would be operated under a co-operative arrangement between the Navy and Interior Departments, both of which have approved the proposal.

Representative Cellar (Dem.—New York), author of the House legislation, suggested the station be powerful enough to transmit programs to all parts of the world. It would be used primarily, however, for high-frequency broadcasts of "good-will" programs to all countries in the Pan-American Union.

Although Cellar suggested an appropriation of $700,000 to erect the station, the Navy Department estimated it would cost $1,200,000. The Department also said the annual maintenance would cost $160,000 instead of $100,000, as Celler figured.

CADI REGISTERS CONVICTION IN WHEELER CASE

Joseph Wheeler, former city policeman, was convicted by Magistrate Campbell in police court this morning of having created a disturbance on Stewart street and was fined $10 and costs, amounting to $14.

Emmett Sheehy, who defended Wheeler, announced that he would enter an appeal.

In giving his judgment Magistrate Campbell said that the whole disturbance that took place on the Sunday morning in question had been caused by Wheeler's action in going across the street to Spargo's car, opening the car door and starting an argument with the complainant. If he had not done that there would have been no disturbance.

"The whole circumstances," remarked the Magistrate, "show a wrong disposition on Wheeler's part."

It was unfortunate that the whole thing had happened and was more than unfortunate that the case dealt with a defendant who for more than fifteen years had been a police constable and might be expected to give an example in sane decency. Such men, he said, should be lawmakers and not law-breakers.

Filthy Language.

Referring to language alleged to have been used by the defendant, Magistrate Campbell said that defense counsel argued that it was not swearing because it did not take the Lord's name in vain. The Magistrate declared that in his opinion, one of the expressions allegedly used was the lowest and filthiest language that could be used and it was not the kind of language to expect from a former constable.

Magistrate Campbell stressed the fact that the disturbance complained of had occurred at 1.30 o'clock on a Sunday morning and in a residential neighborhood.

When the case was resumed this morning the Magistrate promptly denied the defence's request for a dismisal whereupon Mr. Sheehy called Wheeler into the box to give evidence on his own behalf.

The defendant said that he had been walking down Stewart street and had seen Williamson and Spargo sitting in a car. He had reason to think that Spargo had done his harm in regard to his job on the police force so he went across to him. He denied opening the door of the car, saying Spargo had opened it. There had been an argument for a few minutes and then the two had shaken hands. He said there had been no screaming and that he had not attempted to lay hands on Spargo.

Had Not Been Drinking

"Did you do any swearing?" asked Mr. Sheehy.

'I did not take God's name in vain," replied the defendant. Wheeler declared that he was not intoxicated and said that he had not been drinking.

"Is that the ordinary custom in the police department when disputes of this kind have been apparently ended by disputants shaking hands, to swear out an information afterward?" asked defence counsel.

"I never saw an information laid like this in the whole time I was on the job," returned Wheeler.

Asked what he was doing on Stewart street on that occasion defendant said there was some information he wanted to collect and he was collecting it.

"For your case in regard to your position on the police force?"

"No, for the Attorney-General's Department in Toronto," replied the former policeman.

In his argument Mr. Sheehy said that a conviction would be a serious matter for the defendant and he submitted that the charge against him had not been proven. Particularly it had not been shown that he interfered with or impeded more than one passenger, and he insisted that the judgment in the Allen case set forth that more than one should be interfered with to constitute an offense.

Crown Attorney McElderry argued that the whole trouble had been caused by Wheeler's action in going oved to the car in which Spargo was and starting an argument.

GEORGE BULLEN IS BURIED SIX HOURS LAKESHORE MINE

KIRKLAND LAKE, Ont., May 13. —"We're sure lucky we're alive," said Gorge Bullen from his hospital bed after being buried for over six hours under tons of rocks in the Lakeshore Mine when the stope in which he and his companion, Peter West, were working caved in on them.

"My head was squeezed between two rocks and I couldn't move. It's lucky the timbers wedged us in and were crosed over our heads and stopped the rock from crushing us. I had to keep my hand over my mouth to stop the muck and dust from choking me," said Bullen, as he recounted his experience.

Blasting Stopped.

"When I tried to move George would swear at me and when he tried to move I'd swear at him. We were afraid that when they began to blast at the Teck-Hughes mine we'd be finished," explained West, when a reporter told him that when their predicament was discovered the mine officials gave orders that no blasting be done anywhere in the mine and requested all the other mines in Kirkland Lake to do the same.

"They gave us some needles to put us to sleep, but they couldn't, and when they sent down some whiskey I knew we'd be all right."

Joseph Francel, the third miner who was trapped in a manway on the 2,800-foot level above the stope where the two other miners were entombed, walked home alone, though with an injured ankle after he managed to extricate himself from among broken timbers.

Grateful to Cigarette.

Francel is thankful that he has the smoking habit, otherwise he doesn't believe he would be alive to-day. He went out into the manway to get a few puffs of a cigarette and while he was out, the walls and ceilings of the stope collapsed, trapping him in the runway. Francel found his way out twenty minutes later through spaces among broken timbers and rock.

Coffee and food were sent down to Boland and West when the first party of rescuers reached them several hours after the accident. So severe was the cave-in that merchandise on shelves of Kirkland Lake stores toppled to the floor and microphones in the radio station were upset.

In discussing his narrow escape, Francel said he found himself wedged in so tight that he could hardly move. He succeeded in getting his hands free and after wiggling about, managed to get a hole made large enough for him to crawl through.

CITY'S NEEDS ARE TOLD MINISTERS IN OTTAWA VISIT

Although no definite promise of increased grants for relief were received by the deputation of the City Council that went to Ottawa on Thursday, Mayor Hamilton informed the Examiner to-day that he regarded the trip and its several interviews as fairly successful.

Mayor Hamilton was accompanied by Aldermen Wilson, Glover, Gordon and Dutton.

"We were very hospitably received by J. J. Duffus, M.P." Mayor Hamilton said, "and he spent the whole day with us in going from one department to another. It was obvious that he has the entry of all the offices and that his requests receive full consideration. The relief problem is a big one, and it has been complicated during the last six months. The Department of Labor is giving the question of future policy a great deal of thought and whether assistance is to take the form of work that will create jobs or be more direct aid has not yet been decided. However, we were assured that our request to the Department would receive sympathetic attention."

Mayor Hamilton also said that the Hon. Mr. Howe, Minister of Transport, Hon. Mr. Cardin, Minister of Public Works, Hon. Mr. Euler, Acting Postmaster-General, Hon. Ian Mackenzie, Minister of National Defence, were also interviewed in regard to certain Peterborough interests that have been before the City Council for months.

Orders Come Direct.

"In regard to orders for making munitions, we learned that this business reached Canada from firms in Great Britain who obtained the orders from the British Government," Mayor Hamilton said. "They do not come through the Department of Defence which for its own needs is not planning any extraordinary expenditure for munitions. As to housing, we were told that this scheme is operating successfully in many cities, and if it is not being taken up here to the same extent, the Department of Finance would like to know whether anything more can be done to stimulate interest in it.

COURT DISMISSES SCRIVER APPEAL

TORONTO, May 13 (CP).—Court of Appeal in a judgment, written by Mr. Justice Masten, has dismissed the appeal of Mrs. Martha Scriver, Toronto, against a judgment of Judge S. L. Smoke, Peterborough, who refused to give a declaration in her favor that she was for more than 10 years in possession of part of Lot 29, Bexley Township, on the shore of Balsam Lake. Defendant, Oliver Smith Lindsay, alleged that the acts of possession were sporadic and did not give the plaintiff title. Mr. Justice Masten agrees with this view.

The Rambling REPORTERS

WATCH YOUR STEP TODAY!

Thousands of people the country over are walking gingerly along countless streets, peering short sightedly for hidden banana peels; looking carefully up and down before crossing the roads; going around ladders; and generally obeying to the last letter the other hundred superstitions that crowd this day.

For today is the ill-reputed Friday the 13th—the only one in all 1938. If you get safely past the midnight hour tonight you won't have to worry about this date again until next year. So watch your step today.

DRIVER SUFFERS HEART ATTACK

A heart attack as he was driving west along McDonnel street shortly after 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon caused Robert Adams, real estate agent of 296 Margaret avenue to lose control of his car near the corner of Stewart street and the machine veered off the road, ran along the sidewalk for 100 feet, crossed Stewart street and ran 21 feet along the boulevard on the west side before it crashed into a fire hydrant.

Fortunately the car was not travelling very fast when the seizure hit the driver.

So far as actual injuries were concerned Mr. Adams escaped luckily, a cut over his eye being the extent, but his heart condition was serious, although he was reported as showing improvement today. Darcy Windsor, Crescent street, a passenger in the car tried to turn off the ignition when it was seen that Adams had lost control and he was the most seriously injured, receiving serious scalp lacerations and back injuries when his head struck either the top of the car or the frame of the windshield. Mrs. Wm. Wigg, Union street, who was also a passenger, escaped with a shaking up.

CHEESE FACTORIES OPENING EARLIER

Most of the cheese factories of the Peterborough district have been in operation this week, W. J. Moore, dairy instructor, told the Examiner today, and the others are preparing to open their doors and receive milk next Monday. The cheese-making season is almost two weeks ahead of last year, the volume of milk is increasing, pasturage is well advanced, and the whole industry is beginning its new year of production in very promising conditions.

"I have never seen the factories so well rigged up as they are now," Mr. Moore said. "It indicates that patrons and owners generally are taking more interest in this branch of dairying. A lot of repairs and other improvements have been made, and Trent Bridge factory has made a big overhauling of their plant, putting in a new steam engine, agitators, curd mill and so on."

LINDSAY FAVORS 2 WINTER MONTHS IN HOLIDAY BYLAW

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, May 13.—The opposition on the part of some merchants to the Wednesday half holiday in Lindsay petered out at a largely attended meeting Wednesday night when the question was finally settled. A motion received unanimous support and which will later be embodied in a bylaw to be submitted to the council declaring a half holiday during the months of June, July and August as well as the months of January and February. The discussion on a local bylaw was started when a copy of the Peterborough bylaw governing half holidays in that city was submitted to the meeting.

The death took place recently at Mercy Hospital, Buffalo of Sister Mary Theodosia, of the Sisters of Mercy, and sister of Sister St. Teresa of Mount St. Joseph, Peterborough. Deceased received her high school course at St. Joseph's Academy, Lindsay. After entering the community of the Sisters of Mercy she began her life work as teacher and obtained her M.A. at the Catholic University, Washington, D.C. Another sister of the deceased, Mother Francis Clare, of St. Joseph's Community, Peterborough, predeceased her three years ago.

Death, as a result of a fall, ended the sufferings of a well known and highly esteemed resident of Fenelon Falls this week in the person of Miss Sarah A. Patterson. The deceased resided for some time in Port Hope before taking up residence in the village ten years ago. She is survived by one sister and two brothers.

CAR IS RECOVERED AT YOUNG'S POINT

Ford Turner's automobile, stolen at noon Thursday from in front of his home at 800 Water street was found early in the afternoon on a side road near Young's Point after the thief had damaged the machine by crashing into the swing bridge below the Young's Point lock.

The stolen car had evidently been driven at a wild pace from the time it was taken because it was driven away from its parking place at five minutes to 12 o'clock and it was only a few minutes after 12 when several road workers heard the crash on the Young's Point bridge and looked up in time to see the car-thief continue on his way.

One tire had been badly damaged by the impact and a short distance past the Point, the driver turned into a side road and drove the machine into some bushes. It was apparently his intention to change tires but a moment later a mail carrier came along and it is thought the thief took fright and abandoned the machine. The carrier reported seeing the car and local police were notified.

Mr. Turner accompanied Detectives Meagher and Piercey to Young's Point where the owner recovered his car. The officers continued on as far as Burleigh Falls but found no trace of the car-thief. Mr. Turner's automobile had one fender badly bent.

Gold mined and shipped from South Africa in a recent week was valued at $1,463,626.

Friday 13th Proves Unlucky Day For A White Man And An Indian

THIS IS FRIDAY THE 13th but bad luck started Thursday for Dan Finlay of Peterborough and Percy Knott a Curve Lake Indian, when Corp. Jack Woods and Constable A. C. Gillespie of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police happened to drop into town from Lindsay and were in the vicinity of the wine store on Charlotte street just in time to have their curiosity aroused by the appearance of an Indian in the same neighborhood.

The two Mounties decided to investigate a little and when they saw Finlay come out of the store with a package and he and the Indian joined forces on Aylmer street, they took up the pursuit. Constable Gillespie following closely behind the pair.

When Brock street was reached and Knott was seen to point to a car and his white companion went over to the machine indicated and placed the package therein, the two were arrested. It was discovered that the package contained four quarts of Marquis White wine.

Today before Magistrate Campbell in police court Finlay pleaded guilty to supplying intoxicating liquor to an Indian and was fined $50 and costs or a month in jail.

Knott also pleaded guilty to illegal possession although he said the wine was not for him. He was assessed $25 and costs or a month's imprisonment.

IN ONE WORD.

Donald Kennedy of the Examiner advertising staff, left Peterborough two weeks ago for England, the mode of travelling being a cattle boat. From Campbellford he rode in the caboose of the cattle train to Montreal. It was agreed that he should send a cable announcing his arrival in the Old Land. It came this morning from Hatfield, Herts., which is a short distance from London. For brevity it could harduy be excelled, for it said just this: "Okay, Don."

PICKEREL SEASON OPENS.

The fishing season of 1937 opens on Saturday, when the catching of pickerel becomes legal. The first day of May called the trout anglers into action, but after all they are specialists as compared with the great majority who wait expectantly first for the pickerel, and then for the lunge and bass. Dealers have reported increasing activity all week, and many of the show windows have been featuring hooks and lines and an extensive range of plugs and other baits. Some of the enthusiasts will probably toss out their lines early Saturday morning along the Otonabee.

CADI REGISTERS CONVICTION IN WHEELER CASE

Joseph Wheeler, former city policeman, was convicted by Magistrate Campbell in police court this morning of having created a disturbance on Stewart street and was fined $10 and costs, amounting to $14.

Emmett Sheehy, who defended Wheeler, announced that he would enter an appeal.

In giving his judgment Magistrate Campbell said that the whole disturbance that took place on the Sunday morning in question had been caused by Wheeler's action in going across the street to Spargo's car, opening the car door and starting an argument with the complainant. If he had not done that there would have been no disturbance.

It was unfortunate that the whole thing had happened and was more than unfortunate that the case dealt with a defendant who for more than fifteen years had been a police constable and might be expected to give an example in sane decency. Such men, he said, should be lawmakers and not law-breakers.

Filthy Language.

Referring to language alleged to have been used by the defendant, Magistrate Campbell said that defense counsel argued that it was not swearing because it did not take the Lord's name in vain. The Magistrate declared that in his opinion, one of the expressions allegedly used was the lowest and filthiest language that could be used and it was not the kind of language to expect from a former constable.

Magistrate Campbell stressed the fact that the disturbance complained of had occurred at 1.30 o'clock on a Sunday morning and in a residential neighborhood.

When the case was resumed this morning the Magistrate promptly denied the defence's request for a dismisal whereupon Mr. Sheehy called Wheeler into the box to give evidence on his own behalf.

The defendant said that he had been walking down Stewart street and had seen Williamson and Spargo sitting in a car. He had reason to think that Spargo had done his harm in regard to his job on the police force so he went across to him. He denied opening the door of the car, saying Spargo had opened it. There had been an argument for a few minutes and then the two had shaken hands. He said there had been no screaming and that he had not attempted to lay hands on Spargo.

Had Not Been Drinking

"Did you do any swearing?" asked Mr. Sheehy.

'I did not take God's name in vain," replied the defendant. Wheeler declared that he was not intoxicated and said that he had not been drinking.

"Is that the ordinary custom in the police department when disputes of this kind have been apparently ended by disputants shaking hands, to swear out an information afterward?" asked defence counsel.

"I never saw an information laid like this in the whole time I was on the job," returned Wheeler.

Asked what he was doing on Stewart street on that occasion defendant said there was some information he wanted to collect and he was collecting it.

"For your case in regard to your position on the police force?"

"No, for the Attorney-General's Department in Toronto," replied the former policeman.

In his argument Mr. Sheehy said that a conviction would be a serious matter for the defendant and he submitted that the charge against him had not been proven. Particularly it had not been shown that he interfered with or impeded more than one passenger, and he insisted that the judgment in the Allen case set forth that more than one should be interfered with to constitute an offense.

Crown Attorney McElderry argued that the whole trouble had been caused by Wheeler's action in going oved to the car in which Spargo was and starting an argument.

Blasting Stopped.

"When I tried to move George would swear at me and when he tried to move I'd swear at him. We were afraid that when they began to blast at the Teck-Hughes mine we'd be finished," explained West, when a reporter told him that when their predicament was discovered the mine officials gave orders that no blasting be done anywhere in the mine and requested all the other mines in Kirkland Lake to do the same.

"They gave us some needles to put us to sleep, but they couldn't, and when they sent down some whiskey I knew we'd be all right."

Joseph Francel, the third miner who was trapped in a manway on the 2,800-foot level above the stope where the two other miners were entombed, walked home alone, though with an injured ankle after he managed to extricate himself from among broken timbers.

Grateful to Cigarette.

Francel is thankful that he has the smoking habit, otherwise he doesn't believe he would be alive to-day. He went out into the manway to get a few puffs of a cigarette and while he was out, the walls and ceilings of the stope collapsed, trapping him in the runway. Francel found his way out twenty minutes later through spaces among broken timbers and rock.

Coffee and food were sent down to Boland and West when the first party of rescuers reached them several hours after the accident. So severe was the cave-in that merchandise on shelves of Kirkland Lake stores toppled to the floor and microphones in the radio station were upset.

In discussing his narrow escape, Francel said he found himself wedged in so tight that he could hardly move. He succeeded in getting his hands free and after wiggling about, managed to get a hole made large enough for him to crawl through.

CITY'S NEEDS ARE TOLD MINISTERS IN OTTAWA VISIT

Although no definite promise of increased grants for relief were received by the deputation of the City Council that went to Ottawa on Thursday, Mayor Hamilton informed the Examiner to-day that he regarded the trip and its several interviews as fairly successful.

Mayor Hamilton was accompanied by Aldermen Wilson, Glover, Gordon and Dutton.

"We were very hospitably received by J. J. Duffus, M.P." Mayor Hamilton said, "and he spent the whole day with us in going from one department to another. It was obvious that he has the entry of all the offices and that his requests receive full consideration. The relief problem is a big one, and it has been complicated during the last six months. The Department of Labor is giving the question of future policy a great deal of thought and whether assistance is to take the form of work that will create jobs or be more direct aid has not yet been decided. However, we were assured that our request to the Department would receive sympathetic attention."

Mayor Hamilton also said that the Hon. Mr. Howe, Minister of Transport, Hon. Mr. Cardin, Minister of Public Works, Hon. Mr. Euler, Acting Postmaster-General, Hon. Ian Mackenzie, Minister of National Defence, were also interviewed in regard to certain Peterborough interests that have been before the City Council for months.

Orders Come Direct.

"In regard to orders for making munitions, we learned that this business reached Canada from firms in Great Britain who obtained the orders from the British Government," Mayor Hamilton said. "They do not come through the Department of Defence which for its own needs is not planning any extraordinary expenditure for munitions. As to housing, we were told that this scheme is operating successfully in many cities, and if it is not being taken up here to the same extent, the Department of Finance would like to know whether anything more can be done to stimulate interest in it.

COURT DISMISSES SCRIVER APPEAL

TORONTO, May 13 (CP).—Court of Appeal in a judgment, written by Mr. Justice Masten, has dismissed the appeal of Mrs. Martha Scriver, Toronto, against a judgment of Judge S. L. Smoke, Peterborough, who refused to give a declaration in her favor that she was for more than 10 years in possession of part of Lot 29, Bexley Township, on the shore of Balsam Lake. Defendant, Oliver Smith Lindsay, alleged that the acts of possession were sporadic and did not give the plaintiff title. Mr. Justice Masten agrees with this view.

Owners of three-wheel automobiles recently held a big rally in Johannesburg, South Africa.

The Rambling REPORTERS

WATCH YOUR STEP TODAY!

Thousands of people the country over are walking gingerly along countless streets, peering short sightedly for hidden banana peels; looking carefully up and down before crossing the roads; going around ladders; and generally obeying to the last letter the other hundred superstitions that crowd this day.

For today is the ill-reputed Friday the 13th—the only one in all 1938. If you get safely past the midnight hour tonight you won't have to worry about this date again until next year. So watch your step today.

DRIVER SUFFERS HEART ATTACK

A heart attack as he was driving west along McDonnel street shortly after 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon caused Robert Adams, real estate agent of 296 Margaret avenue to lose control of his car near the corner of Stewart street and the machine veered off the road, ran along the sidewalk for 100 feet, crossed Stewart street and ran 21 feet along the boulevard on the west side before it crashed into a fire hydrant.

Fortunately the car was not travelling very fast when the seizure hit the driver.

So far as actual injuries were concerned Mr. Adams escaped luckily, a cut over his eye being the extent, but his heart condition was serious, although he was reported as showing improvement today. Darey Windsor, Crescent street, a passenger in the car tried to turn off the ignition when it was seen that Adams had lost control and he was the most seriously injured, receiving serious scalp lacerations and back injuries when his head struck either the top of the car or the frame of the windshield. Mrs. Wm. Wigg, Union street, who was also a passenger, escaped with a shaking up.

CHEESE FACTORIES OPENING EARLIER

Most of the cheese factories of the Peterborough district have been in operation this week, W. J. Moore, dairy instructor, told the Examiner today, and the others are preparing to open their doors and receive milk next Monday. The cheese-making season is almost two weeks ahead of last year, the volume of milk is increasing, pasturage is well advanced, and the whole industry is beginning its new year of production in very promising conditions.

"I have never seen the factories so well rigged up as they are now," Mr. Moore said. "It indicates that patrons and owners generally are taking more interest in this branch of dairying. A lot of repairs and other improvements have been made, and Trent Bridge factory has made a big overhauling of their plant, putting in a new steam engine, agitators, curd mill and so on."

LINDSAY FAVORS 2 WINTER MONTHS IN HOLIDAY BYLAW

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, May 13.—The opposition on the part of some merchants to the Wednesday half holiday in Lindsay petered out at a largely attended meeting Wednesday night when the question was finally settled. A motion received unanimous support and which will later be embodied in a bylaw to be submitted to the council declaring a half holiday during the months of June, July and August as well as the months of January and February. The discussion on a local bylaw was started when a copy of the Peterborough bylaw governing half holidays in that city was submitted to the meeting.

The death took place recently at Mercy Hospital, Buffalo of Sister Mary Theodosia, of the Sisters of Mercy, and sister of Sister St. Teresa of Mount St. Joseph, Peterborough. Deceased received her high school course at St. Joseph's Academy, Lindsay. After entering the community of the Sisters of Mercy she began her life work as teacher and obtained her M.A. at the Catholic University, Washington, D.C. Another sister of the deceased, Mother Francis Clare, of St. Joseph's Community, Peterborough, predeceased her three years ago.

Death, as a result of a fall, ended the sufferings of a well known and highly esteemed resident of Fenelon Falls this week in the person of Miss Sarah A. Patterson. The deceased resided for some time in Port Hope before taking up residence in the village ten years ago. She is survived by one sister and two brothers.

CAR IS RECOVERED AT YOUNG'S POINT

Ford Turner's automobile, stolen at noon Thursday from in front of his home at 800 Water street was found early in the afternoon on a side road near Young's Point after the thief had damaged the machine by crashing into the swing bridge below the Young's Point lock.

The stolen car had evidently been driven at a wild pace from the time it was taken because it was driven away from its parking place at five minutes to 12 o'clock and it was only a few minutes after 12 when several road workers heard the crash on the Young's Point bridge and looked up in time to see the car-thief continue on his way.

One tire had been badly damaged by the impact and a short distance past the Point, the driver turned into a side road and drove the machine into some bushes. It was apparently his intention to change tires but a moment later a mail carrier came along and it is thought the thief took fright and abandoned the machine. The carrier reported seeing the car and local police were notified.

Mr. Turner accompanied Detectives Meagher and Piercey to Young's Point where the owner recovered his car. The officers continued on as far as Burleigh Falls but found no trace of the car-thief. Mr. Turner's automobile had one fender badly bent.

Gold mined and shipped from South Africa in a recent week was valued at $1,463,626.

Only two or three chimney fires in the entire week have called the fire reels from headquarters, Chief Gimblett said today. "That's not unusual though," he commented. "From now until the 15th of September fires should slacken off a lot."

A REAL DRIVE

There seems to be a real drive on illicit liquor transactions in this area at the present time. Within a short time liquor cases laid by city police, provincial officers, the North Monaghan constable and Royal Canadian Mounted Police officers have all been heard in the local police court.

HAD NO BEAVER

Local police were informed by telephone yesterday to be on the lookout for two cars from Toronto supposed to be loaded with illegal beaver skins. One of the cars was spotted in George street last evening by Officer Leo Murphy but an investigation revealed the fact that it did not contain any beaver pelts and the owner was not held.

Dewart, M.C., include Acting Company Sergeant-W. G. McNabb of "D" company promoted to Company Sergeant Major. Corporal R. E. R. Borland to Acting Sergeant; Private N. Chate to Corporal.

IN ONE WORD.

Donald Kennedy of the Examiner advertising staff, left Peterborough two weeks ago for England, the mode of travelling being a cattle boat. From Campbellford he rode in the caboose of the cattle train to Montreal. It was agreed that he should send a cable announcing his arrival in the Old Land. It came this morning from Hatfield, Herts., which is a short distance from London. For brevity it could harduy be excelled, for it said just this: "Okay, Don."

THE CHRISTIAN GRACES.

Commencing on Sunday morning, the Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr will commence a series of sermons on the theme: The Christian Graces. The following are the topics: The Joy o' Living; The Grace of Magnanimity; Driftless Courage; Unswerving Loyalty; and Friendship's Masterpiece. PICKEREL SEASON OPENS.

The fishing season of 1937 opens on Saturday, when the catching of pickerel becomes legal. The first day of May called the trout anglers into action, but after all they are specialists as compared with the great majority who wait expectantly first for the pickerel, and then for the lunge and bass. Dealers have reported increasing activity all week, and many of the show windows have been featuring hooks and lines and an extensive range of plugs and other baits. Some of the enthusiasts will probably toss out their lines early Saturday morning along the Otonabee.

He said immigration officers, members of the federal bureau of investigation, and a United States marshal joined in making the arrests.

CADI REGISTERS CONVICTION IN WHEELER CASE

Joseph Wheeler, former city policeman, was convicted by Magistrate Campbell in police court this morning of having created a disturbance on Stewart street and was fined $10 and costs, amounting to $14.

Emmett Sheehy, who defended Wheeler, announced that he would enter an appeal.

In giving his judgment Magistrate Campbell said that the whole disturbance that took place on the Sunday morning in question had been caused by Wheeler's action in going across the street to Spargo's car, opening the car door and starting an argument with the complainant. If he had not done that there would have been no disturbance.

It was unfortunate that the whole thing had happened and was more than unfortunate that the case dealt with a defendant who for more than fifteen years had been a police constable and might be expected to give an example in sane decency. Such men, he said, should be lawmakers and not law-breakers.

Filthy Language.

Referring to language alleged to have been used by the defendant, Magistrate Campbell said that defense counsel argued that it was not swearing because it did not take the Lord's name in vain. The Magistrate declared that in his opinion, one of the expressions allegedly used was the lowest and filthiest language that could be used and it was not the kind of language to expect from a former constable.

Magistrate Campbell stressed the fact that the disturbance complained of had occurred at 1.30 o'clock on a Sunday morning and in a residential neighborhood.

When the case was resumed this morning the Magistrate promptly denied the defence's request for a dismisal whereupon Mr. Sheehy called Wheeler into the box to give evidence on his own behalf.

The defendant said that he had been walking down Stewart street and had seen Williamson and Spargo sitting in a car. He had reason to think that Spargo had done his harm in regard to his job on the police force so he went across to him. He denied opening the door of the car, saying Spargo had opened it. There had been an argument for a few minutes and then the two had shaken hands. He said there had been no screaming and that he had not attempted to lay hands on Spargo.

Had Not Been Drinking

"Did you do any swearing?" asked Mr. Sheehy.

'I did not take God's name in vain," replied the defendant. Wheeler declared that he was not intoxicated and said that he had not been drinking.

"Is that the ordinary custom in the police department when disputes of this kind have been apparently ended by disputants shaking hands, to swear out an information afterward?" asked defence counsel.

"I never saw an information laid like this in the whole time I was on the job," returned Wheeler.

Asked what he was doing on Stewart street on that occasion defendant said there was some information he wanted to collect and he was collecting it.

"For your case in regard to your position on the police force?"

"No, for the Attorney-General's Department in Toronto," replied the former policeman.

In his argument Mr. Sheehy said that a conviction would be a serious matter for the defendant and he submitted that the charge against him had not been proven. Particularly it had not been shown that he interfered with or impeded more than one passenger, and he insisted that the judgment in the Allen case set forth that more than one should be interfered with to constitute an offense.

Crown Attorney McElderry argued that the whole trouble had been caused by Wheeler's action in going oved to the car in which Spargo was and starting an argument.

GEORGE BULLEN IS BURIED SIX HOURS LAKESHORE MINE

KIRKLAND LAKE, Ont., May 13. —"We're sure lucky we're alive," said Gorge Bullen from his hospital bed after being buried for over six hours under tons of rocks in the Lakeshore Mine when the stope in which he and his companion, Peter West, were working caved in on them.

"My head was squeezed between two rocks and I couldn't move. It's lucky the timbers wedged us in and were crosed over our heads and stopped the rock from crushing us. I had to keep my hand over my mouth to stop the muck and dust from choking me," said Bullen, as he recounted his experience.

Blasting Stopped.

"When I tried to move George would swear at me and when he tried to move I'd swear at him. We were afraid that when they began to blast at the Teck-Hughes mine we'd be finished," explained West, when a reporter told him that when their predicament was discovered the mine officials gave orders that no blasting be done anywhere in the mine and requested all the other mines in Kirkland Lake to do the same.

"They gave us some needles to put us to sleep, but they couldn't, and when they sent down some whiskey I knew we'd be all right."

Joseph Francel, the third miner who was trapped in a manway on the 2,800-foot level above the stope where the two other miners were entombed, walked home alone, though with an injured ankle after he managed to extricate himself from among broken timbers.

Grateful to Cigarette.

Francel is thankful that he has the smoking habit, otherwise he doesn't believe he would be alive to-day. He went out into the manway to get a few puffs of a cigarette and while he was out, the walls and ceilings of the stope collapsed, trapping him in the runway. WATCH YOUR STEP TODAY!

Thousands of people the country over are walking gingerly along countless streets, peering short sightedly for hidden banana peels; looking carefully up and down before crossing the roads; going around ladders; and generally obeying to the last letter the other hundred superstitions that crowd this day.

For today is the ill-reputed Friday the 13th—the only one in all 1938. If you get safely past the midnight hour tonight you won't have to worry about this date again until next year. So watch your step today.

DRIVER SUFFERS HEART ATTACK

A heart attack as he was driving west along McDonnel street shortly after 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon caused Robert Adams, real estate agent of 296 Margaret avenue to lose control of his car near the corner of Stewart street and the machine veered off the road, ran along the sidewalk for 100 feet, crossed Stewart street and ran 21 feet along the boulevard on the west side before it crashed into a fire hydrant.

Fortunately the car was not travelling very fast when the seizure hit the driver.

So far as actual injuries were concerned Mr. Adams escaped luckily, a cut over his eye being the extent, but his heart condition was serious, although he was reported as showing improvement today. Darcy Windsor, Crescent street, a passenger in the car tried to turn off the ignition when it was seen that Adams had lost control and he was the most seriously injured, receiving serious scalp lacerations and back injuries when his head struck either the top of the car or the frame of the windshield. Mrs. Wm. Wigg, Union street, who was also a passenger, escaped with a shaking up.

CHEESE FACTORIES OPENING EARLIER

Most of the cheese factories of the Peterborough district have been in operation this week, W. J. Moore, dairy instructor, told the Examiner today, and the others are preparing to open their doors and receive milk next Monday. The cheese-making season is almost two weeks ahead of last year, the volume of milk is increasing, pasturage is well advanced, and the whole industry is beginning its new year of production in very promising conditions.

"I have never seen the factories so well rigged up as they are now," Mr. Moore said. "It indicates that patrons and owners generally are taking more interest in this branch of dairying. A lot of repairs and other improvements have been made, and Trent Bridge factory has made a big overhauling of their plant, putting in a new steam engine, agitators, curd mill and so on."

Friday 13th Proves Unlucky Day For A White Man And An Indian

THIS IS FRIDAY THE 13th but bad luck started Thursday for Dan Finlay of Peterborough and Percy Knott a Curve Lake Indian, when Corp. Jack Woods and Constable A. C. Gillespie of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police happened to drop into town from Lindsay and were in the vicinity of the wine store on Charlotte street just in time to have their curiosity aroused by the appearance of an Indian in the same neighborhood.

The two Mounties decided to investigate a little and when they saw Finlay come out of the store with a package and he and the Indian joined forces on Aylmer street, they took up the pursuit, Constable Gillespie following closely behind the pair.

When Brock street was reached and Knott was seen to point to a car and his white companion went over to the machine indicated and placed the package therein, the two were arrested. It was discovered that the package contained four quarts of Marquis White wine.

Today before Magistrate Campbell in police court Finlay pleaded guilty to supplying intoxicating liquor to an Indian and was fined $50 and costs or a month in jail.

Knott also pleaded guilty to illegal possession although he said the wine was not for him. He was assessed $25 and costs or a month's imprisonment.

LINDSAY FAVORS 2 WINTER MONTHS IN HOLIDAY BYLAW

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, May 13.—The opposition on the part of some merchants to the Wednesday half holiday in Lindsay petered out at a largely attended meeting Wednesday night when the question was finally settled. A motion received unanimous support and which will later be embodied in a bylaw to be submitted to the council declaring a half holiday during the months of June, July and August as well as the months of January and February. The discussion on a local bylaw was started when a copy of the Peterborough bylaw governing half holidays in that city was submitted to the meeting.

The death took place recently at Mercy Hospital, Buffalo of Sister Mary Theodosia, of the Sisters of Mercy, and sister of Sister St. Teresa of Mount St. Joseph, Peterborough. Deceased received her high school course at St. Joseph's Academy, Lindsay. After entering the community of the Sisters of Mercy she began her life work as teacher and obtained her M.A. at the Catholic University, Washington, D.C. Another sister of the deceased, Mother Francis Clare, of St. Joseph's Community, Peterborough, predeceased her three years ago.

Death, as a result of a fall, ended the sufferings of a well known and highly esteemed resident of Fenelon Falls this week in the person of Miss Sarah A. Patterson. The deceased resided for some time in Port Hope before taking up residence in the village ten years ago. She is survived by one sister and two brothers.

CAR IS RECOVERED AT YOUNG'S POINT

Ford Turner's automobile, stolen at noon Thursday from in front of his home at 800 Water street was found early in the afternoon on a side road near Young's Point after the thief had damaged the machine by crashing into the swing bridge below the Young's Point lock.

The stolen car had evidently been driven at a wild pace from the time it was taken because it was driven away from its parking place at five minutes to 12 o'clock and it was only a few minutes after 12 when several road workers heard the crash on the Young's Point bridge and looked up in time to see the car-thief continue on his way.

One tire had been badly damaged by the impact and a short distance past the Point, the driver turned into a side road and drove the machine into some bushes. It was apparently his intention to change tires but a moment later a mail carrier came along and it is thought the thief took fright and abandoned the machine. The carrier reported seeing the car and local police were notified.

Mr. Turner accompanied Detectives Meagher and Piercey to Young's Point where the owner recovered his car. The officers continued on as far as Burleigh Falls but found no trace of the car-thief. Mr. Turner's automobile had one fender badly bent.

Gold mined and shipped from South Africa in a recent week was valued at $1,463,626.

JUDGMENT RESERVED

Magistrate Langley after holding a special court in the town hall at Keene yesterday reserved judgment in the case of two Roseneath residents, Crowe and Blaker, charged with spearing fish. He will give his decision in two weeks.

TWO CHIMNEY FIRES

Only two or three chimney fires in the entire week have called the fire reels from heaquarters, Chief Gimblett said today. "That's not unusual though," he commented. "From now until the 15th of September fires should slacken off a lot."

A REAL DRIVE

There seems to be a real drive on illicit liquor transactions in this area at the present time. Within a short time liquor cases laid by city police, provincial officers, the North Monaghan constable and Royal Canadian Mounted Police officers have all been heard in the local police court.

HAD NO BEAVER

Local police were informed by telephone yesterday to be on the lookout for two cars from Toronto supposed to be loaded with illegal beaver skins. One of the cars was spotted in George street last evening by Officer Leo Murphy but an investigation revealed the fact that it did not contain any beaver pelts and the owner was not held.

Dewart, M.C., include Acting Company Sergeant-W. G. McNabb of "D" company promoted to Company Sergeant Major. Corporal R. E. R. Borland to Acting Sergeant; Private N. Chate to Corporal.

IN ONE WORD.

Donald Kennedy of the Examiner advertising staff, left Peterborough two weeks ago for England, the mode of travelling being a cattle boat. From Campbellford he rode in the caboose of the cattle train to Montreal. It was agreed that he should send a cable announcing his arrival in the Old Land. It came this morning from Hatfield, Herts., which is a short distance from London. For brevity it could harduy be excelled, for it said just this: "Okay, Don."

THE CHRISTIAN GRACES.

Commencing on Sunday morning, the Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr will commence a series of sermons on the theme: The Christian Graces. The following are the topics: The Joy o' Living; The Grace of Magnanimity; Driftless Courage; Unswerving Loyalty; and Friendship's Masterpiece. He will also continue the short series on the theme: That Unpopular Word—Sin at Evening Worship. No one should miss the privilege of hearing these timely and worthwhile messages.

PICKEREL SEASON OPENS.

The fishing season of 1937 opens on Saturday, when the catching of pickerel becomes legal. The first day of May called the trout anglers into action, but after all they are specialists as compared with the great majority who wait expectantly first for the pickerel, and then for the lunge and bass. Dealers have reported increasing activity all week, and many of the show windows have been featuring hooks and lines and an extensive range of plugs and other baits. Some of the enthusiasts will probably toss out their lines early Saturday morning along the Otonabee.

WHITE SLAVE RAID LANDS 8 IN JAIL

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., May 13 (AP)—Immigration authorities announced today the arrest of three men and five women in an investigation of "international traffic in young women."

United States Immigration Inspector C. Austin Foltz said the arrests were made in a raid on a Niagara Falls house, after officials questioned an Ontario girl who had been missing from home for several weeks.

He said immigration officers, members of the federal bureau of investigation, and a United States marshal joined in making the arrests.

The ancient Romans originated the custom of clapping hands to indicate approval.

MRS. S. HIGGINS IS CHOSEN HEAD LAKEFIELD W.I.

LAKEFIELD, May 13.—Mrs. Stanley Higgins of Smith was elected president of the Lakefield Branch of the Women's Institute when the Institute held their annual meeting in the Memorial Hall on Wednesday afternoon at the usual hour. Mrs. H. J. Bullock, retiring president, occupied the chair.

The secretary's annual report was then presented and showed that thirteen meetings had been held during the year with a total attendance of 440 members. Three executive meetings were held. Special activities during the past year included a district officers' rally, when Mrs. Hayes of Georgetown was the special speaker. Miss Atkinson of the Institute branch of the Department of Agriculture also spoke on problems pertaining to the Institute.

At the September meeting, T. P. Lancaster, M.L.A. gave a very interesting and instructive address on "The Legislature." This meeting was held at the home of Mrs. J. A. Moore, Douro, when members of the Warsaw branch were guests.

At the October meeting, the grandmothers of the district were entertained by the members. This meeting was devoted to the history of local community and an excellent paper on the history of the public school provided part of the program. Interesting facts concerning Lakefield were read from an old paper published in July, 1876, just nine years after confederation.

At the February meeting, J. W. McKerchar, manager of the local branch of the Royal Bank, gave a very fine talk on banking.

In April, Mr. Patterson, district agricultural representative of Peterboroug, gave an enlightening talk on trees and reforestation at the regular meeting.

In July, a demonstration in canning vegetables and meats was held at the home of Mrs. A. J. Bullock.

Committee Reports

Reports from the convenors of standing committees were presented as follows Canadian industries, Mrs. S. Higgins; legislature, Mrs. J. W. Ridpath; music and education, Mrs. T. W. Chaplin; agriculture, Mrs. J. H. Moore; community activities and relief, Mrs. A. Davis; equipment, Mrs. A. Windsor; flower committee, Mrs. G. Spence.

During the past year, the Institue sponsored a tag day for the Children's Shelter, and collected $32.30 from that Institution. A tea and sale of home cooking at the home of Miss Margaret Sanderson realized $22.33; a travelling shirt, $11.38, and a cafeteria lunch for the junior institute $16.45.

The Institute had 41 members during the year and raised $141.09 from all sources. Expenses amounted to $122.89, leaving a balance on hand of $18.20.

Officers Elected

Mrs. W. W. Leonard took the chair for the election of officers. The retiring president, Mrs. H. J. Bullock, on vacating the chair, thanked the members for their splendid co-operation during her term of office.

Officers for the following year were elected as follows Mrs. Stanley Higgins, president; Mrs. J. H. Moore, first vice-president; Mrs. A. Darling, second vice-president; Miss Margaret Sanderson, secretary; Mrs. S. E. White; treasurer Mrs. T. W. Chaplin and Mrs. Hopkins, pianists; Mrs. A. Davis and Mrs. A. Higgins, auditors; Mrs. J. W. Ridpath, Mrs. W. Gillman, Mrs. C. Foster, Mrs. H. Bullock and Mrs. J. Blakely, directors.

The appointment of convenors of standing committees was left with the executive who will also plan the program for the coming year.

Delegates were appointed to attend the district annual meeting at Havelock on May 27. They are Mrs. S. Higgins, Mrs. J. W. Ridpath, Mrs. T. W. Chaplin and Mrs. A. Davis.

CHAPTER 35

To Barbara, the commissioner's next words, after discovering that Julia's fingerprints and the ones on the electric light button were not the same, were not at all surprising. The man said: "Miss Barabara, I am sorry to ask you to submit to this inconvenience but it seems necessary to have your fingerprints, too."

Garry and Ray were on their feet instantly.

"You can carry this a little too far, officer," Garry said.

"You may have to apologize 'round," Ray added.

The police official chose to ignore Ray. To Garry he answered: "We will take yours, too, while we are in the business."

Once or twice, in her newspaper days, Barbara had pinch-hitted for the police reporter during the summer vacation. One day she had seen fingerprints being taken at the local police station. She had felt outraged at the idea of innocent people having their fingerprints recorded, as sometimes must happen. Now she must endure it. Yet she was glad. She could prove to the commissioner that he was wrong in his suspicions.

The two sets did not coincide in either her case or Garry's.

"Will you accept my apologies?" the officer asked quietly. Then, one by one, every member of the group was subjected to the same examination. One by one each set of prints was rejected.

"Has anyone else been in the house today?" the officer queried.

No one had been there, so far as the assembled group of guests and servants knew.

"The girl could have had an accomplice helping from outside—somebody who pushed off the light when she entered and then got away,' another official ventured.

They dropped that subject, and the matter of the gun that had been used in the murder came up. The bullet, for which the physician had been probing, was discovered and produced. A detective brought it into the room, resting on a white handkerchief. The commissioner examined the bullet and inspected the gun that Barabara had handed him. He looked at her intently as he spoke.

"The bullet fits the gun, Miss Kingsley."

"It does?" Barbara asked.

On some of the faces she could read the thoughts that were passing behind the startled eyes. Barbara had loved Garry, and Jimmy Minton had threatened him. Barbara's cousin, Julia Kingsley, had been angry because Jimmy Minton had broken an engagement to marry her, in order to transfer his affections to Wenda Ayer, and Julia had vowed to get revenge. What more natural than that Barbara should assist her cousin? She would be aiding the man she loved, too!

"We know you had the gun, Miss Kingsley. We know how you got it by your own confession and that of witnesses. The point now is—did you give it to your cousin, or maybe I should be more definite and say, how did you get it to your cousin?"

At which Garry exclaimed indignantly:

"I tell you she was with me at the time of the shot and we had the gun. I had it in my hand. These people saw us go upstairs and they saw me come down."

"Your chivalry in shielding Miss Kingsley is something to be commended," the officer of the law said, and bowed slightly. "But under the circumstances, since whatever action she may have taken was done for your protection, it is to be expected that gallantry might overweigh honesty."

Garry clenched his fists. Barbara saw the knuckles whiten. She realized that the inspector was trying to aggravate Garry into a contradictory admission.

It was Ray Lipton, whose calm, rather amused voice, broke the tension.

"See here, Inspector ,this is all circumstantial as the devil. You know and I know we've got to find out who turned out that light. Jimmy Minton wasn't a fifth cousin to an angel and there might have been plenty of women gunning for him. There's plenty of stuff in my newspaper morgue to use in building up a supposition. I think I'll call the city desk now.

"It's a good idea," Garry answered . "Take the phone and then I'll get my sheet."

Neither man intended to use the teelphone. Swift and faint as the signal that flashed between them, Barbara caught it. They did not want her name to be involved in any scandal.

The commissioner spoke sharply. "There will be no use of the telephone for some time, gentlemen. You are here as members of a house party where a murder was committed, not as reporters from the city newspapers.'

"As you say, officer,' Garry answered. "But in that case you will please avoid all false incriminations."

Wenda had been sitting quietly. Barbara glanced at the actress and wondered what she was believing, under the heart-shaped mask that was her face. Did she think, as everyone else did, that Julia was the murderer? Was she honest in her expressed belief that Barbara had assisted Julia, or was that a hunch on which she was acting.

The police executive was turning to Julia. "If, as you say, you were just entering the room, what did you see as you neared the door?"

"I heard the shot, and saw Mr. Minton fall. It seemed to come from outside. Then I ran. I couldn't get out and I met Barbara coming down the stairs. That was when everyone else came into the room."

Garry spoke. "By the way, from my room Barbara claimed she saw someone slipping along the side of the house just before the this happened. I imagine it was Julia. when the trouble occurred. But the footprints might be worth examining."

"I have a man searching for footprints right now," the officer said. "Did any of you gentlemen walk near the house, in the snow, on the right-hand side today?' He looked from one to another. "No one did? About five minutes ago one of my men reported a man's freshly made tracks in that snow."

"Good grief, then let's follow him!" Garry had sprung to his feet.

"Be patient, please. A call has already gone in to have anyone who is loitering examined, and the police are on the lookout for every man who looks suspicious. We may have news soon. The steps will be followed, and the police cars are being given the information."

The relaxing of tense bodies was so pronounced that it created a wave current in the room. Barbara felt her spirits rise. Then the commissioner, though losing no clue at hand, had not neglected others, extraneous as he might believe them to be.

"It might interest you to know that a window in the den was raised a few inches—possibly half a foot," the officer of the law continued. "The accomplice must have done that."

"No, officer," Basil interrupted. "I'm a fiend for fresh air. It's always open. I put it up early this afternoon."

"Very accommodating of you. Should we find the bullet was fired from that angle it made a convenient spot from which to aim."

Garry moved a little nearer to Barbara on the long divan. He took her hand and held it in a strong clasp. "It won't be much longer now," he said.

Wenda was leaning back in a big chair. Her eyes were closed and the long lashes made dark circles on the transparency of her skin. Two big tears glistened on the lashes, and began to roll down her cheeks. Garry removed his hand, and his eyes watched those tears. He started to move, then sat back, but Barbara wondered if he held himself in place through force of will.

"Talk to Wenda," she said. "She needs you."

Wenda had heard. "No, thank you, Barabara. I don't need anyone."

The quick pain in Garry's eyes was gone almost at once but Barbara had seen it.

"Can't we have dinner while we wait—for whatever it is that we are waiting?" Natalie asked. "You will join us, Commissioner?"

"I think the waiting is about done," the officer answered. "The men are coming. They seem to have a stranger with them."

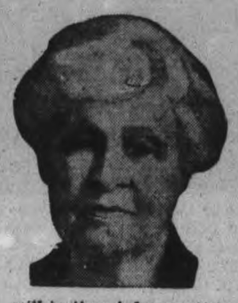
Youg People Never Know Whether They Are Really in Love; Best Advice Is Never Trust Your Feelings When You Are in the Adolescent Period of Life

A GROUP of coeds asks me how they can tell whether the feeling that is throbbing within their young breasts, as the old song says, is an enduring passion that will last as long as they live or just a passing case of puppy love.



I wish that I could give them some reliable recipe for diagnosing their symptoms, but, alas, science has devised no more fallible formula for testing love than it has for tuberculosis and cancer. We still have to guess at what ails us and wonder if the fluttering of our pulses and that "gone" feeling when He or She approaches indicates that we are suffering from a fatal heart malady that will in time take us off to the altar, or whether what we are experiencing is just a slight cardiac upset that will yield to he absent treatment and be completely cured by the sight of a new good-looker.

And this is a pity, because there is no other one thing in the world that is so much needed as some way by which the young can distinguish between the grand passion and infatuation, some sure method by which they can tell whether they are in love for keeps or have merely a temporary fancy for one of the opposite sex.

It is a crime of nature that the individual cannot even fathom his own emotions with accuracy or know how long his temperature will remain stationary, or foretell whether a woman will still be the light of his eyes or a pain in the neck six months hence. It is because of the people who thought they were in love when they were not in love that we acquire rheumatism in our shoulders from the tears of the unhappily married.

So, things being as they are, it is difficult to give the young any tips on how to ascertain the real state of their affections. But there is one piece of advice I can offer them that will save them trouble and divorce and alimony if they will heed it. It is this: Mistrust adolescent love. Don't take it seriously. Don't let what you think you feel for a boy or girl lead you into putting a mortgage on your future that will bankrupt you in happiness when it is foreclosed. Bear in mind that you know nothing about the passions of grown men and women, nor what they need and desire in their mates. Also remember that you are still growing and changing, and that you do not even know what you will be yourself when you are a man or woman.

Sometimes it is true that puppy love lasts, but this does not often happen. Don't risk it. Give yourself a chance. Wait until you can bring mature taste, a knowledge of the world and ripe judgment to settling the question of whether you are in love or not.

As good a test of love as any is how much of the society of the party of the other part you can stand without yawning. Any boy and girl can imagine themselves in love if they only see each other on gala occasions when they are all dressed up and powdered and perfumed, and when they have a backdrop of moonlight nights with music throbbing in the distance, and when their conversation consists of singing each other's praises.

The real test of love is whether they look good to each other in their working clothes and whether they have anything to say to each other after they have run out of lovers' talk. Any love that survives a week's constant companionship in August may justly be regarded as a good sporting risk.

Still another test of love is being able to see the adored ones with all of their faults thick upon them without being disillusioned. Anybody coud love Prince Charming or Miss Perfection, but it is real love when you think Sally's pug nose is piquant and call her temper " nerves" and think the way she bosses you around is just cunning; or when you love all of Tom fussy little ways and peculiarities just because they are his. Try that out on your piano and it will give you a mightly good idea of whether or not you are in love.

And, of course, the final test of love is unselfishness. As long as you prefer your own pleasure, as long as you put your own happiness before that of another, the only person with whom you are passionately in love is yourself. "Love seeketh not its own". When you give up your favorite hairdo and leave off lipstick and rouge and flamboyant fingernail polish and go around looking like a frump because John thinks he likes natural girls; when you let Sally pick out the movies and order the dinners and drag you to parties that bore you, you are in love. And no mistake.

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE LAZY BIRD

"Oh, look here!" exclaimed Mrs. Longears to her rabbit husband one morning. "Buster has forgotten his school books!"

"I'll run and take them to him," offered Nurse Jane, the kind muskrat lady housekeeper. 'If he doesn't have his books the Lady Mouse Teacher in the Hollow Tree School may punish him."

"I'll take his books," said Baby Bunty the orphan rabbit who had not yet hopped to school. "But I wish you would say something to him, Unkie Wig. Buster always forgets his books on purpose and one of us must carry them for him. I'm getting tired of it."

"Is this true?" asked Uncle Wiggily of his wife.

"I fear it is," she said. "Buster is getting to be a lazy little rabbit. He is so lazy he doesn't like to carry his books and the others do it for him."

"Oh, that must never be," said Uncle Wiggily. "I wouldn't want my Buster to grow up like the lazy bird. I must teach him a lesson."

"Is there really a lazy bird, Unkie Wig?" asked Bunty.

A Promise

"Yes," said Mr. Longears, "there is. I intend to show him to Buster," he added as he picked up the books

"Is there really a lazy bird?"

of the little lazy rabbit. "I will carry Buster's books to school," said the daddy rabbit. "I will ask Miss Mouse to keep him in after school and I will show him the lazy bird."

"I wish you would show me, too," said Baby Bunty.

"I will," promised her uncle, "though you are not lazy. Now hop along to school with me."

Lazy Buster wasn't at all surprised when Bunty hopped into the school room carrying his books as well as her own. Uncle Wiggily had given Buster's books to the orphan rabbit on reaching the school and had told Bunty to ask Miss Mouse to step outside for a moment to speak to him.

No, Buster wasn't at all surprised when Bunty brought in his books. He had come to expect this from some of the other rabbits. But Buster was much surprised when, at the close of the school, Miss Mouse said:

"Because he forgot his books this morning and Baby Bunty had to bring them, Buster will stay after school 10 minutes."

"Aw! Gee!" exclaimed Buster. "I was going to play ball!"

"You will stay after school!" said Miss Mouse firmly. And Buster stayed. So did Baby Bunty but she waited around outside with Uncle Wiggily and when Buster came hopping out fast to go play ball, his father said to him:

Two Birds

"One moment, Buster, did you ever see the lazy bird?"

"Lazy bird?" asked the rabbit boy in surprise.

"Yes," went on Uncle Wiggily. "There are two of them now." He pointed to a bird with dark green feathers perched on a bush. Beside the green bird was another, somewhat smaller, colored brown.

"What birds are they, Unkie Wig?" asked Baby Bunty.

"They are cow birds," said Uncle Wiggily.

"Oh, do they give milk like cows?" asked Buster who, for once, was carrying his own books.

"No, they do not give milk," said Mr. Longears.

"Are they called lazy birds because they will not give milk," asked Baby Bunty.

"No, there is another reason," said Mr. Longears. "If you will watch with me you will see why they are named lazy birds. Watch now, something is going to happen."

You shall learn about it in the next story — Uncle Wiggily's bird lesson. And I hope the coffee pot doesn't bump its nose on the tea kettle when they are helping get breakfast for the bread toaster.

(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.)

As soon as South made a vulnerable second hand opening bid on this deal, North had visions of a slam if a fit could be found with either of his suits. The initial call was a heart and North responded with just two diamonds, being in no hurry to show his strength. East interrupted with three clubs.

When South now bid three-no trump, he was at one level higher than would have been necessary to say a mere two-no trump over his partner's two-diamonds in case East had passed. He was therefore showing more than a minimum hand, which sounded like music to North. The latter than called four-spades, quite a strong bid at this stage and an inferential force, since it would drive South to five if he preferred the diamonds.

Here, South decided, the fit was shown, so went to five-diamonds and North took it to six. West doubled and North, confident that his partner had the heart ace and could take the second club trick in view of his no-trump bid, redoubled. East took his club ace on the first trick, but then the show was over.

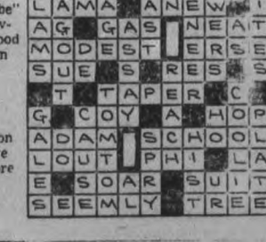
Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: East. East-West vulnerable.)

If East bid one-spade, South two-hearts, West three-diamonds, East three-spades, West four-diamonds and East four-spades, should South double?

RHEUMATIC PAIN AGES YOU

A pitiful sight to see him looking years older than he really is. But in most cases this is unnecessary. What causes Rheumatic twinges? Damp, Cold? No. The weather only aggravates what is already there. The cause of Rheumatic ailments, Neuritis, Lumbago, Sciatica, is often Uric Acid in your system. Uric Acid forms crystals—hard, sharp, very painful. Uric Acid is caused by congested waste matter that poisons your body. And within that poisoned body is a sluggish liver.

Now Fynnon Salt helps stimulate the liver. The combination of Sodium, Potassium and the elements of Lithium in Fynnon Salt works through your system to clear out poisons and help dissolve Uric Acid crystals. With the cause of the trouble removed you are soon fit again. Large bottle of Fynnon Salt, 75c at all druggists'

RELIEF DISPUTE SEES 6 CHILDREN GO SHORT OF FOOD

LINDSAY, May 13.—Six children in one family, ranging in age from 1 years to 11 years, have been without meat and milk for practically six weeks, ever since the town authorities cut them off relief because they had moved into town from Snowden Township. Local authorities today offered Roy Stata, who has only one arm, and his wife and family, free transportation back to their old home, but the offer was refused.

Neighbors have contributed what food has come the way of the Stata family during the past month and a half. The parents fear some of their children may contract serious ailments, due to lack of proper nourishment. Several have the whooping-cough.

"I can't get work because I have only one arm," said Stata. "Some days my children eat practically nothing. We get meat only on rare occasions. The doctor tells me the children must have good food, but we can't give it to them."

Alderman Richard Butler, Chairman of the Relief Committee, said the Stata family had been getting aid from many quarters since being taken off relief. The Town of Lindsay had to discourage any influx from other municipalities, he said.

"When they have been right up against it, we have helped them," said the Alderman. "The Township of Snowden won't pay any more relief for him unless he goes back there, and we are willing to provide him with free transportation. He is very foolish not to go back, because the town certainly won't keep him next winter."

"I'd be just as badly off if I went there," said Stata, referring to the transportation offer.

VEGETABLE MEN'S CASE IS PLEADED

OTTAWA, May 13.—(CP)—A plea that something be done in the way of assisting the vegetable growers of Eastern Canada was made in the House of Commons last night by Gordon Graydon (Con. Peel).

"While I have never advocated a rising time of expenditures in public affairs, I think there are many departments that might give way to the needs of the Eastern Ontario vegetable growers," he said.

The problem would ultimately have to be met. The growers felt they were not getting a square deal Much of the money set aside for agricultural research might profitably be applied to the vegetable industry in Ontario and elsewhere, he said.

Denton Massey (Con. Toronto Greenwood) recalled that the House last March had approved a resolution moved by Paul Martin (Lib. Essex East) requiring the government to consider the necessity of improving marketing, storage and grading facilities for agricultural produce. What, he asked, had been done along these lines?

Plan on Grade Corn

Mr. Martin said the Board of Grain Commissioners had made arrangements for the grading of corn and would visit Essex county this year to see how the recommendations of the House could best be implemented.

Two inquiries had already been conducted in this matter, Mr. Gardiner said, before the resolution of Mr. Martin was moved. As a result some improvement had been noted in the way of assistance to the corn growers. Additional to that the department had urged a policy of encouraging the establishments of driers. No advantage had been taken of that yet, but it was hoped this would develop.

He would be prepared to discuss assistance to vegetable growers under the appropriate item of the estimates.

The aeroplane was piloted by Bradford Washburn, Harvard mountaineer and explorer, who with James Barrows, 29, Miss Matthews' fiance, was thrown clear when the aeroplane submereged. FREEMAN HART IS LAID TO REST

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, May 13.—A host of friends and relatives assembled here yesterday to pay last tribute to the grand old man of Belmont, Freeman Hart, who passed quietly away on Tuesday morning following a short illness. Peterborough county's only centenarian, Mr. Hart lived for five months past the 100 year mark, having celebarted his birthday last December 11th, when he received the felicitation of his many friends. The funeral was held from his home at Round Lake at 2.00 o'clock, proceeding then to the Havelock United church, where service was conducted by Rev. S. A. Kemp.

Mr. Hart was born at Spring Valley, Brighton Township, of Irish and Dutch descent. As a young man he spent five years helping his father who was carriage-maker, later coming north, where he spent more than half a century in the lumbering industry in Belmont.

His immediate family surviving him are two daughters, Mrs. Ida Copperthwaite, of Campbellford, and Mrs. A. J. Hubble of Prince George, B.C.; and three sons, Ross of Havelock, John of Smith Falls, and Albert, of Lasswade. He was a Conservative all his life and a member of the Methodist church, and after of the United Church of Canada.

Among the many members of the Orange Lodge in attendance was E. M. Mitchell of Lindsay, Grand Master of Eastern Ontario. Members of the Havelock L.O.L. conducted the service at Maple Grove Cemetery, with E. J. Leeson, P.M., acting Master, and H. Wildman, chaplain, officiating. Pall-bearers were all members of the Havelock Lodge: Mesrss. Richard Sanderson, W. J. Peoples, William Anderson, Peter White, E. J. Leeson and Robert Buchanan.

Hospital Day Observed at Nicholls

World National Hospital Day, commemorating the birthday of Florence Nightingale, patron saint of Nursing, was observed in Peterborough on Thursday, May 12, when the public were invited to 'open house' at Nicholls Hospital, an invitation which was accepted by over three hundred interested visitors.

As they arrived the guests were received in the lower hall by Mrs. E. M. Leeson, the superintendent, and were conducted in parties through the building, obtaining a first hand impression of the various aspects of hospital work. Under the direction of Mrs. S. J. Graham, president of the Hospital Women's Auxiliary, Mrs. J. Comstock and Mrs. A. H. A. Robson, vice-presidents, members of the Auxiliary acted as guides and were met in the different departments by the nurses, who explained fully the equipment.

From three to six in the afternoon the auxiliary, under the convenorship of Mrs. J. G. Wharry with her committee, served tea in the superintendent's private dining room and in the sunroom.

Lovely colorful bouquets of rose snapdragons and mauve stocks decorated the tea tables with their pretty cloths of laces or cutwork, and waxed apple blossoms made a most effective decoration for plates of cakes and cookies. In the dining room, Mrs. H. Morrow, Mrs. J. M. McCulloch and Mrs. F. M. Dela Fosse presided in turn, and assistants were Mrs. H. Bradburn, Mrs. H. B. Dobson, Mrs. D. T. Diplock and Miss Claire Mason. In the attractive sun-room with its new Venetian blinds, tea was poured by Mrs. A. Moir, Mrs. R. M. Waddell and Mrs. R. E. Cutting, and assistants were Dr. Agnes Moffat, Mrs. Jacob Low and Miss Marian Salmonsen. Mrs. C. Upper and Mrs. R. Ross were in charge of the dining room and sunroom respectively.

It is interesting to note that the Venetian blinds are one of the gifts from the Hospital Women's Auxiliary, for the sunroom, which is situated in a permanent part of the building, and will not be altered when the expected changes and additions are made at Nicholls Hospital.

St. John's Senior Branch Women's Auxiliary Meets

The devotional and business meeting for May of the Senior Branch, St. John's Women's Auxiliary, was held in the Parish Hall. The rector, Canon Robertson, conducted the opening prayers and also gave a wonderful talk on the 13th chapter, First Corinthians, sometimes called "The Psalm of Love."

In the absence of the president, Miss Margaret English presided. The routine business and reading of reports followed; the Dorcas secretary, Mrs. Groombridge, asked each member to bring one yard of print to the next meeting, to provide material for quilts to be made during the summer months.

The annual W.A. picnic will be held on June 14, on the church grounds, Mrs. Dorrington and her refreshment committee to make arrangements.

Mrs. G. Groombridge read a full and detailed report of her visit to the 52nd Diocesan annual meetings held recently in Toronto. All Diocesan pledges were met in full, and all other business was covered in a most interesting manner. The Holy Communion service held in St. James Cathedral was a very inspiring act of worship.

Mrs. F. Craig, president of the "Teen-Age Girls" branch, gave an account of this work in the Diocese. While in Toronto the girls were taken through the Institute for the Blind and were amazed at the skill with which the sewers in the Institute manipulated the electric sewing machines. Mrs. N. Stanger presented the report of the Diocesan Juniors, who will be the W.A. women of the future.

The meeting was closed with the members' prayer and later tea was served by Mrs. Graham.

BOSTON, May 13.—(CP). — Mrs. Agnes Knox Black, native of St. Mary's, Ont. and Snow Professor of Elocution at Boston University, thinks that Shakespeare, like the automobile, is here to stay, says The Canadian News published here. At least, in her courses at College of Liberal Arts she was taking every precaution that interest in the Bard of Avon did not lag.

"Mrs. Black has the reputation of being one of the few directors who make Shakespeare actually sound modern. She has recently staged her latest production, 'Twelfth Night,' with members of the cast exclusively of Boston University.

"Born in Ontario, she began her career at the age of four when she recited 'Bob, the Cabin Boy,' to a large student audience. She still is proud of the fact that the 32 stanzas were given without a tremor.

"Although family objections kept her from the stage, she nevertheless puts her heart into teaching dramatics and recitals. In her work, Mrs. Black has travelled through Canada and the United States.

"On a trip through Western Canada she earned another type of fame—as the first woman to climb above Lake Louise, in the Canadian Rockies, and as the discoverer of a lake which even today is called 'Lake Agnes' in her honor."

THREE OF A KIND

DUBLIN—(CP).—Three claim the honors of oldest women in Ireland—Mrs. O'Connor of MacGillicuddy, certified 110; Mrs. Bridget Guthrie of County Clare, and Mrs. Anna O'Donohue of County Cork, each claiming 112. The first two smoke and the third doesn't.

There are only seven licensed physicians in the entire Yukon Northwest territories.

Initials Worn

(By Central Press)

YOU MAY hang most anything from your smart suit lapel. There is plenty of variety in the ornaments that are being shown for that little but most important accessory, but you must have a lapel pin or clip of some sort.

With a beige suit worn with brown scarf, hat and bag, this young woman has chosen a script initial pin for her lapel. She repeats the initials on her handbag, too. Bisque beige washable doeskin gloves and a feathered hat trim complete her costume.

Talk to Mother On Gramophone

LONDON, May 13—(CP).—Writing in "Overseas," Ward Morgan, actor and singers, says: "I never write to my family, yet I am not one of the heartless to whom editors vainly appeal, 'write to your mother to-night.' When I think a letter is due I just make a gramophone record—result, my sister in New York can put me on her gramophone and play me. The advantage of such one-sided conversation is that you cannot be answered back—at least not immediately.

"More and more people are using gramophone records to save letter-writing, and for other purposes, too. All day through my recording studios passes a procession of men and woman who have come to have their voice or their playing of some instrument, put on a disc.

"I have discovered that not nearly as many people are gramophone shy as 'mike' shy. Indeed, some come to make a record in order to screw up courage for ordeal by microphone. As a singer and actor of experience, I can often help those not familiar with the technique of voice production, singing and microphone."

Advises Change In Personality

NEW YORK, May 13—(CP)—The pronounced individuality of the Dionne quintuplets, in spite of identical experiences and influences, should be a warning to mothers against attempting to make their children alike in personality, Mrs. Sidonie Matsner Gruenberg, head of the Child Study Association, wrote in a recent report.

"Regard for the personality," Mrs. Gruenberg said, means not merely that we must consider the individual as distinguished from other individuals, we must regard the individual as he becomes different day by day.

"It often became necessary to separate the quintuplets and deal with them individually. At about 2½ years, after they had learned to remain asleep until it was time to get up, they began to get up in the bed and start calling each other across the room. They had learned the art of speech and their new interest found expression in a way that cut right across their good habits."

Children, she said, should be studied in connection with their personality as well as their growth.

Mrs. Coats Weds Hussar Officer

LONDON, May 13—(CP). — Mrs. Audrey Coats, widow of Major Jack Coats, millionaire sportsman and formerly Audrey Wilmot, daughter of Mrs. Wilmot and the late Charles Wilmot of Belleville, Ont., and Toronto was quietly married April 16 to Captain Donald Haldeman of the Hussars whose first wife was the sister of Earl De La Warr.

Mrs. Coats has visited Canada every year since she first came to England as a bride.

Adds Formality

Printed rayon crepe dress

A BRIEF, short-sleeved Eton jacket or bolero adds formality to a dress for street wear.

This pretty dress of smooth rayon crepe has a gay astronomical printed pattern. The slim dress is cut on the popular shirt-waist lines, with a contrasting slide fastener at the high front closing, and a tailored self-fabric belt.

Rock Gardens Her Specialty

BRONXVILLE, N.Y., May 13. —(CP)—Mrs. Louise Beebe Wilder, 60, one of the foremost horticultural experts and authors in America, is dead.

Mrs. Wilder, whose one-acre garden in Bronxville attracted visitors from many parts of this country and from abroad, was credited with having been one of the first exponents of rock gardening in America. She suceeded in growing thousands of species of rare and exotic plants which gardeners previously had believed were suited to this climate.

During the last 20 years Mrs. Wilder wrote 10 books, as well as numerous magazine and newspaper articles on gardening.

WOMEN'S WORK AND INTERESTS

Nineteen Canadian Women Were Presented At Court

By Mollie McGee
(Canadian Press Correspondent)

LONDON, May 13—(CP Cable).—Nineteen Canadian women were presented to Their Majesties last night in the second Royal Court of the season at Buckingham Palace. They were among the several hundred British and Dominion presentees who curtsied, gowned in accordance with Court requirements, and with three-feather headdresses, veils and trains. JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

"Tact is the knack of keeping quiet at the right time; of being so agreeable yourself that no one can be disagreeable to you; of making inferiority feel like equality. A tactful man can pull the sting from a bee, without being stung."
—G. H. Lorimer.

Dear Friends:

How much tact have you got, and how much of it do you use? Or are you one of those blunt people who pride themselves on saying what you like when you like, and let the chips fall where they may.

I like to be candid, and I like candid people, but the Lord preserve me from the too candid ones. Never do they see anything to praise or compliment, in fact either one is a sissy thing according to their ideas.

And we need tact. We need to gloss over the faults and failings of others, just as we need them to gloss over ours. You know, I never met a too blunt person, who cared for bluntness used on them. They say they like it, but just try a little on them and see them shy away like a restive colt, and listen to the excuses they make for themselves.

They want all the candidness to come from them not to them. Who has not met the one who barges in "where angels fear to tread." Not for them any fineness or tact. They have made up their mind that this is the time when they must talk, and talk they do, no one can shush them a bit.

What lacerated feelings they leave behind, and sometimes what a feeling of rage they engender, so that one feels like breaking them in two. They want nothing to do with agreeableness, that to them, is being soft.

But tact used judicially is a grand thing. It can smooth the way for those who are unsure of themselves. It can take away that curse, the feeling of inferiority. It can take the sting out of raw truth, so that we are benefitted by what we are told.

So many of us do not object to the truth, but do object to the way we are told it. There are those who cannot tell us the truth without making us feel like a worm. They take a "holier than thou" attitude and in doing so, hurt far more than they help.

And tact does not mean submerging yourself in another. It doesn't mean always saying yes when you should say no. What it truly means is just the way a doctor coats the pills he gives us with chocolate, so that we do not taste the bitterness.

And if you are disliked, if people do not seem to want you, do not get up on your hind legs and say it is because they cannot stand the truth. It isn't the truth they cannot stand, but your brand of it. They want a little tac used on hem when you are holding forth.

So many wilfully sting another without reason. They get a false pleasure out of it. And if you resent it, they leave you holding the bag by shreiking truth at you.

There are lots of truths which should never be uttered, for they do no one any good. Consider also, if you were chosen to go around cleaning up other people's yards. Take a look at your own, and maybe you will be so busy with rake and shovel, you'll have no time to go telling some other what they should do.

Oh I love truth as I love life. If I have done wrong, I will take my medicine without whimpering. But if I know the truth about myself, why should some busybody come barging around and tell me all over again.

So consider that as you go through life. Be as considerate with others as you are with yourself. Make excuses for them as you do for yourself, and if you must tell the truth, use tact and courtesy in the telling of it, so that you hurt as little as possible. Tact is like the freezing the dentist puts in your tooth so that the pain won't be too awful. Use more of it, and hold your friends longer.

Hoping I am tactful in writing you, I am, Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

ORILLIA INDIANS FIGHT TEST CASE ON FISHING RIGHT

OTTAWA, May 13—(CP).—Officials of the Indian Affairs Branch believe Indians have the right to fish in Lake St. John on the Rama Reserve near Orillia under the terms of old treaties.

A test case was brought against four Indians in Orillia yesterday to determine whether the lake is within the limits of the Reserve. Government officials believe it is, but are waiting for the decision of Magistrate C. F. Bick in the case.

The understanding here is that the lake is entirely surrounded by reserve land. If this is found to be so the Indians may spear fish under old treaties giving them rights to take game and fish on their land "so long as the grass grows and the water runs."

Aged Chief Speaks Up.

ORILLIA, OOnt., May 13—(CP)—Chief John Bigwin, 99-year-old patriarch who claims the hereditary chieftainship of the Ojibway Indian tribe on the Rama Reserve, came out of retirement yesterday to plead for his "children," four Rama Reserve Indians who appeared in Police Court on charges of spearing fish in closed seasons.

Clad in the full regalia of his tribe, Chief Bigwin, almost sightless, was led into the court room by one of his younger followers. The hearing was considered a test case. The Indians claim the territory on which they were fishing was part of the reserve where the Indians have special privileges and provincial game laws do not apply.

"Queen Victoria told my grandfather, my father and myself that so long as the grass grows and the water runs I and my children may hunt and fish for ever and ever," Chief Bigwin told Magistrate C. F. Bick. He brandished a time-yellowed document which the Chief claimed was the original treaty Queen Victoria made with the Red men.

Old Cobourg Boy O'Meara Passes

DETROIT, May 12 — (CP). — Frederick C. O'Meara, 69, native of Cobourg, Ont., formerly widely known in political and Episcopal church circles in Detroit, will be buried here to-day.

Educated at Upper Canada College, Toronto, he began his career as a telegraph operator for the Grand Trunk Western Railroad and later served as a brakeman and fireman on that line, as well as on the Canadian Pacific and other railways here and in Canada. He then entered the ministry, following his father, Rev. Charles O'Meara, and occupied parishes in various parts of Canada and the United States. He died at Buffalo, N.Y., Sunday.

Surviving are his widow, a son, a daughter, a sister, Katherine, of Toronto, and two brothers.

VETERAN BROKER DEAD

TORONTO, May 13—(CP).—John Kilpatrick Niven, a member of the Toronto Stock Exchange for 47 years and since his retirement an honorary member, died in Toronto General Hospital from injuries received in a fall some time ago.

Mr. Niven bought a seat on the exchange for $2,000 in 1882 and sold it in 1928 for $175,000. At the time of his retirement he was the oldest living member of the Exchange.

Canadian Eggs Shipped To Great Britain

Fifteen hundred cases of Canadian eggs were recently shipped to Glasgow, Scotland from Montreal. It was the largest shipment of eggs to be shipped overseas in a number of years With the co-operation of the Marketing Service, Dominion department of agriculture, the shipment was gathered from farmers' co-operative organizations throughout the Dominion. Several cases of the eggs are shown Above being loaded aboard a vessel at Montreal.

U.S. FALLS TAKING HORSESHOE SHAPE

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., May 13.—(AP).—Officials reported to-day that Niagara Falls once more changed its shape slightly during the past winter, and the United States Falls is taking on a horseshoe shape similar to that of the famous Canadian Horseshoe Falls.

The City Publicity Department announced that a survey had revealed that the crest of the United States Falls had developed a more decided saw-tooth appearance than in former years. Two V-shaped indentations have appeared in the crest, each about 20 to 30 feet deep.

"It is clearly evident that erosion is progressing at a rapid rate and that the heretofore fairly even and straight American Falls is taking on a horse-shoe shape, similar to tht on the Canadian side of the river," the Bureau reported.

Britain Demands Mexico Pay Up

LONDON, May 13—(CP Cable).—The British Government today demanded the immediate payment of 370,962 pesos (approximately $185,000) by Mexico. It is the annual instalment, due January 1, for claims arising from revolutionary actions between 1910 and 1920.

The British note complains that a similar debt due the United States Government has been punctually discharged "and His Majesty's Government are at a loss to understand this apparently discriminatory treatment of two governments with equal title."

Musical Festival Starts On May 18

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, May 13.—An estimated 1,500 people will attend the second annual Musical Festival for Northumberland which is being held for three days in Colborne beginning on May 18. So large is the number of entrants that it has been found necessary to hold three sessions each day with the final grand concert of the prize winners culminating the Festival on Friday evening. Among the classes having the largest field are the Class 16 rural school chorus in which are 37 entries listed. Vocalists including solos, duets, trios, quartettes, choirs and choruses form the largest group but there are also between fifty and sixty pianists and several violinists listed on the program which is being held on an even larger scale than the festival held in Warkworth last year.

MARMORA

MRS. J. GARDENIER HEADS INSTITUTE

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, May 13. — The annual meeting of Marmora Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Gordon Jarvis on Tuesday, with the president, Mrs. W. C. Spry, in the chair. The meeting opened with "O Canada" and the Institute Ode. The Institute Creed and the Lord's Prayer were recited. The roll-call was: How we can improve our Institute.

Following reading of the minutes of the last annual meeting, convenors of committees reported for the year's work.

Mrs. J. C. Pills, Ivanhoe, district president, was then introduced to the meeting. She gave a splendid talk on the procedure adopted at the district annual meeting and also interested her hearers with a narration of some of her experiences overseas during the Great War. Miss Flora Sanderson next gave two appropriate vocal numbers. The district president then took the chair for the election of officers which resulted as follows:

President, Mrs. J. Gordenier; first vice-president, Mrs. W. J. Pack; second vice-president, Mrs. C. Hamilton; secretary-treasurer, Miss G. Warren; pianist, Mrs. F. R. A delicious lunch was served before the meeting adjourned.

MISSION WORK DOOMED

TAVISTOCK, Ont., May 13 (CP) —The words "God Is Love," painted on th water tower in Tavistock and visible along every entrance to the village, may be erased. An outside mission paid for the inscription, but the Public Utilities Commission is likely to repaint the tower soon, as it is badly weathered.

LACK OF RESPECT

WINDSOR, Ont., May 12 (C.P.).—Greatest problem of the Jew today is not anti-Semitism, but lack of respect for himself, Rabbi Milton Steinberg, noted Jewish author, orator, and scholar of New York, told 500 Windsor Jews here last night in the opening meeting of the United Palestine Appeal for sending harassed Jews of Eastern and Central Europe to Palestine. He contended many Jews of the United States and Canada did not want to be Jewish. Many of them hated themselves and were anti-Semitists.

DUCE SKEPTICAL OF CONCLUDING FRENCH TREATY

Says Italy Wants Peace But Is On Opposite Side Of Barricades in Spain

GENOA, Italy, May 14 (CP-Havas).—Doubt as to the possibility concluding a Franco-Italian accord was expressed here today by Premier Musolini in a speech before 300,000 cheering followers.

"I do not know whether we will reach an agreement with France, because in the Spanish war we are on the other side of the barricades," he declared.

Proclaiming that Italy desires peace, the Fascist leader warned that "the world should realize that the totalitarian states will form a bloc if necessary."

"Italy retains the loyal friendship of Germany," Mussolini said. "Today the German and Roman worlds are in contact," he continued. "Their collaboration can only be fruitful."

In the vast crowd were 200,000 persons who had come in from the countryside to greet Il Duce on his first visit in 12 years to this largest Italian port.

Explains Austrian Stand

In explaining the change in Italy's attitude regarding Austro-German union between the assassination of Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss in 1934 and the final German annexation of Austria, Il Duce said:

"It was the will of Italy which dictated its attitude in the Anschluss question."

Referring then to Great Britain, he said "There was much misunderstanding and ignorance in our relations with this country."

"It is high time to comprehend Italy," he added, "to know this people which in 20 years has given tremendous proofs of its worth.

"The London-Rome accord is an agreement between two empires which extend from the Mediterranean through the Red Sea to the Indian Ocean.

"It is our determination to respect this accord scrupulously. The favorable way in which it was received by the world is proof of its value."

Hostile cries broke from the crowd at each mention of France as Mussolini expressed his misgivings regarding conclusion of an agreement with that country.

DISTANCE BOMBER CRASHES AT SEA

BRISTOL, England, May 14. (CP-Havas).—A long-range Royal Air Force bomber crashed in flames near Bristol today, killing one of its two occupants.

The plane was believed to have been a Vickers Wellesley machine, of a type designed for a try at the world's long-distance record.

M. P. H. Warren, a civil technician, was burned to death. Flight Lieut. C. A. Washer saved himself by a parachute leap when flames began to spread from the motor.

The accident brought R.A.F. accidents for the year to 46. Warren, though not an aviation officer, was the 77th person to die in such crashes.

The airplane was on a test flight when it cracked up. It is the second R. A. F. machine of this type to be lost, a similar plane having disappeared with a crew of four Feb 24 off the coast of northern Scotland, while on a flight around the British Isles.

It was understood the accident would not affect plans for an attempt at the long-distance record, which will be made in another machine of the same type.

Father Ducharme will entrain for Quebec on May 23.

Countess Swapped For Two Spies

Warsaw, May 14 (CP-Havas) COUNTESS Octavia Wielopolska, member of one of Poland's oldest noble families, and recently sentenced to life imprisonment for spying by a German court, was rumored tonight to have been exchanged for two German spies jailed in Poland. Berlin despatches to Warsaw newspapers said the Countess was conducted to the Polish frontier, where the exchange took place.

BRITAIN, MEXICO CEASE RELATIONS OVER UNPAID DEBT

MEXICO CITY, May 14.—(AP)—Mexico and Great Britain came to a diplomatic parting of the ways today for the third time in two decades.

Offended at Great Britain's "unfriendly attitude" arising from President Lazaro Cardenas' expropriation March 19 of British oil properties valued at $250,000,000, the Mexico government announced withdrawal of its minister in London. Primo Villa Michel, and closing of its legation there.

It was expected the British minister to Mexico, Owen O'Malley, who presented his credentials only last November, would be recalled. Mr. O'Malley himself said such action as Mexico took was rarely unilateral.

Local quarters held it likely that Great Britain, who already had announced her intention of boycotting Mexican oil, would follow the severance of diplomatic relations with economic measures designed to bring the Cardenas government to terms.

There was no indication, however, as to what form these measures would take.

The Trade Situation

Mexico bought from Great Britain in 1935 and 1936 respectively goods worth 23,400,000 and 23,700,000 pesos and sold her goods worth 76,200,000 and 26,8000,00 pesos, so that cessation of commercial interchange would hurt this country most. (The peso was quoted yesterday at from 4.28 to 4.32 to the United States dollar).

50 Fall In Cellar As Floor Gives

7 Bargain Hunters Hurt at Hamilton Auction Sale As Panic Jam at Door Breaks Beams

HAMILTON, Ont., May 14 (CP).—Splintered beams and smashed flooring cluttered the cellar today in the home of Arthur Meppin, evidence of the near tragedy that occurred when 50 persons attending an auction sale were plunged into the basement when a floor collapsed.

The seven-foot fall yesterday, brought injuries to several persons. The crash came after the crowd of bargain hunters, warned by the first crackle of splitting timber, bolted in a mass for the door. So great was the crush the door was blocked and the floor gave way under the concentrated weight.

Most seriously injured was Mrs. Barask Korwoch, 72, who was taken to hospital suffering a broken foot. Others known injured were Mrs. Mary Hall, Thomas Bolton, Mrs. Mary Toinkovitch, and Andrew Wilson, 70. Police said several others were injured but left the scene of the accident after being taken from the cellar.

Meppin, who owns the central Hamilton property, had just completed arrangements for its sale and the auction was for the purpose of disposing of household contents. He intends to leave for Scotland next week.

Auctioneer Harry Thomas said their was no indication of trouble until the house supports began to sag.

Wallpaper Sees 80 Years Service

Lindsay, Ont., May 14 (CP) WALLPAPER in the home of Norman McGill at Janetville, 12 miles south of Lindsay, is fresh and bright after 80 years of service. Perhaps the oldest wallpaper in Ontario, the silver grey paper was put up 20 years after the home was built by McGill's grandfather. Expensive then, it is believed to be a French or English hand print, similar in design to modern inlaid linoleum.

DEMAND IS MADE OTTAWA REVEAL DEFENCE POLICY

OTTAWA, May 14.—(CP)—Alleged vulnerability of Canada if war should come, particularly on the Pacific, was pressed upon the House of Commons in yesterday's debates. It was suggested the government had no defence plan and claimed that if there was a plan the people should be told of it.

When Defence Minister Mackenzie's estimates were before the committee of the whole, Howard Green (Con. Vancouver South) urged the government to reveal its policy on defence.

If war came to the Pacific, the only protection would be the United States navy since the British fleet was 7,000 miles away at Singapore, Mr. Green said. Evidently Canada was depending on the United States navy for defence.

In the event of war with Japan there were 1,200 Japanese fishing vessels on the British Columbia coast that would have to be reckoned with, while the Canadian government was buying two second-hand destroyers from the British navy, Mr. Green said. He urged construction of an adequate defence fleet and the borrowing of a "mosquito fleet" from Great Britain in the meantime.

If the government had a defence policy it should take the people into its confidence as was the case in Great Britain and Australia. If it had no plan it was derelict in its duty.

Upset On Corner In Chase At Stratford

Police Lie in Wait After Tip Car on Way From Job Robbing Willow Grove Creamery; Reporter Nips Dash for Liberty at Station

STRATFORD, Ont., May 14 (CP).—Three Toronto men, alleged to have tried to blow open a safe at the Willow Grove Creamery after a break-in, were arrested by Stratford police today when their automobile upset in a 70-mile-an-hour chase through city streets.

Arrested were Lewis Beaver, Leo Grieg and Jack Stone, all believed to be about 27, charged with breaking and entering. Police said they took an assortment of burglars' tools from the trio's overturned coupe.

Not long after Sergeant George Walker and P. C. Joe Taylor had taken the men from the upturned coupe, it is alleged one attempted to escape from the office at police headquarters when being searched. A general scrap ensued but the trio was overpowered.

They will appear before Magistrate J. A. Makins in police court today charged with breaking and entering. Police said it was likely other charges would be laid.

Taken from the car after it had been uprighted, and removed to headquarters was a supply of burglar tools, including chisels, a loaded .32 calibre revolver, flashlight, hammer, jimmy and packages of tinfoil. There was also a supply of other tools and some gloves.

Sees Two At Work

Mrs. N. W. Stacey, wife of one of the Stacey brothers, proprietors of the Willow Grove creamery, situated on No. 23 highway, three miles north of Mitchell, saw a car parked in front of the creamery across from their house. She saw lights on in the front office of the creamery. A few minutes later she heard three or four muffled explosions.

Realizing someone had blown the safe, she telephoned police, notifying Provincial Traffic Officer Jack W. Callander, of Mitchell.

While Officer Callander was en route to the creamery the car in which the three were riding passed him. He did not know it at the time but when he reached the creamery Mrs. Stacey described the car and occupants.

Callander telephoned Stratford police notifying them to watch for the car. He also telephoned Goderich and London police.

By the time Stratford police received the call the wanted car was well on the way to this city from Mitchell.

Police Have Short Wait

As a precautionary measure, Sergeant George Walker and P. C. Joseph Taylor, drove the police car to the westerly limits of the city and there, with the lights out and the motor still running, they waited. In a few minutes they heard a car travelling along No. 8 highway at a terrific speed.

The two cars travelled down Huron street. P. C. Taylor who was at the wheel of the police car said he had the accelerator down to the floor boards. It was estimated the vehicles were travelling about 70 miles per hour.

LOYALIST AIR RAID THROWS A SCARE INTO REBEL RANKS

HENDAYE, France, May 14 (AP).—A surprise attack by 50 government airplanes injected a new factor into operations on the eastern Spanish front today as the insurgent offensive against Valencia gained headway.

The insurgent air force, long dominant in eastern Spain, hurriedly called for plane reinforcements. The government mass attack over Cantavieja, 40 miles northeast of Teruel, came in the wake of reports 300 government planes had been unloaded at Barcelona.

Eighteen insurgent ships engaged in the Gantavieja fight and reported shooting down seven government planes without losing any themselves. The government fleet finally flew away in the direction of Barcelona.

(Insurgent bombers raided Barcelona twice early today and twice yesterday, killing and wounding 200 persons, according to dispatches from the government seaport. The raiders flew in from the Mediterranean, presumably from the insurgent base at Palma, Mallorca.)

Seizure of nearly 600 square miles of territory in the past three days enabled the insurgents to rectify their line curving eastward from Teruel to the sea.

With powerful artillery fire, airplane bombardment and infantry attacks supported by tanks, General Franco's forces ripped open government defences established in 1937 as a subsidiary line guarding Valencia. The area was infested with machine-gun nests and strong trench fortifications.

Shot By His Father Lad To Be Blind

NEW YORK, May 14 (AP) — Three-year-old Anthony S. Modleski, Jr., shot by his policeman father, will be blind if he lives, hospital physicians said today. He is near death.

The boy was wounded and his two brothers, William, one, and Joseph, four, and his mother, Antoinette, were slain at dawn yesterday as they lay sleeping.

Patrolman Modleski, 36, carefully placed the muzzle of his gun behind the left ear of each victim before pulling the trigger. Then he put a bullet through his own head. He had been brooding over ill health.

TWO ARE HURT WHEN TRUCK, CAR COLLIDE

Truck Hits Ditch After Collision South of Fraserville

Mrs. Sandy McManus of Bridgenorth is in St. Joseph's Hospital suffering from an injured hip, bruises, shock and a possible fracture of the pelvis and Mrs. Maurice W. Tolton, 610 George Street, is in the same institution with a fractured nose, facial lacerations and bruises as the result of a spectacular accident on Highway 28 about a mile and a half South of Fraserville shortly after 9 o'clock Friday night.

Maurice Tolton, the alleged driver of the truck involved in the crash was brought into the police station shortly after the accident and afterward removed to St. Joseph's Hospital for observation.

The crack-up happened near the brow of a hill when the truck carrying the Tolton party collided with a car being driven south by W. E. Stevens, 87 Gladstone Avenue who was accompanied by his sister Miss E. M. Stevens of the same address. Stevens told the police that he had pulled over to the right hand side of the road as far as possible when he saw the other car coming over the hill and that the truck struck the right hand front of his car and then swerved off the highway into the deep ditch. There it turned completely upside down, striking a tree as it somersaulted and came to rest with its four wheels in the air and the radiator buried deep in the mud at the bottom of the ditch. Tolton escaped apparently unhurt.

Neither Stevens or his sister was injured by the crash and the Stevens car escaped with damage to the front of the machine. The truck was almost completely wrecked.

ONTARIO TORIES YIELD TO JULY 21

TORONTO, May 14 (CP).—Ontario Conservatives prepared today for a party convention July 21 at which the party leadership and policies are expected to be under discussion. Executive of the Ontario Conservatives Association decided at a meeting here yesterday to hold the convention, originally scheduled for May 28, and postponed until October, two weeks after the Dominion party convention in Ottawa.

R. C. Wood, who terms himself acting secretary of the "Committee for Conservative Action," which recently has pressed for the holding of a general meeting in June, announced his satisfaction with the executive decision. The executive had done "the best it could and we accept that," he said.

The convention will be the first since 1936, when Hon. Earl Rowe, member of Parliament for Dufferin-Simcoe, was chosen leader, succeeding former Premier George S. Henry. Mr. Rowe suffered personal defeat in last October's Provincial election and the party is led in the Legislature by Leopold Macaulay, member for York South.

The executive yesterday declined to admit Wood to its meeting at which the committee for action's demand for a June convention was reported to have been discussed. Wood said after the meeting the committee, which he claims includes many prominent Conservatives, would demand at the convention a new leader be elected, and a new progressive platform adopted. The committee then would disband, he said.

Barber Jailed As Price-Cutter Vows "He'll Show 'Em"

Oklahoma Claims He Was Railroaded Only Under Charged "Poor" Fellows

CUSHING, Okla., May 14—(AP)—Jail failed to convince W. L. Tennyson of the virtue of a state barber price-fixing law, and he emerged under bond yesterday vowing he would "show 'em" who was boss in the shop he has run for 18 years.

"And he'll charge 15 cents if he wants to," said Walter Matthews, lawyer for the barber who went to jail Wednesday because he cut a man's hair for 25 cents in a zone where the state law fixed the minimum at 40 cents.

The Oklahoma state supreme court issued a writ of habeas corpus for Tennyson's release under $100 bond, directing Sheriff F. F. Fisher to show cause on Wednesday why Tennyson was held in jail at Stillwater, the county seat.

"I was railroaded," said the middle-aged barber. "They didn't give me a chance. Two men came into my shop, and I charged them 25 cents for a hair cut. They went to Stillwater and made complaint, and the court issued a restraining order. I didn't have a chance to talk. I was charging 40 cents all right, but when some poor fellow came in who didn't have that much I cut his hair for a quarter."

Czechs On Verge Of Showdown Over Nazi Minority

Praha Hints Autonomy Will Not Be Granted, Nor Her Foreign Policy Changed

LONDON, May 14—(CP Cable)—Within a few days, it is expected, the government of Czechoslovakia will have completed its new plan to meet demands of the German minorities. Great Britain and France have urged that the Praha government should go to the utmost limit possible in securing a complete settlement of this problem which still hangs in menace over the peace of Europe.

They approached Berlin direct with a plea that Germany should do what she can to advance the settlement. Berlin, it is believed, does not recede from its original position that the question of minorities is one for the Sudeten Germans and the Praha government, not for Anglo-German negotiations.

The Germans, however, will welcome the British move in Praha if it will have the effect of persuading the Czech government to accept demands by Konrad Henlein, Sudeten German leader now visiting London.

Of eight demands by Henlein, it is over two that conflict is most likely to arise. They call first for complete self-government for the German minority, second for complete revision of Czech foreign policy which at present is bound up in alliance with France and Soviet Russia.

Find 4 Cripples Hidden 14 Years

BOSTON, May 14 (AP).—Children's organizations today pushed an investigation of the case of two Roxbury brothers and two sisters said to have been hidden in a squalid flat for 14 years because none was able either to walk or talk.

Robert C. True, agent for the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, said the four, offspring of a 73-year-old father and 53-year-old mother, included boys 25 and 15 and girls 23 and 14. The younger boy was blind as well as dumb, he said. All were suffering from disease.

30 Women Rip Clothes Off Non-Striker To Delight Of 400 Calgary Crowd

Calgary, May 14 (CP) KICKED and beaten and his clothes practically torn from his body, a 54-year-old relief recipient was rescued by police from a group of 30 women relief strike sympathizers in east Calgary last night.

Followed from the relief office, the man, a non-striker, said he could not identify any of the women. Since the relief strike for higher allowances started here April 6, he has worked on civic projects. He had gone to the relief office to draw his bi-monthly vouchers.

Eight women followed him from the office and later were joined by another group who attacked him. Royal Canadian Mounted Police officers rescued him.

The attack was witnessed by 400 persons who gathered on the street corner and traffic was halted until a squad of city police arrived. No arrests were made.

Heavy Exports Onto British Market Firms Price Of Eggs In Canada

Ottawa, May 14 (CP) THE FIRM CONDITION of the egg market throughout Canada is the immediate result of the despatch with which producers' associations and members of the trade in both eastern and western Canada have taken advantage of the export opportunities on the British market, a Department of Agriculture statement said yesterday.

"On Thursday of this week Montreal spot prices advanced 24 cents for grade A large eggs, the highest price in May recorded on the market in the last eight years," the statement said. "This price is eight cents a dozen above that of the same date last year and reflects the general trend of the egg market throughout Canada.

ARREST MADE IN OWEN SOUND MURDER CASE

String Needed on Trigger To Uphold Suicide Idea, But None is Discovered

OWEN SOUND, Ont., May 14.—(CP).—An arrest was made to-day during police investigation of the mysterious death of one-armed 28-year-old William Waterton, found dead of shotgun wounds in his stone shack Thursday.

Sergeant Jack McCaffrey and two constables arrested Harry Dales early to-day at the home of Howard Hooey in Owen Sound. He was charged as a vagrant and held as a material witness in the death of Waterton. Dales was to come before a magistrate to-day for a formal remand.

Dr. E. R. Frankish, Ontario Government medico-legal expert, is still examining the death of Waterton and no date has been set for an inquest. The shotgun which fatally wounded Waterton was found near the body but police were inclined to the belief the chicken-raiser was killed, and did not commit suicide doubting that a one-armed man could have inflicted such injuries on himself except by propping up the gun and pulling the trigger with a string. There was no string attached to the gun.

WHEAT TRADING CONTINUES DULL

WINNIPEG, May 14 (CP)—The fourth consecutive week of consistently dull wheat trading on Winnipeg grain exchange ended today, marked by erratic fluctations which checked a three-weeks decline of prices. This was attributed to variable crop conditions of world producing countries and continued lack of moderate demand for bread wheats.

Only feature of the session, and a drab one, was liquidation of Winnipeg July future by southern interests that carried the price down 2⅞ cents for the week. May and October closed yesterday, ⅝-¾ cent higher, at $1.16⅝ and 88⅝ cents, respectively.

Apart from minor export investment in the futures' pit, dealings generally were local or involving intermarket spreading. Canadian export sales were small, mostly of odd loads for Atlantic seaboard shipment.

NAZIS SENTENCE CRAMM TO YEAR

BERLIN, May 14 (A.P.). — Baron Gottfried Von Cramm, Germany's top-ranking tennis star, to-day was sentenced to a year in prison for violation of a Nazi moral delinquency statute.

Von Cramm, scion of a highly-placed German family, was found guilty of improper relations with an 18-year-old Jewish youth, Manasse Herbst, who emigrated to Jerusalem on March 15, 1936.

His conviction came quickly after he was placed on trial secretly in grim Moabit Criminal Court.

Two months were deducted from his sentence for time already served since he was arrested on March 5 at the end of an Australian tennis tour.

Confession, Record, Helped

The presiding judge in sentencing Von Cramm said his meritorious achievements for German tennis, his youth and his "frank and earnest confession of guilt" were considered extenuating circumstances.

Stern-faced and weary looking, the handsome tennis ace stood with head bowed when the verdict was pronounced. The public and press, excluded from the trial, were readmitted to hear the verdict and the court's opinion.

The jury declared Von Cramm's alleged association with Herbst was grave, especially after "the Roehm affair" which should have been a warning.

(Captain Ernst Roehm, commander of the Nazi storm troops, was killed in the Nazi blood purge June 30, 1934. He was reputed to have been leader of a group who practised loose morals.)

The court opinion said Herbst blackmailed Von Cramm for a sum of between 20,000 and 30,000 marks ($8,000 to $12,000).

The presiding judge declared Von Cramm admitted being driven into Herbst's company because of unhappiness with his wife, from whom he has since been divorced.

More than 1,000,000 bags of coffee are being shipped out of Brazil every month.

Heavens Preparing For Two Spectacular Shows This Month

The moon's eclipse as seen through a telescope

A photograph of the sun's mysterious pearly white corona, extending far out around the black disk of the moon during total eclipse.

Diagram shows the moon throwing a cone-shaped shadow on the earth during an eclipse.

Grandest spectacle the sky can offer is an eclipse. There will be two of them, a lunar and a solar eclipse, in May. The total lunar eclipse is scheduled for May 14, the solar May 29. The beginning of the lunar eclipse will be visible from North America generally, but the ending only from central and western parts. The solar eclipse will be seen only by a few in the southern hemisphere. During a lunar eclipse the moon enters the earth's shadow; during a solar eclipse the moon passes between the sun and the earth.

MRS. H. PAYNE WINS CONTEST

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BETHANY, May 14.—The Women's Institute of the Bethany branch met at the home of the president this week for their regular monthly meeting. An apron contest had been announced at the previous meeting for the prettiest apron on exhibit, the winner to receive a prize for the same. Mrs. Harold Payne was the happy recipient, Mrs. Kyle and Mrs. Fallis acting as judges for the contest.

Discussion followed regarding other facilities to be added to fire protection equipment. A pump purchase for cistern was deferred for a time and another engine to be purchased, a committee was appointed to act regarding engine problem.

Mrs. Armstrong, Mrs. H. Payne and Mrs. F. W. Reynolds were appointed delegates to annual district meeting, to be held in near future at Bailleboro. Miss Thompson and Mrs. Payne were appointed a committee to interview and employ someone to clean cistern in connection with adjacent property, situated close to the town hall, for use in case of fire.

Mrs. Thorndyke, Misses Bray and Thompson were appointed to take charge of arranging the quilt blocks which have been donated by members. The sum of $10 had recently been spent adjusting piano in the town hall and decided those requiring the use of it must apply for the key, to either one of piano committee, Mrs. Price or Mrs. Sid Armstrong. Mrs. Carscadden was empowered to add at any time, refills to First Aid kit.

Mrs. Thorndyke, supervisor, and group will be in charge of the June meeting. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting. Mrs. Thorndyke proposed a vote of thanks to the hostess for her fine hospitality.

JAP TROOPS CUT LUNGHAI RAILWAY

SHANGHAI, May 14 (AP)—A Japanese army communique said today the vital Lunghai Railway—objective of Japan's central China campaign — had bee cut east of Tangshan. Mobile troops reaching the line immediately blew up a bridge.

Traffic over the railway, running east and west through the heart of central China's rich agricultural area, had been blocked shortly before by aerial bombardment, disrupting transportation of war supplies to China's huge army defending the region.

In reaching the railway the Japanese achieved a goal for which they have been battling five months. Japanese army spokesmen said 400,000 Chinese troops were trapped in the Suchow area, with no choice other than to surrender or face annihilation. Suchow was violently bombed, with 100 civilians killed.

MORE ABOUT—CZECHS

Information here is that while the Czech Government is prepared to go far in the interests of peace, it cannot accept these demands as they stand. The Czechs assert complete autonomy for the German minority would mean throwing the frontiers open to attack. To change foreign policy at the demand of Henlein would mean the German minority rules Czechoslovakia.

Thus, while the great powers move behind the scenes for peace, the dividing line between Germans and Czechs is still sharply drawn. The test will come when Praha announces the concessions it is prepared to make.

If Henlein insists on complete autonomy with abandonment of the treaty with Russia, there will be danger of a new international crisis for there seems no doubt from present indications he will have German support.

just barely missed a heavy stone bridge wall. The car mounted the sidewalk but careened back to the centre of the road and shot around the sharp turn from Huron street into Ontario street.

The car nearly made the Ontario street turn but the front wheels began to slide and the machine turned over a few feet east of the Hydro shop. The three occupants were trapped inside.

Taylor and Walker went to the wrecked car, Sergeant Walker carried his gun. They pulled the three occupants of the car out of the overturned machine, one at a time, and put them in the police van.

Try Break for Freedom

In the police station, while police were booking them, one of the trio made a dash for freedom. The other two took heart and tried the same trick.

Joseph I. Dolan, local newspaperman who was in the police station, saw the attempted break and he dashed to a swing door which is hung on one end of the police sergeant's desk and blocked the passage to the outer door. Dolan pushed against the door and prevented the one man who was free from getting away. Police were able to catch him after Dolan delayed his sudden attempted flight.

When police searched the overturned car at the scene of the accident they found the .32 calibre revolver on the floor.

Identification cards found on the trio after they had been searched by police at headquarters showed that the coupe was the property of Lewis Beaver, one of those held.

Police believed he was driving the car.

Company, along with 16 other British and United States companies, prepared the way for the diplomatic break.

Twice in recent weeks Mr. O'Malley presented demands for return of the properties, asserting there had been a "denial of justice," and political motives in the seizure, and twice Mexico refused.

The Direct Cause.

A small bill for 370,926.71 pesos, less than $100,000, and Britain's insistence that it be paid was the direct cause of the rupture, however. The bill was for the third of 12 annual instalments on British claims growing out of Mexico's civil wars. Payment was due January 1. Several times recently Mr. O'Malley had inquired informally about the matter and received no reply. Wednesday he delivered a formal note.

He told the Mexican Government its attitude toward this bill and toward "government indebtedness generally," was "far from reassuring" and "in itself rendered unjustified an expropriation, an essential condition of which would be payment of full and adequate compensation."

Foreign Minister Eduardo Hay in his reply yesterday sharply challenged Great Britain's right to "analyze the domestic situation in Mexico."

TWEED

WOMAN IS JAILED AS MOONSHINER

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, May 14. — Confiscating large quantities of alleged home-brew beer and numerous bottles of home-made wine, Chief Constable C. J. Hayes of Tweed and Provincial Constable A. Dymond, Madoc, arrested Mrs. Bertha Lee, Actinolite, at her home late on Thursday, charging the woman with infractions of the Liquor Control Act, to wit, unlawfully selling liquor. Mrs. Lee was later escorted to the Hastings County Jail.

Ross McGeachy, Actinolite, was also arrested on charges of selling liquor, and also lodged in the County Jail by the same two investigating officers.

There was no connection between the two cases, however.

Monthly meteorological statistics for April revealed that the maximum temperature of 83 degrees was recorded on the 27th, with an average maximum temperature of 56 degrees for the month. The minimum temperature of 15 degrees was recorded on the 6th with average minimum for the month of 35 degrees.

The precipitation of 2.43 inches was .12 inches below the monthly April average of 2.55 inches. Precipitation was recorded on 19 days of the month with 13 days recording rain and 6 days snow.

The average maximum temperature of 56 degrees was 3 degrees above the 1937 April average of 53 degrees; while the average minimum temperature of 35 degrees was 2 degrees above the 1937 April average.

Food Worries Over For A Few Days

Two youngsters who know they will eat for a few days at least, while the rest of Cleveland and other large Ohio cities face the gravest hunger crisis in years. The kiddies were pictured in their carriage which is laden with cabbages and potatoes and, wonder of wonders! Two pounds of butter. Over 25,000 Cleveland families are facing starvation because of ineligibility for federal WPA grants. Glass and automobile workers, recently laid off in Toledo, Dayton and Columbus because of the slump in the auto industry, face the same crisis. Failure of the Ohio general assembly to make adequate provision for unemployables on relief is blamed for the pitiful situation.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, May 14 (C.P.). — Reports of severe dust storms in Saskatchewan Friday induced scattered local short-covering on Winnipeg Grain Exchange. Wheat futures closed 1¼ to ⅛ cent higher, May $1.16⅜, July $1.05½ to ⅝, and October 88⅜ cents.

Volume of trade was small as prices for the greater part of the session moved within a narrow range.

The July option slumped a cent on Southern selling, but the May and October held steady with reports drifting in of continued damage in the Oklahoma Panhandle winter wheat area.

Liverpool finished ⅝ to ¾d lower. Buenos Aires at noon was ⅞ to 1 cent down.

Cash wheat red spring spreads improved, while Durums eased ½ cent in dull trading. Nos. 1 and 2 were up 1 and ½ cent, respectively. Coarse grain futures were firm at Winnipeg.

Decided significance in Chicago was attached to cables that the new Australian crop was off to a bad start. A handicap, however, to Chicago price upturns was the fact that North American export takings yesterday totalled but 200,000 bushels. Another transient weight on values came from the fact that Australian shipments were still large and from assertions that Argentina was getting closer to a competitive basis.

Corn, rye and oats sympathized with wheat upturns at Chicago. Corn export business totalled 250,000 bushels. Buyers of May rye found difficulty filling orders.

Chicago provisions paralleled upturns of hog values and of grains.

Biblical Thoughts For The Shut-Ins

By Rev. E. R. James
Toronto

THE CONFLICT OF IDEAS.

The scribes and pharisees watched Jesus whether He would heal on the Sabbath that they might find an accusation against Him.—St. Luke 6: 6.

A great Teacher had arisen in Israel. He was not only a Teacher but a Healer. This healing was a help to His teaching, which was a higher and greater work. He came to teach the people what they all wanted to know. What is God like? It is the question of your child, your friend and you should be able to answer it. They came to be healed, they remained to listen.

Of course, multitudes flocked to hear Him. "The common people heard Him gladly." What an ideal for the true preacher. His teaching was so simple, direct and yet so deep that the greatest thinkers of the ages have been attracted to Him. "Never man spake as this Man."

It follows also that He did not appeal to all men. On the skirts of the crowd that stood around Him were the "Doctors of Divinity," the scribes, the official teachers, listening intently. They, the intellectuals, soon recognized that His teaching absolutely contradicted theirs. Boldly He struck at the very root of their teaching—the observance of the Sabbath. By this time the Jews had spread all over the Roman Empire. Their striking characteristic was that they rested rigorously from Friday evening to Saturday evening. It was their Sabbath, their rest day. Neither fear of death nor offer of financial reward could persuade the strict Jew to break the Sabbath.

This doctrine of the strict observance of the Sabbath had been over-emphasized by the teaching of the Scribes who taught that Jehovah was more pleased with the ritual observance of the Sabbath than on the well-being of His people. During the Maccabean revolt it was carried to its logical extreme. A large body of Jews was surrounded by Greek soldiers on the Sabbath. They slaughtered a thousand men, women and children, who offered no resistance whatsoever. This resulted in an edict that if attacked on the Sabbath they should defend themselves. Otherwise the nation faced annihilation. I. Maccabees 2: "He that hath seen me hath seen days.

In the days of Our Lord's ministry the scribes taught that God cared more for the careful ritualist observance of the Sabbath than for the well-being of His people.

The new Teacher, Jesus of Nazareth, taught that God loved His people as a Father loves his children and that His heart is full of compassion for the sick and suffering. To heal the sick and perform acts of mercy on the Sabbath was well pleasing to God. This was a new teaching. It was the conflict of ideas.

Are you astonished that "the scribes watched Jesus whether He would heal on the Sabbath that they might find an accusation against Him?" The man who broke the Sabbath was mercilessly put to death. Be not astonished for that spirit is not yet dead. It has come to life in practically every generation. It is the spiritual pride on the part of religious people that their own rigorous Sabbath observance should be forced upon others. Such people have wrong ideas of what God is like.

Christians do not keep holy the Sabbath Day from Friday to Saturday evening. This is the Old Testament command and kept today only by Orthodox Jews. But the Christian Sabbath is the Lord's Day, commemorating His Resurrection. It is kept primarily for the worship of God and His Christ through the Holy Spirit. It is to be a day of real joy and happiness; a day of re-creation for spirit, mind and body. If your heart and mind is set on worshipping God on the Lord's Day you will be guided by His Spirit as to what you should or should not do.

It all turns upon your idea of God. What is God like? What is your mental image of God? A man, who was an unbeliever, exclaimed after hearing a sermon by a Christ-like preacher: "That is a God I never heard of before." It is your privilege to reveal such a God if the Spirit of the Lord Jesus abides in you.

Testing Discipleship By Service

"BRASS TACKS" ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for May 15 is Mark 10:17-31, the Golden Text being Mark 10:21, "Come, follow me.")

"LOVE AT first sight" always has its perils because it frequently has its disillusionments. Jesus' love for the "Rich Young Ruler" seems to have been somewhat of the nature and experience of "love at first sight."

Quest for Eternal Life

"There ran one to him and kneeled to him and asked him, Good Master, what shall I do that I may inherit eternal life? And Jesus said unto him, why callest thou me good? None is good save one, even God." To call Jesus "good" is not enough, for if he is not God as he professed to be, he is not even good! Superficial compliments paid to Jesus' goodness, may, if they go no further, establish kinship with Judas' betrayal of the Son of Man with a kiss. With this challenge to the youth to weigh well his praise of Christ, our Lord proceeded to test his life with the commands meant to govern his relations with his fellowmen: "Thou knowest the commandments, Do not kill, Do not commit adultery, Do not steal, Do not bear false witness, Do not defraud, Honor thy father and mother. And he said unto him, Master, all these things have I observed from my youth, and Jesus looking upon him loved him." Yes, here was "love at first sight."

"One Thing Thou Lackest"

Here was a clean moral youth, who, so far as overt acts of sin were concerned, had lived a blameless life. "Clean as a hound's tooth," we call such a life today. He sincerely felt that his life had been blameless. He had committed no sin, he thought, still his morality left him hungering for something he called "eternal life." Jesus loved him enough to point out his faults. "One thing thou lackest, go, sell whatsoever thou hast and give to the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven: and come, follow me." To harm no one is not enough. We may do this and still help no one. God's commands are not fulfilled by refraining from harmful acts of commission, murder, theft, adultery and the like. Negative morality may be perfectly cold and loveless. God's commandments demand a warm, positive outflow of love to our neighbor that will make us want to be helpful to the limit of his need and our ability. Therefore, to show the young ruler that he had failed utterly to keep God's commandments in love, Jesus challenged him to prove his love by service. There are sins of omission as cruel and as heartless as those committed by murderers, adulterers and thieves. And Jesus' severest rebukes seemed to fall upon this class of sin of which the rich young ruler was unconsciously guilty.

The Acid Test

Unwilling to prove his profession of righteousness under the acid test, Jesus suggested, "his countenance fell at the saying and he went away sorrowful: for he was one that had great possessions. And Jesus looked round about and saith unto his disciples, how hardly shall they that have riches enter into the Kingdom of God!" Where now is the young ruler's eagerness for eternal life? Where now is the love for his neighbor he professed to have from his youth? The center of gravity of his interest is in his riches, which he clutches as he goes away from Christ into oblivion. He made the great refusal because he tried to serve God and Mammon instead of serving God with Mammon.

Gipsy Simon Smith Coming To City

In thanksgiving to God for 21 years of religious work in south Peterborough the official board of St. James United Church and Sunday school board of management have arranged for a special week-end visit of Gipsy Simon Smith. The guest preacher will conduct three services on Sunday, May 15th at 11 a.m., 3 p.m. and 7 a.m. On Monday May 16th at 7.45 p.m. the outstanding evangelist will deliver his famous Life Story. "From Gipsy Camp to Pulpit". Gipsy Smith was born and raised in a gipsy camp near Cambridge, England. He and his cousin, Gipsy Rodney Smith have been remarkably successful in special preaching missions in England, Canada and the United States. Gipsy Smith wins by the sheer interest of the story he tells. His sweet singing lays the foundation for the deep appreciation of not an event of an hour—it will be his sermon. To hear Gipsy Smith is a lasting memory to you.

Branch Notes

ST. JOHN'S BRANCH.

The weather being unfavorable, St. John's A.Y.P.A. held their weiner roast at the Parish Hall. Arrangements were in charge of Doris Davis, Roy Pitchford, and Walter Howell. Next week is Newspaper Night, in care of Fred Ford, with Mary Thornton looking after the scandal, Hilda Phillips the social column, Bels Hewitt the sports, Lorne Galley the advertising, and Fred Ford the editorial section.

ST. LUKES BRANCH

The St. Lukes branch postponed its meeting this week on account of the play Tuesday night, but it will be held next week as usual.

The play, "Barbara Makes a Splash, was thoroughly enjoyed by all present. We really looked forward to a much larger attendance but were satisfied with the crowd that was there. The only mistake was in not repeating the play on Wednesday night. We sincerely hope that we may be able to put on another one in the fall.

Several of the members visited the Lakefield Branch last Friday night and spend a very enjoyable evening in games and contests.

The district meeting is to be held in Omemee on Monday night. We would like to know how many are going so as to arrange transporation. Get in touch with president if you can go.

ST. JOHN'S BRANCH, LAKEFIELD

The members of St. Luke's A.Y.P.A., Peterborough, and Young's Point Community Club, were entertained on Friday evening at the Parish Hall, Lakefield. The evening was spent in games and contests. The prize-winners were: Carrying peanuts on a knife, Miss Jessie Bell, St. Luke's, and Ralph Hampton, of Lakefield. Brother and sister game: Mrs. (Rev.) Moore, Young's Point, and John Creighton, Lakefield. Feeding peanuts blindfolded: Miss Daisy Bell, St. Luke's, and W. Hill, St. Luke's. Ring on the toothpick was won by V. Sedgewick's team. The treasure hunt was won by Ernie Bell's team, the first team to arrive back to the Sunday School with their full treasure. Refreshments were served by the Lakefield Branch after which W. Hill, St. Luke's, and Mr. Morris, Young's Point, thanked the Lakefield Branch for their lovely evening. Rev. Mr. Creighton spoke and told the branches Lakefield had enjoyed having them, and hoped it wouldn't be the last time they would come to Lakefield.

WESTWOOD BRANCH A.Y.P.A.

WESTWOOD, May 14.—The regular meeting of the A.Y.P.A. of St. Michael's church, Westwood, was held this week. There was no business or correspondence.

The president, Miss Mary Birdsall, welcomed four members from the local District Council of Peterborough for coming down and putting on the program. They in turn thanked the Westwood branch for inviting them. Miss Hutchenson gave a talk on the A.Y.P.A. conference which is going to be held in the Canadian Legion Hall next autumn in Peterborough.

The following program was enjoyed by all. First there was a game of Biblical baseball. Mr. Marshall asked questions which were true or false. This was followed by a poem with missing words. The audience had to suply the words. Supper was then served and a hearty vote of thanks was given to Mrs. Thompson for the use of her home. The meeting closed with the singing of Auld Lang Syne.

National Message

By the Late Rev. W. Pascoe Goard, LL.D., F.R.G.S., F.R.E.S.

The second coming of our Lord from the standpoint of the external nations.

Upon the rulership with God being withdrawn from the nation Israel, other measures were taken to preserve rule and order in the earth. This was accomplished by the Babylon succession of Empires, set up and carried on during the period of Israel's humiliation, namely, for seven times. (See second chapter of Daniel). At the end of that period, when Israel should be restored to the position of "Ruling with God," the great wars, organized by these external nations to maintain and extend their powers, shall end with the destruction of the power of the external nations in the Armageddon campaign.

All the Scriptures which have dealt in advance with this phase of international movement have foreshown that the great conflict between Israel and the Babylonian succession of empires (see Jer. 1, li., etc.) should be ended at, and by, the coming of the King.

The second coming of our Lord from the standpoint of the Church.

It would not be reasonable to expect that the national and international phases of this matter, nor the kingship phase, should be found woven into the ecclesiastical presentation.

Accordingly we find that the Church has its own standpoint, from which certain phases of the activity of the coming of the Lord are shown. These are the resurrection of the dead in Christ: the translation of the living in Christ: all these are caught up in the clouds to meet the Lord in the air, so to be ever with the Lord.

If we should ask: When we shall be caught up in the clouds to meet Him in the air, so to be ever with the Lord, where shall He lead us then? We answer, other Scriptures tell us that He is then on His progress to the Mount of Olives, and according to such other Scriptures, we shall accompany Him and witness His triumph over His enemies.

The Golden Text

Mark 10:21—"Come, folow me."

CATHEDRAL MUSINGS

If one wanted to make a journey through the wilderness he would, if possible, seek to hire a guide. Rightly, he would give preference to one who had an actual knowledge of the route to be traversed and of the difficulties likely to be encountered. But in our spiritual journey through the wilderness of this world we do not exercise this precaution; we do not demand that those who teach us should possess this actual knowledge and experience. In this respect we need to consider the earlier teachers of the Christian religion, as well as the practice followed from time immemorial even to this day in the East. There is no doubt but that the Apostles and those who immediately succeeded them, possessed actual knowledge and were able to exercise powers that are ignorantly termed "miraculous." That is a matter of record. Today, in some Eastern countries we find a distinction made between the outer forms of religion and the arcane or inner teachings. As in the West, the majority of people are quite content with the outer forms and are satisfied with the symbolism employed, crude and degraded as it may appear to our eyes. But, and here is the difference between the East and the West, they do not deny the existence of the inner teachings. Those who really feel the call to the higher wisdom (few in comparison, as they are) seek for themselves a teacher suited to their needs. If he decides the aspirant is worthy, he either accepts him as a pupil or sends him to another teacher better fitted to the individual. The seeker is put through a rigorous training which may take years or even a whole lifetime, and he considers it time well spent. In this, the East follows a method handed down from time immemorial, recognizing the fact that the way of life in its real sense comes first, and should be the dominating factor in the lives of those who are ready to embark on it. Recognizing also that the majority are not yet evolved to a point where they are ready to enter on the way. The primitive church recognized these things also, with its outer and inner discipline. Or, we can go back to Old Testament times, and even earlier, where the prophets had charge of the inner mysteries and understood the actual meanings of the sacred books and of the symbolism employed and the priests instructed and ministered to the people in terms suited to their comprehension. The two orders were well recognized. But today, after centuries of intolerance, the existence of any inner teachings is no longer accepted, although, of course, they have survived in spite of everything. But, in general, the outer letter has supplanted the inner spirit to the detriment of every condition governing our lives, and the betterment of humanity in general.

Rural Life Sunday To Be Observed

Rural Life Sunday is observed in the United Church of Canada on May 15th, and is becoming an institution in that church. At both services in St. Andrew's Church reference will be made to the farmers and their work.

In the morning the subject will be "Religion and Rural Life." These two are closely related. The farmer is in close touch with the mystery of life. The germination of the seed in the ground, the place of faith, and works, the sequence of sowing and reaping, these and kindred matters are intimately associated with the tilling of the soil. Jesus lived in closest touch with the husbandmen of His time. His finest parables arose out of the fields over which He walked from day to day.

The country church is passing through a transitional period. How many members of urban congregations are familiar with the problems of the rural congregations? The country school in Canada has been the subject of much romantic thought in the past. Have we forgotten about it in recent days? Yet from these little churches and schools have arisen the finest Canadian citizens. We must remember that the work on the farm is fundamental and basal. If we can do nothing else on Rural Sunday, let us at least show that the toiler in the country has an honorable place in the life of the nation and of the church.

In the evening a picture sermon entitled "Repentance Begins at a Swine Trough." Evidently there were several influences at work in the life of the Prodigal Son, which was really the most potent? His loneliness, his hunger, or the disgusting swine? The Jew had an abhorrence of this animal. It is evident, however, that the fields and the swine had much to do with the re-birth of a soul.

Testing Discipleship With Service — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By the Rev. Alvin E. Bell And Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Mark 10:17-31.

One day a rich young ruler came running to Jesus and kneeled to him, asking, "Good Teacher, what shall I do that I may inherit eternal life?"

When he professed to have kept all of God's commandments Jesus tested him by suggestihg he sell all he had and give to the poor and then come follow.

The rich young ruler loved his riches too much to do this. "His countenance fell at the saying and he went away sorrowful."

Peter showed something of the same selfishness when he said to Jesus, "Lo, we have left all and have followed thee, what then shall we have?"

On A Friendly Visit

After all the overblown exuberance to which the world has been subjected during the visit of Hitler to Rome, it is refreshing to learn something about the details of the visit of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth in France.

It will be the first visit of their majesties abroad since the coronation, and it will be simple indeed. France is not preparing a gigantic celebration, nor will it muster all its troops or fill the air with all its fighting planes.

We are quite certain there will be no provocative speeches made telling what is likely to happen to this nation or to that one. What has been published indicates that the British King and Queen are going to France for a good time and a friendly visit. That's all and that is sufficient.

A Sensible Idea

The Peterborough Automobile Dealers' Association has made a sensible sort of arrangement in dealing with the matter of keeping places of business open on Sunday.

One garage will remain open on Sunday and the others will close. That is the same plan which the druggists of the city have followed for a long time.

A good many car owners could just as well have their cars attended to on week days. If they thought a little ahead they could also have a supply of gas sufficient to last them over the week-end. By attending to such matters they would be lessening the demand for Sunday work.

Salary And Efficiency

Toronto and Kingston Synod of the Presbyterian church was in session at Belleville recently, and Rev. Hugh Moore, moderator of the General Assembly for Canada urged an increase in stipends to ministers, giving as the reason "Because an increase in salary would also increase the efficiency of the ministry".

The trouble with that solution is that it seems too simple and too easy. All that would be necessary to raise the efficiency of the ministry of the church to high standard would be to pay more money.

Such a plan would be recognizing efficiency in a suitable way but it would not create it.

If a man in the ministry or out of it is earning $2,000 and he is suddenly lifted to the $4,000 class it does not mean that his worth or his efficiency has been doubled along with his salary.

Increasing a man's salary may make him more contented, may give him a better opportunity to work, but it will not increase his efficiency.

Not Good Evidence

When a court case was being heard at Goderich the chief of police at Clinton, a neighboring town, announced that he had withdrawn a drunk driving charge against a Clinton man and substituted a charge of reckless driving. He had done so on the advice of a doctor who had examined the arrested man. The doctor had given it as his opinion that the driver of the car had been drinking but was not drunk.

The wonder is that any doctor would take it upon himself to give such an opinion, and the further wonder is that any chief of police or court would accept such an opinion and act upon it.

The fact that a man may be qualified as a doctor does not give him any superior knowledge when it comes to saying if a man is or is not drunk. Just why the chief would change a charge of drunk driving on such a statement is difficult to understand. Most doctors would refuse to be drawn into such a case.

The Sun Bathers

Already Toronto has started to discuss what it is going to do about bathing suits this season. There is a bylaw which says bathers must be covered from the neck to the knees, but the spirit and the letter of that bylaw are more honored by being openly ignored than faithfully observed.

There are two varieties of bathers in Toronto now. According to reports there are those who desire to do their sunbathing on the beaches, and they wear shorts only, and it is said these chaps do not come under the bylaw which applies to ordinary bathing suits used in the water.

It may be these people could do their sun-bathing just as well in their own back yards, but they prefer to do it in public places. Perhaps they feel better for having undergone such treatment, but we read not long since the opinion of an outstanding physician who said sunbathing was of no particular use at all. It was no protection against sickness; it did not increase the amount of resistance; it merely made people darker in color. Such an opinion we are certain will not affect the sun-bathers. Not in the least. They will be on display as usual. And what a display!

It Is Worth Considering

In the building of what is termed a protective ring around the Hawaiian islands United States finds it needs another landing field for planes. Then there will be 6,000 miles which can be patrolled out in the Pacific for the purpose of forwarding warning should any enemy invasion be headed toward the mainland of United States.

An appropriation of $25,000 has been put through in the estimates at Washington, and the explanation is that the amount is to be used for the purchase of another bit of an island.

We do not know if that is the forerunner of a new kind of world policy or not. There was a time—and it is not far distant—when all a nation had to do when needing more property was first to desire it strongly. After it desired it for a reasonable length of time the next step was to go and take possession of it. If there were people present who did not want their land taken away from them then the only course left open was to kill them.

This idea of going out and buying land which a nation desires has possibilities worth considerng. It leads one to wonder what Austria or Ethiopia would be worth on the open market.

Huddled In The Cities

There has been something more printed about houses in Toronto which are for sale at less than the assessed price. One house mentioned is described as being semi-detatched with eight rooms. A dozen years ago it would have brought $4,250, but agents are offering it today for $2,300, and an offer at less than that would take the property. It is rented for $20 per month.

All of which may be more or less interesting. Interest grows with reading that this house "is on a lot 18 feet 6 inches frontage with a depth of 137 feet." That is what takes place when people huddle together in large cities and when business and manufacturing become centered in a few communities. Some years ago we recall where subdivisions were opened in some of our smaller cities, and the people were then cutting the land up into lots of 25 feet frontage. They wanted a great many houses on a limited amount of land.

Truth is there is a great deal of land in this country. That is the beauty about a village or ordinary town. People have a bit of ground at their disposal; they can grow things; they are not limited to 18 feet 6 inches as the width of the little piece of land on which they are going to live. Our huddling and crowding system has produced a number of unnatural conditions, and none of them more marked than causing a man and his family to have their home on land with a width of 16 feet 6 inches.

Who Pays The Taxes?

The consumer pays the taxes. As a rule that is admitted. But the payment of income or profit taxes may not generally be regarded as something which is passed on to the consumers. During the debate in the House of Commons on agricultural implements the point was raised in a discussion between Hon. R. B. Bennett and Hon. Charles Dunning, Minister of Finance. From the official report of debates we quote:

Mr. DUNNING: I did not say that. Income tax is on earnings, after the cost of production has been met.

Mr. BENNETT: Surely, but the manufacturer has to make allowance for these taxes in fixing the price at which he is to sell if he is to make a profit. Does anyone suggest that when I go to sell my goods I have not to consider the tax I have to pay on my earnings?

Mr. DUNNING: Income tax is in a different class from the other taxes.

Mr. BENNETT: It is a tax on profits that are shown. If no profit is shown, no one need be concerned; but if he makes a profit, the state taxes him fifteen per cent.

Mr. DUNNING: Fifteen per cent. of the profit, which is determined after production costs.

Mr. BENNETT: I include that as part of the selling price if he is going to make a profit.

Mr. Bennett as well as being in politics has had a large measure of business experience. He knows that the expectation of having to pay a tax on profits or a tax on income is all anticipated by the manufacturer who is planning his year's work. There is nothing secret about that. If the amount of taxation was not considered then it would not be possible to make a profit. Profit is something which is left over after all the expenses are paid, and taxes, no matter what sort they may be, are included as expenses under the general name of overhead.

The salaried man is not in that position. He has to pay his income taxation out of his own pocket. There are few cases where he can pass it on.

When a government puts on more taxation it is not only taking the money from the people but it is increasing the price of goods which these people have to purchase. In the case of agricultural implements the profits tax imposed on manufacturers is added to the selling price and the people who buy the implements are asked to pay it. Lowering the tariff has little to do with the price of implements but government taxation on manufacturers' profits can have a direct bearing on it.

You May Be Stopped

Chief Constable Warwick of Wallaceburg has been doing what other officers of the law have been engaged in recently—checking up on drivers of cars to see if their machines were all right for safe driving.

It is related the Chief hailed an Indian from Walpole Island and it took the Red man almost two full blocks to get his machine stopped so he could find out what the Chief wanted. After which it was hardly necessary to make any test as the machine had already demonstrated its defects.

In other places there have been results of a similar sort. Never mind the Indian for the moment. How about your own car? One thing certain is this—no one knows the defects of a car any better than the man who is driving it. If the foot brake is weak and requires an unusual amount of pressure before starting to function, he knows it. If the emergency brake is the same the driver knows it.

The driver of the car is liable to find himself stopped some day and an official inspection will be made. We suggest it is much more pleasant at such a time to be commended for having a car in good condition than to be told off by an officer about the risk you are running with a neglected car. In the meantime you might think up a good answer to this simple question: What right have you to be operating a car which is in such condition that it endangers the safety of other people?

NOTE AND COMMENT

A man's home may be his castle but the radio regulations throw considerable doubt upon that proposition.

Saskatchewan man was fined $300 for shooting a whistling swan. That is the kind of penalty that should be handed out for spearing a spawning lunge.

Hon. Vincent Massey in London denied the report that British folk are not wanted in Canada. The report was so silly that the wonder is any one would pay attention to it.

Oshawa is bringing 200 young men to court for non-payment of poll tax. Come to think of it we never heard a good reason advanced as to why young fellows should pay this tax.

Clucking hen frightened off her nest in a barn at Embro knocked over a lantern and the building was burned. Cluck-clucking hens like sleeping dogs should be left alone.

It has been found that nine out of ten accidents occur on dry pavements and on a straight road. That puts the whole thing up to the weakness of the human element.

Orillia man told the police he bought fifty rounds of ammunition for an automatic to shoot groundhogs. He evidently did not propose to do any fooling in his hunting.

Toronto man bought a seat on the Stock Exchange in 1882 for $2,000, and sold it in 1929 for $175,000. Dealing in seats is evidently a safer kind of business than tinkering with other affairs which pass through the Exchange.

Apparently sun-bathing with topless bathing suits is all right in Toronto so long as you stay out where folk can see you. If you go in the water where you can't be seen that you are guilty of an offense.

Toronto police have been raiding alleged gaming houses. That is an activity that always seems to develop about the time the local tracks open and is designed apparently to give the legal betting channels a clear field.

Denton Massey, M.P., speaking at Hastings to a Conservative rally, asked "what are we doing at Ottawa?" His answer was: "Frankly, I don't know." Well at least the members are drawing their salaries and mailing letters free of charge.

REBELS

(By A. R. K.)

¶ The rebels in Brazil have failed, and some six hundred now are jailed, and others have been shot; while others turned and ran away, so they'd rebel some other day, but likely they'll be caught.

¶ I guess it's better now and then, the world should have rebelling men, who tune their hymn of hate; perhaps it gets things squared away, and hastens on the coming day, when living will be straight.

¶ But I don't think I'd like to try, this working with the rebel fry, or plotting after dark; or marching secret up a hill, and trying to find a place to drill, or shooting at a mark.

¶ I'd have to own a gun and spear, and keep the both of them quite near, all ready for a call; I'd have to dash through mud and slime, up crooked paths I'd have to climb, at other places crawl.

¶ And then perhaps the government, woud be aware of my intent, they'd tie me to a tree; some soldier who came on the run, might point at once a splendid gun, and drill some holes in me.

¶ I'd rather be a humble jay, who plants his corn and beans in May, and hangs the summer doors; who keeps house for his brindle cow, and likewise tends his fatted sow—and does the other chores.

Debating Rules For Our Radios

(From Parliamentary Reports)

Mr. BENNETT: Does not the minister think that this is carrying bureaucracy rather too far?

Mr. HOWE: It is a shade further than my right hon. friend went, just a shade.

Mr. BENNETT: It is going just a bit too far. In the light of present knowledge, does not the minister think that a man should be able to have his radio repaired without being under the necessity of disclosing to the workman who repairs it whether he has a licence or not? Surely that is carrying bureaucracy too far. Bureaucracy has a great hold in Canada in many directions. I have had occasion in the last few days to look into its application in another department of our activities, in our national parks, and now we are going to apply it to radio. I can understand our going a certain distance in the direction proposed here, but when it is suggested that a workman coming to my house to repair my radio should ascertain whether or not I have a licence— well, the average man would say, "That is none of your business; I have employed you to repair my radio and I am prepared to pay you." But the workman will answer, "The government says that I must inquire whether you have a licence before I can repair your radio, and if you want me to do it you will have to satisfy me that you have a licence." Is not that going too far? I do suggest to the minister that it is going a bit too far and that the section might very well disappear.

Frankly I have always had grave doubts, and I have graver doubts today, whether it is quite sound to apply the principle in question even to the sale of radio sets. Are we not carrying our powers perhaps beyond our jurisdiction? I put this to the minister because once more we have the old conflict. The courts have decided that we have jurisdiction, but they have not decided that our jurisdiction extends to the sale of radio sets. That surely is a matter of property and civil rights. We have no right to fix prices and things of that sort; they are still within the exclusive jurisdiction of the provinces. I have grave doubts whether we have the power, with respect to the sale of radio sets, to impose this condition, and I certainly have graver doubts with respect to the repairing of radios. When I employ a workman to come and repair my radio, when I go to the telephone and ask that a man be sent around to put in a couple of tubes that are worn out, and he comes and says that before he can do that work he must know whether I have a licence, I think we are going too far. What happens then? Is it his business to be a common informer? Is it within the competence of this parliament to deal with the matter? Is it not a question of purely provincial and local jurisdiction, a question of property and civil rights, a question of contract between the workman and myself? Shall we say that such a contract cannot be enforced unless this condition here proposed is complied with? I submit that it is going too far.

Mr. HOWE: I am told that the only change here is to embody in the act itself a regulation that has been in effect for many years under the Minister of Marine, and more recently the Minister of Transport. Parliament has decided that the operation of a radio shall be illegal unless a licence has been obtained, and certain penalties are prescribed. I see no great objection to putting this regulation in the act. I do not think it is bureaucracy to use every means to enforce the intent of the radio act. That is the principle on which we have been collecting radio licence fees from the start. A man can bring a policeman into your house to see whether you are operating a radio without a licence. When dealing with a situation of this kind I do not think that it is going too far to have a regulation of this sort, which has been in effect for many years, embodied in the act. It is not a new departure.

Mr. WEIR: In connection with the requirement that anyone repairing a radio must assure himself that the owner has a licence, what about a man who comes in and buys a set of tools from the dealer to fix his own radio? Also what about a radio that is in a house but is not being operated? If I correctly understand what was said last night, if an inspector finds his way into the house and discovers a radio there, he may oblige the owner to obtain a licence even if it is not in operation. We have some radios that are obsolete; perhaps new ones have been purchased and the old ones have been allowed to remain. I hope a man will not be under obligation to purchase a licence for a radio of that kind.

Mr. HOWE: In connection with a radio in a house but not in use, under the act the presumption is that if the radio is in the house it is in use.

PROUD OF WORK.

(London Sunday Dispatch)

EIGHTY-FOUR-YEARS-OLD Chas. Mulberry, of Walworth, worked until the day he died.

The coroner said: "His proper place would have been in a comfortable armchair by the fireside or in the garden".

But Charles Mulberry thought differently.

Until heart failure ended his chapter he worked every day as an estate agent's clerk.

He was a proud man; proud of his appearance; he always insisted on wearing a stiff collar and a white shirt.

After 56 years with one firm, he found another job when the firm closed down.

Charles Mulberry had something you can't buy—a lifetime interest in his job.

• A Simple System of Taxation

By A. S. Thompson, M. D., Havelock

ANY, HAVING a mind with a just sense of values, with quick perception and with complete intellectual honesty, studying our modern method of taxation, having regard to its results, must admit that it is the most deadly and destructive menace to human liberty, freedom and prosperity existing in the world. There are other great evils producing havoc and confusion in human society such as war and preparations for war, mass unemployment with attendant want and misery to millions etc. These are not primary evils inseparable from normal human society, nor are they the price of progress demanded by immutable natural laws beyond human control. They are all the secondary effects of one great primary evil, for traced to their source they all, like the radii of a circle, converge to a common centre and that center is 'unjust taxation'.

For more than seventy years our ablest public men have striven to make Canada a prosperous and united nation by a thorough application of the policy—inherited at Confederation—of punishing thrift, obstructing the free exchange of goods and penalizing industry in every form by imposition of unjust and oppressive taxes.

Instead of contentment and prosperity, that policy has produced a bumper crop of social and political problems that threaten national life. To mention a few we have an unemployment problem which for Canada, of all countries in the world, is a national disgrace and a crime against humanity; high cost of living; high cost of government, 1000 added to Civil Service staff in Ottawa the last three years, largely owing to inquisitorial prying into the private affairs of citizens, which, by the way, is NOT a normal function of government; problems of public debt, of railroad deficits, relief costs, increase of crime by youths and idle men etc. Evidence enough to convince the dullest that taxing production is lunacy.

We are governed to death, too many governments; too many legislators; sessional indemnities are too high; in the East and in the West, groups of Provinces could be united under one administration with less cost and more efficiency; constituencies made larger would strain out a lot of small fry politicians and reduce elections in number. If we must have a Senate let its members be elected by the province at large, select vigorous able business men for a term of say, six years, eligible for re-election. Cease making the Senate a house of refuge for worn-out political warriors and party hacks, echoes of the policy of the administration which appointed them.

In the genesis of wealth, the sole contribution made by society is the granting of legal right to use or occupy some portion of the public domain or natural resources of the country, land, timber, mineral deposits, water-powers, etc. To these the presence of population and associated public utilities give a rental value which keeps pace with increase of population and extension of public services. This rental correctly appraises the benefits conferred by good government and social services generally. It also fixes and establishes the maximum tax society may collect in any given case namely, up to but not exceeding the full rental value of that portion of the public domain used or occupied by the ratepayer. When this annual rental is paid, the account with the community is squared, all over and above produced by the labor of the tenant, is his own personal property. This being so, it follows that taxes upon goods, houses, incomes, estates, etc., imposed and collected by 'force majeur' are acts of theft and robbery perpetrated upon private citizens by the government.

Under normal conditions of work and wages a man, be baker or banker, is able to provide for himself and family by what he earns by thrift and economy. The same is true of a government collecting ground-rentals as its sole source of public revenue; with a clean slate they will provide amply for all legitimate expenses. By this method the property rights of the individual citizen and the community are maintained intact, and the way opened to reach that material paradise of peace and prosperity, —vainly sought through restrictions and violations of natural rights by Communism, etc.,— will be before us by establishing and preserving the natural rights of all men, giving us a wider freedom with the minimum of legislative interference with legitimate private business.

Starting with a clean slate, applying the new system of taxation is easy; in replacing the old with the new, can be done gradually. Ten or fifteen per cent. annually added to the assessment of land up to but not exceeding its fair market value, and a similar reduction of assessment on labor products until all are removed, would be a workable plan. In collecting the rentals, the combined rates for Dominion, Provincial and local municipalities could be collected by existing local authorities. Local municipalities would keep their share, transmit balance to Provincial authorities retain theirs and forward balance to the Dominion treasury.

Taxation is occupying a foremost place in the public mind. The old system is vicious, impracticable and destructive; to continue as we are means bankruptcy and repudiation of debts. It is possible by prompt action in adopting this new system, to pull ourselves out of the muddle and save our good name, but the time is short.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

BRETHREN, I count not myself to have apprehended: but this one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus.

Let us therefore, as many as be perfect, be thus minded: and if in any thing ye be otherwise minded, God shall reveal even this unto you. Nevertheless, whereto we have already attained, let us walk by the same rule, let us mind the same thing.

Brethren, be followers together of me, and mark them which walk so as ye have us for an ensample. . . . For our conversation is in heaven; from whence also we look for the Saviour, the Lord Jesus Christ: who shall change our vile body, that it may be fashioned like unto his glorious body, according to the working whereby he is able even to subdue all things unto himself.—Phil. iii: 13-17, 20, 21.

For our light affliction, which is but for a moment, worketh for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory; while we look not at the things which are seen, but at the things which are not seen: for the things which are seen are temporal; but the things which are not seen are eternal.—II Cor. iv: 17, 18.

BASEBALL

P.C.I. is entering a baseball team in the Junior City league for the first time in many years. The team will be coached by Mr. W. E. Jackson, who coached the hockey team to a Junior City League title. Two practices have been held. A good turnout showed that there was much interest in baseball around the school. The schedule will probably begin around May 24. Games will be played at Riverside Park. If successful in winning the Junior City League title, the team may enter the O.B.A. finals.

CADETS

The first dress parade was held. The cadets were drilled in the armouries due to bad weather in preparation for the inspection on Wednesday. On the whole the corps looks very smart this year and should rank very high among the other corps in the district. There will be an officers' mess on Wednesday, May 18, after the inspection. The annual cadet dance will be held on the following Friday. It will be a uniform dance. The cadet officers picnic will be held on June 9. The location is expected to be South Beach.

The lieutenants and N.C.O.'s of the cadet corps are equipped with privates' uniforms from the Prince of Wales Rangers. Much thanks is given to Col. Dewart for securing these uniforms to cover up the shortage in regular uniforms.

The P.C.I. uniforms are slowly becoming extinct and unless new ones are soon supplied cadets may have to be abolished.

OBSERVATION PLATFORM.

The morning entertainment in the assembly hall this week took the form of a tap dance which was cleverly done by James Goselin, accompanied by Miss Merrill Smith at the piano . . . Mrs. Graham of the Nicholls Hospital auxiliary addressed the students on the meaning and origin of this day. She told the story and related some of the incident of Florence Nightingale's life . . . After the address Mrs. Graham invited the girls of P.C.I. to inspect the hospital and be present at the tea . . . The cadet officers mess will be held in the sewing room on the second floor instead of in the gymnasium . . . Mr. H. A. Craig is offering a dinner to the winning platoon in the inspection . . . There is still considerable Echoe's money out. The staff would be pleased to have all the returns in next week . . . The P.C.I. bugle band is equipped with scarlet tunics this year. These tunics are also gifts from the Rangers.

ECHOES' PRIZES

Twenty-two winners of Echoes' contests were awarded their prizes this week. Don Corrin was given a cheque for selling the most advertising—a total of over a hundred dollars' worth. Canadian Packing Company gave a prize for the best arranged advertisement to be used by them in the Echoes. This was won by Frances Nearly.

Special prizes for essays in the Purple Patches section were awarded to Marian Brown, Katherine White, Leo Clancy and Hugh Kenner. Other prizes were given to 18 who contributed to the Purple Patches section. The prize winners were introduced by Ronald Dick, editor-in-chief, and the prizes were presented by Dr. H. R. H. Kenner.

Miss Edna Borland, art editor, commented on the good work done by Miss H. Masters and Lyle Glover.

The prizes were books with the exception of two cash prizes.

20 PAY LIFE POLICY PAID-UP AND GIVES EXCELLENT RETURNS

This week we received the following letter from an Ontario clergyman whose $1,000, 20 Pay Life policy has become paid up:

"Dear Sirs:

Time flies. It seems like yesterday when I was 32 and a man named Kilpatrick came into my barn when I was feeding my horse and 'talked me into' Policy No. 135,859. That was in 1918. Then I was in receipt of less than a thousand a year stipend. But each year since I have made my payments of $34.30 on time, and I am indeed glad I took Mr. Kilpatrick's advice.

I have paid in $686.00 and I understand from your letter that my policy now has a cash value of $861.97, including my dividends of $277.97. I wish at this time to thank The Mutual Life for the courtesy always shown me both from headquarters and from the various agents who have always been interested in me. We are not parting company. Policy 135,859 will continue in force (unless I become hard pressed for money) as long as I live, and my family will have the $1,000 protection. I will take the dividends of $277.97 in cash and leave the cash value of $584, which I understand will increase each year and to which will be added dividends in your capable hands."

Any of our representatives, or Head Office will be glad to quote figures for a 20 Pay Life policy for you.

SALES SHOW SLIP IN MINING SHARES

TORONTO, May 14 (CP)—The stock market's labored spring advance stalled this week and finally gave ground. The setback involved chiefly the mining shares which showed an index loss of two points in the golds and about a point in the base metals: Industrials held their position.

Industrial shares moved sluggishly, relieved only by sizeable transactions in Imperial Oil and International Petroleum on dividend news and in Brazilian Traction on the news of a revolt in Brazil.

Reports were current sometime ago that Imperial Oil might cut the dividend a bit. This forecast proved to be unfounded and a tightening up of the lid might have been expected when the dividend news came out. Buyers took 6,000 shares on the Toronto market on Friday however without lifting the price.

Brazilian Traction sold down to $10.50 on the disturbing news from Brazil around mid-week but the government's success in putting down the revolt brought a quick partial recovery and sentiment was further aided by the dividend declaration. The week's loss for the stock was cut to less than $1 and the price closed yesterday at $10.12

Lake Shore Gold Mines suffered a reverse on the news of a rock slide in the mine and it is down $1.65 for the week. Dome, McIntyre and Hollinger showed practically no change.

Base Metal share chalked up irregular price movements. International Nickel and Consolidated Mining and Smelting lost some ground and Noranda and Hudson Bay held unchanged.

TACOMA, SEATTLE STRIKES SETTLED

SEATTLE, May 14—(AP).—Peace returned to Seattle and Tacoma ports today when the Sailors' Union of the Pacific accepted a 10-day truce in a dispute with employers that had tied up shipping at both places.

The truce was offered by the Pacific Coast Waterfront Employers' Association in order that conferences of the east coast might seek to settle permanently the question of whether the Independent S.U.P. or the National Maritime Union, a committee for industrial organization affiliate, should furnish crews for the Shepard Steamship Line.

The controversy started when the S.U.P. picketed a Shepard freighter in Tacoma on grounds the owners had disregarded its contract by hiring N.M.U. members. The A.F. of L. International Longshoremen's Association refused to pass the picket lines. Employers closed the port April 30, contending the I.L.A. had failed to abide by its contract.

A delay in settlement was feared when sailors and firemen walked off the ships here last night.

A committee of three unions had demanded employers open the deserted port south of here by 5 p.m. yesterday. As reprisal for alleged failure to meet their demands, members of the Marine Firemen, Oilers', Watertenders' and Wipers' Association and Sailors' Union of the Pacific walked off all ships under their jurisdiction.

A.Y.P.A. BOWLING LEAGUE ENDS SUCCESSFUL YEAR AT BANQUET

PIN CHAMPIONS RECEIVE PRIZES ANNUAL SUPPER

Bringing to a close a most successful season, the A.Y.P.A. Bowling League held a dance and presentation of prizes last evening at the Paragon Hall. A big crowd of the 85 bowlers in this 14-team circuit enjoyed dancing to the music of Jack Marshall and his band. A number of novelty dances and door prize draws with refreshments added to the interest.

Ken Gibson and his committee were in charge and the affair turned out to be a typical A.Y.P.A. gathering with the bowlers and their friends spending a fruitful evening. It marked the close of the second season in this league since the re-organization in 1936. The league started in 1928, and the past winter has been running off games each Saturday night in the Duffus' alleys.

President Vic Sedgewick in the presentation of the Bert Duffus' Cup to the winning team, briefly outlined the activities of this league during the season and extended hearty congratulations to the victors and their opponents. Hurons of St. Luke's were the winners again, having taken the trophy four times. Personnel was: Captain Clemena Long, Roma Reid, Eileen Biddle, Bill Hepburn, Bill Davies and Jack Davies. The captain received the trophy for the team, while the individual members received prizes of $3.30 value each, vouchers on different stores.

Second Team

Wyandottes of St. George's won second place and took the beautiful shield given by the league—an excellent piece of work in trophies—and the players were: Captain Grace Fallis, Helen Gibson, Ernie Gibson, Dick Pearson, Tom Maudsley and Keith Alcock. Bert Duffus made the presentation to the team captain, and individual prizes of $2.00 vouchers went to the various players.

Men's high average went to Dick Pearson for a 220, while Clemena Long with 157 took the ladies' high average, each being prizes of $5.00 in value. Girls' high single went to V. Britnell with 272 and second was taken by Florence Outram with 243. Men's high single was copped by Al Worsencroft with a neat 338 and Harold Fallis was next with 336. Jack Adamson with a 182 average, Ed Adkinson with 170 and Ivan Pearson with 178 received mention for bowling the total number of games, which was 78.

Officers of the A.Y.P.A. Bowling League for 1937-38 were: President, Vic Sedgewick; vice-president, Harold Fallis; secretary, Len Phillips; and treasurer, Olive Cookman. They received a vote of thanks for their efforts during the successful season just closed.

COUNTIES LOSE NOTED PLAYERS

LONDON, May 14—(CP)— Many noted figures in English cricket are missing from the rosters of county teams this season. In fact the number of players who retired from first class ranks at the end of last year's campaign was probably the largest since the war.

Most notable departures were those of "Pat" Hendren, idol of London crowds at Lord's and Maurice Tate, great all-rounder who was regarded as the greatest Sussex cricketer since C. B. Fry. The genial Middlesex professional, now 49 years old, is coaching at Harrow. Tate gave up county cricket to take a position as coach at 43.

Last season Hendren scored five centuries in his last 13 innings but Tate's decline in recent years has been more marked. He has the distinction of taking 155 test-match wickets for England in 11 years.

Two year sago "Tich" Freeman, veteran spin bowler left Kent and the eastern county now has lost W. H. Ashdown, with Frank Woolley, one of cricket's greatest stylists, slated to retire at the end of the season.

Kent crowds will miss these oldtimers. Ashdown celebrates his 40th birthday in December but his record is a notable one. When 16 he played for C. J. V. Weigall's eleven at Oxford and since the war has been one of the hop county's most consistent players. Ashdown left to become coach at Rugby. Woolley is 51 years old.

Andy Sandham, 48, for years first-wicket partner of the distinguished Jack Hobbs, has left Surrey to coach at Beaumont College and Tom Cook, although only 37, is leaving Sussex to do similar work.

Somerset is likely to see "Farmer" Jack White in action only a few times this season. Former captain of the cider county, the amateur slow bowler who led England against South Africa in 1929 is 47 and his business interests allow little time for cricket. Frank Watson and Frank Booth have left Lancashire for league cricket and Norman Kilner, Warwickshire, now is a county umpire.

Inside Sportin' Dope

BY A. WISE CRACKER

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well Mac, they aint a great deal in local sport to get excited about at the present time as the cold weather during most of this week has hampered our ball team considerable and with the season's start just a little more than a week away Mister Murphy's machine aint hardly in what you could call shape for a tough battle. The only consolation is it aint been much warmer or dryer in either Oshawa or Kingston either, neither of them being in the orange belt so probably so far as shape goes the local talent is as far advanced as the opposition. More serious than that however is the fact that Mister Murphy has to plug up a hole at 1st base and with Mister Bill Calladine not turning out as yet he has the red light post also to worry about. Outside that everything is more or less lovely.

Yanks Does Better

In the big leagues Mac. they has been several developments since my last. In the American loop they has been the evidence that the Yanks is at last beginning to develop the punch they been looked for to produce all season and as a result they has climbed up near the top of the heap. Right now the McCarthyites chief trouble seems to be in the gunning department particularly as Mister Gomez don't seem to be able to get his bearings.

The biggest feature of the week, though, old timer is the way them Boston Red Socks has been going. Right now as I write this the Boston gang has pretty nearly battled their way into 1st place. They been getting swell pitching with the ancient Mister Grove leading the whole American loop parade with 5 wins and no looses and this Mister Wilson turning in shutout efforts in his last 2 starts. With Mister Jimmy Foxx bashing the old apple with his oldtime vigor and usually with folks on the gunnysacks the Bostonians is beginning to attract a lot of attention.

Giants Pulling Away

In the National circuit, Mac, I aint seen no reason yet to feel I pulled a boner when I called on them Giants to repeat. So far as I can see the Terry Terriers may spreadeagle the field before long if the opposition dont find a way to control the club swinging of the Giant hitters or some method of solving the cunning of Mister Hubbell and Mister Melton which is pitching about the best brand of ball that is being dished up in the senior loop at the present time.

Well, brother, that seems to be about all that matters this week. In my next epistle they should be more details about the local crew. In the meanwhile keep your head up.

Sportfully Yours,
A. Wise Cracker.

Mark St. Defeats Baptists 16-12

Mark St. defeated Park St., 16-12, in a lively Church Softball League contest last night. tI was a free-hitting affair with Easson and Davis hitting homers, while Curtis, Sanderson, Scriver and Campbell pounded out doubles. Sanderson and Davis were rival hurlers, the former fanning two as he walked a park, while Davis struck out 11 but issued no less than 14 walks. He was extra wild on the mound. Fielding was loose on both sides. The teams:

Mark St.: Moore, 2b; Curtis, 3b; Robinson, c; Scriver, lf; Agnew, rf; Easson, lf; Davis, p; Nicholls, 1b.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC PERDUE

SOUTHEND SOFTBALL LEAGUE starts a-rolling on Monday eve in the Brinton field, Nationals opening against Hawks. Reeve Milby and Councillor Grady take part in opening ceremonies. Alex Wedlock will twirl for the Nats whilst Freddy Elliott is likely to do the Hawks' flinging. The teams are reputued stronger than last semester and ready to cuff each other's ears down. Other tilts this week are: DeLaval vs. Keene on Tuesday, Cogs vs. Cardinals next night, and Maple Leafs vs. Quakers on Thursday. Games in this loop are run off at the Brinton field, Quaker diamond and the East City Bowl. And the odd one at Keene. First half of the schedule is listed elsewhere in tonight's sheet.

* * * * * *

PREXY BOB SIMMONS and his cohorts of the Men's City Softball League would like very much if somebody popped up at Tuesday night's meeting (at eight in Duffus') and said: "I'd like to enter the fourth team in this league, if ya don't mind." Such a guy would be in grave danger of official osculation, he'd be so welcome! They've got three in now, Westclox, Motorists and Young Petes—and have a game each at the Bowl against the eight Southend Loop squads this summer. But four City League teams would be ideal. Their schedule will open on or about May 26th, all frays being at the Bowl.

* * * * * *

NOT WISHING to get this column any wetter than it usually is, we nevertheless must inject this salty item from one Sam Curry of Tweed: Dear Sir—Tweed is attempting for the first time, in connection with Old Home Week this year, to stage a series of power-boat races, 225. free-for-all, 210 and 151 classes. The Picton club have complete charge but owing to the small number of craft in that district there appears to be a dearth of boats. We had an idea there might be a few power-boat owners up around Peterborough and the Kawartha Lakes who would take part if they were advised. Would it be asking too much for you to slip a note in your sports column of an early issue regarding this particular feature of the celebration? We will appreciate your co-operation." You're welcome podner. Old Home Week in Tweed is June 30th to July 4th.

* * * * * *

AND SINCE May is half shot and we haven't seen a pajama-clad feminine tourist on George St. yet, we feel discouraged enough to shoot in a little rugby chatter again. It occurred to us the other day that, with the departure from the city of Bill Turnbull, the local O.R.F.U. squad will be without a coach. And who should be offered the job? If we had the doing of it, we'd make a strong effort to persuade H. L. Bamforth to take it. Either as active coach or in an advisory capacity. With maybe a good assistant. Mick Magee or someone like that. We know for a fact that most of the Orfuns' officers would like nothing better than to get Coach Bamforth of P.C.I. to aid in directing the intermediates, but we doubt if they've ever asked him. We'd go right after him before the summer vacation.

* * * * * *

COACH BAMFORTH has hit the heights in interscholastic coaching. He put his smart senior P.C.I.-ers through to a Provincial championship last autumn. No doubt, he'll be back at the helm again, but he could also do a lot of invaluable work with the Orfuns. For several seasons now, grid followers in Peterborough have known that Coach Bamforth is a very smart football mentor. His teams play wide-open classy rugby of championship calibre. Not just once in a while, but every game year after year. He has attended international coaching school classes and knows all the answers regarding the pigskin game. Then, too, most of the Orfuns are former P.C.I. players. Yeah, we would suggest going after Mr. Bamforth as coach—in some capacity or other—for the 1938 Orfuns. All he can do is say no,if he doesn't want it.

UP AT THE PARAGON HALL last p.m. a large gang of gals and guys had themselves a time. It was the occasion of the A.Y.P.A. Bowling League's presentation of prizes with dawnce and eats and everything. And a most enjoyable time it was, too. We weren't a member but we were made most welcome. Hurons of St. Luke's were the winning team, with the Wyandottes of St. George's next. They received a smart cup, a lovely shield and individual prizes. The cup was put up by Duffus' while the league donated the shield. Officers of this circuit the past season were: President, Vic Sedgewick; vice-prexy, Harold Fallis; secretary, Len Phillips; treasurer, Olive Cookman. Ken Gibson and his committee looked after things last e'en, and music was dished up by Jack Marshall and his band.

MANAGER FRANK RANDLE of the local lacrossers says he wants a full turnout of players today at 2.30 in the George St. arena for a stiff practice. All to be fully dressed and wearing pads. We understand the pads part of it but surely it isn't necessary to tell grown-up fellows to be fully dressed—surely their own modesty would attend to that! 'Tis reported that Mick Magee left for Orillia and will play senior lacrosse for the Terriers this summer. He was there recently but returned saying they wouldn't give him a job but wanted him to play. Mick will be back here by autumn, even if he does stay with the Terriers for this summer. Lots of luck to the local tow-headed all-around athletic star.

AND SO Operative 4.4 got busy the other day and disguised himself as a mud puddle near second base and found out all about the 1938 Westclox gal softballers' squad. Ab Delahaye has Marg Snowden. Barb Blade and Helena Bradley as pitchers with Irene Pavy catching. Gladys Mortimer is at first, Marie Allison at second, Marg Hawthorne at third, and Marie Ferguson at short. Outifeld may consist of Marjorie McCaul, Dot Merrett and Aggie Sturgeon, whilst Marg Selkirk and Laura Chartren are also available. Harry Cordery will assist Manager Delahaye, and the team will practice at the Bowl Tuesday afternoon. Helena Bradley used to play in the Ottawa loop, and Marjorie McCaul is from the Westclox plant. The 1937 champs will be tougher to take again than a cut in pay.

Galenta Seeks Bout With Joe Louis Following Victory Over Nat Mann

NEW YORK, May 14.—(AP) — A shadow shaped curiously like a beer barrel falls across the heavyweight scene, cast by Tony Galento, the thumper from Orange, N.J., who last night scored a signal victory for the forces of beer and disorder in a two-round knockout of Nathan Mann, Connecticut's contribution to the prize ring.

Pared down to a round and rubbery 232, Tony stood in his dressing room and offered to take on all comers including Joe Louis.

"Him," said Tony shyly, "I will knock him out in two rounds. And Baer the same night. Schmeling? Well I can't say anything about him. We're stablemates now."

He was a little vague on the details of his triumph. He had knocked Mann down for a nine count with a left and right and then as Nathan sagged on the lower rope added a terrific left hook for good measure. A moment later he caught the groggy Mann with that left hook and Nathan took the 10 count on one knee.

Well maybe that's the way it went," said Tony. "I dunno. anyway, I finished him quicker than Louis did. That Louis, wait till I get him in there."

George St. Bantams Cop 17-11 Victory

George St. Bantams of the Church Softball League last night copped a 17-11 decision over St. James. Play was wide-open all the way through with plenty of hitting and lots of errors, neither pitcher being too successful in holding the clubbers in check. Leether batted exceptionally, well this member being the only one of last year's St. James champions left. It was the first game for George St., played at Central School. Saunders and Richardson fielded neatly. The teams:

St. James: Estlick, 2b; Welch, lf; Baldry, c; Leether, 3b; Wildman, 1b; Rutherford, ss; Lawson, cf; McMahon, rf; Ellis, p.

Something different, something new. That's the way life looms up these days for Joe Kirkwood, trick golfing star, now touring the Orient. This shot was taken in Shanghai, China, when the Japs stopped shooting long enough to get a few tips on the royal and ancient with slightly over-size implements.

EXPECT GALA DAY AS WAR ADMIRAL RUNS SEABISCUIT

NEW YORK, May 14—(CP).—If you care to delve into the matter, you can trace it back and credit the weatherman with setting up the $100,000 match race between War Admiral and Seabiscuit May 30. The Memorial Day race is the most important match race since Zev beat Papyrus in 1923. It will be the first modern race in which the winner takes all. Man o' War got $80,000 of the $100,000 against Sir Barton in 1919 at Windsor, Ont., as did Zev against Papyrus.

War Admiral and Seabiscuit were scheduled to meet at Maryland last fall. It was just another race, with a small money-value and half-a-dozen other steeds entered for company. But the weatherman intervened.

Rain fell during the night and the track was not perfect. War Admiral's trained OK'd the racing strip, but Seabiscuit's supervisors, perhaps having keener sight, found fault and declined the issue. So, the postponement forced by the weatherman served to heat the arguments over their respecting racing speeds —and the $100,000 match race finally was born. It will be run at nearby Belmont Park, Long Island.

Perhaps the greatest crowd that ever gathered to watch settlement of an equine family dispute, some 75,000, will see the Admiral match strides with his half-nephew, the Biscuit, over the mile-and-a-quarter route.

Seabiscuit, the handicap champion last year and biggest money-winners now racing, is a five-year-old grandson of Man o' War, while War Admiral, the triple-crown winner of 1937, is Man o' War's four-year-old son. The Biscuit has earned $251,000 and War Admiral $231,000. War Admiral has won 13 races in 16 searts, Seabiscuit 27 in 77.

The handicap champion is a couple of inches taller and perhaps 100 pounds heavier. He is a rangy bay, several shades lighter than War Admiral. They are equally beautiful steeds. The Admiral is nervous and jerky, while Seabiscuit is calm. The little fellow is more fractious at the barrier and that is why Admiral's trainer desires a walking start instead of the usual lunge out of the stall gates.

While the Admiral is skittish at the past, Jockey Charles Kurtsinger says he is an easy horse to handle once underway. "All he want sto do is to get out there in front, and go," he says.

Younger Horse Favored

War Admiral, victor in the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont last year, unbeaten since late in his two-year-old campaign of 1936, rules slight favorite. Speed came to Seabiscuit late. He was a disappointment as a three-year-old and didn't find his racing ability until last season.

Most of the Admiral's victories have been comparatively easy. Only Pompoon in the Peakness and Masked General in the Pimlico Special pushed him. Seabiscuit has had to battle in many of his races, perhaps against a better bunch of horses than War Admiral had to face. In defeat, Seabiscuit was not disgraced. He was always driving hard right down to the wire.

War Admiral is almost certain to leap out first. He has set the pace in every race since late 1936. Seabiscuit gets away a trifle slower and requires a short distance to find his stride, but one in racing action he is a brilliant and courageous runner. Because of his slightly slower start and because he has faced better horses than War Admiral, Seabiscuit has had to get organized in the early stages and then seek a forward position.

Seabiscuit is owned by Charles S. Howard, San Francisco automan who bought him cheap two years ago at Saratoga from the late Ogden Mills. Sam Riddle of Philadelphia owner of Man o' War, owns War Admiral.

NEW YORK, May 14 (A.P.). — Dominick Mecozzi of the Danbury Trade School nine has pitched two no-hit, no-run games within a week's time. Latest from the Coast is that Shanty Hogan, better known as "The One-man Crowd," who recently caught on with the San Diego Padres in the Coast League, is about to eat President Bill Lane out of house and home.

Only reason scouts aren't rushing to sign Max Wilson, star patcher for Oak Ridge Institute down in North Carolina, who recently twirled two no-hit, no-run games in nine days, is because he only weighs 153....He fanned 26 in his first no-hitter and 18 in the second.

Here's another of those funny things you hear about with the Dodgers....In a game at Pittsburgh, Lloyd Waner hit a homer into a deserted tier in the right field stands....An usher went over, picked up the ball and turned it in.... It was found to be one of Larry MacPhail's "rocket balls" used during batting practice....Pirate officials immediately went into a huddle but finally decided the ball must have been banged into the stand during practice and overlooked until after Waner's smack.

Golf Facts

It is the simple thing that brings success in golf. But the very simplicity of the thing seems to hide it from the player's attention.

For example, teeing the ball on the left side of the tee has many advantages, such as encouraging a swing from the inside out and bringing confidence in reaching the middle of the fairway with almost any kind of shot. Yet very few players ever use this part of the teeing ground other than by accident. The majority use the right side, as the divot holes show.

(As a rule the reason given for using this side of the tee is that it lines up the ball so that it can be pulled or hooked in toward the middle of the fairway. In other words, it affords the average player an opportunity to follow the example of some of the pros who are in the habit of playing this type of shot, that is supposed to bring more roll, distance and general advantages.

Actually it doesn't. No matter who the player is, he doesn't gain a thing by trying to play such a shot. And the less skill he has, the more trouble he gets into by trying, because there is always the temptation to steer the club or swing from the outside in as a means of bringing the ball in from the right side of the fairway.

When you are lined up to hit out toward the middle of the fairway, you have a better chance of making the proper swing.

PLAYERS' GIRTH IN HOCKEY GAME STARTLES PARIS

PARIS, May 14.—(CP)—The hockey public rather than the hockey game turned out to be the spectacle for the Canadian taking in the Prince of Wales cup series in the Paris Palais des Sports. No stadium in Canada ever housed one quite like it.

There is no reflection on the hockey. The exhibitions given by Montreal Canadiens and Detroit Red Wings were first-class for speed, technique and thrills, leaving Paris practically speechless—with hoarseness. Roughly 10,000 persons attended each game and though they didn't quite know how to put their lungs into it the first night, they were frankly pro-Canadian and by the end of the series boisterously partisan about it.

The crowds chanted "Ca-na-da... Ca-na-da...Ca-na-da" encouraged by the handful of genuine Canadians who proved their presence on the shingles by shouting "Step on it, Canada." "Pull up your socks, Seibert," "Watcha doing Cude, Posin'?" The Americans hadn't a chance to be heard.

Most of the fans had never seen hockey and women kept shrieking and ducking their heads behind their companions every time the play came their way. The size of the boys dismayed them too. And no wonder, for most of them, big fellows at any time, when stuffed out with pads and extra undershirts, looked, as one French girl said "simply colossal." Or perhaps it is just the contrast with the male population here. At any rate another girl said, her eyes popping, "I'd be frightened to death to go to America. if all the men are as big as that. And whatever are they chewing?"

Was Dressy Affair

What to wear to a hockey game had obviously required deep thought on the part of the "chic." Does one go in evening clothes? sports clothes?—or a new spring outfit? Many of the women in the stalls bordering the ice reconciled spring and hockey by wearing the fantastic concoctions of straw, fruit, flowers and veil (40% queerer than last year) that Parisian milliners label "hat" with enormous fur coats. One woman settled it with a sky-blue Gibson-girl sailor (perched over one eye like a tea plate) and mink cape while the impressive number of Canadian silver foxes indicated the fur trade hadn't experienced a "recession."

Another party appeared in evening things and were upset to find their "loge" upholstered in bare boards instead of red plush. Probably the price, 100 francs ($2.80), the same as the most expensive for Yehudi Menuhin or any other great artist, fooled them. Several young women in tokues and scarfs looked western mid-winter but likely felt as uncomfortable as the boys perspiring on the ice. Temperature was at least 50 degrees above zero.

Had Opera Parade

Instead of galloping out for coffee and hot dogs at intermission the public promenaded back and forth in the leisurely way they do at an Opera gala or stopped at one of the "bars" stocked as only a French bar is stocked. One of these, at the north end of the rink, was placed just back of the safety netting and directly behind goal. The blaze of glass and nickle, rows of bottles and popping of corks must have been as distracting to thirsty players as the match was to the waiters! The latter upset two bottles and nearly fell over the counter in their excitement.

As it was, he left the mound in favor of Rookie Bill Wittig, with three runs in, the bases loaded and two out in the ninth.

Aside from a leaning to wildness, Malone pitched masterful ball for eight frames. Gantenbein tagged him for a single in the first inning, Petoskey did the same in the fourth, while Klivak dropped a fluke two-bagger in short right in the eighth, for the sum total of the Leafian attack up to the ninth.

The Leafs started a promising rally in the ninth, but a double play cut it down to the size of a mild flurry. With one out Petoskey doubled down the right field foul line. Urbanski lifted an easy pop fly to Cissell, and the latter muffed it ingloriously; and when Porter walked the bases were filled.

Al Smith bounced a hard one right at Cissell for the start of a double play that wound up when Urbanski was tagged going into third. Petoskey scored on the play, and when Reiber followed with a single, Al Smith came home. Charley Sheerin, batting for Klivak, and Mayo Smith came through with one-baggers, Reiber counting on the latter's drive, Gantenbein walked, filling the bases again, before Burns popped to Norris for the final out.

ELEVEN SLATED FOR PREAKNESS

BALTIMORE, May 14 (AP).—The Preakness, second of the United States turf's spring classics comprising the "triple crown," will be run for the forty-eighth time today with ten colts and a filly primed to test speed and stamina over Pimlico's 1 3-16-mile for the 3-year-old division's richest pot of gold.

Although robbed of some of its interest by the absence of Lawrin, Kentucky Derby winner, and Stagehand, future book favorite, the race should attract a near record crowd of 45,000.

If all eleven overnight entries face the barrier at about 5:55 p.m. (E.D.T.), the race will gross $70,500, with the winner receiving approximately $53,000 net.

Heading the list are Dauber, William Dupont, Jr.'s chestnut, and four others which trailed Lawrin home at Churchill Downs a week ago.

Logical Choice.

Dauber was only a length back of Lawrin in the Derby and far in front of the others, but the stretch running son of Pennant figures to be no better than 5 to 2 as the favorite today. A slow starter, he drew No. 6 stall, and will need all the shrewdness of Maurice Peters to keep him out of early trouble and in position to bid for victory when the field hits the short home stretch.

Drama As Winning Goal Scored

Grimm Is Poor Strategist As Cubs Lose Out 4 To 1

Boston Red Sox Climb By Blanking Senators 10-0—Indians Lose In Ninth

NEW YORK, May 14 — (CP) — Wanted: Man who can give Chicago Cubs, master-minds some pointers on master-minding.

That might be a likely result of the latest assortment of "gems" produced yesterday by "Cholly" Grimm and his deep-thinking board of strategy, which was supposed to be the last word in diamond brains this season.

Get this picture: The score is tied 1-1 in the home (Cubs) half of the ninth inning. One run is needed to break up the ball game with Pittsburgh Pirates. The Cubs have runners on first and second with one out. The pitcher is the next batter.

Obviously, a pinch-hitter is called for. The pitcher, in this case, was Larry French. A good pitcher, but usually he can't even buy a hit. But the Cub Master Minds, Inc. not only let French go to the plate, but ordered him to sacrifice.

The result was as expected: Instead of having two chances to bring the run in from second, the Cubs were left with just one chance of getting it across from third. Opportunity, after knocking that once, took a run-out.

Then the Bucs went to work in their half of the 10th inning. Larry French, naturally, was still pitching, but he didn't stay for long. Two men hit safely and a run was in. But two were out. In that spot, Grimm called for an intentional walk for Johnny Rizzo, so that French could get at such a popover batter as Arky Vaughan, Arky obliged with a base-hit, a second run came in, and French headed for the showers.

The final bad news for the Grimm Gallopers was Pittsburgh 4, Chicago 1. Although Bill Terry's Giants, like the rest of the National League, had the day off, it must have been a most enjoyable occasion to the terrible one.

Meantime, the American League handed the folks several surprise packages. For instance, Connie Mack shook up his lowly Athletics for their first 1938 outing in Yankee Stadium, and the revamped lineup clicked for an 8-6 win over the world champions on the strength of a five-run splurge in the seventh.

Then there was the big doings at Boston, where the Red Sox bounced up to second place with a 10-0 triumph over Washington's league-leading Senators, as Jackie Wison pitched his second straight shutout and the gold-plated men whacked Wes Ferrell for 13 hits.

Cleveland Indians came home to their always friendly ball park, but they must have thought they were still on the road. They blew a two-run lead in the ninth and dropped a 7-6 decision to the White Sox.

Detroit Tigers, also back from their road trip, barely held on for a 7-5 win over St. Louis Brownies, with young George Gill going the route.

SAILED WITH LIPTON

EDINBURGH (CP)—Col. Duncan Neill, yachting expert who sailed with the late Sir Thomas Lipton in several America's Cup races, is dead here. He was 69 years old.

JOHNNY HALEY STOPS ROYALS

MONTREAL, May 14 — (CP) — That Midas touch of Newark Bears is getting a lot of International League managers down. Throughout the circuit all you hear from a lot of puzzled pilots are a few mumbled phrases that go something like "the rich get richer, the poor, etc." and no wonder.

The Bears uncovered young Johnny Haley in his first starting role yesterday and the strapping six-foot-two right-hander stopped Montreal Royals' four-game winning streak with a six-hit effort that won the ball game 11-1.

Haley who won 14 and lost 13 for August, Ga., in the Sally league last season, had been confined to relief work prior to yesterday's game. His full game triumph assured the Bears of another full-time flinger.

Rochester Red Wings, another club boasting a four-game winning chain, blasted Jersey City Giants out of the first division with a 7-3 victory and moved right into the Jerseys' fourth place spot.

Old Ollie Carnegie had himself a perfect day with a pair of homers and a double to drive in five runs that gave the Bisons a 6-5 edge over the slipping Syracuse Chiefs.

NEW COACHES WILL HANDLE LACROSSE

TORONTO, May 14 (CP). — Lacrosse has fallen in line with the trend toward coaching shake-ups, so when the Ontario Lacrosse Association's senior series opens Tuesday new handlers will be directing five of the six 1937 teams which have stayed in the seven-club league.

Bucko McDonald, defence star of Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League, returns to the summer game as playing coach of Orillia Terriers under new Dominion rules allowing professionals and amateurs to mingle. McDonald, who turned pro to play lacrosse originally, has taught the Dominion finalists faster passing.

Jimmy Collins has replaced Jack McDonald as bench director of Mimico Mountaineers, group finalists with Orillia last year. Flick Graham has taken over coaching duties at Fergus, Pete Ella now directs Brampton Excelsiors and Bill Parsons will handle Brantford's entry temporarily anyway. Art Brown is back as leader of St. Catharines Athletics, while Jack Worthy, for many years a playing star, will coach Hamilton Tigers, who replace Toronto Marlboros as the seventh entry.

Brampton will visit the Thistles at Fergus to open the season Tuesday, but a greater feature will be the collision of Mimico and the Terriers at Orillia. Last year's finalists are both considerably strengthened and their gruelling playoffs developed hot rivalry. Hamilton and Brantford, stern foes of other years, tackle one another at Brantford Friday and St. Catharines gets under way in Brampton's Rose Bowl next Saturday.

Games the following week have been set as follows: May 24—Brampton at Mimico, Fergus at Hamilton; May 26—Hamilton at Orillia, Brantford at Fetrgus; May 27—Mimico at St. Catharines.

LEAFS SUFFER 4th STRAIGHT SETBACK, LOSE TO BIRDS 8-3

Pat Malone Hurls Orioles To Easy Win At Toronto

Cellar Position Faces Leafs Over Weekend—Bears Hold Montreal

TORONTO, May 14.—Thoroughly trounced by Baltimore Orioles yesterday afternoon 8 to 3, the Maple Leafs managed to retain their insecure hold on sixth place through the courtesy of Newark's champion Bears, who stifled Montreal's bid for a higher place in the standing at Toronto's expense.

It was the fourth straight defeat for the Howleys, and, while they are only one game away from the first division, they are but half a game out of seventh place, and none too far away from Syracuse that they couldn't drop into the cellar over the weekend.

The high-flying Marylanders had entirely too much power for the Leafs, and a home run, triple and two doubles were included in their ten-hit assortment at the expense of Ted Olson, John Berly and George Kilvak. The Birds were off to a flying start with five runs in the first three innings, and they coasted in on the strength of Pat Malone's effective flinging.

Cissell's Error Helps Leafs.

Old Rubber, relegated to the minors after serving faithfully with Chicago Cubs and New York Yankees, made his first start in a Baltimore uniform, and, pitching with the cunning that comes from experience, limited the Leafs to three hits scattered over the first eight frames.

Malone wasn't in there at the finish, but it took a miserable fumble by Third Baseman Bill Cissell not only to bring about his departure, but cost him victory via the shutout route. As it was, he left the mound in favor of Rookie Bill Wittig, with three runs in, the bases loaded and two out in the ninth.

Aside from a leaning to wildness, Malone pitched masterful ball for eight frames. Gantenbein tagged him for a single in the first inning, Petoskey did the same in the fourth, while Klivak dropped a fluke two-bagger in short right in the eighth, for the sum total of the Leafian attack up to the ninth.

The Leafs started a promising rally in the ninth, but a double play cut it down to the size of a mild flurry. With one out Petoskey doubled down the right field foul line. Urbanski lifted an easy pop fly to Cissell, and the latter muffed it ingloriously; and when Porter walked the bases were filled.

Al Smith bounced a hard one right at Cissell for the start of a double play that wound up when Urbanski was tagged going into third. Petoskey scored on the play, and when Reiber followed with a single, Al Smith came home. Charley Sheerin, batting for Klivak, and Mayo Smith came through with one-baggers, Reiber counting on the latter's drive, Gantenbein walked, filling the bases again, before Burns popped to Norris for the final out.

ASKED RIGHT MAN

PORTMOUTH, England—(CP)—Don Bradman arriving here with Australian test cricketers tells of a ship photgrapher who asked him to point out players, promising his informant a free photograph. Bradman then divulged his identity.

ELEVEN SLATED FOR PREAKNESS

BALTIMORE, May 14 (AP).—The Preakness, second of the United States turf's spring classics comprising the "triple crown," will be run for the forty-eighth time today with ten colts and a filly primed to test speed and stamina over Pimlico's 1 3-16-mile for the 3-year-old division's richest pot of gold.

Although robbed of some of its interest by the absence of Lawrin, Kentucky Derby winner, and Stagehand, future book favorite, the race should attract a near record crowd of 45,000.

If all eleven overnight entries face the barrier at about 5:55 p.m. (E.D.T.), the race will gross $70,500, with the winner receiving approximately $53,000 net.

Heading the list are Dauber, William Dupont, Jr.'s chestnut, and four others which trailed Lawrin home at Churchill Downs a week ago.

Logical Choice.

Dauber was only a length back of Lawrin in the Derby and far in front of the others, but the stretch running son of Pennant figures to be no better than 5 to 2 as the favorite today. A slow starter, he drew No. 6 stall, and will need all the shrewdness of Maurice Peters to keep him out of early trouble and in position to bid for victory when the field hits the short home stretch.

Drama As Winning Goal Scored

JOHNNY HALEY STOPS ROYALS

MONTREAL, May 14 — (CP) — That Midas touch of Newark Bears is getting a lot of International League managers down. Throughout the circuit all you hear from a lot of puzzled pilots are a few mumbled phrases that go something like "the rich get richer, the poor, etc." and no wonder.

The Bears uncovered young Johnny Haley in his first starting role yesterday and the strapping six-foot-two right-hander stopped Montreal Royals' four-game winning streak with a six-hit effort that won the ball game 11-1.

Haley who won 14 and lost 13 for August, Ga., in the Sally league last season, had been confined to relief work prior to yesterday's game. His full game triumph assured the Bears of another full-time flinger.

Rochester Red Wings, another club boasting a four-game winning chain, blasted Jersey City Giants out of the first division with a 7-3 victory and moved right into the Jerseys' fourth place spot.

Old Ollie Carnegie had himself a perfect day with a pair of homers and a double to drive in five runs that gave the Bisons a 6-5 edge over the slipping Syracuse Chiefs.

NEW COACHES WILL HANDLE LACROSSE

TORONTO, May 14 (CP). — Lacrosse has fallen in line with the trend toward coaching shake-ups, so when the Ontario Lacrosse Association's senior series opens Tuesday new handlers will be directing five of the six 1937 teams which have stayed in the seven-club league.

Bucko McDonald, defence star of Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League, returns to the summer game as playing coach of Orillia Terriers under new Dominion rules allowing professionals and amateurs to mingle. McDonald, who turned pro to play lacrosse originally, has taught the Dominion finalists faster passing.

Jimmy Collins has replaced Jack McDonald as bench director of Mimico Mountaineers, group finalists with Orillia last year. Flick Graham has taken over coaching duties at Fergus, Pete Ella now directs Brampton Excelsiors and Bill Parsons will handle Brantford's entry temporarily anyway. Art Brown is back as leader of St. Catharines Athletics, while Jack Worthy, for many years a playing star, will coach Hamilton Tigers, who replace Toronto Marlboros as the seventh entry.

Brampton will visit the Thistles at Fergus to open the season Tuesday, but a greater feature will be the collision of Mimico and the Terriers at Orillia. Last year's finalists are both considerably strengthened and their gruelling playoffs developed hot rivalry. Hamilton and Brantford, stern foes of other years, tackle one another at Brantford Friday and St. Catharines gets under way in Brampton's Rose Bowl next Saturday.

Games the following week have been set as follows: May 24—Brampton at Mimico, Fergus at Hamilton; May 26—Hamilton at Orillia, Brantford at Fetrgus; May 27—Mimico at St. Catharines.

Grimm Is Poor Strategist As Cubs Lose Out 4 To 1

NEW YORK, May 14 — (CP) — Wanted: Man who can give Chicago Cubs, master-minds some pointers on master-minding.

That might be a likely result of the latest assortment of "gems" produced yesterday by "Cholly" Grimm and his deep-thinking board of strategy, which was supposed to be the last word in diamond brains this season.

Get this picture: The score is tied 1-1 in the home (Cubs) half of the ninth inning. One run is needed to break up the ball game with Pittsburgh Pirates. The Cubs have runners on first and second with one out. The pitcher is the next batter.

Obviously, a pinch-hitter is called for. The pitcher, in this case, was Larry French. A good pitcher, but usually he can't even buy a hit. But the Cub Master Minds, Inc. not only let French go to the plate, but ordered him to sacrifice.

The result was as expected: Instead of having two chances to bring the run in from second, the Cubs were left with just one chance of getting it across from third. Opportunity, after knocking that once, took a run-out.

Then the Bucs went to work in their half of the 10th inning. Larry French, naturally, was still pitching, but he didn't stay for long. Two men hit safely and a run was in. But two were out. In that spot, Grimm called for an intentional walk for Johnny Rizzo, so that French could get at such a popover batter as Arky Vaughan, Arky obliged with a base-hit, a second run came in, and French headed for the showers.

The final bad news for the Grimm Gallopers was Pittsburgh 4, Chicago 1. Although Bill Terrys Giants, like the rest of the National League, had the day off, it must have been a most enjoyable occasion to the terrible one.

Meantime, the American League handed the folks several surprise packages. For instance, Connie Mack shook up his lowly Athletics for their first 1938 outing in Yankee Stadium, and the revamped lineup clicked for an 8-6 win over the world champions on the strength of a five-run splurge in the seventh.

Then there was the big doings at Boston, where the Red Sox bounced up to second place with a 10-0 triumph over Washington's league-leading Senators, as Jackie Wison pitched his second straight shutout and the gold-plated men whacked Wes Ferrell for 13 hits.

Cleveland Indians came home to their always friendly ball park, but they must have thought they were still on the road. They blew a two-run lead in the ninth and dropped a 7-6 decision to the White Sox.

Detroit Tigers, also back from their road trip, barely held on for a 7-5 win over St. Louis Brownies, with young George Gill going the route.

CABINET SHUFFLE MAY SEE SWINTON LOSE AIR OFFICE

LONDON, May 14 — (CP-Cable). —Cabinet changes are impending. The number of peers at present in the cabinet and the sharp attacks from both sides of the House of Commons on the Air Ministry yesterday led to the conclusion that a shake-up cannot long be delayed. The resignation is mooted of Viscount Swinton, Secretary for Air, who for long has been subject to attack. Formation of a Council of State composed of party leaders to speed up air re-armament is suggested.

The Government's announcement that Great Britain's air strength is to be doubled failed to satisfy its critics. They all want an inquiry. Labor has given notice of a motion to be discussed Thursday calling for a "complete, searching, independent inquiry conducted with dispatch under conditions consistent with the national interest." The motion is so drafted that Conservatives cannot support it without entailing censure of the government.

Winston Churchill, backed by a number of Canservative members, has put down a motion "welcoming the appointment of an independent committee of inquiry into the state of our air defences." Not to be outdone, the Liberals have put down a third motion calling for the appointment of a select committee to investigate aircraft supply, anti-aircraft defence and air raid precautions.

"Simultaneous debate on air defence yesterday in both Houses of Parliament," says The Yorkshire Post (Conservative), will have left the government under no illusions as to the great and increasing anxiety of this account which afflicts very large numbers of sober-minded, intelligent people without distinction of political party."

"The Air Ministry," observes The Manchester Guardian (Liberal), "is not criticized out of malice. The country is pouring out its wealth. Many wish beyond doubt that its outpouring is to the best possible purpose. It is small comfort to be told that maybe the totalitarian systems can do better because they can dragoon their disciplined peoples who must ask no questions and utter no criticisms. Our business in these grim days is to make our own system work to full advantage."

The Times (Independent) declares: "The debate did not succeed in disproving the view that the position is, or at least until quite recently has been altogether unsatisfactory. But the main question is not whether there have been faults in the past but whether the new program is the most satisfactory possible. If account is taken of the undisclosed strength of prospective reserves then the answer must be 'yes,' provided the program does indeed, prove to be possible."

83 Pupils Escape As School Sags

VITTORIA, Ont., May 14—(CP)—Eighty-three pupils escaped safely from the old red school house in this village 25 miles south of Brantford today when one of the walls settled and the building threatened to collapse.

The east wall of the school, built in 1859, began to settle and cracks appeared in the wall. School Trustee Thomas Pope directed the pupils to leave the building quietly and 43 filed out, one by one, down a narrow stairway from the second floor, while 40 more made their way out from the ground floor classrooms.

Fascist Revolt In Brazil Crushed

Loyal forces of President Getuilo Vargas were successful in putting down a Fascist revolt in Rio de Janeiro after three hours of fierce fighting. President Vargas, INSET, was forced to defend himself and his family when he was trapped in his palace. Shooting from the windows of the palace he succeeded in fighting the rebels off until loyal troops came to his aid Several hundred officers and men of the Brazilian army and navy were placed under arrest following the revolt. A general view of the Avenda de Branco, principal thoroughfare of Rio de Janeiro, is shown ABOVE.

OFFICERS INVITED TO ARMY COURSE

CHELTENHAM, England, May 14 —(CP Havas)—At least 20 officers from the dominions, territorial army, marines and Royal Air Force will be admitted to an enlarged "junior war college" for advanced study at Camberley, Leslie Hore-Belisha, secretary of war, announced in a speech here today.

Beginning January 1, 1939, registration for studies leading to general-staff promotion will be increased from 50 to more than 150 officers, he said. Candidates must be at least 30 years of age. About 100 men will be selected from the home force.

In addition a "senior college" will be created at Minley Manor, near Camberley, where 55 officers graduating from the "junior college" will be admitted each year. Thirty of these will come from the home force and 25 from the various other services.

These reforms are expected to effect a considerable "rejuvenation" of a general-staff ranks and an elevation of the level of studies. Greater liaison between the land forces of the regular and territorial armies, as well as with the Dominion forces, is also hoped from the new system, the minister indicated.

WOMEN IN LODGE

WINDSOR, Ont., May 14—(CP) —Woman's place is not altogether in the home for she can be active in lodge work as well, Mrs. Eva G. Starkey, Past Grand Regent of the Women's Chapter of the Loyal Order of the Moose, told more than 100 fellow members from Windsor, Chatham and Leamington here last night.

MILLBROOK

On Wednesday, the opening day of the Durham County Musical Festival Competition, when individual schools were competing, the pupils of Fallis Line School, with their teacher, Miss Ruth Ball, and the Leslie Unitt, musical instructor for the schools of Cavan and Millbrook, motored to Bowmanville and took part in the program.

The Fallis Line pupils gave two numbers in the competition, "The Miller of Dee" and "Shore Lights", and were awarded fifth place in one class in which they were entered. Donald McKnight, who was to have taken part in the boys' solo competition was unfortunately unable to do so owing to a very severe cold.

Seventeen schools were entered in the opening day's contest, and since Fallis Line is a small school, their instructor and teacher were justifiably proud of the showing made. The event goes on for four consecutive days, and is being held in Trinity United Church, Bowmanville. J. H. McKnight supplied one car for the conveyance of the pupils to the meeting-place.

The annual quilting of the W.M.S. of St. Andrew's Church was held in the basement of the church on Wednesday, workers going in the morning and setting up the frames with three quilts ready for the increased number who came immediately after dinner and by night had three quilts completed, all but the binding.

The Golden Links Mission Circle served tea at 5 p.m., the president, Phyllis Kidd, and Mrs. D. Lunn being in charge, and a number of the girls assisting with the service. Through this effort the Circle realized enough to meet their half-year's allocation of twenty-five dollars, due in June.

A survey of college students reveals that one-third of them listen to the radio while studying.

League Praises Chinese Stand

GENEVA, May 14 (CP-Havas).—The League of Nations council today approved the broad lines of a resolution on China generally lauding the Chinese stand against Japanese aggression and condemning use of poison gas by the invaders.

The Council met in closed session to discuss disposition of the Chinese, Spanish, Swiss and Chilean items on the agenda. The drafting committee was composed of delegates of France, Russia, Great Britain, Rumania and China.

The Japanese bureau here issued a statement hotly denying Japanese forces in China had used or were even equipped to use chemical means of warfare. It charged the Chinese, on the contrary, were guilty of extensive preparations for the use of poison gas and that Japanese troops had captured considerable gas equipment on the Shantung front. The Chinese, the bureau said, also poisoned wells and cisterns.

C.G.E. FOREMAN IS ELECTROCUTED AT TORONTO PLANT

TORONTO, May 14.—Electrocuted Friday afternoon when he came in contact with a live wire carrying 3,300 volts, Ronald Fraser, 30, 1301 Lansdowne Avenue, foreman of the casting room at the Canadian General Electric Company plant, Lansdowne avenue and formerly of the C.G.E. test in Peterborough, was pronounced dead by Chief Coroner Dr. Smirle Lawson, shortly after 4 o'clock.

the Canadian General Electric Company worked over the young foreman in a vain attempt to save his life. Artificial respiration was used alternately with the crews under the supervision of Coroner Dr. C. N. Mooney, but he never recovered consciousness.

According to the police of Ossington Avenue Station, Fraser was testing some new transformers which were lying on a flat freight car. He made a hookup to make the test at the west side of the main plant building about 2 o'clock. A few moments later he collapsed at the side of the flat car.

Detective Sam Todd was told by workmen that Fraser had a chat with his landlady last night and told her of the work he was doing. They talked about Friday the thirteenth superstitions. "Oh that's all right," he replied jokingly, "I'm liable to get fried any time."

Investigation revealed that during the test, involving high voltages, contacts were made in two places, and it is believed that Fraser opened one switch but forgot to break the other circuit before he touched the charged wire.

An independent electrical engineer will be appointed by Dr. Lawson to make an examination of the equipment. The Chief Coroner intimated late last night that if it is found to be in working order there would not be an inquest.

Ronald Fraser was well known in Peterborough where he was student in the C.G.E. test. He was here only last week-end.

HAVELOCK

CORDOVA COMEDY PROVES A TREAT

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, May 14. — A very amusing play, entitled "Simple Simon Simon" was presented on Thursday evening in the Havelock Town Hall by the Young People's Society of Cordova, under the auspices of the Women's Auxilliary of St. John's Anglican Church, of town. There was only an average attendance, the proceeds amounting to $32.00.

The comedy, very well portrayed, concerned the fortunes of one Simon Simple, an amateur inventor, whose favorite saying when his wife Sophie became downhearted, was "everything will soon be peaches and cream." For some time Simon had never had much luck with his inventing, but with his new invention, a hot-water heater, he finally strikes it rich when he succeeds in selling it to the old skin-flint, Thankful Barlow, who runs the Elite Hotel. The play surrounds the success of this invention and the romance of his son Sammy and Hazel Hawkens. The roles were played as follows: Simon Simple, Dave Johnson; Sophie Simple, his wife, Theda Barrons; Stella Simple, his daughter, Iris Boriand; Sammy Simple, his son, Cameron Vance; Sally Ann, maid at the Simple's, Mrs. H. R. Bowen; Hazel Hawkens, Irene Barrons; Thankful Barlow, who runs the Elite Hotel, Carl Purdy; Minerva Webb, who boards at the Simple's, Mrs. Louise Bowen; Dorothea Ducksworth, from the city, Laura McGregor; and Elwood Elkins, just back from the city, Eddy Bowen.

Canadian Legion Notes

A chields amang ye takin' notes, and, faith, he'll print them.
—Burns.

Members of the Legion and ex-servicemen generally will deplore the death of our old comrade, Billy Evans. His quiet genial manner and his evident delight in all ex-service mens gatherings endeared him to all his comrades. To his sorrowing relatives, the president and members of the Legion extend their heartfelt sympathy.

It is the intention of the entertainment committee to run a party for members only to Art Nokes' cottage at Hiawatha. The event will take place on a Sunday in June (date to be determined). Will all members who would care to take part kindly phone 141 and register their names.

The president and executive would like to draw to the attention of members and ex-service men generally that there is a billiard room at the hall with two billiard tables in pretty good shape and that only a nominal fee is charged. Why not make use of them?

All dues or other payments may be made at any time during the day or evening to R. Mitchell at the hall.

We are now installing a barnyard golf course or horse-shoe pitching course at the rear of the hall and will be glad to hear from devotees of the game.

The Wallace Brothers' Shows will return to the city again on May 23rd, under the sponsorship of the Legion, and we wish them better weather than they enjoyed last year.

The monthly meeting of the branch will take place this coming Monday, May 16, and we ask for a good turnout of members. There will be refreshments and a good entertainment provided.

MARMORA

COTTRELL PENS POEM ON NURSE

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, May 14.—This being the week in which Hospital Day was observed in Canadian cities, the following poem by W. J. Cottrell, who has in his lifetime been a patient in eight different hospitals and has also undergone seven different operations, may be of some interest to readers:

My Lady of The Lamp

In appreciate verse
Would I sing about the nurse,
Who in wards where sick folk lay,
Ministers by night or day,
Unto young and unto old;
Those who praise and those who scold,
I confess she is the stamp
Of the Lady of the Lamp.

More deserve a greater fame
Than one worthy of the name
Of a good industrious nurse.
Sing of such in grateful verse
See! Her services combine
That of womanhood most fine.
Discharged patients hold awhile
Visions of her winsome smile.

How we sing of famous men,
Wielders of the sword or pen,
And extol physicians too
Rightly granting them their due.
Yet so long as there is pain
Their good name shall never wane
Whose whole bearing has the stamp
Of the Lady of the Lamp.

The money which will come from the event in the Armouries is for the special purpose of creating a fund for the new hospital building, and when this fund is started it is the hope of the Auxiliary to be able to add substantially to it from time to time.

Presentation Made To Hastings Bride

HASTINGS, May 14.—Members of the Sodality and young people of Mount Carmel parish made presentations to Mrs. Edward Walsh of Keene Thursday night at the parish hall. Mrs. Walsh was formerly Veronica Faux of this village.

She was presented with a beautiful statue of the Blessed Virgin by the Sodality of which she was a member. Mary Jones, president, read the address and the presentation was made by Marcella Sullivan. Mary Collins presented the bride with an occasional chair on behalf of the young people.

Music for the occasion was furnished by the young people themselves. A dainty lunch was served at the conclusion of the evening.

AUXILIARY MARKS 20TH ANNIVERSARY WITH A BANQUET

Commemorating their twentieth anniversary, St. Jame's Auxiliary of the W.M.S. held a delightful mother and daughter banquet Friday night when over one hundred and fifty guests were entertained in the banquet hall.

Mrs. F. B. Elliott, president of the Society, with Mrs. F. W. Craik, Mrs. E. L. Woodley, Mrs. E. J. Wagar and Mrs. G. H. Rowe received and welcomed the guests, who included many former members and officers of St. James.

The prettily arranged tables were lovely with spring flowers and streamers of orchid and yellow, with a tiny candle for each guest and dainty place cards for the head table. These were the handiwork of Mrs. Bert Pitchford, convenor of the committee.

Members of the entertaining auxiliary under the capable leadership of Mrs. W. K. Sloane catered for the delicious supper, while the lovely birthday cake was made and donated by Miss Kidd and Mrs. Ingham.

In Christ there is no East, nor West, was the appropriate opening hymn, to a splendid program, with Mrs. Elliott ably presiding.

Representing her mother, the late Mrs. J. K. Moore, who organized St. James Auxiliary, Miss Helen Moore brought greetings, as did Mrs. A. I. Brown, on behalf of the Bay of Quinte Conference branch of the W.M.S., as it first vice-president, who brought a fine message of inspiration.

From Peterborough Presbyterial the president, Mrs. W. H. Morton, expressed their good wishes and congratulated St. James upon its success.

Mrs. A. E. Moorhouse, a former president, sent greetings upon this happy occasion, which was read by the secretary, Mrs. Geo. H. Rome.

Tributes to mothers were paid in the lovely solos and duet contributed by Mrs. T. E. Curvin, a former member, Mrs. G. H. Cutmore, daughter of a charter member, Mrs. Gerald Cuff and Miss Margaret Smart, representing the Mission Circle, with Mrs. R. C. Searles accompanying all the singers at the piano.

As guest speaker, Miss Lillian Esplen, of St. Paul's Presbyterian church, in her splendid address, brought not only a challenge to missionary workers, but also a wealth of first hand information concerning current conditions in the Orient. Presenting mission work from an entirely different angle in her vivid word-picture she held her audience enthralled as she described the early forms of religion in the East, including Buddhism, Confucianism and Shintoism. As a recent visitor to these peoples, she was able to compare the results of these religions with that of Christianity. Miss Esplan gave glowing accounts of the work being done by all Christian churches in their mission schools, universities and native churches. She paid tribute to the spiritual leadership of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek and his wife and its effect upon their country.

Story of the Years

The story of the years was an interesting resume of the organization of St. James Auxiliary and its growth during the twenty years since its inception, as told by one of its charter members, Mrs. E. J. Wagar.

The organization meeting was held on May 14th, 1918, and with Mrs. J. K. Moore, presiding, the following executive was elected: President, Mrs. J. G. Plunkett; vice-president, Miss M. Kidd; recording-secretary, Mrs. H. A. Bonney; corresponding secretary, Mrs. E. J. Wagar; treasurer, Mrs. B. Greatrix; secretary, systematic giving, Mrs. J. T. Palmer; Missionary outlook secretary, Mrs. C. H. Young; superintendent of Mission Band, Mrs. Wagar, and Mrs. Bonney; pianist, Mrs. J. O. Pife.

A beautiful and impressive candle lighting service, arranged by a charter member, symbolic of the work of the seven presidents, completed the history of the Auxiliary.

With Rev. Mr. Craik leading the service, seven candles were lighted, the first to "Sacrifice," lighted by Mrs. H. A. Bonney, in memory of the late Mrs. J. G. Plunkett, the first president; the candle of "Giving", lighted by Mrs. J. O. Pife, represented Mrs. J. F. Chapman's presidency; Mrs. Fairbrother, for the late Mrs. Welbourn, lighted the candle of "Service"; Mrs. E. L. Woodley, the fourth President, had the candle of "Prayer," symbolic of her work, while Mrs. Wesley Rose, representing Mrs. J. H. Dudgeon, lighted the candle of "Faith."

Consecration was felt to be the key-note of Mrs. A. E. Moorehouse's presidency and her candle was lighted by Miss Mary Deyell.

Typifying the spirit of the present, Mrs. F. B. Elliott, as she lighted the candle of "Knowledge" explained the value of study in Aux-candles appropriate sacred solos were contributed by Mrs. Ernest Kitney, with Mrs. Earl Eakins at the piano. The flowers on the table for this service were gifts from Mrs. A. Davis and Mrs. P. VanNest in memory of their mothers. Mrs. J. G. Plunkett and Mrs. J. N. Welbourn and from Mrs. Wagar in tribute to the late charter members.

Interspersing the lighting of the liary work.

Representing St. James church board was Mrs. Frank Kitney and Mrs. Kitney, while, Mr. E. R. Frost, superintendent of S.S., were present as guests.

To all those contributing to this very successful and happy anniversary occasion the thanks of the Auxiliary were voiced in gracious words by Mrs. W. H. Buckler and seconded by Mrs. F. W. Craik.

The Rambling REPORTERS

'TWAS FRIDAY THE 13TH

The residents of this city did not get through Friday the 13th of May entirely unscathed.

Early in the day Fire Chief George Gimblett said his department had been called out only two or three times during the week, and those times to small chimney fires. He thought there would be fewer fires from now until the fall months. Then last night the worst fire in several months occurred at the home of Fred Board, 543 Sherbrooke street.

For months the highways around Peterborough have been free of all serious accidents. But Friday the 13th saw two people go to hospital seriously injured after an auto crash on Highway 28.

BOWLING LEAGUE HOLDS BANQUET

Friday the 13th proved a lucky day for The Examiner Bowling League, since it marked the date of a successful banquet at the Peterborough Golf and Country Club—a grand finale to the League's activities for the season.

A silver cup was presented to the winning team: Miss Margaret Wyllie (captain), R. Bathgate, A. Stanley and F. Swatridge, by H. L. Garner. Miss Isabel Scott, as captain of the second-place team, was presented with a prize by J. H. McCauley, who awarded the J. J. Duffus prize for ladies' high single to Mrs. R. Hamilton, and prizes to Miss Isabel Scott, high three; and Miss M. Donoghue, high average.

The J. J. Duffus prize for men's high single went to R. J. Bathgate. Prizes were also awarded to Robert Wyllie, high three, and Harold Dormer, high average; prizes were also won by R. J. Bathgate, Albert Stanley, F. Swatridge, T. L. Ashton, V. Donaghue, R. Baker, and were graciously presented by Mrs. H. L. Garner. The lucky draw was won by Miss A. Dionne and Gordon Armstrong.

Two interesting features of the evening were the presentation of a chest of silver to a recent bride and popular member of the staff, Mrs. Gordon Armstrong ,Marcella Garvey), and a birthday cake, resplendent with lighted candles, which was presented with much gaiety and good wishes to Robert Pierce, whose birthday it was, by A. R. Kennedy.

Mrs. O. Cameron and D. Diplock delighted their audience with vocal numbers during the evening, and following the banquet, cards and dancing were enjoyed, while an impromptu program, superintended by Fred Scates and Andy Rutter, as Masters of Ceremonies, disclosed must clever and amusing talent.

The success of next year's bowling league is already assured, if the enthusiasm for its continuance is any criterion!

Old Rifle Found In Woodyard

The local police department is in possession of a very interesting firearm in the firm of a rifle that is believed to be at least 75 years old.

The weapon was found Friday wrapped up in a sack and hidden near the corner of Bethune and Brock streets on the property used for many years as a woodyard by the Fitzgerald Company. A small boy who was searching for a rabbit came across the rifle and turned it over to the police.

It is a .44 calibre rim-fire gun of the Stevens type and on its barrel is stamped the name of the manufacturer, Willis Williams, with the date 1861. The metal parts have been enameled and the butt, which at one time had been broken and repaired is stained and varnished so that in spite of its obvious age the old rifle seems to be remarkably well preserved.

Where it came from and what is its history are two things the police would like to know.

PICKEREL FOR RICE LAKE

One million pickerel fry were deposited in Rice Lake a few days ago. They arrived in twenty-three cans and were emptied on both north and south sides and also out near "Sunken Island." Lunge will be deposited later. Robert Hancock, Elmer Sidey, Don Sidey and William Kennedy help in the distribution.

LINDSAY MAN IS GIVEN TEN DAYS ON ASSAULT COUNT

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, May 14.—At Fridays session of the police court three young men, Gordon McCabe, E. Kimble and G. Doble, appeared before Magistrate Gee on charges of breaking and entering and assault and battery. The charges arose out of an assault of an aged man named Sullivan as he returned to his home on the evening of April 30. He found the three men inside his house and he charged that they attacked him. Kimble and McCabe received suspended sentences but Dobie, who had a previous conviction, was given ten days in jail.

Five residents of Victoria county will appear in police court in a few days to answer to the charge of spearing fish. The men are alleged to have been spearing in Head River in Halton township. There was one lunge in their possession.

The story of the family from Snowden township at present in Lindsay alleged to be in need of food brought prompt action on the part of relief authorities at Toronto and also Inspector Fred McNeely, of Peterborough, who visited Lindsay Friday following a call from the Deputy-minister at Queen's Park. It appears that this family got relief less than six weeks ago. Ald. Butler, chairman of relief, stated that if the family went back to Snowden they would get $7.55 each week for relief.

Sherbrooke Street Home Is Damaged

Firemen fought the worst blaze in months on Friday night when the home of Fred Board, 543 Sherbrooke Street, caught fire. Fire Chief George Gimblett estimated the loss at only $300, most of it in damage to the property. Household effects were not badly damaged, he said.

The blaze started because of a defective chimney, according to Chief Gimblett. It spread through a partition between bathroom and bedroom into the attic of the house, he said.

No one was at home when the blaze broke out. A neighbor, Frank Frost, broke in when he saw smoke belching out, and rescued two dogs that had been left there. The owner of the house was attending the wake of a dead relative when the fire broke out at his home.

CHAPTER 36

It was Ray Lipton who spoke first as the little group of men entered the living room of the Worthington lodge, where the other police, the house guests and servants awaited them.

Ray stood up and his voice was amazed. "That's the man that I picked up—the hitch-hiker."

Barbara did not hear him. Simultaneously with Julia and Gary Page, she spoke a name outloud.

"Bruce Kemper"

One of the new police arrivals spoke to the chief. "He gave himself up, sir. He was on his way to the police station to confess, he said. Minton took his girl, he says. He said he planned to get her, too, but I guess the shot must have brought him to. He surrendered instead."

The gun which the police had taken away from Bruce Kemper also fitted the bullet that had been found. The fingerprints on the light were his. He had reached through the door, switched the light off, and shot through a window—the one that was opened.

He answered questions in a deeply weary, sick voice. He seemed unimpressed by the presence of the group. The fierce mental tension that had urged him to this deed had broken. Even Julia's face seemed to hold no surprise for him. An ambulance was called and he was taken away.

When the excitement had died down Julia spoke to Barbara. "I suppose I killed Jimmy. I couldn't marry Bruce but I played with him, and I looked him up when I came to New York, and he was working for Jimmy, and Jimmy took a fancy to me. It was because of me he killed Jimmy." Her eyes grew black with fear. "I—I killed him, didn't I, really? And now Bruce will die for it!"

There was bitter condemnation of herself in Julia's eyes and it strangled her voice. Barbara felt the weariness and confusion of the last few hours giving way to a great pity. "No, Julia," she said. "Bruce is mentally sick—"

"And I made him that way!"

"No, he's that way because he is weak. If he hadn't been, he wouldn't have let himself go down when he couldn't have something he wanted. Someone else, Julia, would have got him upset if you hadn't."

"Oh, Barbara, you believe that?"

The girl began to sob violently. The phyisician, still in the Lodge, entered. A nurse had been hastily summoned in case someone should need attention and she took charge of Julia. With a little prayer of thankfulness, Barbara realized that Natalie had taken this precaution for Julia's sake.

Garry came in to say goodby. He had on his heavy topcoat and carried a gray felt hat. He looked near and dear as he stopped to take her hand.

"Goodby, Barbara, I'm going. When all of this is a mirage, may I call you some day?"

'Some day, Garry," she anwered, and wondered if ever the threads of a broken pattern could be pieced together so the knots did not show, even to the heart.

She heard Garry's engine starting, and watched the car slide down the silver streamer of ribboned road, outside the side entrance.

Upstairs Wenda was having hysterics and the nurse had gone to her. Julia, it was reported, was sleeping.

Ray Lipton came to sit at the other end of the great overstuffed divan by the fire. "You haven't heard my good news. What is it, Ray?"

"I've got an assignment, Babbs honey. I sail in four weeks for Paris. I'll be there a month and then I'm going on to central Europe."

"I'm so glad, but how I'll miss you!"

"I wish you meant it."

It was quiet in the long room where the tragic play had ended such a short time before. The log had burned down and no one had thought to replenish the fire. It was snowing again and the flakes tapped at the windows.

"I do mean it, Ray."

"I've a hunch it would be a swell thing to buy two tickets.'

Barabara stopped him. "You wouldn't have any trouble finding someone to use the other one."

"Still think you couldn't marry me, Barabara?"

"No, Ray. I'm sorry."

"Okay. After all the tumult of the evening, I'm geting back to the city now, too. I imagine you are staying, or do you want to come?"

"I'll have to keep an eye on Julia."

Barbara stood at the window and watched the second car that evening go down that shining hill. She had a sense that she stood alone where life and love ended except... except...She laughed softly, though there had been death and tragedy around.

Bells were beginning to ring remotely. Perhaps threads could be knotted together. Would they stand the strain of unbroken cords? Would the loops slip out if a great pull came? All that was part of tomorrow.

Gary had been kind and brave. But all the things they once had shared—laughter and hurdy-gurdies and rainy dusks and glamor of a lovely line in a play that was really good, and ship lanterns swaying on dark water, and foolish words and a cartoon or two in the daily papers ...When you cut the string in two which you strung your memories, could you make it hold them again? It needed sturdy stuff for the wear of the days and the years. But Garry had said nothing at all to make her think that he might seek her again. He had said only: "When all of this is a mirage, may I call you up some day?"

Yet, as the days passed, and March came in with wind and rain and thunder, and he did not call, Barbara wondered if he had decided that he would free himself of all emotions connected with those weeks which went with Wenda. Maybe he was seeking a path, henceforth, that would have no memories. After a while she no longer thought of him when the telephone rang. You could grow accustomed, in time, to any change, she reminded herself.

Julia, chastened and quiet, had returned to her position as a model, Bruce Kemper had been found guilty of murder and sentenced to life imprisonment in a hospital for the criminal insane, and the newspapers had forgotten the people who, such a few weeks before, had been page one streamers. An understudy had been replacing Wenda in the cast of the play.

Late one rainy afternoon, Barbara's editor asked her to step into her office. Mrs. Corbett motioned to a chair and pushed back some papers. "First, I want to congratulate you,' she said. "Your stories are being put in book form." She mentioned the name of a well-known publishing house. "And they want another book, Barbara. Do you think you could start a serial for us?"

The glow of pleasure that Barbara felt was like the steady warmth of lamplight, secure and stable and well-earned. Work stayed with you! It never let you down! Love might go, ecstasy might perish, laughter could not always last. Only work remained. Yet, as she felt this unformed philosophy touch her mind, she knew that she should have experienced greater joy because she would have a book. So briefly that it might have been flashed on a cinema screen for a second and removed as quickly, she thought of a girl who had seen shooting stars and dancing skyrockets because she had been offered a job in New York. Ah, but that girl had been traveling to love and laughter and glamor!

She turned back to the editor's words. "You've had a strenuous winter, Barbara, and you've more than made good. Now we have a surprise for you! How would you like to go to London for six weeks to work with our English branch? Somebody has to go and I don't feel able to leave at the moment."

Garry had gone to London and she had waited. Now she would go—and Garry would not even know. But there would be miles and miles of deck to walk in wild March sunlight, and for a little while she could be suspended between two worlds. She felt her old exhilaration at good news coming back.

"When do I sail?" she asked. "I'd love to go!"

She would call Ray. She would be sailing about the same time that he was. Maybe they would cross on the same boat. No, she decided, she wanted to be quite alone. She would get the name of his boat and see that her own passage was booked on a different line. When she called him that evening, she said "Ray, I've got some news!"

"Oh, so you've heard?" he asked.

"Heard!" Even then she felt a premonition of something that would somehow leave her wounded.

"You mean the story in tonight's paper, don't you, Barbara?"

"No, Ray. I haven't read tonight's paper. What story is it?"

"Such a Silly Dream—What Does It Mean?"

Learn Truth about Dreams

"Listen to what I dreamed about Bob last night," Polly says.

"I could see him standing 'way off in the distance, frowning at me. The orchestra was playing Whistle While You Work, and I had my hands full of silver dollars. Pretty soon I started tossing the dollars at Bob until, all of a sudden, the music faded away and we were standing side by side, grinning at each other."

No wonder Polly's puzzled. Recently she quarrelled bitterly with Bob. But her dream shows her real feelings. Money represents the forgiveness she'd like to offer him if she could only conquer her pride, symbolized by music in the dream.

Psychologists say that most of our "silly" dreams are messages from the unconscious mind. To dream of a policeman may mean your conscience is hurting you. Wild animals? Your emotions are a bit unruly.

DOROTHY DIX

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I have recently become engaged to a very nice young man and we have good times when we go out together, but on the evenings when we stay at home I am bored stiff. I don't know how he feels about it because he refuses to say how he feels on the subject, but he certainly can't be enjoying himself just sitting there not saying a word or going to sleep in his chair. I read much. He reads little. But he won't discuss anything either he or I have read. We have similar interests in sports. Belong to the same church. Have mutual friends. Like to go to the movies. But what about those l-o-n-g evenings after marriage when we have nothing to say to each other? A.L.S.

Answer:

Once upon a time I knew an old lady who was as Victorian as the late dear Queen herself. She was one of the kind of women whom you just felt instinctively would suffer and be strong and endure any sort of cruelty from her husband without making even a protest.

But to my amazement I found that she had divorced her first husband. For years I racked my brain trying to imagine what a man could have done to her that would drive her to the divorce court, and there was no infamy or villainy that I didn't picture him as committing. Finally I met a woman who had known her in her younger days and I said: "For goodness sake, tell me what Mrs. X's first husband did that caused her to divorce him." "Oh," she responded, "there was nothing the matter with Tom except that he was tedious."

And I don't know that there really is any better grounds for divorce than just being tedious. As a matter of fact, boredom is at the bottom of most divorces. It is when a man gets so fed up on listening to the babble of a dull woman that he thinks he will scream if she tells him one more time about the butchers' meat or what some other woman as stupid as herself said to her over the back fence, that he puts on his hat and starts out to hunt up some more entertaining lady.

And it is when a woman gets weary of looking at a stuffed shirt behind a newspaper of an evening, or listening to a man's snore on the couch, or when the most exciting conversation she ever gets out of him is "uh, huh," that she gets peevish and fretful and wonders what made her do it and why she ever thought she loved him.

Marriage is for a long, long time, and it seems longer if you have to spend it yawning in your mate's face. So in picking out a husband or a wife I think that the prime necessity is to get an entertaining and amusing companion. You can't always be gadding, especially after the children come. Nor do you always want to be stepping out. The happy home is not a place you have to get away from to have a good time. It is a spot where you stay put, where you rest your feet as well as your soul, and where you find your keenest pleasure in the society of the husband or wife whom you never talk out.

Stevenson rated being a good gossip as one of the most desirable qualities a wife could possess. That holds good for husbands, too. No husband is more livable as well as lovable than the one who brings home at night his little budget of news, who recounts the interesting and amusing things he has seen during the day and tells his wife the good stories he has heard, while she chips in with her little two cents' worth of chatter.

But to marry a man who passes into the silence as soon as he is fed of an evening, who has no small talk, who can't even keep the conversational ball rolling, from all such "deliver me" should be every maiden's prayer. For being bored to death is such a particularly painful process.

* * * * * *

DEAR MISS DIX—Will you please tell the men who are jealous of their wives loving their children better than they do them that the love that a woman gives her children and that which she gives her husband are entirely different and do not conflict. If men could only realize that it would have a lot of needless heartache. G.A.E.

Answer:

It isn't the quality of the love that women give their children that their husbands object to. It is the quantity.

It is their wives giving all of their time and attention and interest and petting to their children and leaving the husband outside in the cold that the latter resent. Before the first baby arrived the husband had been the center of his wife's universe. He was the one to whom she catered. He was the one for whom she dressed, whom she sought to amuse and please. He was the one on whom she lavished her affection. But with Junior's advent all of that was changed. Everything was for the baby, and she who had been ALL wife became ALL mother. She no longer had any time for her husband. She didn't even see him any longer as a man. He merely became the baby's father, and his purpose in life was to provide the youngster with real lace for his caps while he was in his perambulator and sport cars when he got old enough to break the speed laws.

Of course, a woman doesn't love her children in the same way she loves her husband, but how she does it is of small matter to the man whose wife neglects him for the children, who works him to death for the children and who gives all her tenderness to the children. And a lot of women do it.

* * * * * *

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a young man of 25. Am married and out of work, but my wife, who is a trained nurse, has been very fortunate in having a steady job. At first I looked for a job, but after a while I got tired of it and just gave it up. Lately when I think of a job I just see a blank. I am afraid I am getting lazy. My wife is going to have to quit work before long and then I will have to snap out of this spell. Is there anything you could say to a weak little fellow like me? E. M.

Answer:

Yes, there is plenty I could say. I could tell you that I think a chap is a pretty poor sort who sits down and lets his wife support him, without even trying to get something to. Evidently you are one of the kind of job hunters who pray that they won't find what they pretend to be looking for. And their prayer is answered.

Nobody is going to hire a slack, lackadaisical fellow who gives and drifts on at the first discouraging word. Try putting a little punch and look as if you meant it into your job-hunting, and see if you don't get some results.

UNCLE WIGGILY'S BIRD LESSON

Hidden back of a sassafras tree, Uncle Wiggily, Baby Bunty and Buster watched the two lazy birds. Mr. Longears was going to give the two little rabbits a bird lesson—especially Buster, who was so lazy that he always forgot to carry his school books. This made it necessary for Baby Bunty or some one else to carry them for him.

"That green bird is pretty," said Buster, speaking in low tones so he wouldn't frighten it away.

"He is the father bird," said Uncle Wiggily. "Nearly always the father birds have more beautiful fathers than the mother birds."

"And that doesn't seem fair," said Baby Bunty. "The mother bird does most of the work. She does most of the nest building and she lays all the eggs and hatches out the little birds, doesn't she?"

"Yes, that is true of all birds except these lazy ones," said Uncle Wiggily. "At least the mother bird always lays the eggs, though sometimes daddy birds take their turn to set on them to warm them to hatch out the little birds. And some daddy birds help build nests. But that's just what these lazy birds don't do."

"That green bird is pretty!"

Make Others Work

"What don't they do?" asked Buster, dropping his books on the ground. Perhaps he hoped Bunty would pick them up and carry them.

"The cow, or lazy, birds don't build any nests of their own," said Mr. Longears. "Mrs. Cow Bird lays her eggs in the nests of other birds and she makes the other bird do all the work of hatching out and feeding the little birds. That's why I name them lazy."

"But why are they called cow birds?" asked Baby Bunty.

"I can't tell you exactly," Uncle Wiggily answered, as he and the two rabbits watched the green and brown lazy birds. "One reason is these birds are often to be found near or even perched on cows' backs. I fancy they are too lazy to hunt their own bugs to eat and so eat the bugs that may light on the cow. But that is only a guess. However it is no guess that cow birds are too lazy to build their own nests. Look, now, see what happens."

The hidden rabbit children heard the mother cow bird say to her green husband:

"Have you found a good nest for me to lay an egg in?"

"Yes," answered the father cow bird. "In that tree is a robin's nest with blue eggs in. Lay one of your brown speckled eggs in it and Mrs. Robin will hatch it out for you. It will save us a lot of trouble. Building nests is hard work."

Doesn't Even Sing

"So is hatching eggs," said the mother lazy bird.

Up she flew to the nest of the robin and in it she laid an egg.

"Won't the robin see the difference?" asked Buster.

"Sometimes other birds know the eggs of the cow bird do not belong in the nest with their eggs and they throw them out," said Uncle Wiggily. "But more often they do not and so the robin or other mother bird hatches the little ones of the lazy bird."

After Mrs. Cowbird had laid her egg in the other birds' nest she and green Mr. Cowbird flew away. The green bird croaked in an odd way and Baby Bunty laughed.

"He is even too lazy to learn to sing a sweet song," said Uncle Wiggily. "Well, my dears, that's the end of the bird lesson."

"Let's go home," said Buster. "I guess I'll still have time to play ball. And, Bunty, let me have your books. I'll carry them and mine too. Lazy birds are funny," he laughed.

And if the milk bottle will fill the umbrella full of water for the pussy cat to take a bath, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's fire lesson.

PULLING HIS TEETH

USING UP a declarer's trumps by making him ruff when you have a mean string of trumps is like pulling his teeth. He gets panicky as you feed your long suit to him, each time making him use up one of the magic cards that stand sentinel over your later run of your own suit's remnants. That is your objective when you have trumps bunched against him and lead your long side suit.

(Dealer: East. East-West vulnerable.)

East opened the bidding with high hopes on his nice bunch of spades, but later repented the subsequent developments. South overcalled with two-hearts, West bid three-diamonds, East three-spades, West four-diamonds and East four-spades, which South decided to double.

Mr. South in this case was an astute defender, Stuyvesant Wainwright of the Racquet and Tennis club in New York, who knew that a long side suit is devastating when you hold a good bunch of trumps. He unhesitatingly led the ace from his heart tenace and was pleased to see the king drop. Next came his heart queen, which got trumped. The spade king was the third trick, the diamond ace made the fourth and the spade ace the fifth.

East next offered his spade jack to the queen. Mr. Wainwright now led into the good jack of hearts in the dummy, ruffed the diamond king, then offered another heart. This ruff left the declarer only one trump, not enough to ruff up his diamond suit, so he had to lose a club trick at the end. It is interesting to figure out the variation in the defense if East fed back diamonds to South after ruffing hearts.

Nerves Were So Bad Could Not Stand The Children Playing

The happiness of every home depends largely on the health of the wife and mother. If she is nervous, peevish and irritable, worried by the cares of the household, and tormented by the pains and irregularities that accompany a run down system, there can be no happiness in the home for the husband and children.

Women who are weak and run down, nervous and irritable should take a course of Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills to help restore them to the blessing of good health.

Mrs. Thomas Kirk, Neston, Alta., writes:—"I was in such a weak, run down condition before I started using Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills I could not do my housework, and would be so nervous I could hardly stand the noise of the children at their play. Now, after taking three boxes of H. & N. Pills I feel like a different person.

I shall always tell anyone not feeling well to use your medicine."

Mother and Daughter Banquet George Street

On Friday evening over three hundred Mothers and Daughters sat down to a delicious salad supper in the auditorium of George Street United Church Sunday School, when the annual "Mother and Daughter" banquet was held.

The room and tables were most artistically decorated by Miss Gertrude Cox, with blue and pink crepe paper, apple blossoms and Japanese parasols.

The guests were served by white-clad waiters—about two dozen men of the congregation — who made a lively entrance just after all were seated, singing as they came, "High Ho, High Ho, It's Off to Work We Go." After serving they retired in the same way, singing "High Ho, High Ho, It's Home From Work We Go."

Mrs. C. S. Thompson presided as a most capable mistress of ceremonies. A lively sing-song conducted by Mrs. M. C. Parr, with Merrill Smith at the piano, was a feature of the program, after which a number of very young daughters entertained. Mary and Jean Lillow played two piano duets; little Eleanor McGee recited very cutely, and Mary Jean Hamilton sang very sweetly a 'Mother's' song. Little Betty Mather entertained with two songs, the latter of which was entitled "Fishing," and was charmingly acted. She was accompanied at the piano by Adele Fitzgerald.

Eva Blanche Parr and June Wellwood, two George Street Sunday School girls, who were prize-winners in the W.C.T.U. Silver Medal contest Thursday evening, gave their clever prize-winning recitations. Last but very far from least on the program, Mrs. C. S. Thompson told a story in her own inimitable manner.

A beautiful bouquet of flowers for "the oldest mother present" was donated by G. Sorenson, and was presented to Mrs. (Rev.) George Jewett, mother of Mrs. M. C. Parr. A pot of African violets was presented to Mrs. Mary Barrie, as second oldest mother present.

Several stunts added to the evening's mirth, especially a scene in a "Men's Beauty Parlor," when the skill of Miss Gwen Parnell won for her subject, the Rev. M. G. Parr, the prize. The enjoyable evening was brought to a close with the singing of "Faith of Our Mothers," and one and all voted the evening one of the most successful Mother and Daughter banquets that have been held. Mrs. T. Shield was general convenor for the arrangements, assisted by Mrs. W. P. Heherington, and other helpers.

Special mention was made of the importance of co-operation, and of the opportunity and objective of increasing subscriptions of "The Glad Tiding" by twenty-five per cent. in this jubilee year. The meeting was closed with a benediction invoked by Mrs. Carley.

Brother and Sister

This delightful little pair are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McFarland, Bethune street. Gerald is two years old, and elder sister, Betty, is all of three.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

"Discover where your strength is placed,
Your greatest gifts reside,
The lines on which your mind is based,
And take these as a guide.

Build up, enforce, develop these,
It's wisest to select
The things you do with greatest ease
And with the most effect".
—K. W.

Dear Friends:

How many we hear grumble because they cannot do this or that, but how seldom they stop long enough to find out what they really can do. Or, if they know, how often they are contemptuous over their own talents, and are forever reaching out to do what they were never fitted for.

I might as well try to build bridges of stone and steel. Yet I can build bridges between those who quarrel. I can show you a bridge which you can cross so that you can know God better. I can span with words the silence that might lie between us.

K. W. goes on to say:

"There are some folks that set their hears
On jobs they can't attain;
They dream sweet dreams of playing parts
For which they strive in vain".

Now, I am not against dreaming dreams, far from it, but learn your own limitations. There are many things we would like to do, many things we admire when others do them, but if we were to attempt them, we would only look and feel ridiculous.

I love good pictures, but I cannot draw a straight line, so I don't attempt that. I love to watch good dancing, but I am not fitted for it, so I leave it alone. I do not like house cleaning, but I do detest dirt, so I clean house every day.

Supposing you would like to be a flyer, so that you get a thrill every time you see an aeroplane. Yet high places give you vertigo, so you cannot be a flyer. But why waste time in useless repining? K. W. tells us in the last verse:

"There is a niche in life for you,
A place that is your own.
Find out the things you're meant to do,
And leave the rest alone".

We would all like to be clever at everything, that is natural. But each of us got a talent at birth, and that is the one we are meant to be best in. Not what the other fellow is doing, not what we so fondly think we could do given the opportunity, but what we were menat to do.

Besides, if your secret desire is so strong, why don't you make a stab at it, find out for sure whether you can do it or not, then if you do find it is impossible, you will be more content to go ahead with your own part.

I have no patience with those who tell me, "Roberta, you've no idea how I would have liked to do this or that, but I never had a chance". Do you think chances will fall into your lap? Do you think anyone succeeds without labor and triboulation? How silly.

How do you know you couldn't do it, of you have never tried? Many have tried and failed, tried and failed, until one day they were successful. And even tnen, they always think they could do better. The beginning of the end of anyone, is when they think they cannot do better work.

But, if you are just spending your life in wasteful wishing, while the work you should be doing cries aloud to high heaven to be done then you are only making a mess of your life. There are many things we all must do, things we do not like and never will like, but they are part of our job, so we do them.

Find out what you are best fitted for, do that, forget everything else (in a manner of speaking) and you will be surprised at the success that will attend your efforts. If you are a when, you cannot be an eagle, nor vice versa.

Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

Most Enthusiastic Audience Enjoys Recital of Songs By Mrs. Turner

A large audience, for the most part charmingly clad in evening dress, listened to a delightful, in fact decidedly thrilling recital of songs by Lillian E. Turner (Mrs. Ford Turner) from the studio of Dorothy Allan Park, and a member of the famous Madrigal Singers Choir, in the Green Room of the Y.W.C.A. Friday evening. A talented visiting artiste, Miss Margaret Parsons of Toronto, assisted in the program with a group of piano selections.

Containing a carefully chosen selection, beautifully arranged and of perfect duration, it was a program to be remembered with pleasure for some time to come.

Mrs. Turner sang three groups of songs which demonstrated to the full the charm of her appealing contralto voice, with its rich quality and capability of most convincing dramatic interpretation. Gwen Craw at the piano was a perfect accompanist, playing as usual with fine feeling in complete accord with the singer.

The program commenced with two of Schuberts lyrical gems, which demonstrated a remark of the singer's, "The thought of Schubert and the thought of nature cannot be disassociated, and his are the songs of youth whether of joy or sadness". Entitled "Wandering", the happy carefree song of the young miller was followed by the lovely melody of "The Lad and the Stream" with slower tempo for its sad sweetness. Her dramatic skill, poignant interpretation and richness of tone were of surpassing beauty and interest in the recitative, "Pompe vane di morte" and the aria, "Dove Sei, amato bene" from Handel's "Dove Sei".

Mrs. Turner's second group was very varied and rich in refined melody. Though she must be accustomed to appreciative audiences it must surely have been gratifying to the singer to receive such enthusiastic and continued applause as was hers for her rendering of the final number in this group, in which she brought out the vitality and passionate feeling that is inherent in Moussorgsky's music. Chopin's "Lithuanian Folk Song" was most admirably given also.

Most enjoyable was Mrs. Turner's delightful interpretation of "Shadow March" with words from Stevenson's "A Child's Garden of Verse" and "Carmena" (H. Lane Wilson) brought out again the full rounded and rich tones of her voice, demonstrating its warmth and depth to a marked extent. An encore was insisted on by her audience.

With captivating brilliance, Miss Margaret Parsons gave two groups of piano numbers. She received a tremendous ovation in the first for her magnificent rendering of the Allegro, Largo and Presto movements in Haydn's "Senato in D Major", when her clean cut technique was unfaltering in the most rapid passages.

Four remarkable numbers made up her second group commencing with the "Minstrels" by Debussy with its amazing variety of expression interpreted with a most accomplished finesse. But she was magnificent in the "Rhapsodie Longroise No. 10" by Liszt, showing her aptitude for contrasts with perfect control and balance, playing with a scintillating and clean cut technique and lovely tone. A most delightful encore was generously given.

Bouquets of lovely deep toned tulips were presented to the artists. Refreshments were served at the close of the program with members of the Madrigal Singers Choir, charmingly gowned, in charge. Mrs. C. Crough and Miss Mary Jory poured coffee, and assistants included Mrs. V. Morphet, Mrs. J. Matthews, Mrs. Ross Williamson, and the Misses Isabel Connolly, Musa Cox, Mignon Mayneord, Geraldine Collins and Isabel Weddell. A beautiful cloth of Italian cut-work covered the table, centred with a heavy silver bowl of colorful clarkia, with cream and green candles in silver candelabra placed diagonally.

The program was as follows: Mrs. Turner, "Wandering," "The Lad and the Stream" (Schubert); "Dove Sei", recitative and aria, (Handel); "The Sea Hath Pearls" (Franz).

Miss Parsons—"Prelude and Fugue in G Minor" (Bach); "Choral Prelude" (Lord Hear My Deepest Longing (Bach-Walton); "Sonata in D Major"—(Haydn).

Mrs. Turner—"The Pain of Love" (Carl Webber); "When at Morn" (Schumann); "Lithuanian Folk Song" (Chopin); "Lilacs" (Rachmoninoff) "Mushrooms" (Moussorgsky).

Miss Parsons— "Minstrels" (Debussy); "A Punch and Judy Show", "A Ghost Story" (Gossens); "Rhapsodie Longroise No. 10 (Liszt).

Mrs. Turner—"When Maidens Go A-Maying" (Edward German); "Shadow March" (Teresa del Riego); "Carmena" (H. Lane Wilson).

Touches of White

Printed rayon crepe dress

FLATTERING touches of white, especially at the throat, are becoming to women who are no longer girls, and who wear what is known as "women's sizes." They are being used extensively on this type of frock.

This slim, one-piece frock is designed in larger sizes, and is made of a gaily floral printed rayon crepe for a slenderizing effect.

Short puffed sleeves and attractive touches of white at the square neck are smart fashion points, and there are pleats in the front of the skirt to give sufficient width for comfortable walking.

A full-length redingote of navy rayon sheer creates a smart ensemble for street wear.

Change in China With New Codes

LONDON, May 14—(CP). — The Canadian, Florence Ayscough, now Mrs. MacNair, wife of a professor in Chicago, has written a book called "Chinese Women, Yesterday and Today." The Times finds she brings ripe knowledge and a sincere affection for the Chinese people to the performance of a congenial task of interpretation.

"The modern-type women of China are now confronted, as Mrs. Ayscough shows, both in their public and their private lives, by inevitable conflicts between the ancient and modern standards of duty, by the many problems which have arisen since, in 1931, the new Law Code established the principle of sex equality, making concubinage, prostitution and slavery illegal in theory if not consistently in practice.

"Mrs. Ayscough rightly describes as painful the present period of transition from the thoughts and habits imposed by centuries of the Confucian Code to the modern conception of womans rights. She refers, in particular, to the confusion which now prevails in the marriage relationship, and which means that "many husbands, many wives and many concubines will have to suffer the crushing burden of no right and no wrong, until a new right and a new wrong has emerged into conventionalized concepts."

Style Whimsies

That the bloused silhouette will carry over into the fall is definitely admitted. The bloused-back version in the winter coat has a slenderizing effect in that it narrows the hips.

Prefers Hats That Stay On

NEW YORK, May 14—(CP).—America's First Lady believes in clinging to tried and true fashion trends. Mrs. Roosevelt likes classic clothes—standby of well-dressed women throughout the world.

Blue is her favorite color. She wears navy by day, ice blue and slighity deeper shades by night. Wine red and white are also among her choices from the color card. Her evening clothes always are cut on suave, dignified lines. Light crepes and dark velvets make the most of them.

Comfort and femininity are two things on which she insists. She has three pet accessories—necklaces, furs and gloves, which she always selects in the simplest designs of the best materials in colors to harmonize with her costume.

The President's wife has definite ideas on hats. She prefers those with brims and insists that they be made so that they will stay on her head. (She pins them on.) One day, a friend of hers relates, Mrs. Roosevelt was driving through a busy section of Manhattan. As her taxi stopped in a traffic jam, she spied in a shop window a hat that she liked. She popped out of the taxi, into the shop, bought the hat and was back in the cab before traffic moved on.

KINGSTON WOMAN HAS THIRD ESCAPE FROM JAP BOMBS

HANKOW, May 14 (C.P.-Havas). —The American Baptist and French Catholic Missions in Chengchow were damaged yesterday by Japanese air bombs, but foreign missionaries, who include Miss Pearl Reid of Kingston, Ont., escaped unharmed.

Eight Chinese were reported killed in the Baptist Church compound while several were killed or wounded on the Catholic property. Miss Reid, who has been through three bombings, a Briton and three American missionaries were at the Baptist mission.

The Chinese Government was informed 14 Japanese planes dropped eight bombs on the Baptist and 12 on the Catholic missions, in addition to 27 others near the Lunghai and Peiping-Hankow Railway lines which cross at Chengchow.

The raiders also bombed the civilian residential section, destroying more than 100 homes. The telegraph office was hit, and a technical school operated by the railway administration was demolished.

Hospital Lacks Equipment.

A Havas correspondent who recently visited the Shantung front declared the Baptist Hospital at Chengchow has functioned at full capacity, but with scanty equipment.

Staff surgeons were busy with operations on the constant stream of wounded, he said, and with the care of natives in a refugee camp. All buildings attached to the mission had large United States flags on their roofs, he added.

A new refugee camp to hold 500 destitute was opened by the Catholic mission, directed by Mgr. Cote. These buildings were marked by several French flags.

Bombed on 2 Days.

PEIPING, May 14 (A.P.). — The Southern Presbyterian Mission at Suchow, main objective of Japan's Central China armies, was reported yesterday to have been bombed by Japanese planes on May 10 and 11. Apparently no one was hurt, but several thousand dollars damage was done to the mission.

MORE ABOUT—

DEMAND IS MADE

said he did not believe Canada could "sit idly by and permit ourselves to be drawn into a web which is eventually going to turn to war." He believed there should be a conference of nations looking toward international peace.

Mr. Johnston endorsed the views of Mr. Green and concluded with the declaration that he would vote for the estimates only if the minister carried out a promise Mr. Johnston said he made in Edmonton, to issue $500,000,000 of "debt free" money.

Earlier in the day Transport Minister Howe put through a large block of his estimates after details of the sale last summer of the Sorel Shipyards and the St. Lawrence dredging fleet had been given in reply to charges from Rene Pelletier (S.C. Peace River) that the sale had been at a ridiculously low figure.

Mr. Howe declared his attacker, the youngest member of the House, was not only youthful but "gullible." The charges, if even partly true, would have left him no option but to resign. But they were entirely untrue and the facts were open and available to all members.

Other features of the day in parliament included the reappearance of a bill to legalize limited sweepstakes, which was talked out during private bills hour, and the reintroduction by A. W. Neill (Ind. Comox Alberni) of a bill to restrict Oriental immigration.

Quotes Figures

Mr. Pelletier read from an inventory obtained from the auditor general which gave value of the fleet at $6,551,940. It was sold last summer for $1,500,000 and he declared two units alone out of 61 in the fleet were worth more than that.

It was also charged the land value alone of the shipyards at Sorel would be $500,000 while the sale of those facilities had been for $60,000.

Mr. Howe said there had been warnings a "great scandal" was to be exposed in connection with sale of the Sorel shipyard. Those who had been "advertising" the scandal needed someone "not only young and gullible but completely addled as to financial affairs."

That part of the Sorel property disposed of, which Mr. Pelletier had claimed to be worth $500,000 represented only about one-fifth of the whole, Mr. Howe said. It was appraised by the town at about $150,000.

While the inventory sent to the auditor general indicated cost of the dredging fleet and shipyards was over $7,000,000 Mr. Pelletier had not indicated that another column on the inventory had given the present day value was $1,868,000. However many of the items on that inventory had not been sold.

Price received for the entire equipment was $1,494,594 as against an appraiser's estimate of present day value of $1,500,100, Mr. Howe said.

Great Trade Artery

Discussion of the estimate for the Hudson Bay Railway brought from Hon. T. A. Crerar, minister of mines and resources, an optimistic forecast of the future value of that project. He declared that route would one day be a most important trade artery and scene of great development.

Mr. Crerar and Mr. Howe got into a slight disagreement when the latter told a questioner the area covered by the railway was "not very good prospecting ground."

"I dissent from the remark of the minister of transport," Mr. Crerar said. "There is a lot of very good prospecting territory up there. The whole area is only in the beginning of its development."

During the hour devoted to private bills three members who are former or at present ministers of the gospel and who opposed the measure, "talked out" the bill introduced by Ernest Bertrand (Lib. Laurier) to permit each province to hold one sweepstake a year for charitable purposes. A vote was thus forestalled and the measure may not come up again.

Mr. Bertrand spoke briefly and the balance of the House was occupied by J. S. Woodsworth (C.C.F. Winnipeg North Centre), Daniel McIvor (Lib. Fort William) and E. G. Hansell (S.C. MacLeod). The bill had been quiescent for two months.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, May 15

Sunday's Horoscope is a rather difficult one to interpret, as there are symbols of intrigue, conspiracy and curious tendencies affecting the private life and its intimate associations and social activities. These might be turned into channels of the mystic, spiritual or the emotional creative expressions of poetry, music or art.

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a year in which much depends upon their own straightforwardness and acumen in untangling peculiar, intriguing and confusing circumstances.

A child born on this day may have a keen, alert and shrewd mentality, but may also have instincts to accomplish objectives or negotiate its difficulties by collusion, intrigue or subtlety.

For Monday, May 16

Monday's astrological forecast is for a day of difficult and very conflicting situations. Impetuosity, recklessness and indulgence may describe these dangerous disturbances, which also have their side issues of treachery, deceit and cunning.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year in which reckless, impulsive, passionate and irresponsible indulgences may defeat auspicious conditions for putting the fortunes and the position on a stable basis.

A child born on this day may have its studious, sane and serious moment, but innate tendencies for fun, self-indulgence, recklessness and irresponsibility may wean it from life's sounder objectives. It should receive rigid and early discipline and direction into constructive channels.

BLUE FOXES PLENTIFUL

CHURCHILL, Man., May 14. — (CP).—Blue foxes are more plentiful this year in Northern Canada, Trappers in Northwest Territories report trapping five blue to every 100 white foxes. In past year the average has been less than one in every 100. No reason is given for the extraordinary increase.

Reports say the fur catch this season is generally lower than last with colored foxes moving north.

CHURCHMEN URGE GIGANTIC UNION

UTRECHT, The Netherlands, May 14—(AP).—An historic church document aimed at the most far-reaching union of Christian churches since the reformation emerged today from a world conference of churchmen representing 130 Protestant denominations.

The document is the draft of a constitution, approved unanimously by 75 delegates from 20 nations including Canada, for the first world council of churches in history.

It will be submitted at once to all participating churches by the Archbishop of York.

An accompanying letter will ask the churches to unite in the organization for "the fellowship of churches which accept our Lord Jesus Christ as God and Saviour" and send delegates to the proposed council meeting.

Rev. G. C. Pidgeon and Rev. Robert Hiltz of Toronto represented Canada.

Delegates here represented directly about 32 denominations but they spoke also as the elected representatives of 130 Protestant bodies.

A council meeting every five years and an annual meeting of a central committee would be open to all Christian churches. The Roman Catholic church, however, has taken no steps to participate in the movement.

The council assembly would consist of 450 members. There would be 90 delegates to the central committee, including 18 from Canada and the United States, of whom five would be lay delegates.

Because of his long work toward formation of the council, the Archbishop of York was considered almost certain to be elected its first president. He became an originator of the movement during a visit to the United States four years ago.

OBITUARY

EDWIN BULMER

A lifelong resident of Smith Township, Edwin Bulmer, Lot 14, Concession 5, died on Friday after a lingering illness. He was in his 70th year.

Son of the late Edwin Bulmer and Ann Yettes, he was raised on the old homestead only a few miles from Peterborough and became widely-known and highly respected in this district. He was a farmer all his life. A member of Loyal Orange Lodge 475, Nassau, he had a great number of fraternal friends. He was a member of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church.

Surviving are five daughters, Mrs. Gradon Northey, Mrs. Elmer Northey, Mrs. Roy Sanderson, Mrs. Kenneth Northey, and Mrs. Herbert McIlmoyle, all of Smith; and three sons, Archie, Edwin, and Albert Bulmer, all of Smith; and one brother, Alex. Bulmer of Peterborough.

The funeral will be on Sunday, May 15, from the late residence at 2 p.m., Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr officiating. Interment will be made at Lakefield Cemetery.

JAPS STRIKE HARD IN LUNGHAI AREA

SHANGHAI, May 14 — (AP). — Japanese warplanes loosed many tons of explosives to-day on the Central China front in an effort to speed the advance of a dozen Japanese columns boring steadily toward the vital Lunghai railway from the north and south.

Hardest hit by the bombardments was Suhsien, 45 miles south of Suchow on the Tientsin-Pukow railway, where the Japanese made three smashing raids.

Farther to the west Japanese warplanes levelled the Chinese defences at Yungcheng, enabling Japanese troops to capture the city and placing them in a position to advance on Tangshan, Lunghai railway station 30 miles to the north.

On the north, the deepest-penetrating Japanese column was only three miles from the Lunghai, threatening to sever it at Sinanchen, 65 miles east of Suchow.

Indicative of the Japanese confidence that the fighting soon will be carried direct to the Suchow area was a warning to foreigners in that sector.

Foreigners Warned.

Masayuki Tani, Japanese envoy to China, sent a letter to all foreign ambassadors and ministers urging all foreign nationals be evacuated from zones along the Lunghai, Tientsin-Pukow and Peiping-Hankow railways.

(A Hankow dispatch said two United States Presbyterian houses of worship were damaged in Japanese raids on Suchow Wednesday and Thursday despite the fact that large American flags were painted on the roofs. No foreigners were injured. Officials of the Missions reported the incidents to the American Embassy.

(Another dispatch from Kaifeng, Lungchai railway station, said the Anglo-American China inland mission hospital was crowded with wounded after intensive Japanese air raids Thursday. The Kaifeng railroad station was destroyed).

Scattered fighting was reported continuing on Amoy Island, off the South China Coast, where Japanese marines were mopping up isolated Chinese units.

CAMPBELLFORD

Little Harm Done Rear Street Fire

CAMPBELLFORD, May 14. — In a heavy downpour of rain firemen were called out to extinguish a blaze in a barn near the home of Neil Morrison, Rear Street, on Thursday afternoon. A neighbor noticed the smoke issuing forth from the door and turned in the alarm, which brought the Fire Department. Only a small portion of the inside of the building was burning, and th blaze was soon extinguished with chemicals.

It was thought that small boys had been smoking in the building, and had caused the fire.

STUDENTS RIOT IN MEXICO CITY, MANY WOUNDED

Opposition Chief Says President Brews Revolt To Hide His Oil Troubles

MEXICO CITY, May 16 (AP).—Several persons were wounded today in a clash between students and several hundred members of an organization known as "Socialist Youth" who had occupied buildings of the University of Mexico. The "Youth" force, armed with pistols and knives, seized buildings of the University and its preparatory school early this morning and resisted efforts of police and firemen to eject them.

Enraged students who discovered the seizure of the buildings shortly after 9 a.m. (E.S.T.) made several forays trying to recover them, but were met by pistol fire from the roof tops. A number fell, wounded.

Rebellion Coming.

Associate of the agrarian leader, General Sturnino Cedillo, charged today that President Cardenas was trying to "drive him to rebellion" to distract the public from the administration's troubles.

Cedillo, who has an armed peasant following to whom he has allotted land on his estate in San Luis Potosi, broke with Cardenas last August and quit the ministry of agriculture.

The last rumors this weekend sent federal troops into San Luis potosi, northwest of here. They mounted anti-aircraft guns on four church rooftops and established an anti-aircraft unit at a principal street corned where there are public buildings. Trouble did not develop.

Cedillo's friends here said he had promised through representatives not to revolt if Cardenas discontinued moving troops into the state, but Cardenas refused. There are now nearly 9,000 soldiers there, whereas the usual garrison is 3,500.

If this movement be continued, Cedillo associates here predicted, an uprising may result.

The government is permitting the situation to develop, these informants contended, to camouflage its troubles over oil, climaxed Friday by the breaking off of diplomatic relations with Great Britain.

Owen O'Malley, the British minister, tentatively set next Monday for his departure.

MISSING VESSEL'S HATCHES SIGHTED

LONDON, May 16 (AP).—Owners of the missing British freighter Anglo-Australian informed Lloyd's today the ship's hatch covers had been sighted off Panama by the steamship Dalhanna, which arrived at Cristobal yesterday. The Anglo-Austrian, missing for two months with a crew of 38, officially has been given up for lost. She was bound for Vancouver, B.C. She left Cardiff, Wales, March 8, and was last sighted off Fayal, the Azores, March 14.

Discovery of the hatch covers bearing the vessel's name, however, failed to clear up one of the deepest modern mysteries of the sea.

An internal explosion or a waterspout were considered most likely causes of the apparent disaster, although some shipping men suggested she might have been a victim of a "pirate" submarine ranging far from Spanish waters.

BULLETIN

PORT HOPE., Ont., May 16. (CP).—An eastbound C.P.R. freight train today sheared the front end from a sedan at Coytes crossing east of Port Hope, and tossed the vehicle into the ditch beside the road, but none was hurt.

Ernest Griffith, Peterborough commercial traveller, and Harry Hayward of Cobourg, passengers in the car, escaped without a scratch.

Only the front end of the car was damaged. No glass was broken and the vehicle remained upright without even a punctured tire in the smash.

Swinton Retires For Wood In Air Ministry

"Business Man of Cabinet" Expected to Get Action; MacDonald Gets Colonies Post, Stanley Succeeds Him in Cabinet Shuffle

LONDON, May 16 (AP).—Prime Minister Chamberlain today announced a re-alignment of his cabinet, sending Sir Kingsley Wood, minister of health, to replace Viscount Swinton, secretary of state for air, target of charges by all parties that air rearmament is lagging.

Lord Swinton resigned from the cabinet as a result of last week's debate in the House of Commons in which critics charged the air defence program was being far out-paced by Germany.

Malcolm MacDonald was appointed secretary for the colonies and was succeeded as secretary for the dominions by Lord Stanley, former parliamentary secretary to the admiralty.

Lord Harlech—the former William Ormsby-Gore—resigned as secretary for the colonies. This was a result after the recent death of his father of his entering the House of Lords and his succession to the title.

Walter Elliott, secretary for Scotland, replaces Sir Kingsley Wood as minister of health.

Lieut.-Colonel D. J. Colville, financial secretary to the treasury, gained cabinet rank, becoming secretary for Scotland.

Swinton Explains

Lord Swinton, in a letter to Mr. Chamberlain, said his position was rendered difficult because he sat in the House of Lord and was unable to speak for his department in the Commons.

Lord Swinton's letter said he was "quite content to leave the work I have tried to do at the Air Ministry to be judged at the right time in the light of fuller knowledge than can obviously now be made available."

He said that by resigning he would be aiding execution of the air program and maintenance "of public trust" in it.

Replying to Lord Swinton's letter, Chamberlain wrote he was touched by the "generosity and public spirit" Lord Swinton had displayed.

"While the responsibility for the administration was mainly yours," the Prime Minister continued, "it was from time to time determined by the Cabinet as a whole.

"Recently the Cabinet came to the decision that the program ought to be considerably accelerated."

Other Changes.

In changes among the junior ministers, Captain Euan Wallace, Parliamentary Secretary to the Board of Trade, becomes Financial Secretary to the Treasury; Ronald Cross, a government whip, succeeds Captain Wallace at the Board of Trade; Lieut.-Colonel A. J. Muirhead, Under-Secretary for Air, becomes Under-Secretary for India, succeeding Lord Stanley, and Captain Harold Balfour, previously a private member, becomes Under-Secretary for Air.

Wood a Live Wire.

The Air Ministry under Sir Kingsley Wood will have at its head a man of tireless energy Known

SCOT WOMAN SPY GIVEN FOUR YEARS FOR NAZI HOOKUP

EDINBURGH, May 16—(AP). —Sentence of four years' penal servitude for spying on Great Britain's vital east coast defences and communicating with agents in Nazi Germany was imposed to-day on grey-haired Jessie Jordan.

J. C. S. Reid, Solicitor General for Scotland, told the Scottish High Court of Justiciary, that foreign agents mentioned in the indictment to which the 51-year-old Dundee hairdresser pleaded guilty were "foreign agents of Germany."

The indictment charged her with making plans of a prohibited (military) area and obtaining information concerning coastal defence and coastguard stations on the east coast of Scotland.

Mrs. Jordan's counsel said she was Scottish born, but acquired German citizenship by marriage to a German and had spent most of her life in Germany. He contended she had left Germany because she was regarded as a suspect there and because "Nationalism meant nothing to her."

Mrs. Jordan, standing between two constables, heard the verdict with bowed head.

Mr. Reid said the hairdresser sketched a prohibited place in Fife which is "of first class importance in connection with the defence services." He described the sketch as somewhat amateurish but said experts assured him it would be of "great value to a pilot of an enemy bombing plane, seeking out his objective at that prohibited place."

Mrs. Jordan "received several remittances of not very large, but substantial amounts," Mr. Reid added. The indictment indicated intelligence agents seized marked maps dealing both with the prohibited place in Fife and coastal defences.

Three Robins Are Hatched From Nest On Yard Shunter

Spinsters Want Aid On Reaching 55

London, May 16 (AP)

WITH cries of "onward spinsters, onward!" more than 10,000 of Britain's unmarried women marched on London Saturday night with banners flying for a rally of their National Spinsters' Pensions Association. They demanded: "State pensions at 55."

Drawn from all over the country, the spinsters trooped into Kingsway Hall and chanted their battle-cry whenever a speaker rose on the platform. The movement's founder, Miss Florence White, said she now had 125.000 followers and asked the rally to thank the Government for naming a committee to study the spinsters' pension problem.

Trainmen Forced to Move Nest When Engine Is Ordered To Havelock

Jubilant trainmen are to-day celebrating a birthday. They have a family on their hands—or rather on their engine.

For, despite the Examiner's robin expert who was emphatic with the Examiner's photographer that a robin mus perch on its nest all the time if young robins are to be hatched, on Saturday a plucky little robin was a mother. She had made her nest on Engine 840, a C.P. R. yard shunter, and waited anxiously for it to stop before she climbed aboard, flew off each time it started away.

Even the trainmen, who cheering for the dauntless little bird, were surprised on Saturday when the first egg was hatched, and were frankly amazed Monday morning when they found all three eggs had turned into lively little birds. All are doing well, they reported. "Tell the Examiner's robin expert he doesn't know what he's talking about," they greeted the photographer, who gleefully did so.

All day Sunday mother robin looked after her young, carrying food to it, perching on the two other eggs. And all Sunday the train crew wondered what they should do now, for order from above made it imperative the nest must be removed from its precarious location. Orders had come that the engine was to be sent to Havelock for work

Mystery Frog Outleaps All Comers With A 15-Foot 10 Inch Hop

Angels Camp, Calif., May 16.

"ZIP" a big black "mystery" frog from Stockton, Calif., shattered the "world's" record today with a leap of 15 feet 10 inches in the annual international frog jumping jubilee commemorating Mark Twain's famous story of the Calaveras County Leaping Croaker.

"Zip," owned by 11-year-old Eddie Robinson of Stockton, bro' - by five inches the record set last year by "Emmett Dalton." Last year's champ finished a poor sixth today.

The Robinsons had a field day with their dark-skinned jumpers, which stood out from the usual mottled variety. June Robinson's "Worthless" took second place with a 14-foot two inch leap, while Louis Robinson's "Jump" was fourth with 13 feet seven inches. Eddie Robinson's "Jumping Jimmy" was fifth with 12 feet, 10 inches.

Robins In Nest

Today trainmen are celebrating the birth of three little robins whose mother made her home on engine 840, a yard shunter. There were only three eggs in the nest. In the TOP picture the engineer is holding a mirror behind the nest to show the first little robin and beside the, as then, unhatched two eggs. CENTRE, shows mother robin seated on her nest. Infinite patience was needed to get the BOTTOM picture of the robin feeding her young one. (Examiner Staff Photos.)

Ban Drunk Driver Liquor Permit

Automatic Suspension Is Decreed by E. G. Odette With No Reinstatement for "Long" Period

OTTAWA, May 16 (CP).—Automatic suspension of liquor permits of persons convicted of drunken driving will be the Ontario Liquor Control Board's contribution to safety on the highways, E. G. Odette, board chairman, announced here today.

Mr. Odette was in Ottawa interviewing government officials on undisclosed board business.

He announced in future all persons convicted of drunken driving would suffer automatic suspension of their permits. Suspensions would be for a "long"period and before a permit was re-issued the person would have to satisfy the board he was a fit person to have a permit.

The chairman said suspension had been carried out for some time in some parts of the province but the practice has not been general.

Roof Plunges to Cellar in City's Deadliest Blaze As Flames Roar Through Building; Expect to Find 10 or 15 More Bodies in Debris

ATLANTA, May 16 (AP).—Flames which started in a basement kitchen killed 25 persons at the Terminal Hotel early today, left 13 injured and others missing. More than a dozen persons were rescued or leaped to safety.

The number of victims unaccounted for was a matter of conjecture. Reports to firemen and police indicated from 50 to 65 persons were registered in the 62-room, five-story brick and frame building.

A high wind from the west fanned the flames. City sanitary crews were set to work in midmorning removing the debris. Engineers estimate two days would be required to clear the wreckage.

More Bodies in Debris

Police Chief M. A. Hornsby expressed belief "10 or 15 more" bodies would be found in the mass of debris piled up on the street level. Speed with which the flames gained headway amazed witnesses.

Police Lieutenant J. T. Laseter said he was five blocks away in a patrol car when he saw the fire shoot up, and that by the time he arrived smoke veiled all the building.

"I couldn't see them," he said, "but I could hear people on the upper floors crying out and praying."

The fire was described by Chief O. J. Parker as "the deadliest in the history of Atlanta."

Records Are Lost

Destruction of the hotel records and mutilation of the victims by falling timber and steel hampered identification efforts. The ruined walls stood as a menace to traffic and rescue workers. Police said a high wind would cause them to crumble.

Collapse of the roof, plunging debris through charred floors to the basement, cut off hope of survival for any who were trapped. Only the walls were left standing.

Hotel attaches said "at least 50," were registered when the flames broke out with an explosion in the basement kitchen. Fire Chief O. J. Parker said he was informed 60 were in the brick and frame building.

E. K. Gulley, 48, special agent of the department of internal revenue, and his wife were awakened by the smoke and heat and fled down a fire escape from the fourth floor.

"Two minutes more," Gulley said, "and we would never have made it. I don't see how any of the others could have got out alive."

Mrs. Gulley was removed to another hotel, Gulley, with a borrowed raincoat over his pajamas, stood in the spray of the fireline to watch demolition of the structure where he had made his home.

Mrs. Guy Coleman, employed at the Fulton (Atlanta) County courthouse, was found semi-conscious on the second floor.

Heard Blast In Cellar

Charlie Labon, bellhop at the hotel for 20 years, was on duty in the lobby when the fire broke out. He said a messboy in the basement kitchen screamed "Oh Lawdy, fire,"

4 FISHERS MISSING ON OTTAWA RIVER, CAR LEFT ON BANK

FITZROY HARBOR, Ont., May 16.—(CP)—Discovery of an abandoned automobile today started police searching for four Ottawa men who have been missing on a fishing trip since Saturday.

Provincial police and relatives sought the men on islands in the Ottawa River and in the nearby Mississippi. Fitzroy Harbor is 25 miles west of Ottawa by airline.

The men, all employees of an Ottawa paint company started on their fishing trip Saturday morning, taking only a lunch and intending to return to their homes in the evening.

When they did not appear relatives were not alarmed, believing they had extended their holiday. But when they failed to return today police were informed and the abandoned car was found near Fitzroy Harbor.

The missing men are: Gaspard Chene, 39; Paul P5aquin, 27; Wilfrid Bolduc, 35, and Russell Radcliffe, 37. All are married.

The men were using a 16-passenger motorboat.

SUPREME COURT BACKS STRIKERS

WASHINGTON, May 16.—(AP). —The Supreme Court ruled to-day that working men, who strike as a result of an unfair labor practice by their employer, are entitled to protection of the National Labor Relations Act.

This decision was given in upholding an order by the National Relations Board directing the Mackay Radio and Telegraph Company to reinstate five employees who had gone on strike in San Francisco.

Justice Roberts, who delivered the decision, asserted the strikers remained employees under the Labor Act "and were protected against the unfair labor practices denounced by it."

Roberts announced no dissent. Justices Cardoza and Deed did not participate.

The court reversed an opinion by the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals refusing to approve reinstatement of the five men on the ground that they severed their employment by striking.

Half of all cases in court of England last year dealt with motoring.

Beaverton Banker On Trial For Theft, Suicide Counts

Denies Charge Of Stealing $3,000 In Securitie From Widow's Estate

BEAVERTON, Ont., May 16.—(CP)—R. Y. Buglass, former manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce branch here, appeared in a crowded courtroom in the town hall today to face charges of theft and attempted suicide. Buglass was arrested a month ago a few days before he was to be superannuated.

The banker, for many years one of this Lake Simcoe town's most prominent citizens, was brought back from Cobourg jail today for the hearing. Magistrate C. F. Bick of Orillia is presiding.

Bank inspectors were making a routine examination of the branch's business here when a revolver shot was heard from Buglass's office. The officials discovered Bugless with a bullet wound in his head. Further investigation resulted in the laying of a charge of theft involving $3,000 in securities belonging to the Neil Rutherford estate.

Bogus Loan Account

Crown Prosecutor A. F. Annis said he would produce evidence that Buglass had borrowed money from the bank on fictitious loan accounts.

Buglass pleaded not guilty to both charges, electing trial by judge and jury.

Rutherford's widow said that after her husband's death she went into the bank to get a list of securities in her husband's deposit box. The list was made up promptly and Buglass retained it, she testified. When she made a second visit, Buglass spent some time in the vault, so she followed him in.

This time she obtained a list of the securities in the box.

Honeymooning Tips From Experts

Niagara Falls, N.Y. May 16 (AP)

HONEYMOONERS attention! If you want to keep people from thinking you're a honeymooner don't try to act too bored or too nonchalant with your married state. This advice came today from Police Superintendent Tracy Levee and Cave-of-Winds Manager Harold O. Wright, who are what might be called 'honeymoon experts."

NEW ENGLAND'S COAST STREWN WITH WRECKAGE

Three Fishermen Lost As 2 Trawlers Swamp; Wire Services Tumble

BOSTON, May 16—(AP).—A trail of death and wreckage was left today in the wake of a furious storm that lashed the New England coast and swept inland yesterday disrupting electrical service in several sections. A Provincetown fisherman, picked up almost helpless at Martha's Vineyard Beach, reported three others perished when mountainous seas swamped their two power trawlers of fthe coast. He reached safety by clinging to driftwood.

Seven sailors were rescued from the three-masted Canadian schooner Stewart T. Salter, out of Parrsboro, N.S., found awash 39 miles south-southeast of Portland, Me., and a cutter stood by waiting for a chance to beach the vessel carrying a cargo of pilings. Heavy seas had opened the seams of the 155-foot craft.

Members of the rescued crew were listed as J. N. Petipos, the owner, of Everett, Mass., Cap. Allen B. Taylor, Mate Harold Toggart, Engineer Douglas Mahar; Cook Charles Rector, and Seamen Frank Petipos, and Thomas Antle, all of Nova Scotia.

Small boats dragged their moorings, and many were wrecked as the blow drove them onto rock-lined shores.

John Phillips, 58, picked up on the Martha's Vineyard Beach, was taken to the United States Marine Hospital at Vineyard Haven, suffering from shock and exposure.

He said other members of the crews of the trawlers "Lady and Rosary" and "Two Sisters," which were found later wrecked on Beachs, must have drowned. He listed the men as Domingo and Peter Joseph, and his son, Clarence Phillips, all of Provincetown. High wind uprooted trees and brought down telephone and electric wire inland, disrupting service. George H. Jenkins, manager of the Western Counties Electrical Company, said service interruptions were the greatest in 15 years.

WOMAN 78, LOST 5 DAYS IN WILDS

TIMINS, Ont., May 16.—(CP)—Langmuir Township and the waters of the Night Hawk River still hold the mystery of the disappearance of 78-year-old Mrs. Margaret Watson, missing from her home since Wednesday when she wandered away for her daily walk from the Barite Mine to the river.

No clues of her wanderings have been found by the large party of searchers, mainly river drivers and forestry employees.

Constable Marshall Hancock of Ontario Provincial Police returned to Timmins on Saturday with reports the aged woman was still missing and that the search was continuing.

Since his return, the search party has been in the hands of John Watson, tower observer for the Ontario Forestry Branch at Night Hawk River, and son of the missing woman. Night Hawk River has been dragged and the bush for miles about the mine has been combed by rangers and brushmen.

Mrs. Watson had only recently moved to her son's home, from Elk Lake where she had been living with her daughter. Daily she made a trip to the river bank, about 500 yards from the home. It wasn't until darkness fell that her son and his family missed her.

All that night, her son and a part of bushmen and river drivers conducted a search, and the following morning,, provincial police were notified. Constables Harold S. Gall and Marshall Hancock went to Langmuir Township and organized a search party. Forestry officials sent equipment and men to aid in the search for the woman.

New Synthetic "Parlor Moonlight" Is Great Boon For Lovers

Buffalo, N.Y., May 16 (AP)

SYNTHETIC moonlight which can be produced in the family parlor by the mere flick of a switch today appeared as a great boon for love making.

Aubrey E. Noble, research engineer in gas tube lighting, said it's all done with gas tube lighting which Noble and other research engineers are developing.

"We can produce synthetic daylight in the home with a combination of colored gas lighting," he said.

Silvery-blue rays of moonlight are produced by switching off all colors except blue in synthetic daylight. In the resulting soft light all the lovers need is a soft couch to replace a hard park bench.

Noble said synthetic moonlight was just a by-product and its discovery was incidental to the main aim of producing artificial daylight.

BRITISHERS BEGIN PLANE ENQUIRIES, START IN OTTAWA

OTTAWA, May 16 (C.P.). — The British Air Mission, the proposed new $140,000,000 Government loan, and the possibility of another controversy over Alberta legislation held political interest here to-day, diverting attention from House of Commons proceedings.

The Air Mission arrived in the Capital yesterday to confer with Government officials concerning the possibility of Canadian industrial plants manufacturing military airplanes for Great Britain. The discussions likely will last two days.

The new loan was announced on Friday by Finance Minister Dunning and marks the first major financing move by the Government in many months. It will be offered to the public on Wednesday and $90,000,000 is slated for conversion and $50,000,000 will be new subscriptions.

Demands have been made on the Federal Government for disallowance of three Acts passed at the last session of the Alberta Legislature which come into effect on June 1, and affect mortgagees and creditors generally. They are: The Securities Tax Act, the Home Owners' Security Act, and Limitation of Actions Amendment Act.

The measures have been under review by the Justice Department for some time as a matter of routine procedure for the Department considers all provincial legislation. Whether any action will be taken with a view to disallowing the three Acts depends at the moment on the law officers of the Department who will report on them to Justice Minister Lapointe.

Two other measures, the amendments to the Debt Adjustment Act and the Debt Proceedings Suspension Act, also are reported to be included in the protests. They are described as ancillary to the three main ones.

An Edmonton Petition.

The Edmonton Chamber of Commerce has prepared a petition seeking disallowance of five statutes—the Home Owners' Security Act, the Securities Tax Act, the Limitation of Actions Amendment Act, the Debt Adjustment Act and the Tax Recovery Act.

The council of the Toronto Board of Trade announced it sent a letter to Prime Minister Mackenzie King, urging disallowance of the measures.

It is expected formal petitions for disallowance will be received by the there. This morning the crew's worries were increased when the other two robins were hatched.

They did the only thing they could—they moved the nest from the engine, fastened it to the top of a high post. Anxiously they watched for the bird's reaction, were downcast when she showed no sign of going near her newly moved home. Early this afternoon she had not been near the nest, but the crew were still hoping, and were satisfied they had done the only thing they could under the circumstances. While the other bird makes up her mind as to whether she will accept her new locality, the trainmen are feeding the young ones themselves.

ABERHART RUSHES COHORTS TO FIGHT IN SASKATCHEWAN

EDMONTON, May 16.—(CP)—Alberta's premier, Hon. William Aberhart, says Western Canada Social Credit League plans for its Saskatchewan election campaign must be altered because of the "premature date" announced in Regina by Premier W. J. Patterson.

In an address last night at the Edmonton Prophetic Bible Institute, Mr. Aberhart said: "Premier Patterson's rush in holding the election on June 8 is in accord with his statement last week, 'If we hold the election at once the people will put the Liberals in again. If we defer a few weeks, no one can tell what may happen.' Evidently the Liberals decided to take no chances.

"On account of the suddenness of the election and the short time allowed to give the people a chance to think this whole matter through, our meetings as announced last Sunday will need to take the form of conventions."

An appeal for Social Credit speakers to aid in the Saskatchewan election campaign was issued by the premier after he had given list of meetings he and members of his cabinet would address in the next week.

The appeal read:

"Owing to the premature date announced for the Saskatchewan election, there is an urgent demand for qualified Social Credit speakers from Alberta. Will any Social Credit M.L.A.'s who are prepared to hold meetings in Saskatchewan please notify Mr. E. C. Manning, Alberta provincial secretary), chief organizer of the Western Social Credit Association, at the earliest possible date, stating when and for how long they are prepared to go, also any Saskatchewan districts in which you have contacts. Also give the names of qualified speakers in your constituency who are prepared to go. Don't delay. Your assistance is needed."

Asks Ottawa Sanction.

Premier Aberhart attacked moves designed to invalidate Alberta legislation and reiterated his plea "that Ottawa should allow this Government in Alberta to demonstrate what it can do."

"Surely," he said, "no sporting man can refuse a man the chance to demonstrate his remedy."

Gandhi Turns From Enemy To Champion Britain

Swings Hindu, Mohammedan Ranks Together To Become Bigger Figure Than Ever

BOMBAY, May 16—(AP).—Mohandas K. Gandhi to-day is a bigger figure in India than ever. After a long period of self-imposed silence and inactivity, he has staged a dramatic comeback which places him once more in the world's limelight.

The Hindu who has led India's millions toward nationalism, recently scored a series of notable successes. They have culminated in a virtual agreement between Hindu and Mohammedan communities of India on most of their outstanding differences.

Thus one of the last barriers to real political unity of India's 360,000,000 people has been removed and Gandhi's position has been strengthened.

Fresh from a tour of the Northwest Frontier Province, where a year ago he would have been arrested, the apostle of peace and passive resistance now exercises almost dictatorial power over the Congress party.

Once an implacable opponent of Britons, who jailed him seven times, Gandhi now is their champion.

Easier Policy Aids

This is due largely to Great Britain's recent conciliatory policy. The better understanding between the British and Gandhi has introduced a new spirit of mutual confidence and hope throughout India.

The country never has been so peaceful. Police who in the past suppressed Nationalist agitators and filled prisons with demonstrators now stand idle at street corners.

Because of British concessions to Eire, many influential Indians believe India will have an autonomous government within a few years.

Resigns Post

Criticized severely in the House of Commons for the slowness of British air rearmament Viscount Swinton (ABOVE), air minister, has resigned and is succeeded by Sir Kingsley Wood.

MORE ABOUT— SWINTON (Continued from Page 1)

as the business man of the Cabinet, he reorganized the Post Office Department between 1931 and 1935, modernising Britain's telephone and telegraph system and carrying out widespread improvements in the postal system.

Three years ago he went to the Ministry of Health, a department with which he had been associated for many years as a junior minister, and with the same energy tackled the pressing problems of national fitness and better housing.

He is a short and stout person, somewhat resembling Mr. Pickwick. Of all the Ministers, Sir Kingsley perhaps is in closest touch with the Conservative Party and is believed to be Prime Minister Chamberlain's closest adviser on questions of electoral strategy.

He has been in parliament for 20 years. In 1920 he introduced the early closing bill, and in 1924 the summer time bill, which made permanent and nation-wide the observance of summer time. He is the son of a Methodist minister, Rev. Arthur Wood.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

Weakness at Chicago and minor Southern selling drove Winnipeg May future down from advances of 1½ cents to-day. The drab session with wheat futures 2½ to 1¾ cents lower, May at $1.15, July $1.04⅝ and October 86¼ cents.

Lack of export demand for Canadian wheat and failure of Chicago and Buenos Aires to follow Liverpool advances acted as drags on Winnipeg dealings. Southern firms purchased May and July options at the start, but near the close turned to the selling side. Rains in the Texas Panhandle induced sales at Chicago.

Liverpool closed ¾ to ½d higher.

Interesting Spectators At Cricket Game

GIPSY SIMON SMITH IS GUEST PREACHER ST. JAMES' CHURCH

Commemorating twenty-one years of active service along the lines of Christian endeavor in St. James' United Church, the Official Board, together with the Sunday School Board of Management, arranged for special weekend services led by Gipsy Simon Smith, international evangelist and singer.

Large congregations greeted the noted visitor at all three services on Sunday, when his messages in song and in speech were of deep spiritual significance.

Born and raised in a gipsy camp near Cambridge, England, the guest speaker brought an interesting story of God's power in the human life.

At the morning service, a lovely arrangement of "The Lord is My Shepherd" was the anthem sung by the choir, led by Cecil Lapp, the organist, while Gipsy Smith prefaced his message with the singing of a prayer hymn of his own composition.

"How the Wild Men Were Tamed" was the subject of his morning discourse, when the speaker sounded a clear note of optimism and cheer to all Christian workers. His text was chosen from the eighth chapter of St. Luke's Gospel: "Then they went out to see what was done; and came to Jesus, and found the man out of whom the devils were departed, sitting at the feet of Jesus, clothed, and in his right mind; and they were afraid."

Nothing Unexpected.

Suggesting that an alternative theme for his sermon might be "The unexpected that happened," Mr. Smith declared that nothing is unexpected to God, Who delights in choosing His workers from the most unlikely places of the world. For conversion not only reforms but transforms. If any man be in Christ he is a new creature. That is the hall-mark of true conversion.

The Scriptures bristle with stories of unexpected things that happen. Moses, the bable in the bullrushes, became the leader of his people, and the lad with a harp, minding his sheep, became the King of Israel. Levi, the despised tax-gatherer, becomes the writer of the first Gospel and Saul the persecutor becomes Paul, the flaming evangelist.

Referring to the transformation in his own life from a gipsy encampment to the pulpit, the speaker outlined briefly how the gospel message was brought to his people through the influence of his aunt. His father and his uncle, too, felt a desire for something different and better in life, so the "unexpected happened," and a revival swept through their camp.

"This should inspire us to see the possibilities in the most unlikely," said the speaker modestly, as he mentioned the work of his cousin, Rodney Smith, and his two sons, both of whom are ministers.

Humanity Helps Humanity.

"While God could save the world without our help, He uses humanity to help humanity and He wants to use you.

"No matter how low a life has sunk, still there is a spark of good left, which may be fanned into a flame, consuming the dross and leaving pure gold.

"You must be an optimist to deal with such people and you'll have to blot out the word 'hopeless' from your spiritual dictionary. We find gold in dirt and diamonds in clay, so we must learn to see the possibilities in even the most unlikely life, just as we seek the rare flowers in obscure places. But some one must seek such souls and guide them to God. If you do that, a life may become fragrant as the result, and you will have made a wonderful investment, with dividends not only on earth, but in the greater life beyond."

Having worked for six years in the slums of London, England, Gipsy Smith brought an authoritative and interesting story of "Modern Miracles in London Slums" an an open session of the Sunday School at three o'clock, attended by the usual large classes and many friends. "The Sweetest Story Ever Told" was the theme of the evening service, with Gipsy Smith at all services throughout the day.

Tonight "The Story of My Life From Gipsy Camp to Pulpit will be given, with a fine musical program, to which all are invited to attend.

Army Taggers Had Successful Day

Arthur Shadgett, 574 Wolfe street, LEFT, and Reggie Jones, 561 Patterson street, were the youngest taggers out for the Salvation Army on Saturday. Both boys reported that citizens were generous. Favoured by excellent weather, the tag day went over well, replenishing the coffers of the Army for its work in Home and Foreign Missions. The 68 taggers on city streets collected a total of $415 on Saturday, a considerable increase over last year, Army officials reported. (Examiner Staff Photo.)

Scriver. Clarine and Margaret Scriver sang most sweetly, "The Little Bird," accompanied by their mother, Mrs. J. B. Scriver. The children of school age, under the direction of their school teacher, Miss Jessie Lamb, sang a chorus, "A Little Seed Lay Fast Asleep."

Following the marking of the books, the new secretary's room and desk were dedicated. The desk was presented by R. C. Doxsee, who also presented the keys to the secretary, Kitchener Smith, the latter making a few remarks of appreciation.

PASTOR INDUCTED INTO NEW CHARGE LAKEFIELD CHURCH

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, May 16. — Rev. James M. Young, B.A., newly-appointed pastor of the combined charge of Lakefield, Lakevale and Omemee Presbyterian Churches was inducted into his new pastorate at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Lakefield on Thursday evening last.

St. Andrew's Church was filled to capacity, there being a good representation from each of the three congregations. Besides this, delegations were present from Peterborough, Cobourg and Warsaw.

Rev. A. J. Preston of Keene, moderator of the Presbytery, presided during the service. Rev. D. K. Perrie of Hastings preached the sermon; Rev. B. S. Black of Campbellford addressed the new minister and Rev. J. W. Foote of Port Hope addressed the congregations.

All spoke words of encouragement and guidance to the minister and his congregations, and extended best wishes for the success of his ministry. The ceremony of induction was most impressive.

After the service all present adjourned to the basement, where the ladies served dainty refreshments and a social hour was spent.

Rev. J. M. Young is a graduate of Knox College, Toronto. Rev. Young assumed his new duties on Sunday, May 15.

Cowin, president of the Hamilton Manx Society, and general chairman of the convention committees, presided.

With The Boy Scouts

Two investitures were held in the St. George's Cub pack when Vernon Pinn and Gerald Hopkins took their Cub promise before Akela and the pack.

Instruction work on various tests and signalling was given and some good games enjoyed. The boys who passed first star tests last week were presented with their stars.

The Scout group was under A.S.M. Siddall, who took various instruction periods.

The Mothers' Auxiliary are making signalling flags for the group.

Some 38 cubs were on hand at St. John's pack meeting, when Glen Grigrson was invested as sixer of the Green Six and Geoffrey Cridland as sixer of the Red Six. Official stripes were also presented to Don Craig and George Gray, who have been appointed seconds. Saturday afternoon saw some 23 cubs in full uniform. With Akela and Baghara in charge making their way to the Capitol theatre, where reserved seats were waiting them as a reward for their work during paper collection. Roland Dare, Grant Howard, Lawrence Shannon and Bill Lech recently obtained their first stars.

Good hunting boys.

All Saints' pack meeting had 100 per cent. attendance marked up at their last meeting; three new instructors will be on hand next Friday to assist the boys in their work.

Jack Chambers and Claire McDougall passed leap frog; Irwin Clapham, Jim Webb and Bill Brooks passed time telling; Robert Kennedy, book balancing; and Robert Adams, knots.

Next Sunday, the scouts and Cubs will hold the group church parade and all boys are asked to be on hand in full uniform.

The Sacred Heart group are steadily forging ahead. Don Corrin repassed his fireman's badge to retain his King's Scout badge. On May 28 the troop will supply one messenger and scouts to assist the National Institute for the Blind.

On Friday evening, the Mothers' Auxiliary gave the troop new flags for use at church parade on Sunday; but these flags will be officially presented to the troop by the auxiliary at some future date.

Some 45 cubs, scouts and leaders attended church parade on Sunday, and the Rev. Father J. J. O'Brien urged the parents to let their boys join the scouts and cubs as he could not name a better movement for boys.

Tuesday night will see the scouts and cubs joined with brother scouts and cubs from Port Hope, Cobourg Lindsay and elsewhere act as guard of honor for the Blessed Sacrement of the Eucharist Congress being held in that parish. Afterwards the Sacred Heart boys will entertain their out-of-town guests.

On Tuesday last the St. John's Rover Crew did some more night hiking, and after a camp fire at Burnham's woods had a repast at the Skipper's house. On Friday night some 25 boys of St. John's scouts hiked out by patrols to Bear's Creek. A splendid evening was enjoyed by all.

Saturday afternoon was momentous when the North-End troop, under Scouter Chivas, met and defeated the St. John's team in the Beal Trophy relay race. This is only the third troop to hold this trophy; Lindsay held it many years, but St. John's got the decision on them twice in the last three years.

The Northenders will have to run again on the 24th of May to win or lose, as the cup must be run for at the jamboree. We wish them all good luck.

All group committeemen are urged to make arrangements for their groups on the 24th of May to Lindsay.

Attention, Cub Leaders.—Owing to the executive meeting of the local association being held on Wednesday night, the cub leaders' course will be held on Monday night (to-night), May 16, at the usual time.

Large Congregations Attend Re-opening Hastings Church

Costume Choir Of 25 Voices Provides Special Music For Occasion

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, May 16. — Trinity United Church, gutted by fire last New Year's Sunday, was opened in an impressive service on Sunday, May 15, following complete restoration. The re-opening services drew exceptionally large congregations, an estimate of over 400 attending the morning service, and the church well filled in the evening, many being present from Campbellford, Westwood, Norwood, Warkworth and the surrounding district.

Prior to the beginning of the morning service, a choir of 25 voices wearing black gowns, sang as a processional hymn, "Praise the Lord, His Glories Shine, Hallelujah," as they proceeded to the choir from the entrance of the church. Miss Carrie Doxsee presided at the organ for the singing of the hymns and the choir anthem, "Lift Up Your Heads." Miss Ruth McCredie of Campbellford, as guest soloist, sang most effectively "The Stranger of Galilee."

The pastor, Rev. F. W. Newell, B.A., B.D., cordially welcomed all who were present at this memorable service, and made special mention of the following gifts presented for this re-opening service:

A beautiful new pulpit Bible was donated by the Upper Canada Bible Society to replace the Bible somewhat destroyed but now being used in the Sunday School.

A new hymnary and pulpit light were donated by Mrs. W. J. Warner, to be used in the church.

Parker Florists donated a huge basket of flowers, and Miss Jessie Wilcox of Detroit, formerly a member, a silver basket of very beautiful blossoms.

Morning Service.

The Rev. F. W. Newell delivered a most impressive sermon. His discussions were centred on the words, "The Church Worthwhile," which were appropriate for the memorable occasion. His text was chosen from Ephesians 5, 25: "Christ also loved the church and gave himself for it." The church today is called upon to face the crisis of today. If the church of Jesus Christ will survive it must have a clear, definite message to the world; it must have a universal outlook to make it worthwhile. We must change the conditions in which we are living to make the church worthwhile. The standard of Jesus Christ will prevail when the worthwhile church is established in the world.

The evening service was attended by a capacity congregation. The Rev. F. W. Newell conducted the service. Rev. William Stocks of St. George's Anglican Church read the lesson from Peter ii., and led in prayer. Rev. J. S. Ferguson of the Keene United Church announced the hymns. The sermon was delivered by the Rev. D. K. Perrie. The choir rendered two anthems, "Nature's Anthem Praise" and "Peace of the Evening." Miss Ruth McCreadie sang as a solo, "Jesus Lover of My Soul."

The Rev. Mr. Perrie expressed the felicitations on the happy occasion in the church history, and also expressed his appreciation of the honor given to him in preaching the sermon. He chose the theme of his address from I. Corinthians 1, 2nd verse: "The Church of God." This phrase appears seven times in the New Testament. The word church is a little word full of meaning which in Greek means the lawful assembly of citizens. He based his discussions on "what we think of church and what we make of it! What is our attitude towards public worship? Who does the church belong to, and what is the church founded on?"

Special Service.

A special service was held in the Sunday School rooms before the Sunday morning service. Walter Dodd, assistant superintendent, opened the service, following quiet music played by Miss Margery

The Teachers Protest

The proposal is to hold a national Fascist convention in Kingston on June 30. Twenty-two members of the teaching staff of Queen's University have been moved to voice a protest in a letter to the Whig-Standard of that city. The university men contend that this year Kingston is marking its centenary; they admit they are just as much in favor of free speech as any other group of people, but they cannot reconcile the idea of the Fascist gathering being brought in the centenary picture.

It may be the teachers in Kingston have noticed what the Fascists in other parts of the world have been doing, and perhaps they have concluded that if given opportunity in Kingston or in Canada in general they would do the same thing here.

One of the most recent exploits was the attempt to seize the reins of government in Brazil. There was no voting day to see what the people of Brazil desired to do. The Fascists organized and set out to seize the president. The fact that they were blocked by superior numbers is neither here nor there. The Fascists were demonstrating just how they would do things if they had power enough.

If they were sufficiently well organized in Canada and if they had the required numerical force their method of showing their strength and their demand for control would be to go to Ottawa and seize the power of government.

It may be the teachers from Queen's University had something like that in mind when they issued their protest. We do not believe Fascists would journey from all over this country to Kingston just to talk and have a general good time together. They would go ahead with more of their work of organization; they would be about the business of strengthening their position until they could forcibly impose on us a form of government which the great majority of people in this country do not want.

The trouble is that organizations which seek the overthrow of our form of government are active while the rest of us who do not want our form of government destroyed are doing nothing. The Fascists and the Communists are always busy with their organization work; they are ever ready to tell people their ideas. It may be that the protest of the Kingston teachers is what is needed to fork the rest of us out of the supreme indifference with which we regard all the organizing and scheming which is taking place to wreck our governmental institutions.

He Will Enjoy It

Possibly our Governor-General Lord Tweedsmuir may by now be accustomed to anticipating some sort of reception every place he goes. That is one of the penalties attached to the position. His Excellency is coming to Peterborough at the end of the month, and he will have opportunity to take one of the most unique and delightful trip through the Trent Canal. The good ship "Bessie Butler" is being groomed for the occasion. When the distinguished visitor arrives at Lakefield he will go to the Grove School, having expressed a desire to visit that spot, and there he will find a bit of old England tucked away in surroundings which will appeal at once to his sense of beauty and charm.

When he continues from there he will pass through a section of Stoney Lake, in which there are 1,100 islands, and on his trip to Orillia he will have opportunity to travel on the Trent Canal and find it the longest inland waterway system of its kind in the world.

Here in Peterborough he will come upon the greatest liftlock, and he will encounter many other locks as he goes on with the trip; he will find the people who operate them cheerful and skilled and friendly. He can hardly claim for himself the rest and relaxation which others find in taking the same trip because he will encounter in many forms the desire of the people to see him and pay tribute in their own way. It is one of the most unusual and altogether pleasing trips which can be found in this country. We are certain His Excellency will agree with that claim.

We Admit Our Error

There was a gathering of 2,000 people a few miles east of London, Ont., the day when Hon. Peter Heenan was present to conduct a few ceremonies to mark the start of a large tree planting campaign.

Mr. Heenan said that in 135 Northern Ontario townships there is less than five per cent. of the wood left. He might have added that he could go to a number of districts not far removed from London where there is not a stick of wood left on some of the farms and where all the fuel now has to be purchased.

The province is prepared to furnish 12,000,000 trees for planting in all parts of Ontario this year, and as a people we are now trying to undo some of the foolish things we have been doing for years.

We have been proceeding for a long time as though it would be quite all right to cut down all the trees and clean out all the swamps, and probably we would have kept on doing that very thing until we had the whole province bald of trees were it not for the uncomfortable fact that we found we had invited drought and floods in season.

Seems strange does it not that with all our wisdom we are now seeking to put the province back so it will be something like it was 50 or 60 years ago? Possibly it will be quite a while before we begin to see or feel any good results from this new campaign, but the fact that we are now at the point where we are actually looking ahead is evidence of a degree of sanity which we as a people have been sadly lacking in the past.

How Can It Succeed?

Cleveland, Ohio, is a typical American city, normally a vigorous place of industry and commerce. The population would be not far removed one way or the other from the million mark.

Cleveland is having trouble enough because its machinery for raising funds for relief has broken down. The city has a relief population of 78,000, and if we want some comparative illustration it is possible to provide it by taking the combined populations of Belleville, Kingston, Oshawa and Peterborough. Put the folk in these four cities together and have them all on relief and then you have a fair picture of what Cleveland has to handle.

We learn that the amount required in Cleveland for direct relief is about $9,000,000 per year, and that is about one-half of the operating budget for all city services. That is, 50 per cent. of the collected tax rate goes for relief. What money has been made available in recent weeks has been secured by taking it from other funds, but these are now exhausted, and Cleveland has informed the state government it will have to handle the situation as the city can do no more.

And that of course leads to the question: What will the State government do about it? The city of Cleveland with its million people is also part of the state of Ohio, and the million people in Cleveland are included in the list of those from whom the government of the State will look for revenue. If these million people as residents of Cleveland can do no more by way of relief contributions what can they be expected to do when called upon to pay by their State government for the same purpose? The answer seems to be that if they can pay no more as residents of Cleveland then they can pay no more as residents of the State of Ohio. Cleveland may have a good enough case to present to the State government, but it is just another way of asking the State to go ahead and tax the people whom the city admits it can tax no more.

They Moved To Lindsay

Relief authorities in Lindsay tried to induce a family of man and wife and six children to leave the town, and for that purpose relief was stopped. The family had formerly been residents of Snowden township, in Haliburton county, and that township would in the meantime be liable for relief charges even if the family were living in Lindsay. That provision is rubbed out at the end of a year's residence and the people are then considered eligible to receive relief in Lindsay with Lindsay paying the bills. In this case it appears that the head of the family has some physical disability which will keep him from working, and that was probably the reason why Lindsay relief officials were anxious to have the family move back to the community from which it came.

That effort on the part of Lindsay officials to rid themselves of an obligation which actually did not belong to the town was not effective. There is no law which says that such a family shall not move from Snowden township to the town of Lindsay or any other place. If the family had decided to move to Peterborough officials here could not have stood at the city limits and told them to turn back. The same in Lindsay. And after the family had arrived and settled in that town there is no law which says the family can be made to leave. The fact that transportation was offered does not mean a thing. All the head of the family would have to do would be shake his head or say "No, thank you."

Lindsay seeks to protect itself by having a year's residence clause, and during that time the bill for relief could be sent to the community from which the people came. That residence clause is actually little protection for this reason: When the family complied with it and stayed in Lindsay for a year it would be officially recognized that relief should be paid. As we see it that family of mother and father and six children, with the father unfitted for work, can remain as long as they desire in Lindsay.

We do not know of a sizeable town or city which has not experienced the same problem. Fully 70 per cent. of the people who are now on relief in Peterborough were not residents of this city at the time giving out of relief became necessary. Whether that degree of influx for the purpose of securing relief is high we do not know. But we do know it is not a case of a city caring for its own residents during a time of depression, but caring for those from a number of other places who have moved into the city. The experience which Lindsay has been encountering is not new. Lindsay will not likely succeed in inducing the family in question to return to Haliburton county, and the ratepayers of the town will have to contribute to the support of people of whom they previously knew nothing, whom they did not invite to come to their town and whom the relief officials have asked to depart.

Analyzing Car Accidents

When one hears of an automobile accident the first thought is about carelessness, recklessness or drunk driving. Perhaps the idea comes that some person was cutting in. Toronto Police Department has been doing some survey work in connection with accident reports and the results show a good many of our ideas are all wrong. The report which has been released deals among other things with the condition of pedestrians involved in accidents, the condition of the driver and also of his car. This was found:

Condition of Driver:
Under influence of liquor	17
Had been drinking	60
Physical defect	8
Other defect	8
No defect	2,165
Condition of Pedestrian:
Under influence of liquor	10
Had been drinking	12

A great deal has been said and written about drunken driving, but in the accidents under review in Toronto no person was killed by a driver who was drunk, although one was killed by a driver who "had been drinking." Fourteen were killed by drivers who were classed as having "no defects."

No pedestrian was killed while drunk, and those who "had been drinking" are in the same class, but eight were killed and 626 injured who had "no defects."

In the accidents under review there were 29 cases where brakes were found defective and two fatal accidents resulted, but there were 2,171 cars in accidents which killed 11 persons and injured 616 which are listed as having no mechanical defects.

So we have to revise our ideas about accidents. In the great majority of cases there have been no mechanical defects in the cars and no apparent defects in the drivers. But there is nothing to bar one from harboring the suspicion that there must have been some defects which were not apparent.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A house at Hamilton collapsed during an auction sale. It looks as if the bidding must have been too heavy.

A Quebec bill to give provincial governments authority to authorize sweepstakes ran into a heavy track in the House of Commons.

Forest man caught a sturgeon in Lake Huron that weighed 160 pounds. Taking a fish that size out of the Trent Canal would lower the water at least six inches.

Before Social Credit tries to expand into Saskatchewan it should be conclusively demonstrated in Alberta that the system will work.

Mexico has severed diplomatic relations with Great Britain but fortunately up to the moment of going to press there had been no world complications over the matter.

Half a million Portuguese citizens have been giving thanks that their country has been spared from Communism. The Soviet press is hardly likely to give front page space to the incident.

A Rockland story says that a dissappointed suitor burned the new home of his scornful lady love. He had a wrong idea, obviously of what it means to heap coals of fire.

A Winnipeg boy has won the first prize in a cooking competition at the boys and girls fair in that city. Some day perhaps his children will be complaining to their spouses that their pies do not taste as good as the ones father used to make.

CHANGED

(By A. R. K.)

¶ The Rev. John preached on for years, till he turned grey above the ears, he was an ardent soul; John was a meek and humble man, some named him as an also-ran, his church was in a hole.

¶ John preached such soothing sermons then, they pleased the loose and frisky men, nor troubled them at all; he was, a peaceful man indeed, content to drop a tiny seed, in hopes of growing tall.

¶ Officials once to John had said, he'd better seek new board and bed, his listeners were too few; they'd have to go outside and hire, a man possessed of brains and fire, for nothing else would do.

¶ Then Rev. John changed much his way, put steel in what he had to say, and shot his arrows straight; he soothed the sinners not at all, he hit them so they'd limp and fall, and tremble for their fate.

¶ And no one slumbered in the pew, they knew not next the thing he'd do, they could not hold him back; the morning seats were filled all right, more people gathered there at night, nor were collections slack.

¶ And those who wanted John to quit, they never even mention it, on that point they are still; the only fear they have today, about their preacher going away—is that perhaps he will.

Invading A Home To Seek A Radio

(From Parliamentary Debates)

Mr. LAWSON: There are thousands of things for which a licence fee is imposed, municipal, provincial and dominion; but no one in his senses would conceive of giving the right to enter a man's home and search, in order to collect it. Let me take a couple of examples that occur to me at the moment. In the municipality in which I live, and, I think, in every other municipality, you must have a licence to keep a dog. Would not any parliament be laughed to scorn that would pass legislation authorizing a warrant to search a man's home in order to ascertain whether he has a dog?

Mr. DUNNING: A radio does not go out walking like a dog.

Mr. LAWSON: Where I live you are not allowed to let a dog off your premises or be at large. Dogs can be kept in the house.

Mr. DUNNING: But they may be taken out on a leash.

Mr. LAWSON: That is true, but if the minister persists in this legislation I am afraid he may be taken out on a leash by the public before he is finished.

There are dozens of things for which one requires a licence, but parliaments do not give authority to issue search warrants to go into people's houses and search for such things. The minister says this is necessary if licence fees are to be collected. I do not think that is quite true. I admit that when it was necessary for the crown, in order to get a conviction for failure to have licence, to prove that the person charged had either actually installed a radio or actually operated it, such powers might be required. But that is not going to be so in future. By this bill you are making it an offence for a man merely to be in possession of a radio. If he is in possession, the onus is on him to show that he was not operating it. All any police officer has to do is to peek through the window and he can see whether there is a radio on the floor.

Mr. HOWE: Is that a legal act, to peek through a window?

Mr. HOWE: Not a very dignified one.

Mr. LAWSON: Unquestionably not. But, in fact, it is not an illegal act even for ordinary individuals, except under certain circumstances which I shall not at the moment describe. But in all seriousness, when you have made it an offence merely to have possession of a radio—

Mr. HOWE: But my hon. friend insists we must not. We are not doing that at the moment, presumably.

Mr. LAWSON: Oh, I presume you are. I never dreamed that you would think of changing. What I suggested was that you reconsider the clause so that if a man who is brought into court can satisfy the magistrate that he had not been operating the machine or that it had not been in use, then the magistrate should have power to say no offence had been committed. That is why I asked the minister to reconsider the section. After all, it is not a matter of life and death to this country if we fail to collect two or three per cent. of all radio licences.

Mr. HOWE: Or fifty per cent?

Mr. LAWSON: Fifty per cent. is a very different matter, but with the amended legislation contained in this bill you have at your disposal the means of collecting ninety-five per cent. of the radio licences without exercising the right to search a man's home. I want to say to the minister in all seriousness—

Mr. DUPUIS: Does the hon. member object to citizens who own radios being obliged to obtain their licences.

Mr. LAWSON: Well, Mr. Chairman, the intelligence of that question, having regard to the subject matter under discussion, deserves the intelligent answer of ignoring it.

Mr. DUPUIS: Mr. Chairman, either the hon. gentleman wants the licence fees to be paid by people who own radios—

Mr. LAWSON: I submit that the hon. member is out of order.

Mr. DUPUIS: —or he does not.

The CHAIRMAN: The hon. member must remember that another hon. member has the floor, and he must not interrupt without permission.

Mr. LAWSON: I just want to say to the minister that we should not lose sight of this fact, and I am not making this allegation against this government in particular. There is a terrible tendency in legislatures and parliaments in general in this country to-day to go on curtailing and interfering with what we have always regarded as the inherent right of a British subject, namely that his home is his castle. I for one will not allow these fundamental principles of rights to be interfered with lightly.

WHAT'S A MILLION?

(St. Catharines Standard)

IN A RECENT statement issued by Premier Hepburn, re the Niagara Falls bridge issue, he stated that the total number of people crossing the old Honeymoon Bridge during the seven month period from April 1 to November 1, 1937, was 5,304,000.

We have the statement filed with the Dominion Bureau of Statistics by the International Railway Company covering the traffic over the bridge during the whole 12 months of last year. It includes not only pedestrian but all passengers in private and public vehicles, and the total for the year was 3,929,770.

Mr. Hepburn stated that it was 5,304,000 for seven months; the total was less than four million for the entire twelve months. But what is the odd million or two when the Premier is in an argument.

TRAGEDY OF MOSLEY.

(Review of News of England)

AFTER describing his investigations into various aspects of national life, Mr. Nichols concludes that we are a nation without a hero, and he writes sympathetically of Sir Oswald Mosley and his movement. But he rejects anti-Semitism, and declares that "the fact that Mosley has been forced by his enemies into a position where he must be either anti-Semitic or perish" is one of the major tragedies of our time.

• Our Senators Ponder Marriage

(From The Official Report of the Senate For May 11)

Hon. Mr. LYNCH-STAUNTON: .... Few persons ever go into the divorce court.

Hon. Mr. McMEANS: It is a very fashionable court.

Hon. Mr. LYNCH-STAUNTON: Oh, yes, it is fashionable, especially in good society. My honorable friend is right for once. But he should not stop me.

Hon. Mr. McMEANS: Why?

Hon. Mr. LYNCH-STAUNTON: Because I had something to say, and I have forgotten it.

Hon. Mr. CASGRAIN: May I ask the right honorable gentleman just one question, for the information of the Senate? He has lived a long time in the Northwest. How do the Doukhobors get married? I think the right honorable gentleman ought to be able to answer that.

Right Hon. Mr. MEIGHEN: I really do not know.

Hon. Mr. CASGRAIN: Then I will ask another. The Mennonites have been in the West for 60 years, to my personal knowledge. How do they get married?

Right Hon. Mr. MEIGHEN: Well, I have not been at any of those weddings.—

Some Hon. SENATORS: Oh, oh.

Right Hon. Mr. MEIGHEN:—but to be legal the marriage would have to be solemnized in accordance with the provisions of the law of the province in which they live.

Hon. Mr. CASGRAIN: Then, in Manitoba must you go before a clergyman?

Hon. Mr. CALDER: Not necessarily.

Hon. Mr. CASGRAIN: I am told that in Ontario a mayor can marry people, and that there was a mayor in Morrisburg who married couples freely.

Hon. Mr. CASGRAIN: The right honorable gentleman from Brockville (Right Hon. Mr. Graham) knows that place very well. I do not want to make a joke out of this thing, but there were two or three couples before that mayor of Morrisburg and they were giggling and laughing, and he said: "Look here, this is a serious thing. There is nothing to laugh at about getting married." However, the question I want to ask is: can a mayor in Ontario marry people?

Right Hon. Mr. MEIGHEN: I never saw a law to that effect.

Hon. Mr. CASGRAIN: There are many things we do not know.

Right Hon. Mr. MEIGHEN: Surely.

Hon. Mr. CASGRAIN: Let me ask a further question. If two persons have no religion at all and want to get married, who will marry them?

Hon. Mr. McMEANS: A county court judge.

• Do They Trust Each Other?

WRITING IN THE New York Sunday Times, Edwin James, well-informed diplomatic commentator, says:

"There is going the rounds in London a story that at the Berchtesgaden talks between Hitler and Schuschnigg, Hitler told the then Austrian Chancellor he would have to yield to German demands because Austria did not have a friend. Thereupon the Austrian mentioned Italy, recalling that at the time of Dollfuss' assassination, Mussolini had sent a strong force to the Brenner Pass.

"'Don't count on that', Hitler is said to have replied, 'and if it interests you I will tell you that I intend to take care of Il Duce myself in a couple of years'.

"The story continues that this report was telephoned to Mussolini who called up Schuschnigg to ask if it were true. He was. It is said, told it was true.

"This tale may or may not be true, of course, but if it were true it would check pretty well with what Hitler is said to have done after dinner one night when the conversations turned on the presentation of a sword to Mussolini by the Mohammedans of Libya on the occasion of Mussolini's being hailed as a great Moslem leader. Hitler is said to have told with some gusto that of the 250,000 lire to have been subscribed by the Moslem chiefs for the sword, made in Florence, Mussolini found himself obliged to make up a deficit of 30,000 lire. This one comes from Paris".

• How Much Cash To Get Married?

(Sault Ste. Marie Star)

"THE MAN I marry must be earning between $125 and $150 a month," a majority of Sault girls told a reporter in answer to a query on the subject of how much should a man be earning before he gets married. "He must have money in the bank to buy furniture and other necessities, and he must have insurance."

Some girls had much bigger ideas. They were girls who have never worked themselves. Girls who are working now seem to think they can manage very well if the prospective bridegroom is earning from $100 upwards.

What do men think? Well, they won't talk as easily as girls will and their ideas, are high . . . until they meet the right girl . . . and then they drop considerably. One young man, who has a lady waiting, says he will not marry until the day comes when he is making $300, a month and has $3000 in the bank. His future wife is going to have a long wait. Others said it depends on the girls a lot, what she is used to, and if she is willing to start from the bottom as it were, and work up. They told us they'd get married when they were making $150 or more. They're sure they could save money on that too.

A miss, whom we are quite sure is contemplating marriage, said she wouldn't think of marriage until the better half is earning $200 or more a month. "Why we'd have to live in a small apartment, sit at home all the time, and not do any entertaining at all on any less," she said. Another girl told us that people can live on $80 a month although she does think from $100 to $150 is better. "You can't save money on $80 a month but you can on a little more," she ventured.

Each girl we asked got into quite a discussion on the subject. They all said they could get married on $100 a month, but said they, think of insurance, which is really a necessity, amusements, food, rent and the many little extra items that always crop up . . . Dentist and doctor bills which must be paid. Then there's a family . . . yes, they thought of that too . . . and said money had to be saved for it . . . so, $125 a month would look better to them.

As sort of a wind-up we conversed with a couple of young housewives, and they had some sound advice and ideas. The girls with the big ideas will change them suddenly they said. If young married couples today have everything and nothing to look forward too, life is dull they think.

"Why I get the biggest kick out of buying the odd piece of furniture when I know we have saved for it and can afford it," one said. "We appreciate everything we get now so much more too."

Every time this Mrs. walks into her home, she says she has the grandest feeling to think that it is all theirs and all purchased on an average salary. They don't deny themselves anything either .... have as much fun and as many good times as anyone .... and yet they save money....

Boys and girls who have ideas of large salaries, large bank accounts and lots of insurance before they get married, won't be married till they are old men and women these two told us . . . Men aren't receiving salaries such as those nowadays.

MUSICAL NIGHT STICKS.

(Commentator)

NEW YORK City policemen carry a night stick 22 inches long, made of locust wood. Locust is no heavier or tougher than other woods that could have been selected, but it has a distinctive ring to it rivaled by no other wood.

A policeman on a night beat has to be able to get hold of his sidekick on the beat on an instant's notice in case he gets into a jam. A police whistle is all right, only too many kids are blowing them around and a cop can't be perfectly sure whether he's wanted or not when he hears one.

But no policeman ever mistakes the ring of a locust night stick when it's dropped on the pavement. He can hear it for 10 blocks and he'll come on the run every time.

NO MORE VERANDAHS.

(London Free Press)

WE TOOK A stroll down some new streets in London the other day. There was a lot of new and modernistic houses with starnge architecture. But what struck us particularly was the disappearance of the old-fashioned verandah. It seems to be regarded as Victorian as the crinoline and the bustle. A house with a verandah is outdated.

The verandah was largely an invention of this continent. English houses seldom have verandahs. The verandah vogue was probably started in New York and the fashion spread to the Middle West and Ontario. The verandah was a friendly place, where the family could sit out, and the children play and neighbors gather.

But today people go car-riding in the evening; they do not take time for leisurely rocking on the verandah; children rush to movies and as for neighbors, well neighborliness in cities at least has largely disappeared. People do not know their neighbors and do not care.

A NEW YORK JUDGE.

(New York World-Telegram)

SUPREME COURT Justice Algeron I. Nova's contention that, despite his $25,000-a-year salary, his "personal position and leadership in philanthropic work" would not permit him to pay his creditors more than $2,500 a year toward meeting his $381,000 debts, has encountered a sharply differing opinion from another justice of the same court.

Supreme Court Justice James T. Hallinan ruled last week that Justice Nova must pay his creditors $5,000 a year. Personal position, leadership and budget will therefore have to adjust themselves, as in the case of less exalted persons, to the claim of just debts.

Justice Nova's attitude toward his financial plight, quite as much as the nature and causes of the plight itself, calls, we still think, for investigation.

A judge more conscious of his "position" than of his debts seems to us of doubtful fitness for dealing out justice to plain citizens.

EXPLAINING IT.

(The Commonweal)

I DO NOT know if the following anecdote was born in Italy or Germany, it circulates in both countries, passed from mouth to mouth, but only between people who know each other well, and in great secrecy.

"Daddy", asked a small boy, "what is the difference between Socialism, and Fascism?"

"It's like this, son, we have four cows. Socialism will take two from us, for the community. Communism takes all four, and pays you a wage for the work you do. The cows go to make up a bigger herd. Fascism leaves you all four cows, but it does all the milking."

INSISTED ON KNOWING.

(Editor and Publisher)

THE CITY editor of a large eastern paper was telling the circulation manager of a new feature the paper had purchased, the life story of a prominent American.

"It's an autobiography," explained the city editor.

"Who wrote it?" asked the circulation manager in all seriousness.

"I've just said it's an autobiography," insisted the city editor.

But the C. M. didn't get it: "I'd like to know who wrote it!"

"All right," said the C. E., "gather in close and I'll tell you what an autobiography is." And he did.

British War Minister Gains Popularity In Army "Purge"

Hore - Belisha Mentioned As Future Prime Minister Of Great Britain

By DICK HALVORSEN
Central Press Canadian Correspondent.

LONDON, April 16.—As a result of his virtual "purge" of the British army high command, and the popularity of his revolutionary changes in the army, Minister of War Leslie Hore-Belisha today is being mentioned as a "second Disraeli" and a probable future prime minister of England.

Breaking the age-old British army tradition of basing promotion on seniority, Hore-Belisha advanced 51-year-old Gen. Sir John "Tiger" Gort over 30 generals to chief of staff, put younger men in the most responsible positions on the army council. He based his promotions on merit and the need for younger blood.

Long a Member of Parliament.

Hore-Belisha has been a member of parliament since 1923, representing the constituency of Devonport. So popular has he been that in 1929, when Liberals in all parts of the country were defeated, Liberal Hore-Belisha increased his majority 10 times.

Leslie Hore-Belisha

No one knows when Hore-Belisha was born, and he himself refuses to tell. The British "Who's Who" lists him as being born in 1898, while Dod's parliamentary handbook gives his date of birth as 1895. Debrett's and Whitaker's both give different dates.

His whimsy of not revealing his age once brought this remark from a fellow-parliamentarian:

"Horse-Belisha changes his age as readily as some politicians change their party."

Flowery Speaker.

After a public-school education, Hore-Belisha entered Clifton College, spent most of his time debating. A flowery speaker, he used to stuff himself with grapes before he talked because somewhere he read that Pitt, the great orator, used to drink wine before delivering a speech. Hore-Belisha thought the grapes would have the same effect.

He left Clifton to fight in the World War, won the rank of major, and was mentioned several times in dispatches. After the armistice, he became the first president of the Oxford Union, the university's debating society, and became well-known for his flashy rhetoric.

He then took a nine-month course at the Sorbonne in Paris, went on to study six more months at Heidelberg. He returned to take his Master of Arts degrees at Oxford.

Had Versatile Education.

Hore-Belisha had a versatile education, but he decided to take up the study of law in London. He was admitted to the bar at last, and in 1923 made up his mind that he was going to enter parliament.

Devonport was the constituency he chose. With less than two weeks to stump, he managed to impress the people of Devonport to the extent that they elected him over Sir Clement Cooke, a Consrvative who was an old hand at campaigning.

Immediately he began to make himself felt in the House of Commons, if only because he made more speeches, and asked more questions than most members. He caught the attention of Publisher Lord Beaverbrook, who selected him to write a political gossip column in the Daily Express, and a Londoner's Diary in the Evening Standard.

New Party Aids Career.

Hore-Belisha's career was accelerated by the formation of the Nationalist party in 1931. From this party emerged a group known as the Liberal National party which secured cabinet positions out of all proportions to their numbers. Although Hore-Belisha himself did not get a cabinet post, he was the instrument which brought about their appointments.

He was made secretary of the treasury in 1932, and in 1934 became minister of transport, but it was not until 1935 that the ambitious Jewish parliamentarian became a member of the privy council, the goal he had been steering towards for years.

As minister of transport his reputation spread through England. Literally, his name was on every Englishman's lips — because of a master-stroke of publicity.

He designed a traffic-crossing signal which was to be placed at dangerous intersections in every town, village and hamlet in England as part of a safety crusade. Newspapermen dubbed them "Belisha-beacons," and the name stuck. Consequently, everyone in England, although the ignorant may know little of his political career, has heard the name Belisha.

Spurred Army Enlistments.

It is believed by most, however, that as minister of war, his department and he required publicity because of the problem of recruiting. Enlistments had been falling down before Hore-Belisha took over the secretaryship of war, and with the international situation as it was he felt he had to popularize the army. He succeeded, and enlistments leaped.

Defiant of Criticism.

Hore-Belisha is completely defiant of criticism, impulsively doing things that cause adverse comment. When the announcements of the new changes in the army were made, the effect was that of a bombshell. He had uprooted tradition by his quick advancement of "Tiger" Gort. It is now rumored that he will make many further changes which will base promotions on merit rather than seniority or, in the case of commissions, on merit rather than social and educational rank.

In spite of the fact that he was in complete control of traffic regulations in England for two years, he does not drive a car. He prefers riding horseback, and spends his vacations riding, fishing, golfing and skiing. He earns, as war minister, $25,000 a year.

Has Had Meteoric Rise.

Overwhelmingly ambitious, his rise has been meteoric. He is now in a position where the leap is not long to the prime minister's job. His brilliance, loyalty and industry are unquestioned, and they do not suffer because of his ambitions. His rapid and decisive actions have captured the public imagination.

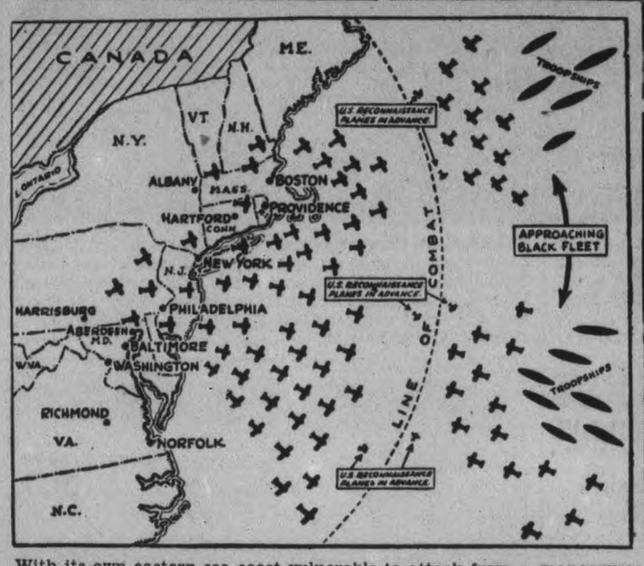
Canada Watches U.S. Defense Manoeuvres On Atlantic Coast



With its own eastern sea coast vulnerable to attack from enemy naval forces, Canada will watch manoeuvres being held this week by the U. S. army air corps in defence of the New England coast with much interest. Answering criticism by New England Congressmen that the north eastern coast is not adequately protected from attack of enemy fleets, 200 crack aeroplanes of the corps will take to the air in manoeuvres designed to demonstrate that the coast can be defended by the air force, without the aid of the navy, if necessary. The latest and most modern ships, such as the Boeing pursuit aeroplanes, top LEFT, will be used in the manoeuvres. Approximately 500 officers and 2,500 men are taking part in the "defence" of the coast and these three expert air fighters, top RIGHT, are shown standing by their combat ship awaiting word from scout aeroplanes that the "enemy" has been sighted. When this word is flashed to them the combat ship's crews will leap to their places and race to the spot designated by the scout aeroplanes, where they will play havoc with the "enemy" by dropping huge aerial bombs, such as are shown being loaded, lower RIGHT. The diagrammatic map, lower LEFT, shows the positions that the defending air force will take.

500,000 Chinese Coolies Build Jap Line In Record Time

Lay 140-Mile Military Road With 12 Tunnels, 400 Bridges, 5 Switchbacks In 6 Months

By J. D. White
(Associated Press Foreign Staff.)

PEIPING, China, May 16 (A.P.).—A new railroad that can serve valuable military purposes has been stretched by Japan from Manchoukuo to this centre of her North China conquests with breakneck speed.

The line, built in six months since Japanese troops overran North China, links this ancient capital with Changteh, capital of Jehol Province.

It is 140 miles long and hurdles some of the steepest mountains in North China, using the switchback technique developed a quarter-century ago by the Chinese builders of the Peiping-Suiyuan Railroad. It is estimated to have cost $12,000,000.

Trains began operating on April 1, but engineers estimate [illegible] must pass before the line reaches its peak of military efficiency.

Japanese authorities say they employed almost 500,000 Chinese coolies to dig the railroad's 12 tunnels, build its 400 bridges, and five mountain switchbacks.

Strictly Military Road.

They acknowledge that the line has no economic value, as the interior of Jehol contains few minerals or agricultural products. Experts, howeevr, believe the railroad can fill three important military demands.

First was the pressing need for another railway link between Manchoukuo and North China to help feed Japan's enormous army in Central China. The Japanese already had two separate supply lines into the Peiping and Tientsin area from the north.

In the event of war with Soviet Russia, the new line would be of vital value as it is the last link in a 1,000-mile railroad chain connecting Peiping with Tsitsihar in Northwestern Manchoukuo-Outer Mongolia border.

The line's third military advantage is the shorter route it affords between Manchoukuo and Inner Mongolia, which Japanese also believe is endangered by possible Russian attack from Outer Mongolia.

PROPERTY SALES AT CAMPBELLFORD

CAMPBELLFORD, May 16.—Several sales of property have been made during the past two weeks, according to T. L. Diamond, realtor through whose office the deals were handled.

F. J. R. Douglas was the purchaser of the solid brick dwelling on the west side of Front street occupied by L. A. Burbank, the vendor. Mr. Douglas will take possession on June 1 and will conduct his law practice, using one of the downstairs rooms as an office. Although the purchase price was not revealed the property is valued at $3,000.

Mrs. Joseph Dolman was the vendor of the building known as the Dolman block and containing a store on the ground floor and apartments above. The property is situated on the south side of Bridge street and is valued at $3,000. The name of the purchaser was not revealed.

Mrs. Samuel Moore was the vendor and L. A. Burbank the purchaser of the two storey frame dwelling on the south side of Sebastopol street. The house contains six rooms and bath and is situated on a lot 50 by 132 containing a one-car garage. Mr. Burbank will take possession on June 1.

James Grills has purchased the farm located on the English Line, Lot 16, Concession 4, Seymour township, from Owen Hoey. The farm includes one hundred acres of land with barn and frame dwelling. The purchase price was not stated.

Mayor Long Stands By Legal Holiday

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, May 16 — Campbellford citizens will do their Victoria Day celebrating on Tuesday may 24, so far as Mayor F. F. Long is concerned. He told the Examiner in an interview on Saturday that although he favored the idea of the Monday holiday it could only be feasible if the plan was nationally adopted. Although unable to speak for the rest of the council the Mayor felt certain they would concur in this opinion. The matter will be disposed of by the council at a special meeting scheduled for Monday (tonight) when the petition signed by local business men will be presented and given formal consideration.

Misses Nellie and Irene Davidson of Toronto visited their parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Davidson, Mill street during the weekend.

CHALLENGES NIAGARA

PITTSBURGH—(CP).—Dr. Harold J. Rose, coal researcher, declares the total energy released by Niagara Falls in an hour can be matched by the burning of eight carloads of anthracite coal.

A JEWEL MYSTERY

VILEFRANCHE-SUR-MER, May 16—(CP Havas).—Police faced a mystery today centring around jewels worth 1,000,000 francs ($28,000) and blood-stained feminine garments found in the railway station of this Mediterranean resort. They were identified as property of a foreign traveller named Edith Rosenheim, who debarked last Sunday from the Italian liner Conte di Savoia.

WEEKEND MISHAPS COST LIVES OF FIVE

TORONTO, May 16.—(CP—Three persons met death in motorcar accidents and two were drowned in week-end fatalities in Ontario.

The Minister of Highways, Hon. T. B. McQuesten, issued an appeal for a "safe and sane" week-end next Sunday, which precedes the May 24 holiday. The minister announced his department will conduct a campaign toward cutting down deaths and injuries during the holiday week-end.

Yesterday Harry Smith, 23, and Fred Miller, 17, were drowned when their canoe capsized a mile from shore in Kempenfeldt Bay near Barrie. Seven small boys in a rickety old punt gave Toronto lifesavers a scare as they crossed Toronto Bay but all landed safely.

Frank Farrell, a Caledonia farmer, died at Hamilton from injuries received when struck by a bus. Gerald Rodney, 15, was killed at Sarnia when struck by a car as he was riding his bicycle.

12 BRIDE PROSPECTS

WINDSOR, Ont., May 16—(CP).—Twelve letters, received by Mayor E. S. Wigle from young women expressing a desire to meet the London youth "with $13,000 who is seeking a wife," were sent to the lad to-day. The would be bridegroom wrote Mayor Wigle several days ago asking aid in finding a bride and noted that he had found London girls hard to get acquainted with.

2 BARRIE YOUTHS SINK FROM CANOE

BARRIE, Ont., May 16.—(CP).—Dragging continued for the bodies of Harry Payne Smith, and Fred Hugh Miller, 17, drowned in Kempenfeldt Bay when their canoe overturned a mile from shore. A stiff offshore breeze hampered attempts at rescue when the youths lost their hold on their capsized craft.

The tragedy occurred yesterday when the Barrie youths rented the canoe from Cliff Carley and set out into the lake. It was believed neither was able to swim.

They cried for help and attracted the attention of Mrs. John Moth and her son-in-law, Reg. Garrett. With Carley and a Toronto garageman, Garrett went to the rescue in a row boat, but the wind blocked them and before they arrived the youths had gone under.

The paddles, several cushions and two coats floated near the overturned canoe. Dragging operations were carried on until nightful, but without avail.

Outer Air Defense Planned

Legislation is before the United States' Congress to provide for a vast seaplane fleet to cover the Pacific for about 5,600 miles north and south. With the main base at Pearl Harbor, other bases, under naval plans, would be established as shown ABOVE. The northernmost would be at Kodiak and Dutch Harbor, off Alaska. To the south, 1,600 miles from Dutch Harbor, would be another with a third at Wake Island, another 1,000 miles. In the South Pacific there would be a base at Canton Island, 1,800 miles from Wake, and a final one at Pago Pago, 700 miles further on.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

JUST FOR FUN we looked up the first first column we ever wrote for The Examiner. To see what sport we were raving about then. It was back in '31—which puts us on this job seven years. by golly!—on March 10th. We had drifted back to the old home town after a spell of roving and tried to persuade the city editor that The Examiner needed a good reporter—meaning us, of course. He was a tough hombre to sell anything to, but after much strain on the tonsils we finally got him to agree to let us use a typewriter and drop in and out of the office—getting space rates (so much an inch) for anything we wrote that he thought was worth publishing. It was slim pickings, too, as we found the general news well covered. So we veered to sports, finding a fertile field uncovered in the minor sports. First thing we were making so much on space rates, he gave us a regular job with a salary, and told us to stick to sports.

* * * * * *

WELL, we began writing a sports column in March and a pretty hammy effort it was, too. Dull, brief and amateurish. With a silly heading something about sports with knocks and boosts for everyone. But folks hadn't been getting a sports column here for quite a spell and they went for it. And we gradually learned to give 'em the sort of stuff they wanted. At least we think so. Quite a bit of water has rolled under the Hunter St. bridge since 1931. We have had one depression end for a few glorious years and another one start. There was no lacrosse, senior ball, boxing, pro rasslin' or gals' softball in Peterborough then. The O.H.A. wouldn't look at a professional and the Amateur Union ruled the world of sports with an iron hand and a narrow mind. What a change now!

* * * * * *

HOWEVER, to get back to what we started on, we found that the first column we wrote in The Examiner concerned boxing mainly. They were just starting to revive it in a small way. We remarked: "Boxing should hold a bigger place in the spotlight now that hockey has faded from the picture. A few students of the sour science are taking lessons at the "Y" but a large number are learning how to handle their dukes over at the Armouries twice a week. Gord Garwood is the instructor and he expects a bigger turnout from now on. Boxing tournaments may be arranged in a month or so and possibly some of the Toronto boxers may be invited down." And so on.

* * * * * *

YEAH, since we were knee-high to a mud turtle we always liked boxing. Tried it a bit at one time but found leading with the chin didn't get one anywhere but down among the daisies. Still, fighting is as much a part of man today as it ever was and you can't call it uncivilized without insulting the British Government and all the war vete rans. Not to mention the Messrs. Hitler and Mussolini of today's European picture! And we hold that it is far better to fight with your fists in a ring, using decent rules and a referee, than the murderous thing called war. However, that's beside the point and sounds too much like preaching for a mere sports scribe. We are glad to see that boxing is still going on here and glad that there have been many fight cards staged in Peter's borough during our time on this pillar.

* * * * * *

GORD GARWOOD promoted pugilistic shows for awhile. There were several good stables at one time in the past seven years here. Foster's A.C., Cowan's Club, Alpha and so on. Lots of good local boys developed, some of 'em still trading punches. Others took a whirl at it and later dropped out. A flock of fine fisticuffers from Toronto showed here, as well as Belleville and Lindsay scrappers. Yeah, we've had a lot of good boxing. We liked the game then, and we like it now. We have a mitt show here the end of May.

FRANK RANDLE, skipper of the local lacrossers, announces the practice sessions this week at the George St. arena. The gang will workout Tuesday and Thursday nights at six bells, and on Saturday after lunch at 2.30 o'clock. Some definite word on a grouping should be lined up this week as it'll soon be time to start slinging the apple around with the webbed weapons in scheduled struggles. Maybe a good exhibition fray will be arranged to put the Petes on their mettle. If Mick Magee plays for Orillia Terriers this season, t he locals will miss him muchly, as Magee was one of the three or four better players on the squad. Dunno if Dit Clapper will be seeing any action here this summer. He'd be a popular performer.

WALKING in backwards, so they'd think he was just leaving, our Operative 17 snuck a slant at the Scugog softball damsels over the week-end and reports they look sweet. Neglects to say where, in the moonlight or on the diamond. Pitchers include Jean Corley, Marion McCabe and Jean Hickson, the latter an Omemee southpaw. Edith Campbell is the catcher. Infield looks like Dot Botting on first. Marg Mackey at the keystone, Mabel Campbell holding down the hot corner, and Fern Marks. Outfield will consist of. in all probability, Dint Lees, Leula Abercrombie of Omemee and maybe a pitcher. They might have a few others in the lineup, also. Pete Stephenson is the pilot, and the Lindsay lasses open their schedule this Friday at home against our Westclox crew.

* * * * * *

THE PETES, who open the C.O.B.L. schedule here a week from tomorrow, had a good workout Saturday in Riverside with the juniors. Kitchen and Whitehill pitched for a time. Calladine was present but didn't go on the diamond. Starr didn't show up. Fred Ash and Cliff Cadd alternated at first and we are glad to see Ash still interested. Can't say if he intends to forget retirement or not this season and give the game one more whirl but he dug a few out of the dirt Saturday with that colorful nonchalance that has featured his fielding for years. Cadd is coming along pretty fair at the initial sack, too. Tommy Foley, former local star, now with Oshawa, gave the locals the once-over from the sidelines.

Peterborough Cricket Club Opens Season With Victory

The English game of cricket, which some people say is catching the fancy of more and more Canadian sportsmen, opened its 1938 season in Peterborough on Saturday when the Peterborough Cricket Club took a decisive victory from Grove School cricketers at Nicholls Oval.

(1) The two captains shake hands to start the season.

At LEFT is A. Stewart, captain of the Grove School. F. Dyer heads the Peterborough squad. (2) R. Harris of the Grove School was lucky in this shot when he missed the bowled ball, which bounded on to knock his wicket down. The "out" was disallowed because players felt the presence of a cameraman was possibly too great a strain on the batsman.

GROVE SCHOOL PUPILS BEATEN BY 38-36 COUNT

The Peterborough Cricket Club opened the season at the Oval Saturday with the first of their annual matches against Grove school. A low scoring match resulted in a win for the club by 2 runs. On Wednesday, May 18, Grove will play a return match with Whitakers at the Oval. Start at 4.30. Score and analysis:

GROSSINGER'S LAKE, N.Y., May 16—(AP).—This is one of those old time, friendly training camps... The beautiful spot where Barney Ross is prepping for Henry Armstrong reminds you of Loch Sheldrake, near where Jimmy Braddock got ready to win the title from Baer; of Grand Beach, Mich., where Jim prepared for his losing battle with Joe Louis and of beautitful Saratoga where Jack Dempsey was a regular at old Tom Luther's place.

Here the latch string is out... Newspaper men, their telegraphers and almost everyone else is free to come and go, any time....Quite different from the Schmeling camps where Max buries himself far away from the centre of things except for the 10 minutes he grants the press after each workout.

Barney Ross laughs off reports from Chicago that he'll quit after this bout, win, lose or draw...I'm just beginning to make real money," he says....First thing after knocking out Mann, Tony Galento visited Jim Braddock's place...A waiter passed around a tray of beer...Our hero took two and downed them in four gulps.

Ross was cheered when Jimmy (Bow-Tie) Bronson flatly predicted he would knoc kout Armstrong May 26. . . Bronson, one of boxin's shrewdest judges of condition, visited camp yesterday....After watching Barney step through six fast rounds with three sparring partners he went right out to the end of the limb for the champion.

"He's the smartest fighter in the world to-day, white or colored," said Bronson....."Unquestionably he's the smartest hitter in his division and proves his smartness in his anticipation of the other fellow's moves . . . And he is tops in putting his opponent in a disadvantageous position....I'll say for the record that Ross will knock Armstrong out and that he'll do it with his right uppercut....He's more of a champion today than ever before."

Lawn Bowling

By HERB MARTIN

"FROM BOWLER TO BOWLER."

One week from to-morrow, weather permitting, the 1938 lawn bowling season will be officially open. Full particulars will be published later.

There are several reasons we could think of that force us to believe that we are going to enjoy one of the best season's bowling in the club's history. Maybe we're a little too optimistic in our views, but after being in close touch with some of the committees for the past six months, and also by keeping our ears to the ground, we are firmly convinced that we are right.

Our first reason is that we are going to have a bigger membership than ever before, thanks to the membership committees under Mrs. L. Campbell and H. Clegg.

Our second reason is that of the greatly improved conditions of our greens under the supervision of the greens committee, with B. Chesler as chairman.

And our third reason is an account of the heavy program of activities as arranged by the games committee, with R. Hendry, chairman and that of the open tournament committee, with J. Fitzpatrick as chairman.

We could go on at great length and give you more information, but you will have to wait until you get your 1938 schedule book. We expect to have them for distribution on Saturady, May 21st.

Racing Action In The English Manner

Every muscle tensed, these two horses are roaring down the stretch at the Kempton Park track, England, with a mutual objective, to cature the Queen's Prize. Senor, ridden by Jockey Crouch. is nearest the camera while up on Bendex, the other horse is Gordon Richards, England's greatest jockey. Note the two riders as their steeds race close together. Disappointment awaited neither at the finish, the race ending in a dead heat.

BOSTON RED SOX TOP AMERICAN LOOP, DEFEAT SENATORS 4-3

Grove And Foxx Combination Mainly Responsible For Sox Advance To The Lead Place

Veteran Southpaw Scatters 13 Washington Hits—Sox Lead By 1 1-2 Games

NEW YORK, May 16 (CP).—It was a long time coming, but the way things are moving now, it begins to look as though Tom Yawkey has finally hit the jackpot after tossing all those millions into his Boston Red Sox.

Heading westward for their first swing 'round the circuit, the team Yawkey put together by turning over huge wads of cash to Connie Mack and various other ivory dealers here and there, are in first place in the American League and sporting an eight-game winning streak.

So far this spring, everything Yawkey has touched over the last several seasons is turning to gold all at once. Everyone's doing his part in the drive. Five of the regulars are hitting better than .300; the pitchers are clicking.

But you don't have to go far to find the chief factors in the recent successes. They lie in the aging but still agile left arm known as Robert Moses Grove, and the long-range cannon known as James Foxx, both graduates of the University of Mack (Shibe Park, Philadelphia).

Greatest Southpaw.

Take Lefty, for instance. He was 38 last March. But he's still the greatest southpaw elbower this generation has produced. He hasn't his speed any more, but he's pitching with his stuff and his brains, and is the No. 1 American League flinger with an undefeated run of six straight victories. He chalked up No. 6 yesterday by a 4-3 margin over Washington Senators, and is well on the road to his most successful campaign since his 31-game championship year back in 1932.

Then there's Foxx. What he's doing to American League pitchers this season is a caution. To date, he's hitting a mere .364, is the big league's leading home run hitter with eight round-trip wallops. But the most amazing product of his pounding is the fact that he's driven 39 runs over in 23 games, nearly twice as many as anyone else in either league. If he could keep up his present rate, he'd have batted about 260 across by the end of the season. (And the major league record is only 190).

Good Chance For Title.

All in all, what with the champion New York Yankees, Detroit Tigers and Cleveland Indians showing signs of monkey-wrenches-in-the-machinery, the diamond studded Sox may wind up as the surprise package of the year.

Through yesterday's defeat, the Senators dropped to fourth place in the league standings, and the Yankees and Indians, whose games with Philadelphia and Chicago were rained out, advanced to a tie for second. In the only other American League game, Oral Hildebrand allowed two hits for five innings and St. Louis Browns beat the Tigers 4-1 in a tilt cut short by rain.

Chicago Cubs dropped their second overtime decision in a row to Pittsburg Pirates, with Johnny Dickshot's single in the 11th sending the winning run across for a 4-3 Buc victory. The Cardinals also went into overtime before nipping Cincinnati Reds 12-11 on Pepper Martin's pinch single in the 10th.

Boston's Bees exploded a three-home-run punch and trounced the Dodgers 10-7. The Giants and Phillies were rained out for the second straight day.

Yanks In 1-1 Deadlock.

The Yanks and Athletics played a 1-1 deadlock Saturday, while Boston won 10-9 from the Senators and rain spoiled the Chicago-Cleveland and St. Louis-Detroit games.

In the National League Saturday Cincinnati lost 7-6 to St. Louis in 10 innings and Brooklyn won 10-2 from Boston Bees.

Sailors consider it good luck to have an anchor tattooed on their arms.

TORONTO, May 16.—Within the next few days, Rochester fans may be able to decide if the Red Wings will be among the real contenders in the International League, when and if St. Louis Cardinals provide them a little assistance.

The Red Wings face Newark Bears in a series which opens to-day, weather permitting. And like any other club that plays the Bears, they have to show whether they're good enough to perform in the same league.

Rochester's last pair of games against Jersey City Giants was rained out yesterday along with the rest of the league program, but during last week's brief action the Wings won four of five games and once were as high as fourth place.

To-day the Red Wings are sixth, but only two games behind the second-place Buffalo Bisons. If they can make any sort of showing against the Bears, now 4½ games ahead of their field, it should move them up a notch or two in the standings as well as show they are due to be factors in the pennant chase. They lost three out of four when they visited Newark a couple of weeks ago.

Toronto Maple Leafs took both ends of a double-header from Baltimore Saturday, 12-6 and 7-5, while Montreal won 3-2 from Newark and Jersey City defeated Rochester 5-3. Buffalo lost 8-6 to Syracuse.

HINES RETAINS N.Y. GOLF TITLE

NEW YORK, May 16.— (AP). — Jimmy Hines of Great Neck, N.Y., weathered heavy rain on the Fresh Meadow Country Club course Saturday to win the Metropolitan Open golf championship for the second straight year, with a 72-hole total score of 287.

Hines did more than merely repeat his 1937 victory. In a faster field, playing over a more difficult layout, with all of the last round played in the rain, he finished with a score only one stroke higher than Gene Sarazen's 286 that won the 1932 United States Open title on the same course.

Hines' closing rounds of 73 and 72, five over par, brought him home three strokes in front of Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W.Va., who started the day's play with 145 to Hines' 142.

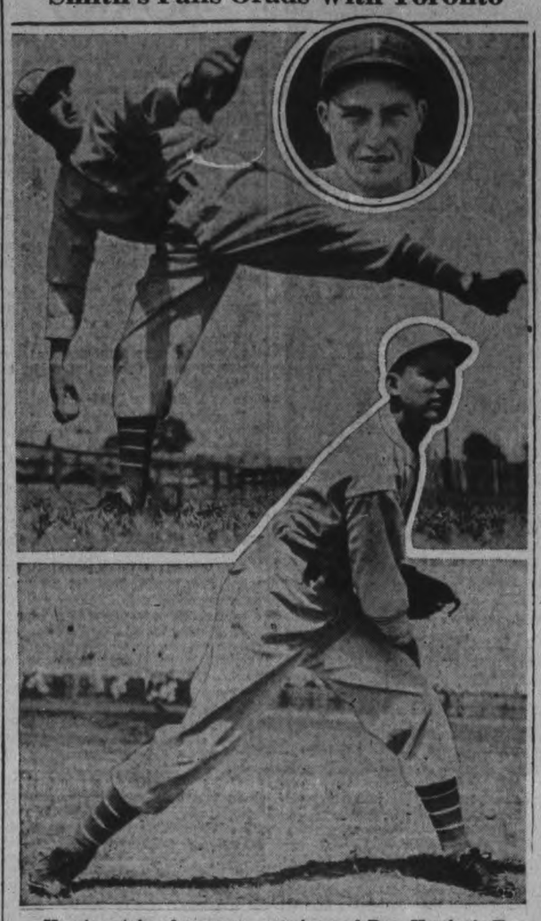
Edmonton Grads Sweep Cage Series

EDMONTON, May 16 (C.P.). — Victors in three straight games over Chicago All-Stars in their first defence this year of the Underwood Women's International Basketball Trophy, Edmonton's famous Grads expect only one more immediate challenge—from Cleveland Fisher Foods.

Grads swept the Chicago series with a 40-31 victory on Saturday night before a crowd of 3,500. Coach Percy Page's great team took the first two games of the best-of-five series 40-33 and 42-46.

After the final win Page announced the Cleveland series would open here on May 24, and that no further challenges were in prospect.

Smith's Falls Grads With Toronto



Here's a trio of younger members of Dan Howley's Toronto Maple Leafs in the International League. All three played for Smiths Falls in the Canadian-American loop last year. Slinging the sphere in the top picture is Walter Lan Franconi, a pitcher, and the youngest member of Howling Dan's outfit. Born in Vermont 20 years ago Walter stands five feet nine and throws a mean fast ball. BELOW is George Klivak, another moundsman, who has seen 22 years roll by and during that time has climbed up over the six feet mark. Another six footer is Al Smith, INSET, who batted over .300 last year, while playing second base. He's been no easy meat for pitchers this year either.

DANGER POINT SCORES UPSET

NEW YORK, May 15.—(AP).—J. D. Norris's Danger Point, a 15 to 1 shot, shocked the form of followers over the week-end by romping off wit hthe $7,500 added eMtropolitan Handicap at Belmont Park.

Under a vigorous ride by Eddie Arcaro, the 4-year-old son of Stimulus came with a rush in the stretch, overhauled the Wheatley Stable's Fading Snark and won by a length. Snark, the odds-on choice, lasted long enough to save place money from Mrs. E. D. Jacob's fast-closing Caballero 2nd.

Danger Point ran the mile in 1:38 and earned $8,450 for his owner.

Competing over the jumps for the second time in his career, Red Rain, owned by Gwladys Whitney, won the forty-first running of the International Steeplechase.

Making his first start of the year, Red Rain closed with a rush to beat the Brookmeade Stable's National Anthem by a length. The Greentree Stable's Jungle King was third.

PACKER SOCCER TEAM DEFUNCT

No information has been received from the Canada Packers about their intention of entering a team in the league. For many years they were the league champions and travelled throughout the province contesting outside teams, giving Peterborough an excellent advertisement with their sportsmanship, and only having one defeat during that period.

Many soccer players were out practising on Saturday afternoon on King Edward Park and Brinton Athletic Grounds in preparation for the opening game of the season next Saturday afternoon. This evening in the Chamber of Commerce Rooms the draw for the opening game will take place. The Canadian General, Brinton Athletic, C.C.F., and Deloro will be the teams for the season.

Joe Bolton has been out practising with the Electric boys for the position of goalkeeper. Bill Curtis will be inactive for the greater part of the season because of his recent operation.

Many fans will regret to hear that Jack McMaster will only be a spectator this year, after being one of the most outstanding players of the code and a member of the C.C.F. executive, but his advisory ability on the executive board will be of great advantage to the game.

Players and prospective competitors not associated with any team in the city will receive a hearty welcome at Brinton Athletic Grounds to-night for a practice game at 6.00 o'clock.

Deloro has notified the Association that they will be at the meeting to-night to make final arrangements for the year and desire the services of a city fan to take care of their interests on the executive board.

It is expected that the Parks Committee of the City Council will have the dressing-rooms in readiness for the opening game on Saturday.

The Canadian General team have been out practising every night lately for the game scheduled for May 24 on King Edward Park at 2.30 p.m.

Touring Cricket 11 Blank Calgary Team

CALGARY, May 16.—(CP).—Islington Corinthians, world-touring English soccer team, defeated a Calgary all-star squad, 3 to 0, here Saturday night. The tourists led, 2 to 0, at half time.

J. Braithwaite, playing inside right for the English amateurs, opened the scoring 25 minutes after the start, and finished it with but a few minutes to go in the second half. The in-between tally came from Johnny Sherwood, who on a fast pass from W. Miller, beat Ronnie McKenzie, captain and goaler for Calgary.

The tourists play in Lethbridge today.

In 32 games the tourists have lost only five. In opening their Canadian tour in British Columbia they lost twice, won once and a fourth game was drawn.

Pam Barton Starts On Golf Comeback

BURNHAM-ON-SEA, Eng., May 16—(AP) —Pamelia Barton, owner of a sunny smile, red hair and freckles, is at the end of a year's illness and ready for a comeback.

The 21-year-old girl in 1936 held the British and United States women's golf championships. This week she opens her bid to regain both titles The British championship starts today, but Miss Barton already is in the third round. She drew a first-round bye and her second-round opponent, Nan Duncan, withdrew.

Miss Barton served notice of her comeback by winning the Women's Golf Challenge Cup this spring. She also paired with Alf Padgham to capture the British open foursome competition against a field of men.

Dauber Proves Ability In Mud With Easy Win In Preakness

Foxcatcher Farm Ace Has Seven-Length Margin In $50,000 Classic

BALTIMORE, May 16 — (CP). — Dauber, the horse that didn't start running in the Kentuck Derby until it was too late, found the shorter distance of the forty-eighth Preakness at Pimlico's rain-soaked course made to his order Saturday, and romped to an impressive victory.

Flying the sapphire blue and gold silks of William Du Pont Jr.'s Foxcatcher Farm, the chestnut son of Pennant-Ship O'War, second in the Derby, lived up to his reputation as a great mudder. He went to the post the 3-to-2 choice of the rain-soaked and chilled crowd of 25,000 and he didn't disappoint.

Under the guidance of Maurice (Moose) Peters, the Foxcatcher ace tossed slop and mud in the faces of eight worthy rivals, finishing the 1 3-16 mile of the United States turf's richest race for 3-year-olds with seven lengths to spare over Townsend B. Martin's Cravat, a rank outsider.

'Twas Tight Fit.

Hal Price Headley's Menow, the early pace-setter, as he was in the Derby, was third, losing runner-up honors by a nose, as Jack Westrope brought Cravat from far back in the final drive.

Backers of Dauber received $5 for each $2 invested in a win mutuel ticket, and Du Pont, of the Wilmington, Del., Du Ponts, pocketed $51,875 of the gross gate of $69,500.

The conditions were ideal for the mud-loving Dauber, but not for the crowd, which braved the worst weather since Nellie Morse won in 1924. A chilling rain started sweeping the course early in the morning and never let up.

Despite the sloppy track, Dauber stepped the distance in 1:59 4-5, only three seconds slower than the track record hung up by Pompoon in winning the Dixie Handicap Wednesday.

Winnipeg Fans Set For Boxing Series

WINNIPEG, May 16 (C.P.).—The stage is set for the Dominion amateur boxing championships here tonight and to-morrow. The out-of-town entry of 36 is reported largest in the events' history.

Fifty-two fighters, embracing the cream of the fistic crop from Vancouver to Saint John, N.B., will battle for the eight titles.

Only one Canadian champion, Welterweight Gordon Schmaltz of Kitchener, Ont., is defending his crown although Joey Gagnon, Montreal bantam, was flyweight titleholder a year ago. Twelve boxers give the welter division the largest entry.

WINNIPEG TO SEE DRAMA FESTIVAL

WINNIPEG, May 16 (CP)—The Dominion drama festival opens here tonight before the largest audience in festival history with three short plays as theatrical fare. The week-long festival is staged this year in Winnipeg for the first time since the competition took its present form.

Five previous festivals were held in Ottawa's little theatre with its capacity of 500. More than 1,800 drama-loving westerners will see the three regional winners on opening night in historic Walker Theatre, once one of the great theatres on the continent. Barrett H. Clark, Toronto-born New York critic is adjudicator.

Lord Tweedsmuir, Governor-General and his party will attend. The first play is by the Yorkton, Sask., Little Theatre. Festival officials said the honor was given the Yorkton group as tribute to their success in making a major contribution to the cultural life of Yorkton and district through their theatre work.

Yorkton entry is "a bite of the apple," by the English author, Vernon Sylvaine. Mrs. H. A. L. Portnuff, chose best actress in the Saskatchewan festival, carries the production in her role of Mrs. Charles Strephon, who uses drastic methods to end her husband's woman-chasing.

Toronto's theatre of action, one of the strongest acting groups in the Dominion, will play "Steel," a vigorous social document based on John L. Lewis' efforts to unionize the steel industry.

Beau Arts Society of Victoria conclude the night's varied entertainment with Noel Coward's "Hands Across the Sea."

ABERHART

It had already been demonstrated, said the Premier, "that there is wisdom in our so-called madness." He asked for a "free hand."

"If Ottawa disallows more legislation, it will be still more evident where the trouble lies which is causing the people such distress," he said.

"The fact of the matter is these blocking tactics at Ottawa, without doing anything itself, is rousing the people in all parts of Canada. Why should any Government refuse to do anything itself and then prevent another Government who can and will tackle the problem from doing it. All we ask is a fair break and an opportunity to prove our remedy. If we fail then the people will know the truth.

"If we succeed, then the people will be delivered from the terrible and tantalizing distress of poverty in the midst of abundance. All the blocking tactics in the world will not ultimately prevent the people in distress from demanding a fair test of social credit principles. I shall not be at all surprised to see Saskatchewan farmers in their distress stand up and demand a Social Credit Government."

VANCOUVER, May 16 (CP). — Canadian National System Federation of Shop Craft Unions, meeting in convention here, yesterday voted unanimously for establishment of a 40-hour week throughout shops of the system, effective June 1.

Federation officials said the action would mean staff reductions in many centres.

PROPOSES CHURCH BE GIVEN CHANCE

LINDSAY, May 16.—When the economist, the politician and the sociologist failed, then the church had a right to enter the arena and try to straighten out the tangle in which the world found itself today, Rev. J. B. Skene declared yesterday in his sermon at the one hundred and third anniversary celebrations of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

"Working Christians must find a happy medium in their economic, political and social activities," said the preacher, who is clerk of the Toronto Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church. "They should neither assert that the church should stick to preaching of the gospel and take no interest in these affairs whatsoever, nor claim that the church should govern these activities in their entirety."

"So-called Christians," who stored up "treasures on earth," to the detriment of their fellow-Christians, were flayed by the preacher.

No, he never had a large income—

ACQUAINTANCES wonder "how he did it." He always had just an average job—a moderate income—yet now, while still young enough to enjoy life, he can retire. He and his wife are taking a long trip. After that they'll settle where they like because they have an independent monthly income.

You do not have to have a large income in order to make a financial success of your life. If you have thirty, twenty, or even fifteen years of earning power ahead of you, you can be financially independent in your later years even on a moderate salary.

But you must have a saving plan that makes saving easy and sure. The Imperial Life offers such a plan. The advantage of The Imperial Life way over other methods of saving is that, by it you actually do save just what you plan. An Imperial Life policy adapted to your needs will provide for your dependents in case of your death, or for yourself after your retirement.

MAN SLUGGED OVER HEAD, ROBBED OF $52 ON LOUIS STREET

TWO BROTHERS FACING CHARGE OF ROBBING MAN

Charged before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning with robbery with violence, Joseph Ellis and Gordon Ellis brothers, were remanded until Tuesday morning without plea or election.

The two were arrested early Sunday morning by city police following a complaint from Morris McCarthy whose home is in Belleville that he had been attacked and robbed Saturday night.

Quit Job On Thursday

McCarthy who has been employed at the Canadian Nephelene mines north east of Stoney Lake until last Thursday quit his job and was paid off, coming to town on Friday en route to his home in Belleville. He declares that he had $52 in bills and some silver on his person when he was attacked Saturday night shortly after 9 o'clock by two men, slugged over the head and robbed. The alleged attack took place in a lane off Louis street, just south of Charlotte street and there were several eye-witnesses it is reported who tried to go to McCarthy's assistance but were too late.

When Officers Clark and Murphy arrived McCarthy, bleeding and badly dazed had been helped to a sitting position by several of the citizens who went to his aid. He had a cut over his eye and a large lump on the back of his head where he claims he was hit by a blackjack.

Serious Charge

Joseph Ellis was arraigned first and when the charge was read to him Magistrate Langley remarked, "You understand this is a very serious charge. The sentence can be life imprisonment and lashes."

Ellis did not reply and the magistrate added, "I notice you have no lawyer."

The accused said something about an adjournment until this afternoon but Magistrate Langley remarked he would remand him until Tuesday morning to give him a chance to consult counsel.

The same course was followed in the case of Gordon Ellis who asked if he could secure bail but Crown Attorney McElderry, K.C. entered an objection.

"The crown objects and I agree" said the Magistrate.

COMMITTEE CALLED TO MEET TUESDAY

The agricultural committee of the county council is going to devote Tuesday afternoon to a discussion of various subjects which properly come within its scope. Reeve James Gifford of Ennismore is chairman of this committee. The definite purpose of the meeting was not known in locally available links with the council, but Frank Paterson, agricultural representative, said he understood the committee intended to review the agricultural situation in Peterborough county.

During the last two years the county council has developed a new initiative in departing from their sessional routine, and some of the younger members, including Reeve Gifford, have indicated a conception of the duties of the county council that doesn't hesitate to leap over fences into fields where they are convinced the opinions and wishes of farmers should be expressed by their municipal representatives. It may be that the scope of this commitee meeting will be kept within narrow limits, but it is probable that some interesting topics may be listed on the agenda.

STOLE GROCERIES WHILE INTOXICATED

Charged with stealing groceries from Loblaw's on Saturday night John O'Brien, transient, declared indignantly in police court this morning that he would plead guilty to being drunk but not to stealing.

"I don't remember anything about Loblaw's or any other laws," he told Magistrate Langley. "I am getting to be an old man and I have never been guilty of stealing in my life."

"I am not trying you on a drunk charge," said the Magistrate, "you are charged with theft."

O'Brien a little while later decided that he would like to change his plea.

"I'll plead guilty," he said, "but I was awful drunk. If you let me go I'll get out of Peterborough and stay out."

"If you had been tried for drunkenness you would have got ten days anyway," said the Magistrate, "so I will make your sentence ten days in jail."

"Ten days will be all right," said the accused smilingly, as he was led below.

O'Brien had been arrested Saturday night by Inspector Reid.

RUNAWAY TEAM CRASHES INTO VAN

In an accident that was reminiscent of ante-automobile days Lawrence O'Toole, Bolivar street, driver for the Purity Bread Company, was badly shaken up and had several bones in his left foot broken Saturday afternoon. He is in St. Joseph's Hospital.

Frank Head of South Monaghan was driving a team of horses south on Aylmer street and as he neared the intersection of Rink street he says that the animals were startled by a passing bus. At all events they bolted and broke away from the wagon, tearing down the street at a mad gallop. In the next block O'Toole was driving his horse attached to a bread wagon when the runaway team crashed into the vehicle from behind and turned it over, the driver being caught beneath the wagon.

Head's horses were knocked off their feet by the impact and one of them on examination by Dr. A. Johnston, veterinary surgeon was found to have a fractured pelvis.

Luncheon and supper for the clergy will be served in the basement of the church.

Six Drunks Unable To Pay Their Fines

There was a field day of victims of the morning after feeling in police court this morning when half a dozen far-from-happy looking individuals solemnly pleaded guilty to being drunk over the week-end and heard themselves in turn assessed with a $10 and costs of $4.50 in each case.

Not one of them was able to pay the fine so that Col. T. D. Johnson will have six more boarders for the next 10 days.

Magistrate Langley, K.C., intimated that Monday mornings like today's session would have to be brought to an end and the fines and jail sentences stepped up to clean Peterborough's streets of drunken men.

After The Pickerel

The shore line of the Otonabee river was crowded on Saturday afternoon when fishermen tried their luck during the first day of the pickerel fishing. Every available spot along the river was taken early in the day and sportsmen stayed until late. They reported fishing good at daybreak, poor during the day. All along the cement pier at the locks in the south end of the city, scores were trying their luck. One group found the dam (1) a likely spot. While most fishermen were complaining about poor luck, veteran baitman Jesse Airriess (2) sat nonchalantly with his line in the water, his legal limit resting beside him. It was father and son day for Harold Rose, Otonabee street, and Jimmy Rose, 8 years old. The father is seen in (3) teaching his boy the intracies of pickerel fishing. Jimmy was an apt pupil. (4) This lady, who preferred to remain anonymous, was enjoying herself basking in the sunlight with a line in the water. Luck was not so good, she admitted.

Man Gets 10 Days On Begging Charge

John McLean was sentenced by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K. C. in police court this morning to 10 days imprisonment for begging to which he pleaded guilty although he told the magistrate that he would not have done it if he had not been drinking "a wee bit" too much.

He explained to the court that he had been on his way from Ottawa to Depot Harbor where he had worked the last three or four summers.

"I took the wrong train," he said.

"What did your ticket read?" asked the Magistrate.

"I didn't have a ticket, judge," McLean said with a broad smile. "I had to get up there the best way I could".

"I only begged from two cars," he added, "and I didn't get anything."

SKELETON UNEARTHED

ST. THOMAS, Ont., May 16—(CP)—A second skeleton was found on the Floyd Kipp farm in South Yarmouth and will probably lead to abandonment of the pit where sand is dug for use in the mental hospital being built near there. Earlier a previous human skelton was found with a horn affair that looked like a powder horn. Both skeltons are to be buried in a district cemetery. Coroner Dr. D. L. Ewin estimated that the bones of the first skeleton had been in the shallow grave for 75 years or more.

Man Found Asleep At Water's Edge Having Slipped Down River Bank

A TELEPHONE message received at the police station Sunday afternoon conveyed the startling information that there was a dead body in the river near the city dumping ground.

Hurriendly Officers Piercey and Clark rushed to the scene. They found that the report was correct—at least partially so. There was a body there all right but it was not all in the river and it was not that of a dead man—although just at that moment he was dead to the world.

The gentleman who had caused all the excitement had been celebrating not wisely but too well and he had wound up by deciding that he wanted to sleep.

When he picked the bank of the Otonabee for a bed however he was choosing a dangerous dormitory and he can thank his lucky stars that when he fell down the bank he went feet first and stopped before he got all the way into the river. Had he plunged completely into the stream he would probably have drowned for the river is deep at that point and the current is swift.

The Ontario Department of Game and Fish has allotted 100,000 lunge for depositing in Rice Lake. Half of them were received on Saturday, and the other 50,000 are expected today or Tuesday. Robert Hancock of Bewdley informed the Examiner these fish were placed in the eastern section of the lake. They are about one inch long, and were placed in the weedy spawning beds from which the big fish have now gone. "I think the best place for them was in the natural spawning grounds," Mr. Hancock said today, "where they should have the same chance to survive as the young fish that are naturally hatched. If only 2,000 of the 100,000 survive, I think everybody would be satisfied, and the percentage may be higher than one out of every fifty."

JUNIOR FARMERS MEETING.

Junior farmers of the county are holding a meeting tonight in F. A. Paterson's office to consider plans for a judging contest next month. It is understood that they will also discuss a project of forming an organization to give leadership to the younger farmers of the county, but any action they may take will depend entirely on themselves. Most of the young men who are interested in this movement have all had experience in association work, and it is believed they would be a helpful influence if they proceed with the broader plan of organizing for general improvement of their industry and themselves.

FOR BRAKE LINING.

"If there is ever a drive for defective cars in some of the districts in the northern part of Hastings county there will be plenty of discoveries made.' That remark was made to the Examiner by a garage man from the district referred to. He continued his explanation: "The other day a driver came in and wanted some air in his tires. I was looking at his car and noticed the strange material he was using for brake lining. He told me he had made it by cutting a strip from a cheese box, then soaking it in hot water until it became pliable, after which he wrapped it around in the brake drum where the lining had been worn out. I asked him if he was not afraid of it taking fire, but his answer was he would wait until that happened before worrying much about it."

ROTARY TO HELP AUXILIARY STAGE ITS PENNY SALE

A deputation consisting of Mrs. J. G. Wharry and Mrs. J. K. Hughes, representing the Nicholls Hospital Auxiliary waited upon the Peterborough Rotary Club at its weekly luncheon today and asked for the active support of Rotarians on behalf of the Auxiliary's Penny Sale to be held in the armouries on the night of May 30.

Mrs. Wharry explained that the deputation represented 2,000 women of the city and district who were interested in Nicholls Hospital and anxious to get a fund ready for the new hospital they hoped to see erected.

The Penny Sale had been planned with that end in view and she told the Rotarians of the series of raffles that were to feature the affair and of the necessity of a large number of men to help put it over. She suggested that a Rotary committee composed of Rotarians Dave Diplock, T. T. Gentles, Robert Abbott and Dr. R. K. Magee be appointed to work with other men in planning the sale.

President James Dutton assured the ladies of Rotary assistance and the committee as suggested by Mrs. Wharry was appointed.

Rotarian Rev. George Easton was the speaker today and introduced by Rotarian George Gillespie spent the next few minutes discussing the different subjects that he had thought about using in his pinch-hitting address but that after more mature consideration he had discarded for one reason or another. It was a whimsical, witty explanation and it incidentally gave the speaker an opportunity to entertain his fellow Rotarians with a couple of poems that were, as he said, full of homely philosophy "as are the editorials in the Examiner."

It was decided to accept the invitation of the ladies of Gilmour Memorial Church to attend a chicken supper next month, June 20 being fixed as the date for the event.

FIELDS OF GRAIN LOOK PROMISING

Crops of fall and spring grain in Peterborough county have seldom looked more promising at this season than they do right now, farmers told the Examiner, and today Col. John A. Dewart expanded this information.

"Fall wheat and the clovers came through the winter in fine condition," Col. Dewart said, "and oats, barley and peas have already made good growth. The grain was sown in good time, earlier than usual, the ground was well worked and suitable for seeding, there has been plenty of moisture, and conditions generally have been more favorable than for a number of years. Crop prospects look very good, and it may be again that there is no talk of unemployment among farmers. If weather conditions continue favorable during June the grains should produce a splendid crop."

DO YOU KNOW

That under the Dominion Housing Act it is possible to borrow up to $2,000 on a house costing $2,500, including the lot.

The estimated monthly payments spread over 20 years would be $22.00. This monthly payment looks after the interest, taxes and payment of the principle. Come in and talk this over with us.

CHAPTER 37

TO GARRY PAGE it had become a natural thing to see the name of his play on the theater which housed his production. So natural that sometimes he did not even lift his head as he hurried past the playhouse in the West Forties. Tonight, as he passed, the people were going in, and he paused, for just a moment, in gratitude that he had written something which could entertain, but more than that, he dared to hope, which could relieve the pressure of worry for a couple of hours and bring a little inspiration into many lives.

He wished, suddenly, that Barbara had been there with him. She would have understood how he felt. He walked on down the street, thinking of green-gray eyes that never faltered, rusty, shining hair, and a low voice with a thread of laughter in it. There was a memory of spring in the cold night air, prophetic of springs to come. Last spring he had not known Barbara.

He dropped his nickel into the slot at the subway turnstile and walked back and forth on the platform, waiting for his train, thinking still of Barbara. Suddenly he made up his mind that he would call her up when he reached home. No, he would do it from the nearest drug store. If she were free, he would ask if he might come down. He had waited long enough to see her.

"God knows I've been 17 kinds of an idiot—" he was reminding himself as he dialed Barbara's apartment 10 minutes later. He smiled because he had not forgotten the number, though he had not used it for weeks.

Garry could hear the vibration of the bell as it sounded in Barbara's living room. There was no answer. Disappointed, he hung up the receiver, and walked down the street to his own apartment house.

A mist hung over the river tonight and the lights of the boats were seen dimly, as though several layers of chiffon had been draped across them. Garry drew the blinds, started a wood fire, sat down with a book. He had been reading for nearly an hour when the house telephone rang.

"Mr. Page?" the attendant at the desk asked. "A lady is on her way to see you. She said that it was all right for her to come straight up."

"Do you know who she is, Tom?"

"The desk was crowded—I didn't get her name."

The door bell was ringing and Garry opened it. Wenda Ayer stood there. Garry had not seen her since that night, just before Washington's birthday, when she had broken her engagement to him and left his play, a short while before Jimmy Minton was murdered.

"Hello, Garry." Her voice was as deep and rich and husky as ever. "Aren't you going to ask me in?"

"Certainly. How are you, Wenda? Better slip out of your coat." Garry was acting as a courteous host. He drew a chair nearer the fire. Wenda dropped into it but she merely threw back the mink coat that covered a rose-red frock which matcher her cocked hat. She laid her white gloves and rose-red bag on a table.

Then she drew a deep breath, as though gathering strength for some assertion. "Garry?"

"Yes?"

"Would it be too hard for you to forgive me?" The words were low and a little frightened. Garry realized that once he would have believed in their sincerity, once he would have welcomed them.

Now they left him unmoved. "There is nothing to forgive, Wenda. That's all ended. Let's skip it." He even smiled.

She leaned forward. "Oh, but Garry, that's just it! It musn't be ended. Don't you see? I let this driving ambition get ahead of me, and even let it take me from you! Oh Garry, Garry darling, it's all wrong. I love you, you see."

He shook his head. "No, Wenda, the events of the past few weeks have been a little unsettling, that's all. You're letting that imagination of yours run riot."

For a moment the girl was silent. Then she asked: "You mean it can't be patched up, arry?"

"I'm sorry, Wenda. I don't think so."

She smiled, and for a moment he wondered if she could, in some way peculiar to herself, still care for him a little. No, that was wrong. The thought must be reworded differently. She never had cared for him in the old days or she would not have hurt him so cruelly. If she cared now, it was an affection of recent growth, and Wenda did not give her smiles without cause.

When she spoke again, she had adopted a matter-of-fact voice.

"All right, then, Garry, if it's ended, it is. I won't bother you about it any more."

"What are you doing. Wenda?" he asked. "I suppose you are rehearsing for something."

"No, not for anything. You see, it's late in the season for openings. I'm out of work, Garry."

"Tough luck Wenda. I'm sorry."

She came directly to the point. "Garry, my role in your play is still being carried by the understudy, I know. I went to see her in it last night, and she doesn't carry it well."

Garry waited. Wenda was telling the trduth. Only that day the director had suggested that something be done about replacing the girl.

"Would you let me have it back, Garry? I need the part and the money both."

No cringing, no tears or pleas. Just an out and out business question. Maybe Wenda was smart enough to know that the only way she could come back would be purely a business one. Garry thought about the matter for a second. Wenda was a superb actress. She had heightened the tempo of the play. And once, for a little while, he had loved her very much. That love was dead now—and she had not been the object of that idealistic love but only a figment he draped with his imagining—yes, granted all of that, he had sighted glamor with her and held it for a moment. Maybe he owed her something.

"I've no objections, Wenda, if it's all right with the rest of the outfit."

"I talked to the director today and he suggested that I see you."

"Good! then it's all arranged."

Wenda's dark brown eyes were studying Garry. He was aware that his impersonal acceptance of her ability had wounded her vanity. She had come prepared for a scene and a reinstatement in his affections. Strange how a man could love a woman so much that he coudln't eat or work for a couple of weeks, and then, when he knew her better, that affection could be so quickly and thoroughly dead. that no glance or word of hers could ever again stir him.

"You haven't much use for me, have you?" Wenda asked, but she made no move to pick up her purse and gloves and go.

"Wenda, you're one of the finds among the young actresses. Some day you are going to be one of the big three or four, and I'll be proud if I had any part in the ascendancy of the glorious Miss Ayer to stardom."

He wished she would go. Damn it, if Barbara had been home tonight he would have been spared all this. He would be down there now, on West Ninth street, in the low-ceilinged old room that was built around a fireplace. Barbara would be on a hassock, poking at the fire probably, her reddish hair a halo for her piquant face with its sea-colored eyes. He would telephone her again as soon as Wenda left. He felt a little irritation at Barbara for not being home when he had telephoned an hour ago.

"Garry, is there any hope? Could you like me again—ever?" Wenda asked and the golden words were worthy of the stage on which she loved to play.

He admired her voice, her grace, her golden bang above the amber brown eyes but she was something removed and remote tonight.

He stood up, hands in pockets, and looked down at her. "Wenda, you ended all of that pretty thoroughly. It's done. Ambition is your god. We wouldn't have been happy —you would have been bored with me and I wouldn't have been willing to hold second place only. So—let's close the book."

Wenda stood up, and her dark hed lips were drawn in a bitter line. "It's done, Garry. But you're not fooling me as to the reason!"

A MONKEY FLIGHT

NEW YORK, May 16 — (AP). — John Ireland, director of the Detroit, Mich., Zoo, has chartered a 21-passenger American Airplanes plane to take 100 monkeys from New York to Detroit. The flight will be made to-day from Newark Airport. Ireland said the monkeys would be crated and placed in the airplane's regular seat space, the available baggage space being insufficient.

SOME PROTECTION TOO

TIMMINS, Ont., May 16—(CP)—Local militia officers think that instruction in anti-aircraft gunnery should be taught here as it is being taught units at Sudbury and Sault Ste. Marie. They figure the gold camps of Porcupine and Kirkland Lake are just as important to the nation as the nickel at Sudbury.

DOROTHY DIX

Just a Lot of Common Sense With a Dash of Tact and a Little Lovemaking Will Work Wonders in Keeping the Little Wife Happy

THE least of every married man's troubles is retaining his wife's affections and keeping her glad she married him. That is something he doesn't worry over because he entertains the comfortable conviction that once a woman loves a man she goes on loving him because she is built that way and can't help herself. Besides, no matter how bald and paunchy he gets, nor how grouchy he becomes, he is certain he is the answer to any wife's prayer for a husband.

Nevertheless, women do lose their taste for their husbands, as is amply proved by the divorce statistics and by the number of peevish, fretful, disgruntled wives who take out their at having got the wrong man by running up bills at the specialty shops and slacking on their housekeeing.

So it is money in a husband's pocket and peace in his home and good food on the table for him to keep his wife in love with him and on her tiptoes trying to please him. Here are a few suggestions about how to do it:

First: Never climb down off of your pedestal. There is a lot of sound psychology in the old theory that the man should be the head of the house. In her heart every wife wants to look up to her husband and feel that he is wiser and stronger than she is. This is true even if she is bossy by nature herself. She may have a pitying maternal affection for the weakling she dominates, but no woman ever really loves a man who lets her henpeck him. So when Maria begins telling you where you get off, correcting your grammar and pronunciation, picking out your clothes for you and supervising your diet, it is time to pull some caveman stuff, unless you want to become one of those poor creatures who are nothing but a cash register to their wives.

Second. Don't cut out the lovemaking as soon as you get married. It is like taking candy away from a child. There is nothing in the marriage ceremony that automatically cures a girl's vanity and desire to be told how beautiful and wonderful she is, and that she is the ONLY woman in the world to the man she loves. If every husband would pay his wife even one compliment a day and give her one kiss that wasn't a perfunctory peck on the cheek, it would stop divorce.

Third. Don't take your wife for granted. Wives are not mindreaders and they cannot know that they are their husbands' Dream Girls unless they mention that fact occasionally. It is silly for wives to want their husbands to say it in words instead of deeds, but if it will make them happy why not give them what they want? Nothing is cheaper than salve or returns a higher percentage to the user.

Fourth. Show your wife some appreciation. Don't forget that you are her audience, her public, and that the only reward she gets for much of her work is getting the glad hand from you. You know how discouraging it is to work for an employer who is quick to criticize, but who never hands you a word of praise. It takes the heart out of you and makes you ask what's the use.

So if you want your wife to think it is worth while being a real helpmate, don't be niggardly in your commendation. If you want her to be thrifty, tell her what a grand little penny-incher she is. If you want her to be a good cook, tell her that her dinners are feasts from Lucullus. If you want some personal freedom, compare her broadmindedness with the tyranny of other wives who are their husbands' jailers. The infallible recipe for closing a wife's eyes and silencing her tongue is to kiss them shut.

Fifth. Don't be a tightwad. Whatever you have to give to your wife, be it much or little, give it freely and make her feel that you wish it was more. Give her an allowance, because it humiliates a woman to have to ask her husband for every penny as if she were a beggar, and it infuriates her for him to dole out pennies to her and make her account for every cent when she has earned it over and over by her labor in the house.

Don't row over the bills and act as if she was responsible for little Johnny having to have his adenoids out and meat going up. There is nothing that kills a wife's affection for her husband so quickly as for him to be stingy. She will forgive him for loving a platinum blonde sooner than for loving the lady on the dollar too much. But we will continue this subject another day. DOROTHY DIX.

Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S FIRE LESSON

Uncle Wiggily was worried; so worried he could scarcely jump upon the big rock back of his hollow stump bungalow where he always rested after breakfast before going adventuring.

"I wonder what's the matter with me?" asked the rabbit gentleman of himself. He was all alone and there was no one else to whom he could talk. "I hope I haven't caught the Spring Fever," he thought. "I wonder if my pink nose is twinkling all right."

He put one paw on his nose to feel the twinkle.

"Something must be done about it," he went on. "I don't mean about my nose twinkle, but about what is worrying me. I wonder—"

All of a sudden he couldn't feel his paw on his nose and he thought sure he had Spring Fever. Then he discovered he had put his paw on the overhanging branch of a tree instead of his nose.

"No wonder I couldn't feel the twinkle," laughed Uncle Wiggily.

With that he slipped off the rock and fell ker-flop into a nest of soft grass Nurse Jane was making on the ground behind the rock for a robin whose leg had been broken when it fell out of the tree.

Not Intentional

"Oh, Mr. Longears!" exclaimed the muskrat lady housekeeper. "Why ever did you do that and spoil the robin's nest?"

"I'm sure I didn't mean to," said the rabbit.

"No, I feel quite certain you didn't. But what is the matter with you? You seem so strange and—"

"I don't know just what is the matter," answered Uncle Wiggily. "Are you ill—have you a nose ache?"

"No," said Uncle Wiggily. "Thank you for asking," he added after a moment, for he wanted to be polite.

"Perhaps it is a back ache or an ear ache."

"It may be all three," said Mr. Longears. "But I think the trouble isn't in me—it's outside," and Uncle Wiggily looked all around his large, back yard.

"Don't tell me it's the Bad Chaps," whispered the muskrat lady."

"Not yet," whispered Uncle Wiggily.

"Come into the bungalow with me," said Nurse Jane decided like and sanitary. "I'm going to take your temperature."
